Sec. 54. School trustees shall determine how many schools shall be maintained in their respective school districts, and at what points they shall be located; they shall determine when the schools shall be opened and when closed; they shall contract with teachers and manage and supervise the schools, subject to the rules and regulations of the county and State superintendents; they shall approve all teachers' vouchers, and all other claims against the school fund of their district: Provided, that trustees of districts in making contracts with teachers shall not create a deficiency debt against the district.

Sec. 55. The trustees of school districts shall have the management and control of the public schools; they shall have the power to employ and dismiss teachers, but in cases of dismissal, teachers shall have the right of appeal to the county and State superintendents.

Sec. 56. The trustees of schools shall have the power to admit pupils over and under scholastic age, either in or out of the district, on such terms as they may deem proper and just: Provided, that in admitting pupils over and under the scholastic age, the school shall not be overcrowded to the neglect and injury of pupils within the scholastic age; and they may suspend from the privileges of schools any pupil found guilty of incorrigible conduct, but such suspension shall not extend beyond the current term of the school.

Sec. 57. The amount contracted by trustees to be paid a teacher shall be paid on a check, drawn by a majority of the trustees, on the county treasurer, and approved by the county superintendent. The check shall in all instances be accompanied by the affidavit of the teacher that he is entitled to the amount specified in the check, as compensation under his contract as a teacher.

Sec. 58. White and colored children shall not be taught in the same schools, but impartial provision shall be made for both races. Three white trustees shall in all cases be elected, or appointed, for the management and control of the schools of the district; and three colored trustees shall be elected, or appointed, in any school district for the colored schools therein, upon the written application of ten colored residents of said district, having one or more children within the scholastic age, to the county superintendent one month before any annual election in said district for school trustees, which colored trustees shall manage the colored schools, under the direction of the trustees of the district. In case there are not enough colored children in any school district, as laid off, then two or more of said districts may be consolidated by the trustees for the benefit of the colored school, and each of the districts shall pay pro rata, according to colored scholastic census in each, from the district school fund for its support, and shall be governed by the trustees of the district in which the school is taught.

Sec. 59. The scholastic census shall be taken by the district trustees, or one of them, under the supervision of the county superintendent, of all children in their district between the ages of eight and seventeen years, giving name, age, color, sex, and the name of the parent or guardian, as may be directed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and return the said list to the county superintendent by the first Monday in June in each year, and the trustees so taking said census shall be paid five cents per capita out of the school fund of their respective districts. The trustees are hereby authorized and empowered to administer all oaths necessary to obtain a full, complete and correct census of all children residing in their respective districts; and said trustees may require each parent, guardian, or other person having in charge any child or children, to answer, under oath, as to the names and ages of such child or children, and any person refusing to answer such questions, under oath, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five nor more than twenty-five dollars. The county superintendent shall, by the first Monday in July thereafter, aggregate the whole number of children in the county, and make an abstract in duplicate thereof, one to be filed with the county clerk, and the other to be forwarded by him to the State Superintendent. Said census rolls shall be sworn to by the trustees taking the census, and said abstracts by the county superintendent, before any officer authorized to administer oaths.

Sec. 60. There shall be in each organized county of this State a county board of examiners. Said board shall be composed of three members, to be appointed by the county superintendent: Provided, that in counties having no county superintendent the county judge shall appoint a county board of examiners. The persons so appointed shall be teachers residing in the county for which they are appointed, holding first grade county certificates, or certificates of some higher rank, which certificates shall be valid in the county for which said persons are appointed at the time of appointment: Provided, that if the services of such persons can not be secured the superintendent may appoint other qualified persons residing in the county for which they are appointed. The members of the county board of examiners shall serve during the pleasure of the county superintendent of the county for which they are appointed. Said board of examiners shall meet at the call of the county superintendent, and the presence of all the members of the board shall be necessary to the transaction of business. If at any meeting of the board any member thereof is absent, the county superintendent shall appoint some other person, possessing the qualifications hereinbefore mentioned, to supply the place of the absent member, either temporarily or permanently, as he may deem proper.

Sec. 61. Any person desiring to be examined for a county certificate shall make application to the county superintendent, stating the class of certificate desired, and shall present him a certificate of three good and well known citizens, or such proof as he may require, of all the qualifications, except the examination grades, required for the class of certificate desired. After investigation, the county superintendent shall give the applicant a written recommendation to the board of examiners, requiring them to examine the applicant for a certificate of such class, if any, as they may find the applicant entitled to upon making the necessary examination grades. But no person shall receive such recommendation without first depositing with the county superintendent the sum of three dollars as an examination fee, and the recommendation given by the superintendent shall show the receipt of the examination fee. The board of examiners shall in no case permit any person to enter upon the examination without first presenting the written recommendation of the county superintendent.

Sec. 62. No person shall receive a certificate of any class without first showing to the satisfaction of the county superintendent that he is a person of good moral character, and his ability to speak and understand the English language sufficiently to use it easily and readily in conversation, and in giving instruction in all branches prescribed for the class of certificate for which he applies. The county superintendent, unless he knows the fact personally, shall require satisfactory proof of the applicant that he has ability to use the English language as above provided, before issuing his recommendation to the board of examiners, and the examiners shall also consider it as an element in determining his grades upon the branches upon which he is examined.

Sec. 63. Teachers' certificates authorizing the holders thereof to contract and teach in the public free schools of this State shall be of three kinds, as follows:

A county certificate to be valid only in the county in which it is issued.

A city certificate to be valid only in the city in which it is issued.

A State certificate, to be valid in all the counties and independent districts of the State. All valid teachers' certificates now in force shall be good for the time for which they were issued.

Sec. 64. County certificates shall be of four classes, as follows:

A third grade certificate.

A second grade certificate.

A first grade certificate.

A permanent certificate.

County certificates shall be issued by the county superintendent of public instruction upon the recommendation of the county board of examiners hereinbefore provided; and the county superintendent shall keep a record of all certificates issued by himself and of other certificates held by persons teaching in the public free schools of his county, who shall present such certificates for record before their contracts shall be approved, which record shall show the name, age, sex, and color of the holder of each certificate, and the kind and class of the certificate, the length of time for which it is valid, and by whom issued.

Sec. 65. The county board of examiners of each county shall, if necessary, hold an examination on the third Friday and the Saturday following of each month of the year, except January, March, May, and July.

(a) Said board of examiners shall use the questions prescribed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and shall conduct the examinations in accordance with the rules and regulations prescribed by the county superintendent and State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

(b) An applicant for a third grade certificate shall be examined in spelling, writing, arithmetic, English grammar, geography, Texas history, elementary physiology and hygiene and the laws of health, with special reference to narcotics, and school management and methods of teaching. A third grade certificate shall be valid for one year from the date of issue, and to receive such certificate the applicant shall, upon examination, make on the prescribed subjects an average grade of not less than seventy, and on each prescribed subject a grade of not less than fifty: Provided that a third grade certificate shall not in any case be good except in the county where issued.

(c) An applicant for a second grade certificate shall be examined in the subjects prescribed for a third grade certificate, and, in addition thereto, in United States history, elementary principles of civil government, English composition, physiology and hygiene, and physical geography. A second grade certificate shall be valid for two years from the date of issue, and to receive such certificate the applicant shall, upon examination, make on the prescribed subjects an average grade of not less than seventy-five, and on each subject of not less than fifty: Provided, that if the applicant make a general average on the prescribed subjects of eighty-five, and on each subject a grade of not less than fifty, the certificate shall be valid for four years.

(d) An applicant for a first grade certificate shall be examined in the subjects prescribed for third and second grade certificates, and, in addition thereto, in physics, algebra, elements of geometry, the Constitution of the United States and the State of Texas, and elements of mental and moral science, and the effects of tobacco and alcoholic intoxicants upon the human system. A first grade certificate shall be valid for four years: Provided, if the holder thereof shall withdraw from school work for a period of two years or longer, such certificate shall become void; and to receive such certificate the applicant, upon examination, shall make upon the prescribed subjects an average grade of not less than eighty-five, and on each subject a grade of not less than fifty: Provided, that a first grade certificate shall be valid for two years if the applicant makes a grade of not less than fifty on any subject, and a general average of seventy-five.

Sec. 66. An applicant for a permanent certificate shall be examined upon the branches prescribed for third, second, and first grade certificates, and in addition thereto, in the history of education, psychology, English and American literature, chemistry, solid geometry, plane trigonometry, and elementary double entry bookkeeping. A permanent certificate shall be valid during good behavior of the holder: Provided, that if any person holding a permanent certificate shall withdraw from the school work for a period of three years, or longer, such certificate shall become void, and it shall be the duty of the county superintendent to cancel the same upon his record. To receive a permanent certificate the applicant shall be a teacher of not less than three years successful experience in the schools of Texas, and, upon examination, shall make upon the prescribed subjects an average grade of not less than eighty-five, and on each prescribed subject a grade of not less than sixty. The county superintendent or county judge may, upon the petition of the local board of trustees of any school district or community, issue local permanent teachers' certificate to any teacher who has rendered eminent service as a teacher in said school or county for a continuous period of five years, the said local permanent certificate to be of the same grade and class as that held by the said teacher during the five years of such service, and to be valid only in the school or county where such service has been rendered during the continuous employment of said teacher in said school or county. The county superintendent or county judge shall require certificates from a sufficient number of credible witnesses to establish beyond question the requirements for said certificate. The State Superintendent shall prepare questions for permanent certificates for at least two examinations each year.

(a) The board of examiners shall grade the papers of the applicants on the basis of one hundred credits for a perfect paper, and endorse on each paper in ink the number of credits allowed on each answer, and the average on the paper, and shall make to the county superintendent a separate report, under oath, on the examination of each applicant, which shall show the names of the members of the board conducting the examination, and the number of credits allowed on each subject, and shall, if they believe that the applicant has fairly observed the rules prescribed for the examination, and if the applicant has made the grades and average required, recommend that he shall receive a certificate of such class, if any, as he may be entitled to, and shall deposit his papers with the county superintendent.

(b) The county superintendent shall, upon the request of any applicant for second, first, or permanent certificate, made in writing before the adjournment of the board of examiners, forward to the State Superintendent, to be submitted to the State board of examiners hereinafter provided, such applicant's papers, and the report of the county board of examiners thereon, together with one dollar of the fee deposited with him: Provided, that this shall not in any manner interfere with the issuance of the proper county certificate to said applicant.

(c) The State board of examiners shall, at their next meeting after the receipt of said papers and report, together with said fee of one dollar, examine said papers and report thereon, and if they believe that the papers are fairly and accurately graded, they shall make a report to the State Superintendent and shall recommend that the county certificate issued upon said examination be made valid in all the counties of the State, and they shall notify said applicant of their action, who may forward his county certificate to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who may issue in lieu thereof another certificate of equal rank, valid in all the counties of the State, and the State Superintendent shall preserve a record of certificates thus issued by him.

Sec. 67. The county superintendent shall not act as a member of the county board of examiners. He shall collect the examination fees, and after paying out of the funds so received the expenses of the examination and making the necessary remittances, if any, to the State Superintendent for the State board of examiners, shall distribute the remainder among the members of the county board of examiners conducting the examination.

Sec. 68. An applicant who takes the examination for a certificate of any class and fails to pass, may receive a certificate of any lower rank to which the examination grades on the subjects prescribed for such certificate of lower rank may entitle him.

Sec. 69. Any person holding a second grade or first grade certificate may, within one year after the date of issue, receive in lieu thereof a certificate of the next higher class by taking the examination on the additional subjects prescribed for such higher class certificate: Provided, that such applicant's average grade on all subjects prescribed for such higher class certificate, as shown by both examinations, shall not be less than hereinbefore fixed, and the minimum grade on any subject shall not be less than that hereinbefore provided: And provided further, that said applicant shall possess all the other qualifications required by law for persons receiving such certificate of such higher grade.

Sec. 70. It shall be the duty of every teacher in the public free schools of this State to use the English language exclusively, and to conduct all recitations and school exercises exclusively in the English language:

Provided that this provision shall not prevent the teaching of any other language as a branch of study, but when any other language is so taught, the use of said language shall be limited to the recitations and exercises devoted to the teaching of said language as such branch of study.

Sec. 71. It shall be the duty of all teachers in the public schools in this State to attend the summer normals and county institutes as far as possible.

Sec. 72. Said registers shall be open to the inspection of all parents, school officers, and other persons who may be interested to examine the same.

(a) All teachers shall make monthly reports of such subjects as may be designated by the State Superintendent or county superintendent, to be approved by a majority of the trustees of the district, and shall file same with the county superintendent when they present their vouchers for their month's salaries.

(b) They shall make such reports at the end of the school term as may be prescribed by the State Superintendent, and until such term reports are made the trustees shall not approve vouchers for last month's salaries, nor shall county treasurers pay the same. All monthly and term reports shall be made under oath, and county superintendents are hereby empowered to administer oaths for such purposes. County superintendents and county judges shall receive no compensation for administering oaths necessary in transacting any business relating to school affairs.

The further regulation of the issuance of such certificates shall be provided for by the boards of trustees of such cities or towns: Provided, that no city or town shall make the requirements for its temporary primary or temporary intermediate certificates inferior to the requirements prescribed by law for second grade county certificates, or the requirements for its temporary high school certificates less than those prescribed by law for first grade county certificates, or the requirements for its permanent certificates less than those prescribed by law for permanent county certificates. Nothing in this act shall interfere with the validity of outstanding certificates in such cities and towns, or prevent the extension of such certificates for a period not to exceed four years. Cities and towns authorized by the provisions of this act to have a city board of examiners, may, at the discretion of the superintendent of the city schools, employ a teacher of any special branch not included in the requirements for a State certificate, without requiring an examination or a teacher's certificate; and nothing in this act shall prevent the board of trustees of any such city or town from recognizing the certificates issued in any other such city or town in this State, and validating the same in the city or town so recognizing them.

Sec. 74. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be authorized to appoint a State board of examiners, consisting of not less than three competent teachers, living in the State, to serve during his pleasure, and he may increase or decrease the number, as varying conditions may make necessary.

All examinations for white and colored teachers shall be conducted in separate rooms or buildings. Any certificate may be cancelled for good cause by the authority issuing it, and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall have power to cancel any certificate upon satisfactory evidence that the holder thereof is conducting his school in violation of the laws of the State: Provided, that before any certificate shall be cancelled the holder thereof shall be notified, and shall have an opportunity to be heard, and he shall have the right of appeal from such decision to the State Superintendent, and to the State board of education: Provided, that when the State Superintendent shall have cancelled the certificate, the appeal shall be to the State board of education.

Sec. 82. The trustees of the district must make application to the county superintendent for any appropriation for the purposes named in the preceding section before making any contract with any teacher for the year in which such appropriation is desired, which application shall be accompanied with plans and specifications of the house or houses sought to be erected, with a statement of the estimated cost, or in case of desired repairs or furniture, a detailed statement of the repairs or furniture desired, together with an estimate of the cost of the same.

Sec. 83. After receipt of such application the county superintendent, if it appears to his satisfaction that the house to be erected is necessary and adapted to the needs of the pupils of the district or that the repairs or furniture desired is necessary, and that the requirements of law have been complied with, shall make an order appropriating such amount to the school fund to the credit of such district for each year as he may deem expedient, necessary, and proper for the purposes specified in such application; but in making any such appropriation for a district, the scholastic interests of the district as a whole shall be considered; and no part of such appropriation shall be drawn from the treasury or paid until the completion of the building or repairs according to contract, plans, and specifications, or in case of furniture, until the delivery thereof, according to such contract as the trustees may have made, and then only upon the warrant of the county superintendent.

Sec. 86. So much of the available school fund of any school district for any one year, not to exceed twenty-five per cent of said fund, as the county superintendent may deem expedient, necessary, and proper, may be used in the purchase of suitable school property, upon the terms and conditions hereinbefore specified.

Sec. 87. The trustees of any school district, upon the order of the commissioners court, prescribing the terms thereof, when deemed advisable, may make sale of any property belonging to said school district, and apply the proceeds to the purchase of necessary grounds or to the building or repairing of school houses, or place the proceeds to the credit of the available school fund of the district.

Sec. 88. The trustees of any school district not having a school house may rent or lease a suitable house instead of building or purchasing one, if deemed advisable by them. The rent shall be paid by the county treasurer out of the available school fund of the district, upon the warrant of the trustees, approved by the county superintendent.

Sec. 89. All school houses erected, grounds purchased or leased for a school district, and all other property belonging thereto, shall be under the control of the district trustees of such district.

Sec. 90. Sec. 91. In taking the scholastic census, every child that will be of scholastic age at the beginning of the next school year shall be enrolled and enumerated in the district in which it resides at the time of its enumeration.

Sec. 92. Any child lawfully enrolled in any district or independent district may be transferred to the enrollment of any other district or independent district in the same county, upon the written application of the parent or guardian or person having the lawful control of such child, filed with the county superintendent, at any time before the apportionment of the school fund by the county superintendent or county judge of any scholastic year, but not afterwards; and no child shall be transferred more than once. Upon the transfer of any child its portion of the school fund shall follow and be paid over to the district or independent district to which such child is transferred: Provided, no transfers shall be made after the trustees have employed a teacher.

Sec. 95. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 96. The inharmonious and conflicting provisions of the present school law, and the near approach of the close of the present session, and the crowded condition of the calendar, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and it is so suspended; and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas. That section 51, article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 51. The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant, or authorize the making of any grant of public money to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporation whatsoever: Provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to the establishment and maintenance of a home for indigent and disabled Confederate soldiers or sailors who are or may be bona fide residents of the State of Texas, under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law: Provided, that such grant shall not exceed the sum of $100,000 for any one year: And provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in case of public calamity.

Sec. 2. This resolution shall be submitted by the Governor to a vote of the qualified electors for members of the Legislature of the State of Texas at the next general election, to be held on Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1894, at which election all voters favoring said proposed amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the words, "For the amendment to section 51, article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas," and all those opposed to the amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots the words, "Against the amendment to section 51, article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas."

Sec. 3. Immediately after the election the officers of each precinct shall forward to the county judge of their county a duplicate return, showing the number of votes cast for and against the amendment, and on the following Monday the county judge shall open and count said returns, and forthwith forward to the Secretary of State, in a sealed package, a tabulated statement thereof, showing the total number of votes cast in the county for and against the amendment; and on the fortieth day after said election the Secretary of State shall, in the presence of the Governor and Attorney-General, open and count said returns; and if it shall appear from the returns that a majority of the votes were cast for said amendment, it shall be the duty of the Governor, on the following day, or as soon thereafter as practicable, to issue his proclamation setting forth the fact that said amendment has received a majority of all the votes cast upon that question at said election, and shall proclaim that said amendment has become and is a part of the Constitution of the State of Texas, and the amendment shall take effect from and after said publication.

Approved April 8, A. D. 1893.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

(Acceptance of donation State Encampment Grounds.)

[S. C. R. No. 9.]—Senate concurrent resolution. Concurrent resolution accepting the donation of the citizens of Austin of ninety-one acres of land, situated in Travis county, with improvements thereon, known and designated as "Camp Mabry," for use as the place for holding the annual encampments of the militia of this State; and returning thanks for same.

Whereas, the citizens of the city of Austin, Texas, have, by private subscription, purchased a suitable tract of land, and at their own expense have erected thereon all improvements necessary for the comfort and use of the volunteers of this State at their annual encampments; and

Whereas, the said citizens, through John L. Peeler, trustee, have donated said tract of land and improvements thereon, known and designated as "Camp Mabry," to the State for the use of her volunteers.

Section 1. Therefore be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That James S. Hogg, Governor, be and he is hereby authorized to accept the deeds from said John L. Peeler, trustee, conveying to the State the title to the land indicated.

Sec. 2. That the Legislature of the State of Texas hereby tenders its thanks to Messrs. H. E. Shelley, J. J. Tobin, John Orr, W. H. Tobin, Frank Maddox, T. J. Hume, A. C. Goeth, J. M. Day, A. S. Roberts, and others, the gentlemen who, by the expenditure of their own time and labor, were largely instrumental in inducing the generous citizens of Austin to bestow this munificent gift upon the volunteers of the State.

Approved May 1, A. D. 1893.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

(Relative to navigation of Trinity river.)

[S. C. R. No. 18.] Concurrent resolution. Concurrent resolution requesting the Senators and Representatives of Texas in Congress to secure an appropriation to open up the Trinity river for permanent navigation.

Whereas, freight and transportation charges on all incoming and outgoing staple commodities in Texas about equal the first cost of the same at the place of production; and

Whereas, the United States government has now under construction, at heavy cost, several harbors on the Gulf coast of Texas, and to realize the full benefit of these expenditures of millions of dollars on the Texas coast, it is necessary to secure cheap transportation from the interior to these ports, and from these ports to the interior; and

Whereas, experience has taught us that for years to come this can not be obtained from the railroads alone, and that Texas has large rivers running through the State, from the interior to the Gulf, that might be made navigable for cheap transportation by the expenditure of reasonable sums of money by the general government; and

Whereas it is known that the Trinity river is a navigable stream, and that in 1873 as many as seventeen steamers were running on its waters.

coming within thirty miles of Dallas, and that as late as 1868 one landed at the foot of Main street, in Dallas; and

Whereas, the people along said river, appreciating the fact that the same is navigable, and anxious to develop the same, are now spending one hundred thousand dollars in cleaning out snags and drifts and removing overhanging timber; and

Whereas, it has been the policy of the United States government to improve the waterways of the land and thus afford cheap transportation to the people; and

Whereas, the improvement of the Trinity river so as to secure navigation for the entire year will save millions of dollars to the people of Texas: Therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring: That our senators and representatives in Congress be respectfully and earnestly requested, as speedily as possible, to secure an appropriation sufficient to open the Trinity river for permanent navigation.

Approved May 11, A. D. 1893.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

(Relative to improvement of Capitol Grounds.)

A concurrent resolution to refer back to the board to advertise for, receive, adopt, and reject plans and specifications for the improvement of the Capitol grounds, with power and instructions to adopt or reject any and all of such plans and specifications, and to return such as may be rejected back to the owner thereof.

Whereas, the Twenty-second Legislature constituted the Governor, Attorney-General, and Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds a board for the purpose of advertising for plans and specifications and an estimate of cost for improving the Capitol grounds, and appropriated the sum of two thousand dollars for the payment of such plans and specifications that should be adopted by said board or by the Legislature; and

Whereas, in response to the advertisement of said board, certain plans and specifications were prepared by competing architects and submitted to said board, and through said board to the Legislature; and

Whereas, neither said board nor the Legislature has adopted any of said plans and specifications: Therefore

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the said plans and specification and estimates be and the same are hereby referred back to the board, with the power and instruction to adopt such of the plans and specifications as may be deemed by said board suitable and proper, and in case none of the plans and specifications are deemed suitable and proper, to reject all of them, and to turn over all such plans and specifications as may be rejected by said board to the owners thereof.

Approved May 11, A. D. 1893.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION.

[S. J. R. No. 8.] Senate joint resolution to amend section 30, article 16, of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 30, article 16, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended so that it shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 30. The duration of all offices not fixed by this Constitution shall never exceed two years: Provided, that when a railroad commission is created by law it shall be composed of three commissioners, who shall be elected by the people at a general election for State officers, and their terms of office shall be six years: Provided, railroad commissioners first elected after this amendment goes into effect shall hold office as follows: One shall serve two years, and one four years, and one six years, their terms to be decided by lot, immediately after they shall have qualified. And one railroad commissioner shall be elected every two years thereafter. In case of vacancy in said office, the Governor of the State shall fill said vacancy by appointment until the next general election.

Sec. 2. The foregoing amendment shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State at the next general election. Those favoring its adoption shall have written or printed on their ballots the words, "For election of railroad commissioners," and those opposed to its adoption shall have written or printed on their ballots the words, "Against election of railroad commissioners." And the Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for such election, and have the same published as required by the Constitution and existing laws of the State.

Approved May 11, A. D. 1893.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION.

(Relative to navigation of Colorado River.)

[S. J. R. No. 14.] Joint Resolution.

Whereas, the Colorado river, one of the most important streams in Texas, and which is susceptible of being made navigable, is obstructed at its mouth by a great mass of raft wood and debris; and

Whereas, the opening of the mouth of said river is a matter of national importance and of particular interest and benefit to the State of Texas: Therefore be it

Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: 1st. That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to urge upon the Congress of the United States the necessity of an appropriation from the United States government to remove the obstructions to navigation above mentioned.

2d. That the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives be requested to have a certified copy of these resolutions furnished our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Approved May 11, A. D. 1893.

SPECIAL LAWS
OF
THE STATE OF TEXAS

PASSED AT THE
REGULAR SESSION OF THE TWENTY-THIRD LEGISLATURE

CONVENED
AT THE CITY OF AUSTIN

JANUARY 10, 1893, AND ADJOURNED MAY 9, 1893.

AUSTIN

SPECIAL LAWS OF TEXAS.

TWENTY-THIRD LEGISLATURE, 1893.

WACO WATER POWER AND ELECTRIC COMPANY.

CHAP. 1.—[H. B. No. 171.] An act to grant to the Waco Water Power and Electric Company the right to construct and maintain, and by necessary booms or otherwise to protect, and from time to time to raise a dam across the Brazos river, and to purchase, condemn and pay for lands, rights, and other property overflowed or injured thereby or necessary therefor.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That for and in consideration of the improvement of the Brazos river for navigation above the dam hereinafter mentioned, and in further consideration of the many advantages which will result to the public from such dam.

Section 1. There is hereby granted to the Waco Water Power and Electric Company the right to construct, to maintain, by booms or otherwise to protect, and from time to time to raise a dam of not less than fifteen feet head of water across the Brazos river at any point within five miles above the suspension bridge at Waco, McLennan County, Texas: Provided, that said dam shall be completed within a period of five years from the approval of this act, and a failure to so complete the same shall operate as a forfeiture of the rights herein granted, and the same shall at once revert to the State: Provided further, that nothing herein shall be construed to relinquish the right of the State to fix and regulate the tolls and charges.

Sec. 2. In consideration of the great expense to be incurred by said company in constructing said dam, the water power thereby created is hereby granted to said company, its successors, and assigns.

Sec. 3. All the land and riparian rights of the State of Texas in and adjacent to said river, including especially such rights in its bed, banks, waters, and current at and so far above said dam as the same are influenced thereby, shall be used and enjoyed and occupied by said company, its successors, and assigns, so long as said dam is maintained by said company, its successors, and assigns: Provided, however, that the State reserves the right to construct or empower the construction of locks and other passways in said dam in such manner as not to injure said company, its successors, or assigns.

Sec. 4. There is hereby granted to said company the right, during the erection of said dam, or thereafter, to construct locks and other passways in said dam, and until such constructions said company shall maintain, over or around said dam, practical means of transporting boats and other craft which may navigate said river, said company being hereby granted the right to charge reasonable tolls to defray the expenses of constructing, maintaining, and operating the said locks, passways, and means of transportation.

Sec. 5. There is hereby granted to said company, its successors, and assigns, the right and power to purchase, acquire, or condemn all lands, rights, and other property subject to be overflowed by or needed in constructing, maintaining, protecting, or raising said dam: Provided, however, that this right of condemnation shall not be construed to entitle any person to damages who would not otherwise have been entitled thereto.

Sec. 6. The law as it now is, or may be amended, prescribing the rights of and procedure by railroad companies in acquiring land and making compensation therefor shall apply to and govern such proceedings in acquiring land, rights, and other property, and making compensation therefor, under the power herein granted said company, its successors, and assigns.

Sec. 7. The great benefits to be derived by the public from said dam, and the influence of the approaching seasons upon the height of the water in said river, causes an imperative public necessity and emergency for the suspension of the reading of this bill on three several days in each house, and the rule requiring such reading is hereby suspended, and this law shall take effect immediately after its passage.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 14th day of February, A. D. 1893, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature. ROADS—CALDWELL COUNTY.

CHAP. 2.—[H. B. No. 109.] An act to create a more efficient road system in the county of Caldwell, and auxiliary thereto to provide for the appointment of road overseers; to define the powers and jurisdiction of the commissioners court with regard thereto; to utilize the labor of county convicts and defaulting poll tax payers on the public roads of said county; and to provide adequate penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the commissioners court of Caldwell county may appoint a road overseer for each commissioners precinct in the county, or for each justice's precinct, who shall hold their offices for two years, and until their successors are qualified.

Sec. 2. The overseers appointed shall perform all the duties required of overseers under the general laws of this State, and such other duties as may be required of them by the commissioners court of said county, and shall receive such compensation as the commissioners court may prescribe, not to exceed two dollars per day for the time actually engaged.

Sec. 3. Each overseer shall, within twenty days after his appointment, take the constitutional oath, and enter into bond payable to the county judge, in such sum as may be fixed by the commissioners court, to be approved by the county judge, conditioned that he will well and faithfully discharge all of the duties incumbent upon him as such overseer; that he will promptly make all reports required of him by this act or by the commissioners court, and that he will correctly disburse and account for all funds that may come into his hands, according to law and the orders of the commissioners court, which bond shall not be void for want of form, or void on the first recovery, but may be sued upon until fully exhausted.

Sec. 4. The commissioners court may, for good cause, to be determined by themselves, at any time remove an overseer; and in case of vacancy from any cause, may fill the same for the unexpired term.

Sec. 5. Each overseer shall take charge of all tools, implements, teams, and supplies of any kind, placed under his control by the commissioners court, and execute his receipt therefor, which shall be filed with the county clerk; and he shall be responsible for all such tools, teams, implements, and supplies, and for the proper expenditure of all public moneys coming into his hands, and shall be liable for the loss, injury, or destruction of all such tools, teams, implements, and supplies if the result of his negligence, or for the wrongful or unauthorized expenditure of such money; and upon the expiration of his term, or in case of his resignation or removal, he shall deliver all such money and property to his successor, or to such person as the commissioners court may direct.

Sec. 5a. The overseer of each precinct shall subdivide his precinct into as many sections as may be necessary or convenient, and shall require each person subject to road duty in his precinct to work upon the roads in the particular section in which he resides; and in order to have all road work more promptly and vigorously prosecuted, the overseer may appoint suboverseers in the several sections of his precinct; but the overseer himself shall exercise at all times a supervision over the different sections and suboverseers, and shall plan and direct all work to be done; and may require the suboverseers to warn all road hands subject to duty of the time and place of working, as is required by existing laws.

Sec. 6. The commissioners court shall require all able bodied county convicts, not otherwise more profitably employed, to labor upon the public roads of the county, or upon the public streets of some city or town in the county, under such regulations as it may prescribe; and each convict so employed shall receive credit, first, upon the fine, and then upon the cost, of fifty cents per day for each day he may labor: Provided, that no convict shall be required to labor on Sunday, but shall, nevertheless, have the same credit as if he had labored on that day.

Sec. 7. The commissioners court may, at any regular term, allow to the officers and witnesses in a convict case, where the convict is worked upon the roads, such portion of their lawful cost as it may determine, not to exceed in any case the following: County judge, $2.50; county attorney, $5.00, including commissions; county clerk and justice of the peace, $2.00; sheriff and constable, $2.50; witnesses, twenty-five per cent of their legal fees, which allowances shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund on the warrant of the county judge, when said fine and cost shall have been worked out by the convict, as provided in this act. The commissioners court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, food, clothing, bedding, medicine, medical attention, and guards necessary for the safe keeping and humane treatment of such convicts, and may grant a reasonable commutation of time to a convict in consideration of faithful service and good behavior, such commutation in no case to exceed one-tenth of the entire time.

Sec. 8. The overseers may contract with any person subject to road duty in their precinct for the use of wagons and teams, and permit such person to discharge his road service in the hire of such wagon and team: Provided, he shall not allow more than $2.00 per day for any wagon and team, nor more than $3.00 per day for wagon and team and driver.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of each overseer to see that all roads, bridges, culverts, and drains in his precinct are kept in good repair; to see that every person subject to road duty in his precinct performs the service for which he is liable under the law, or that such service is in some way excused or commuted as provided by law; to see that all mile posts and guide boards at the forks of the roads are kept continuously up and in order, and when the same are removed or defaced, to immediately repair or replace them. He shall act as supervisor of roads in his precinct, and perform all the duties as supervisor heretofore devolving upon the county commissioners; and the county commissioners of said county are hereby relieved from the duties prescribed by article 4390a of the Revised Civil Statutes.

Sec. 10. Every able bodied male person between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years, resident in the county, except such persons as are exempt from road duty under the general laws of this State, shall be liable to labor on the public roads: Provided, that any one so liable may discharge said liability:

1. By furnishing a substitute who is acceptable to the overseer.
2. By paying to the overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may be summoned to work, or by paying four dollars at any one time, shall be discharged from all liability for the entire year, to end on December 31 of each year.
3. By producing to the overseer the certificate of a reputable practicing physician, certifying that the party is permanently or temporarily incapacitated for such physical labor as is necessary for road service.
4. By substituting wagons and teams suitable and satisfactory to the road overseer, as provided in section 8 of this act.

Sec. 11. Every insolvent poll tax payer, being a resident of the county, who shall be indebted to the county on any unpaid county poll tax, and from whom the said poll tax can not be otherwise collected by law, shall be permitted to discharge the amount of such unpaid county poll tax in labor upon the public roads of his precinct at the rate of one dollar per day; and in order to enforce the provisions of this section, the collector of taxes for the county shall be required, on or before the second Monday in February of every year, to furnish to the several overseers of the county the names of all defaulting poll tax payers, together with the amount of county poll tax due and unpaid by each; for which ex officio service the collector shall be exempt from road duty. And it shall be the duty of the overseer, whenever any such person shall have discharged his county poll tax as herein provided, to report the same to the tax collector, who shall credit the party on the tax roll, and report the same in his regular reports to the commissioners court: Provided, that no fines or penalties shall be recovered of insolvent poll tax payers for failure to work out their poll tax under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 12. Each road overseer shall make his report, under oath, to the commissioners court, every six months, giving an itemized statement of all money belonging to the road fund which he has received, from whom received, and for what, and what disposition he has made of the same; the condition of all roads, bridges, culverts and drains; the numbers and character of all mile posts and guide boards erected, and where the same are located; and such other information as the commissioners court may require; and may accompany said report with such suggestions as may seem to him pertinent in regard to the public roads and the duties of his office.

Sec. 13. Any road overseer who shall willfully or negligently fail or refuse to comply with any provision of this act, or to perform any lawful and reasonable order of the commissioners court, or to discharge any duty imposed upon him by this act, or by any other existing law of the State not in conflict herewith, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof in a court of competent jurisdiction, shall be punished by fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars; such fine, when collected, to go into the road and bridge fund.

Sec. 14. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any private lands for the purpose of opening, widening, straightening, or draining any public road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the commissioners court can not agree upon the amount of damages to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same, in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had, and the same rights shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond, either for cost or on appeal.

Sec. 15. This act shall be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges and employment of county convicts not in conflict herewith; and where not otherwise provided herein such general laws shall apply, but in case of conflict with general laws, this act shall govern; and the courts of the State shall have and take judicial cognizance of this act in the same manner and to the same extent as they are required to know and notice the general laws of the State.

Sec. 16. The vast amount of important business pending, and the fact that the roads of said county are in a deplorable condition for the want of a more efficient road law, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 8, A. D. 1893.

DENISON—AMENDMENT TO CITY CHARTER.

CHAP. 3.—[S. B. No. 171.] An act to amend sections 12, 19, 23, 65, 145, 147, 149, 158, and 160 of an act entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Denison, in Grayson County, Texas, and to fix the boundaries thereof, and to provide for its government and the management of its affairs," passed March, 1891.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That sections 12, 19, 23, 65, 145, 147, 149, 158, and 160 of an act entitled, "An act to incorporate the city of Denison, in Grayson County, Texas, and to fix the boundaries thereof, and to provide for its government and the management of its affairs," shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 12. The presiding officer in each ward shall select three judges and four clerks, who, with the presiding officer, shall be managers of the election. The presiding officer and judges must be qualified voters in the city. The city council shall provide for their compensation, and shall define and regulate their duties and powers. The mayor, whenever an election is ordered, shall give the required notice, and issue to the presiding officer a writ of election; and every published notice of election shall state the officer or officers to be elected, the place where the election shall be held, and the name of the presiding officer thereat. In case the presiding officer so appointed is unable, fails, refuses, or neglects to act, or the mayor or the city council have failed to appoint such officer, or in case no appointed presiding officer appears to open the polls, the attending qualified voters may appoint such officer, who shall perform the duties and have the same powers as the first appointee. But in such case the managers, in their returns or otherwise, shall certify that the presiding officer failed to attend, or neglected to act, and that the person acting as such was duly elected by the electors present.

Section 19. The compensation of all officers shall be such as may be fixed by the city council. Such compensation of officers elected by the qualified voters shall be fixed not less than sixty days before each annual election at which such officers are elected, and the compensation of officers and employes elected or appointed by the city council shall be fixed by the city council electing or appointing such officers or employes on or before the first day of May of each year; and the pay of no city officer shall be increased or diminished during his term of office, and no city officer shall receive any extra pay during his term of office.

Section 23. The judicial power of the city of Denison shall be and the same is hereby vested in a court to be known as the Denison city court, to be presided over by a judge to be known as the city judge, which court is hereby created and established with criminal jurisdiction as follows: First, to try, hear, determine, and punish all offenses against the ordinances of the city of Denison of which the mayor's court formerly had jurisdiction. Second, to try, hear, determine, and punish all misdemeanors arising under the ordinances of said city, authorized by the provisions of this charter. All prosecutions shall be conducted in the name of the city of Denison.

Section 65. To control and regulate the carrying on of manufactories and works dangerous in causing or promoting fires, and to regulate the location of cotton presses, sheds, and other buildings dangerous on account of fire, and to control and regulate the location and use of steam engines in the city, and prescribe rules and regulations in relation thereto, as may seem best for the public safety and comfort.

Section 145. The city council shall have power by ordinance to provide for and cause a general sewer system to be constructed, maintained, and regulated in such manner and out of such material as the council may prescribe. Public sewers shall be established as the council may direct, and there may be extensions of branches of sewers already constructed, or entirely new throughout, as may be deemed expedient. The city council may, if necessary, levy a tax on all taxable property in the entire city, to pay for the construction and repairs of such public sewers, which shall be called "a special sewer tax," and used solely for that purpose. No public sewer shall be constructed or run diagonally through private property without the consent of the owner, when it is, without injury to said sewer, practicable to construct it parallel with one of the exterior lines of said property. No public sewer shall be constructed through private property without the consent of the owner, when it is practical to construct it along or through a street or public highway. District sewers may be established within the limits of districts defined by ordinance, and shall connect with other sewers or drains, in such manner as the city council may prescribe. And the city council shall have power, in the event that any owner of property within the sewer districts that are now established, or that may be hereafter established by the city council, shall fail and refuse to make such sewer connection, after having been duly notified to make such connections, then the city council may have such connection made, and charge the expense of the same against the property, and the same shall become a tax and lien against the same, and be collected in the same manner as are other special taxes and liens provided for in this charter; and all such persons who shall fail and refuse to make such connections may be arrested and fined for each day such owner shall refuse and neglect to make such connections. The city council may compel all owners of property to make proper connections with such sewers, and regulate and enforce by ordinance the connection of all privies, sinks, etc., with public or district sewers. The city council shall also have power to provide by ordinance for the construction of a general system of drainage or storm-water sewers, in such parts of the city as they may deem necessary, and within such limits as they may prescribe by ordinance, and connect same with other like sewers or drains in such manner as the city council may by ordinance prescribe, and to regulate and enforce all rules and ordinances concerning same. Such sewers or drains shall be constructed at the cost of the property owners specially benefited or abutting on said sewers or drains. The question as to what property has been specially benefited by the construction of same shall be decided by a board of arbiters to be appointed by the city council, to be composed of three disinterested freeholders, residents of Grayson county, who shall examine into and report in writing to the city council, stating the names of all property owners benefited by same, and give a description of all such property; which report, when adopted by the city council, shall be final as to such question. Whenever the city council shall determine by ordinance that such work shall be done, they shall advertise for bids, giving the plans and specifications and extent of such improvement. The work shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, in the discretion of the council, and with such bond as the council may require. When any such storm-water sewer or drains shall have been completed the city engineer shall report the entire cost of said work to the city council, and shall furnish a list of property owners in said district drained by said sewer or drain, and all owners abutting thereon, together with a description of the property, and the city council shall thereupon appoint a board of arbiters as herein provided for, and upon the filing of said report the city council shall thereupon proceed to assess said cost against said property and levy a special tax therefor against the lots of ground so benefited or abutting on said sewer or drain in proportion to the area of the whole of said property so benefited or abutting thereon, exclusive of public highways. The city assessor and collector shall enter such in a book kept by him for that purpose, and shall proceed to collect same as other special taxes and liens provided for in this charter. Said tax shall be a lien upon the property from the time of the levy. The city council shall have power to regulate and enforce all rules and ordinances in the plumbing of dwelling houses and other buildings of whatsoever kind, within the limits of the city, and may require a bond from all plumbers or contractors carrying on any plumbing business, conditioned as the council may require, and may prohibit any one from doing any plumbing work whatsoever until a license is obtained by such person from the proper officer of the city, in such manner as the city council may provide. All plumbing shall be made subject to the inspection and approval of the city engineer and city council. All connections with any main line of sewer, or any lateral line thereof, shall be done at the expense of the owner of the property in or from which such connections are made.

Section 147. The city council shall have power, by resolution or otherwise, to require the filling up, draining, and regulating of any lot or lots, grounds, or yards, or other places in the city, which shall be unwholesome, or have stagnant water or filth of any kind therein, or from any other cause be in such condition as is liable to produce disease; also to cause all premises to be thoroughly cleansed, and also to order the cutting of weeds and high grass on private property, and in portions of streets and highways between the lot and curb walls, and to cause all premises to be inspected and cleansed; also to require the making, filling up, altering, and repairing of all sinks and privies, and direct the mode and material for constructing them in future. And said city council shall have full power, by ordinance, to provide for the punishment of all persons failing or refusing to do any of such things, or permitting the premises occupied by them to be in a filthy or unhealthy state. In case of filling up or draining any ground, if the owner thereof can not be found, or for any cause fails or refuses to do said filling or draining, the city may have the same done and tax the expense thereof against the said ground, as a special tax and lien thereon, and collect the same as provided for the collection of any other special taxes or assessments in this act.

Section 149. The city of Denison is hereby constituted a separate and independent school district, and shall receive from the State such pro rata of the available school fund as its scholastic population may entitle it to. The city public schools shall be under the management and control of a board of school trustees, composed of one member from each ward, who shall be selected by the legally qualified voters at the annual general elections, as vacancies occur, and shall hold their office for the term of two years: Provided, that at the election to be held on the first Tuesday in April, A. D. 1893, no trustees shall be elected for the second and fourth wards, and the present members of the board from those wards shall hold their office until the general election to be held on the first Tuesday in April, 1894, unless a vacancy occurs therein. They shall serve without compensation. Their duties shall be to look after the interests of the public schools of the city, and to enact suitable regulations for their government, to elect a superintendent, teachers, and janitors, and fix and pay their salaries; to keep the school buildings and grounds in repair, and keep the property insured; purchase all supplies, make or have made, all repairs, fences, and walks. The mayor shall be, ex officio, a member of the board, and they shall have power to regulate their own meetings and proceedings. They shall elect a president from among their number. They shall audit all bills and accounts, and approve the same, and order the issuance of warrants for the payment of same. The city council shall provide means to pay for all repairs, furniture, and supplies necessary for said schools, and for keeping school houses and grounds in repair. The city shall annually make an appropriation sufficient to supplement the State school fund, so as to run the schools at least nine months in each year. In case the said city shall have decided, under the laws providing therefor, that a special tax shall be levied for the support of the public free schools, the city council shall annually assess and levy such tax, or so much thereof as, in the judgment of the board of trustees, may be required to run the said schools; said levy not to exceed one-half of one per cent, to be levied by ordinance duly passed and approved in the same manner as is required in the assessment of the taxes for general purposes in said city. The city treasurer shall be treasurer of the board of school trustees, and shall execute such additional bond as the city council may by ordinance require. The city secretary shall be secretary of the board of school trustees. All bills or accounts approved and ordered paid by said board of trustees shall be paid by the treasurer on warrants issued by the city secretary and signed by the president of the board of trustees. The city council may, by resolution or ordinance, provide for the taking of the scholastic census annually in such manner as they may direct. All funds received from the State by the city as its pro rata of the available school fund, and all funds appropriated by the city council out of its general revenue for the support and maintenance of the public schools, or raised by special taxation for that purpose, or derived from any source of revenue set apart for the support and maintenance of said schools, and all funds arising from any gift, devise, or bequest made to the city for the support and maintenance of public schools, shall be under the management of the board of trustees. The city shall have power to receive, take, and hold any property, real, personal, or mixed, which has been or may be conveyed by gift, devise, or bequest, for the benefit of the public education herein, and to lease or invest the same so as to derive a revenue therefrom; and the control, management, leasing, and investment of such property, and all funds arising therefrom, shall be vested in the board of school trustees. The duty of providing school buildings and furniture, and grounds for the erection of same, shall be performed by the city council, and all funds appropriated, or raised by taxation or otherwise, therefor shall be under their control. Said school trustees shall be freeholders and qualified electors in the wards from which they are elected.

Section 158. The city council shall have full power and authority to grade, fill, raise, repair, macadamize, remacadamize, pave, repave, or otherwise improve any avenue, street, or alley, or any portion thereof, in the city, to such an extent, and out of such material, and under such regulations, as said council may provide, whenever a majority of the aldermen present vote in favor of such improvement. All grading of streets and sidewalks shall be at the cost of the city. All repairing of streets shall be at the cost of the city, unless otherwise provided herein. The word "repairing," as herein used, shall apply only to small or ordinary defects in the streets that have been put to grade and paved or macadamized. All other improvements, such as macadamizing and paving, shall be done in the following manner, to-wit: The property owners on each side of the streets so improved shall pay two-thirds of the cost, and the city shall pay the remaining one-third, the same to be recovered pro rata, according to the number of front or abutting feet respectively owned by them on such street or avenue: Provided, that when any person, corporation, or company owns or operates any street railroad, or railroad of any kind, on such street, avenue, or alley, such person, corporation, or company shall pay for paving or otherwise improving that portion of the street, avenue, or alley between the rails of such road, and a space one foot in width on each side of said rails of such road. The city shall pay for all street intersections so improved, except that portion occupied or used by said railroads, which must be paid, as above provided, by the owners or operators thereof. Property owners shall pay the entire cost of all curbing. The pro rata share of the cost of such improvements due from the property owners and said railroads, as above provided, together with the expense of collecting the same, and a penalty of ten per cent for failure to pay same when due, shall be a special tax and lien against the lot or lots or blocks fronting or abutting upon the street improved, and against the roadbed, ties, rails, fixtures, rights and franchises of such street or other railroad that may be operated thereon. The city council shall, by resolution duly passed, designate the street or streets, avenues, or alleys, or portions thereof, to be improved, the nature of the improvement to be made, and the material to be used. Whenever the city council shall so determine upon such improvements they shall advertise for bids, giving the plans, specifications, and the extent of the improvement. The work shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, in the discretion of the council, and with such bonds as the council may require. Said council shall levy a special tax on the property fronting or abutting on the streets so improved for the pro rata amounts due from property owners, and when street or other railroads are operated on said street or streets, the council shall levy a special tax upon the roadbed, ties, rails, fixtures, rights, and franchises of such road for the pro rata share due from them for improving the space between the rails and the distance of one foot outside of said rails of such road. Said tax shall be levied after said contract is let; shall become due and delinquent as the ordinance levying the same may specify; shall be a lien from the time of the levy, and shall be used for the payment of said improvements. If said taxes be not paid as provided for by ordinance, the collection of said tax, and the further sum of ten per cent on the same as a penalty, and six per cent per annum from date of completion of such work, shall be enforced as the collection of other taxes, by advertisement and sale of property, rights, and franchises levied upon, or by suit to foreclose said lien in any court having jurisdiction: Provided, no sale shall be made by virtue of any special lien herein created until the end of six months after such work is completed. At such sales the collector shall execute to the purchaser a deed similar to the one executed when property is sold for ad valorem taxes. Nothing in this section shall be construed so as to prohibit the owner or owners in front of whose property such street improvement shall have been ordered from doing such work, and thus avoid such special assessment against his or her property. Provided, however, such owner or owners will obligate themselves to make and complete such street improvement within the time, and in accordance with the plans and specifications made by order of the city council.

Section 160. The city council shall fix and determine the nature and extent of sidewalk improvements, and decide as to the kind of material to be used. The cost of constructing all sidewalks, including curbing, and the keeping the same in repairs, together with the cost of collection and penalty (but not including the grading), shall be defrayed entirely by the property owners of the lots or blocks fronting on the sidewalks to be constructed, according to the number of feet frontage owned by each of them. Whenever the council, by resolution or otherwise, orders the construction of any sidewalk, and notice thereof has been served on the property owner, if in the city, or if out of the city, upon his agent, it shall be the duty of such property owner or his agent to at once construct such sidewalk as is ordered by the council, and under the supervision of the city engineer. If such property owner, or his agent, shall fail or refuse to construct such sidewalk within the time required by the council, after notice served upon the owner or his agent, if he have an agent in the city, and if he has no agent in the city, then by mailing notice to said party if his residence be known, and if his residence be unknown, then by publication of said notice for ten days in the official paper of the city, then the city may have such sidewalks constructed, and the expense of the same, together with the cost of collection, and ten per cent of the cost of such work in addition thereto as a penalty, shall be a tax and charged against the person or persons owning the tract of land abutting upon the street or highway at the place where such work is done, and the same shall be a lien and encumbrance upon the land itself until the same is fully paid and discharged, and the collection of the same may be enforced by sale of the property in the same manner as provided for the collection of other special tax and lien for street improvements in this act; and such charge against such property owner shall become due on the completion of the work, and shall be collected promptly by the city assessor and collector, and if not paid within thirty days thereafter, after becoming due, the same may be collected, with ten per cent in addition thereto as attorney's fees, and six per cent interest per annum, and the lien foreclosed in any court having jurisdiction: Provided, no action shall be had to enforce such special tax and lien until after the expiration of six months from the time such tax was levied or such work completed. An itemized bill or statement of the work, when done by the city under the provisions of this section, after being duly sworn to by the officer under whose direction the work has been done, and after having been approved by the mayor, shall be prima facie evidence in any court of the performance of the work stated in such bill, at the cost therein stated, and compliance with all the provisions of this act, and that the amount stated is a just charge and tax against the property owner therein named, and a lien upon the property described, as shown therein, subject to such correction as to the court shall seem meet and proper. In addition hereto the city council shall have the power, by ordinance, to punish persons who fail or refuse to build or repair sidewalks after having been duly notified.

Sec. 2. The fact that it is important to the interest of the general public of said city that the changes of the charter of said city made by this act go into effect immediately, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity, which requires the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 27, A. D. 1893.

The first general election under this charter shall take place on the first Tuesday in April, 1893, at which time, and every two years thereafter, there shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city a mayor and city judge, who shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are elected and qualified. There shall also be elected at said time by the qualified voters of each ward in said city in which the office of the alderman theretofore elected from the said wards shall expire at said time, one alderman; the aldermen so elected shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are elected and qualified: Provided, at the first general election held under this charter there shall be elected one alderman from each ward. Six of said aldermen shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are elected and qualified, and six for one year and until their successors are elected and qualified. The length of time for which each of said aldermen shall serve shall be decided by lot at the first meeting of the city council after said aldermen shall qualify, or as soon thereafter as practicable. At such time said aldermen shall divide themselves into two classes, one of which classes shall serve one year, and one of said classes for two years, and until their successors respectively are elected and qualified: Provided, that the term of office of all the present aldermen of said city shall expire on the first Tuesday in April, 1893, and as soon thereafter as the aldermen elected, as herein provided, shall qualify.

Section 10. The general election held under this charter shall be held on the first Tuesday in April, 1894, at which time, and every two years thereafter, there shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city a city collector, city assessor, and chief of police, who shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are elected and qualified. The city council shall provide for their compensation and regulate and define their duties and power, and they shall have such judges and clerks as are in such cases provided by the laws of the State of Texas, which judges and clerks shall be selected by the presiding judges. In case the officer so appointed presiding judge is unable, fails, or refuses, or neglects to act as such, or the city council shall fail to appoint, or in case no presiding officer appears to open the polls, the attending qualified voters shall appoint such officer, who shall have the same powers and perform all the duties of presiding judge. But in such cases, such judges shall in their returns certify that the presiding officer failed to appear, and that the presiding officer acting as such was duly elected by the electors present.

Section 15. The manner of conducting and voting at such elections under this act, keeping the poll lists, canvassing the votes, and certifying the returns shall be such as provided by the laws of the State of Texas for similar elections, and as may be provided by the city council by ordinance.

Section 61. Section 161. That the city public schools shall be under the management and control of a board of school directors, composed of the mayor and one member from each ward, which said members, with the exception of the mayor, shall be elected at the general elections of the city, and shall hold their offices for the term of two years, and serve without compensation: Provided, that this section shall in no way interfere with the term of office of any of the present members of said board, except the members from such wards as may be changed or established prior to the next general election: And provided, that the members of said board who shall be elected from such wards as may be changed or established prior to said election shall, in such manner as said board may determine, as soon after said election as practicable, divide themselves into two classes, one of which said classes shall serve for one, and the other for two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified. Any vacancy on said board shall be filled in conformity with the ordinance regulating special elections. Said board of school directors shall have exclusive control of the public schools of the city of Dallas, and shall have full and complete power to provide necessary school buildings and facilities, and to open and conduct a sufficient number of schools to meet the wants of the scholastic population of the city of Dallas, so far as they can do so by prudent and judicious application of the means made subject to their administration and management. Among the powers hereby conferred on said board of school directors, the following are, for greater certainty, enumerated: To contract for, lease, and purchase lots, and to construct buildings for school purposes, and to make all needed repairs and alterations in the same; to furnish said school buildings with all appropriate furniture, fixtures, and apparatus; to lay off the city in such school districts as in the judgment of said board shall be proper; to increase or diminish said districts, and to change the boundaries thereof at pleasure; to employ superintendents, teachers, and such other persons as may be necessary, and to fix their compensation and prescribe their duties; and establish all regulations and rules deemed necessary by the board to provide and maintain an efficient system of public schools in the city of Dallas. When said statement shall be filed by said board, the city council shall, in such sums and at such times as the school board may determine are necessary to meet the requirements of said board for defraying the expenses incurred, appropriate out of the funds of the city, as far as collected, the amount required by said board for school purposes, which said sums, together with all sums received from the State, county, and other school funds, shall be held in the city treasury subject to the order and disbursement of the school board, and shall be paid out upon warrants issued by order of the school board, and signed by the president, attested by the secretary, and countersigned by the mayor. The mayor and city council shall have the right at any time to demand of said school board an account of all sums received, disbursed, and expended by them for school purposes, accompanied by vouchers, data, and all other information deemed necessary to enable the city council to ascertain the cost, necessities, and expenses of said public schools.

Sec. 2. That section 10 of an act, entitled "An act to amend sections 10, 21, 28, 94, 120, 140, and 158 of an act entitled an act to incorporate the city of Dallas, and to grant it a new charter," approved March 13, 1889, passed by the Twenty-second Legislature, and certified to by the Secretary of State on March 9, 1891, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The near approach of the election in the city of Dallas creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended; and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and is so enacted.

Approved March 30, A. D. 1893.

HOUSTON—CITY CHARTER.

CHAP. 5.—[H. B. No. 561.] An act to incorporate the city of Houston and grant a new charter to the said city of Houston.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all the inhabitants of the city of Houston shall be a body corporate, to be known hereafter by the name of the city of Houston, and by that name they shall hereafter be known in law, and shall be capable of suing and being sued, and defending in all courts in all matters whatsoever; and may have a common seal, and may alter and change the same at pleasure; may own, hold, and convey any estate, real or personal, for the use of said corporation, for any purpose whatsoever, both within the limits of said city and without the limits of the same, in Harris County, Texas.

Sec. 2. That the bounds and limits of said corporation shall be three miles square, to be run with the cardinal points of the compass, of which the center of the court house square in the city of Houston shall be the center.

Sec. 3. That the city council may divide the city into a convenient number of wards, not less than three nor more than twelve, and define and establish the boundaries thereof, and may change the same, from time to time, as may be deemed expedient, having regard for the number of inhabitants, so that each ward shall contain, as near as may be, the same number of qualified electors for city elections.

Sec. 4. That each ward in the city may be divided into as many sections and as many polling places as may be prescribed in said sections as the city may see fit and proper; and each ward in the city shall be represented in the city council by two aldermen, who shall hold office for two years and until their successors are elected and qualified; said aldermen shall be elected by the qualified voters of the ward for which they stand, and all voters shall have resided in such ward at least thirty days next preceding any election. And no person shall be competent to fill the office of alderman unless at the date of his election he be a qualified voter of the city and of said ward, and a freeholder owning real property in said city and ward. Should any alderman remove from his ward during the term for which he was elected, his office shall thereupon become vacant, and the council shall order an election in said ward to fill such vacancy.

Sec. 5. That the administration of the business affairs of said corporation shall be conducted by a mayor and board of aldermen, consisting of two aldermen from each ward, who shall compose the city council.

Sec. 6. All qualified electors of the State, who shall have resided for six months immediately preceding the election within the limits of said city, shall have the right to vote for mayor and all other elective officers of said city; but in all elections to determine the expenditure of money or the assumption of debt, only those shall be qualified to vote who pay taxes on property in said city.

Sec. 7. That the mayor shall be elected by the qualified voters of the city, and shall hold his office for the term of two years, and until his successor is elected and qualified. No person shall be mayor unless he is a qualified elector of the city. He shall be a conservator of the peace throughout the city. He shall have power, by and with the consent of the city council, to appoint any number of policemen on any special occasion that he may deem necessary to preserve the peace of the city, and to discharge the same at pleasure. He shall have power, in case of necessity, to call out the militia, or any military company in the city, to aid in the suppression of any riot or public disturbance. He shall be active and vigilant in enforcing all laws and ordinances for government of the city, and he shall cause all the subordinate officers to be dealt with promptly for any neglect or violation of duty. He shall preside at all meetings of the council when present, and in case of a tie vote in the board of aldermen he shall give the casting vote. He shall have the power to veto any resolution, by-law, ordinance, motion, or order passed by the council, in the following manner.

He shall give notice of his veto at the same meeting in which said action was had, which shall be entered upon the minutes. At the next regular meeting he shall furnish to the council his reasons, in writing, and unless the council shall pass such law, ordinance, etc., over his veto by a vote of two-thirds of the aldermen present, taken by "yeas and nays," and entered upon the journal of the council, the same shall be inoperative. He shall have and exercise such power and authority as may be conferred by the city council, not inconsistent with the general purposes and provisions of this charter.

Sec. 8. That regular meetings of the city council shall be held in the council chamber at least twice in each month, at such times as may be fixed by resolution of the board, and the mayor, of his own motion, may call special meetings for the transaction of special business by written notices served personally upon each member of the board, or left at his usual place of abode. Any three members of the board may, in like manner, call special meetings of the council; but no special meetings shall be called except in cases of urgent necessity, and the written notices served upon the members of the board shall state the object and purpose for which the meeting is called. General business shall only be transacted at the regular meetings. The city council may adjourn from day to day, until the business properly coming before it is disposed of.

That a majority of the whole number of aldermen elected and qualified shall be required to constitute a quorum, but any four aldermen may convene and compel the attendance of absent members on any day of regular meeting, requiring the city marshal or other police officer to arrest and bring in the absent members. That the city council shall adopt rules and regulations for the government of the council in its proceedings, and the order for the transaction of business before it.

It shall be the judge of the qualifications and election of members of the council, including the mayor.

It may punish members or other persons during the sittings of the council for disorderly conduct, to the extent that it may fine and imprison, by its by-laws and ordinances. And with the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the whole number of aldermen elected and qualified, the council may remove any officer of the city for any conduct or offense which in the opinion of the council, expressed by the two-thirds vote aforesaid, shall render him unfit to hold his office; but no officer shall be removed until he shall have had the opportunity of being heard by himself or counsel, or both; and in the investigation of any complaint under this section the council may subpoena and examine witnesses, under the usual rules for taking testimony.

That the meetings of the council shall be held with open doors, except when, by a vote of two-thirds of the members present, it may be deemed expedient upon a special question to deliberate with closed doors.

Sec. 9. That whenever it shall be necessary so as to do, the board of aldermen shall, by ballot, elect a member of their own body to act for a designated period as mayor pro tem., who, for the time, shall have and exercise all the powers and authority of the mayor. That in case of a vacancy occurring in any office elective by the qualified voters of the city the council shall fill the vacancy by appointment for the unexpired term.

Sec. 10. That there shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city a city engineer, treasurer, city marshal, assessor and collector of taxes, street commissioner, and a city recorder, who shall hold their respective offices for two years, and until their successors are qualified, unless sooner removed by the city council: Provided, that the present officers of said city shall hold their offices until the next election of city officers, as prescribed by the ordinances now in force. The assessor and collector may appoint one or more deputies, for whose conduct he shall be responsible, and deputy or deputies shall have power to perform any act which may be performed by the assessor and collector in person.

Sec. 11. The mayor shall appoint a secretary, a city attorney, a market master, a health officer, a city scavenger, and a superintendent of schools, whose appointment shall be confirmed by the city council, who shall hold their respective offices for two years, and until their successors are qualified, and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the city council.

Sec. 12. The mayor, with six citizens of the city of Houston, three of whom shall be appointed each year by the mayor and confirmed by the council, shall constitute the board of public school trustees of said city.

Sec. 13. That the recorder of said city shall exercise such jurisdiction as may be prescribed by the city council, not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the State, and such as may be conferred by the general laws on mayors and recorders; but when any person has been tried before a justice of the peace for any offense committed in said city against a general law, such person shall not be tried again for the same offense before said recorder. The rule of procedure in courts of justices of the peace in criminal matters shall govern the recorder's court in all matters in practice, and appeals may be taken from his decisions in a like manner. In the absence of the recorder, or in case of his inability to hold his court, the mayor of said city shall hold the same, and the acts and judgments of such mayor shall have the same force and effect as those of the recorder. The recorder shall have the same power to administer oaths, punish for contempt of his court, to summon witnesses and compel their attendance by process, to summon jurors and compel their attendance, as justices of the peace have. Such recorder's court shall be opened daily, and the accused shall have a speedy public trial. The salary, if any, and fees of such recorder shall be determined and fixed by the city council; and such recorder shall, from time to time, as required, report to the council, and do and perform such duties properly appertaining to the office as may be prescribed by the city council: Provided, That all process beyond the city limits shall be directed to and executed by the sheriff or some constable of the county.

Sec. 14. The city secretary shall attend the city council at its meetings, and shall have the custody of all laws and ordinances of the city, and of its valuable papers, records, and archives, and also of the common seal of the corporation, and shall affix the same to the obligations of the city by order of the city council. He shall keep a regular and correct journal of the proceedings of the council in well bound record books, and shall perform such other duties as the city council may prescribe or direct.

Sec. 15. The city treasurer shall have the custody of all moneys, and shall receive all moneys and revenues coming into the city treasury, and pay the same out by order of the council. He shall keep the moneys and funds of the city on deposit in some bank in the city of Houston, and he shall keep the accounts of the city in well bound books, and the books and records of the office shall be open to the inspection of any citizen at any reasonable and proper time. He shall prepare and publish in one or more newspapers printed in the city of Houston an accurate and detailed statement and account of the receipts and disbursements of the revenues of the city, the outstanding obligations and liabilities of the city, and the condition of the city treasury, which statement shall be prepared and made up to the last day of December of each year, and published on or before the fifteenth day of January following; and it shall be the duty of the city council to require this statement to be made and published, and should the statement not be made in the manner and at the time provided, the treasurer shall be liable to a fine of one thousand dollars, to be recovered in the district court of Harris county, at the suit of the city attorney, for and in behalf of the city of Houston, and the securities of the city treasurer on his official bond shall be liable for the amount of such fine.

Sec. 16. The city attorney shall attend all meetings of the council, attend to all civil suits to which the city is a party, unless the council otherwise provides, and shall represent the city and State, in person or by deputy, in the recorder's court when necessary, when requested so to do; shall draw all ordinances and inspect and pass upon all documents involving the interests of the city when requested so to do by the mayor or city council, and shall be the legal adviser of all the officers of the city upon legal questions touching their official duties, and he shall perform such other duties as the council may prescribe.

Sec. 17. That the city marshal shall be the chief police officer of the city, under the mayor. He shall, in person or by proxy, or by some officer of the police force, attend all regular and special meetings of the council. He shall attend upon the recorder's court, and shall promptly execute and return all process issued from said court. He shall be active in quelling riots, disorders, and disturbances of the peace within the limits of said city, and shall take in custody all persons so offending against the peace of the community. He shall arrest all offenders against the ordinances of the city for offenses committed in his presence, and shall have authority to take bail for their appearance before the recorder, and in default of giving which, he shall commit them to the city prison for safe keeping until they can be brought before the recorder for trial. He shall have authority to appoint one deputy, for whose acts and conduct he shall be responsible, and such deputy shall have all the power and authority of the marshal. He shall perform such other duties, and shall be invested with such other powers, rights, and authority as the city council may by ordinance confer, not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the State. He shall be, at all times, under the direction and control of the mayor and the city council, and may be by them suspended or removed from office for cause deemed by them adequate. He shall not absent himself from the city, without first obtaining from the city council a leave of absence, which leave shall state the duration of such absence.

Sec. 18. That the assessor and collector shall assess and collect all licenses and taxes levied and imposed by the city council, and shall pay the same over to the treasurer weekly, on the Saturday of each week, taking duplicate receipts therefor, one of which he shall retain, and the other he shall return to the council (or the proper committee appointed by the council to receive the same), with his report in detail, showing the several amounts received and by whom paid, which report shall be made to the first meeting of the council in each month. He shall be governed by the rules and regulations hereinafter prescribed in relation to the assessment and collection of licenses and taxes imposed by the city council, and shall do and perform such other acts and duties concerning the administration of his office as may be prescribed by the city council.

Sec. 19. That the officers named in this charter shall perform the duties prescribed by this act, and such other duties as may be prescribed by ordinance. And there shall be such other officers, servants, and agents of the corporation as may be provided by ordinance, to be appointed by the mayor, with the approval of a majority of all the aldermen elected and qualified, who shall perform such duties and receive such compensation as may be prescribed by ordinance. The council may require any officer or agent of the city, as it may deem proper, to give good and sufficient bond, with approved security, for the faithful performance of his duties in such sum as it may prescribe.

Sec. 20. That bonds shall be required of the city assessor and collector and of the city treasurer in an amount not less than double the amount of funds which may probably be in their hands at any one time, to be determined by the council, which bonds shall be upon such conditions as may be determined by the city council, and with good securities, to be approved by the city council, and the city shall in like manner require bonds of any officer or agent of the city through whose hands the money of the city may pass.

Sec. 21. That the salary and fees of officers of said city shall be determined by the city council at least one month previous to their election, which salaries and fees, when so determined, shall not be raised or lowered during the period for which said officers were elected.

Sec. 22. That the by-laws and ordinances of the city shall be enforced by fine not to exceed two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the city prison not to exceed thirty days, or by both fine and imprisonment. Provided, that no ordinance or by-law shall provide a less penalty than is prescribed for a like offense by the laws of the State. The city council may provide, by ordinance, for the commutation of fines imposed by labor in a work-house, on the streets, or public works; and for the collection of any fine imposed execution may be issued from the recorder's court in the name of the city of Houston against the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of the person offending.

Sec. 23. The city council shall have the exclusive control and regulation of all streets, alleys, public grounds, and highways within the corporate limits of the city, and shall have power to abate and remove encroachments thereon in a summary manner, to put drains and sewers therein, and when necessary to appropriate private property for that purpose; to permit, to prevent, and regulate the laying of gas and water mains therein, and the erection of telegraph, telephone, and electric light poles therein; to impose such terms as to them may seem proper for the use of the streets and sidewalks for any purpose whatever, by any person or corporation, and to demand and collect for the use of the same such compensation as to the city council shall see meet and proper; to regulate, establish, and change the grade of all sidewalks, streets, and premises, and to require and compel the cutting down or filling up and raising of such streets and premises; to construct, regulate, and keep in repair all bridges, culverts, sewers, and crossings, and to control and regulate the use of the same; to construct, regulate, and keep in repair all necessary sidewalks and footways and streets, to grade, cut down, and fill up the same, to regulate the use, and abate and remove encroachments and obstructions thereon, and to compel the removal of the same, and to punish any person or corporation by fine or imprisonment, or by the imposition of a penalty to be collected in a civil suit, who shall encroach upon or obstruct the same, or who shall fail to have such encroachments withdrawn or such obstruction removed after being notified by the proper officer to remove or withdraw the same, and to provide by ordinance that each day such encroachment or obstructions are permitted to remain after notice is served shall constitute a separate offense.

Sec. 24. The city council shall fix and determine the nature and extent of all sidewalk, curbing, street, drainage, and sewerage improvements, and decide as to the kind of material to be used. The cost of constructing or repairing (as the case may be) of all sidewalks, footways, and curbing, and cost of grading, shelling, paving, repairing, or otherwise improving any avenue, street, alley, or other highway, or any portion thereof, within the limits of the city, and the cost of all drains or sewers laid and constructed within the city, together with the cost of collecting thereof, shall, whenever, by a vote of two-thirds of the aldermen elected, such improvements shall be declared necessary for the public interests, be defrayed, in case of curbing, sidewalks, and street improvements, by the owner or owners of the lot or lots, block or blocks, tracts of land when not laid out into lots and blocks, abutting on such street or portion of street improved, according to the cost of work in front of the particular lot or block or tracts of land, and in case of sewerage or drainage improvements, shall be defrayed by the owner or owners of such lot or lots, block or blocks, or tracts of land when not laid out into lots or blocks, according to the proportionate benefits of the lots, blocks, or tracts of land within the sewerage or drainage districts hereinafter provided for, taking into consideration the area and locality of the property affected; and the cost of all such improvements shall be a tax and charge against the person or persons owning such lots, blocks, or tracts of land at the time such tax or any portion thereof shall become due as to such lots, blocks, and tracts of land, and a lien and encumbrance upon the land itself; and said tax against the property owner may be collected, and a lien upon the property foreclosed in any court having jurisdiction. The city council shall have power to provide by ordinance for the laying out of drainage and sewerage districts within said city, and to provide for the cost of constructing main and lateral drains, sewers, or conduits in such districts, by assessments against the owner or owners of the lots, blocks, or tracts of land when not laid out into lots and blocks, in such sewerage and drainage district, according to the proportional benefits respectively to such lots, blocks, or tracts of land, in view of area and locality; and main sewers and drains may be constructed, and the cost of the same assessed [against] the land within such district as aforesaid in contemplation of additional lateral or cross sewers or drains being constructed within such district at some future time. The cost of constructing curb walls and gutters, and sidewalks on the corner of any block shall be assessed against the owner or owners of the corner lot or tract of land abutting thereon: Provided, nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the city council from constructing sewers and drains, or making street improvements in whole or in part at the expense of the city, should it be deemed advisable to do so. The city council shall, by resolution duly passed, designate the streets, or portions of streets, on which curbing, sidewalks, or street improvements shall be made or constructed, and the district within which the sewerage or drainage improvements shall be constructed, and the general nature of the improvements to be made, and the principal ingredients of the materials to be used: Provided, however, that provisions may be made in such resolution for receiving bids on more than one kind of material, or of different modes of construction. Said resolution may be amended or changed by a two-thirds vote of the city council at any time previous to the publication of the advertisement for bids, and it shall be proper to embody in the same language to the effect that the improvements contemplated will be made only on those portions of the street or streets referred to where good and sufficient improvements of like character do not exist; and in such event the mayor, as the work progresses, shall determine where such existing improvements, if any, are in fact good and sufficient, within the meaning and intent of the resolution, and he shall direct the contractor accordingly; and any property owner shall have the privilege of putting down his own sidewalk and curbing in front of any lot owned by him, provided the same are completed or in course of construction prior to the leaving of material near the same for that purpose by the contractor employed by the city, and if in course of construction are completed in a manner satisfactory to the mayor at such time, to be determined by the mayor, as will not interfere with the work being otherwise done by the contractor. When sewerage or drainage improvements are contemplated, said resolution shall refer to the district within which property will be assessed for the payment of the same. The cost of paving any street intersection under the provisions of this act shall be borne by the city, and the city council is hereby authorized to levy for that purpose an annual ad valorem tax, not exceeding one-fourth of one per cent per annum. The city shall have the same time in which to pay for said work as individuals have under the provisions of this act; and street intersections as here used shall be deemed to mean all that portion of the street improved within an extension of the block lines of the intersecting streets. Any railroad or street railway company shall be liable for the cost of grading, paving, or otherwise improving the portion of the street or intersections used or occupied by such railway company, and such cost shall be a lien upon the property and franchises of the company. The portion of a street occupied by any railroad or any street railway company shall be deemed to mean all that portion of the same between the rails of all tracks laid, and extending twelve inches beyond the outer edge of the rails of such road, and including the space between double tracks and between the main track, sidetracks, or turnouts. Any railroad or street railway company proposing to occupy any street already occupied by any such company shall, besides paving along their tracks as above provided, be required to also pave between the tracks of said two roads to within twelve inches of the track of such other road. And any person or corporation having an easement in any land not in but abutting on the street, shall be liable for street, curbing, sidewalks, drainage, or sewerage improvements in same manner as though it or he were the owner of such land, and a lien shall exist on such land, inclusive of such easement right, to secure the cost of such improvement. Should any railroad or street railway company propose to lay a track on any street or portion of a street which shall have been improved under the provisions of section 23 et seq. of this act, it shall become liable, according to the portion of street occupied by such company as defined above, for such portion of the cost of improvement as the city council may direct, not in excess of what would have been its proportion of the original cost of the improvement had its track been on the ground when the improvement was made; and such amounts, when collected, shall be credited on the assessments made against abutting property, and the city council may, by ordinance, provide for the form and manner of collecting and disbursing the same. Before any railroad or street railway company shall be permitted to occupy such improved street or portion of street, it shall file with the city secretary, in writing prepared by the city attorney, an acceptance of the terms on which its occupancy shall be permitted.

Sec. 25. After the passage of a resolution of the character next hereinbefore referred to, it shall be the duty of the city secretary to have said resolution or so much of the substance of the same advertised for not less than four days in some daily newspaper published in the city of Houston as will inform any person owning property liable to be affected by said resolution of the fact that the making of improvements is contemplated by the city council, which if carried out will subject his property to a special tax assessment for the payment of the same, and no further action in regard to the proposed improvements referred to in such publication shall be taken until the lapse of ten days from the first publication thereof: Provided, however, that failure to advertise the same for more than one day, or any mistake or omission in the wording of said advertisement, shall in no way vitiate or affect the validity of special assessments levied under the same. After the passage of such resolutions specifications for the improvements referred to in the same shall be prepared by the city engineer from time to time as the work progresses, which specifications, when prepared and adopted by the city council, shall be opened for public inspection in the office of the city secretary or that of the city engineer; and it shall be proper to provide in said specifications for such reasonable alterations in the grade, plan, form, or dimensions of the work, or additions to the same, as may become apparent or found to be necessary or expedient by the city engineer or board of public works, as the work referred to in same progresses: Provided, however, that it shall be the duty of said board of public works to examine said specifications, and a majority of the members thereof shall endorse their report in reference to the same thereon, or affix it thereto, before the same are approved by the city council: Provided further, however, that said city council shall nevertheless have the right, after such report shall have been made by the board of public works, to amend or change said specifications without further reference to said board. After said specifications shall have been finally approved by the city council, bids for the construction of said improvements shall be solicited by public advertisement, duly made, which advertisement shall refer to said specifications, and the work provided for in the same shall be let to the lowest bidder, to be judged of by the city council. Said advertisement shall be published in the city, inviting bids thereon, and the same shall state the time when such proposals will be opened, and shall show the manner in which the work is to be paid for. All proposals shall be addressed to the city secretary, and shall be opened in the presence of the city council at a regular meeting. Bond, to be fixed in amount by the city council and approved by the mayor, shall be required of all contractors.

Sec. 26. After a bid for the construction of sidewalks, curbing, street, drainage, or sewerage improvements shall have been accepted by the council, and a contract for the construction of the same entered into, from time to time, as rapidly as practicable, there shall be prepared by the city engineer a roll or rolls, showing the number of lots, blocks, or tracts of land when not divided into lots or blocks, fronting on the street, alley, avenue, or highway to be improved, or in case of sewerage or drainage or other improvements within the district provided for, the name or names of the owner or owners of such lot or part of lot, block, or tract of land, if known to the city engineer, and if unknown to him it shall be so stated, the number of feet frontage of such lot or part of lot, block, or tract of land fronting on the portion of the street improved, in case of sidewalks, curbing, or street improvements, and the proportional cost to such lot or part of lot, block, or tract of land, in view of area and locality, in case of sewerage or drainage improvements, and the total cost as ascertained and calculated by the city engineer of such improvements necessary to be borne by each, and to be paid by each owner of such property described in such roll. After said city engineer shall have prepared a roll as provided for, covering any portion of the work embraced in the contract, he shall endorse thereon a certificate in substance as follows: "I certify that the above and foregoing roll of ownership and estimate sheet is correct, and that I have honestly and faithfully prepared the same," and he shall sign [his] name to such certificate. It shall then be the duty of the board of public works to examine such roll of ownership, and a majority of the members of said board shall endorse therein or attach thereto such report in reference to the same as they may deem proper. It shall also be the duty of the city attorney to examine said roll, nor shall the same be submitted to the city council for approval until he shall have certified that such roll of ownership is in due form, as required by the city charter. After the publication of said resolution, hereinbefore referred to, it shall be the duty of all persons owning land liable to assessment for the cost of improvements referred to in such resolution to file in the office of city engineer, previous to the completion of said roll of ownership, a correct description of all such land owned by them; and any one of them failing so to do shall not be permitted, after the final approval of said roll of ownership, to resist the payment of the full sum therein assessed against him, or against property owned by him, on account of any mistake or omission in said roll pertaining to the description of the land so owned by him, or to the name or names appearing in said rolls as the owner of the same. It shall, however, be the duty of the city engineer to exercise reasonable diligence in ascertaining the name of the owner of the respective tracts of land referred to in such roll of ownership, and in describing such tract of land correctly, and for this purpose it shall be sufficient for him to adopt the description and designation of ownership appearing in the latest assessment rolls of the city of Houston prepared for the purpose of general taxation completed at the time of the preparation of such rolls of ownership. The said roll, when approved by the city council, shall be prima facie evidence that all the prerequisites required by law pertaining to the levying of said assessments have been complied with, and in case of suit by said city to enforce said assessment, all the provisions of this act relating to misnomer, misdescription, and to suits against unknown owners in case of certificates, shall apply in favor of the city.

Sec. 27. After a roll of ownership shall have been prepared as above provided for, the same shall be placed in the office of the city secretary for public inspection, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the city secretary to cause to be published for not less than four days in some daily paper published in the city of Houston, a notice in form substantially as follows: "Persons owning property on [here insert the name of street or streets, or description of portions of the same referred to in said roll, or a description of the territory or district to which the roll relates] are hereby notified that the roll of ownership showing the amount of the special assessment tax levied against the owners of property above referred to to cover the cost of improvement made in accordance with the resolution of the city council relating to the same, adopted [here insert the date of the resolution], has been placed in the office of the city secretary for inspection, in order that all persons interested therein, or to be affected thereby, may have an opportunity of calling the attention of the city council to any errors or mistakes connected with such assessments levied against property owned by them, as shown in said rolls." And said roll shall in no event be adopted or approved by the city council until after the lapse of ten days after the first publication of said notice; and on the filing of said roll in the office of the city secretary for public inspection, as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the city secretary to mail a copy of said notice to the postoffice address, as far as known to him, of all persons whose names appear on said roll, and where the postoffice address of any person named in said roll is unknown to said city secretary, he shall address a letter containing said notice to Houston, Texas: Provided, however, that failure on the part of said city secretary to comply with the provisions above stated in respect to mailing said notice to any person named in said rolls shall in nowise impair or affect the validity of said roll or the validity of the assessment provided for by the same. The publication of said resolution, or substance of the same, as hereinbefore provided for, and the publication of said notice, shall be notice to all persons owning property against which special tax assessment for sidewalk, street, drainage, or sewerage improvements, or for any other purposes, may be made of the pendency of the proceedings had and to be had, and the acts taken and to be taken in reference to the same, and such persons shall be permitted, at any time after the date of the first of such publication, and previous to the final approval of said rolls by the city council, by petition to the city council filed with the city secretary, to object to any such acts and proceedings, and show wherein they have been or may be wronged or injured thereby, and to ask for a revision or correction of the same; and they shall be permitted, and it shall be their duty, before the final approval of such roll, to appear in person, or by agent or attorney, before said city council, and not thereafter at any time before any other tribunal, fraud and collusion, which was then unknown and could not by reasonable diligence have been ascertained, excepted, and apply for redress for such wrong or injury, and for the correction of such errors as they may point out and establish to the satisfaction of said council; nor shall any such roll be finally approved by the city council after filing of such petition by any person so affected or liable to be affected by said proceedings, until such petition shall have been heard and acted upon by the city council, although it shall not be necessary to incorporate in the minutes of said city council its action thereon; and it shall be the duty of any person who may deem himself injured by the action or non-action of the city council in reference to the matters contained in such petition, within five days after the approval of such roll of ownership, to apply to the proper court for an injunction, based on the facts alleged in such petition, restraining further action on the part of the city officials, or any of them, in reference to the matter complained of in such petition, and to the extent of the petitioner's interest in the same; and neglect or failure so to do shall forever estop such petitioner and all parties claiming under him from denying the correctness of said roll or the regularity of all proceedings previously had in reference thereto, or the validity of the special tax therein assessed against the land owned by him, and at all times and all proceedings in any court in which the validity of any special tax assessment that may have been laid under the charter of the city of Houston or amendments thereto, as shown by any roll of ownership purporting to have been prepared by the city engineer in accordance with the provisions thereof may be called in question. A recovery shall nevertheless be had in such suit for such sum as ought to have been assessed against the tract of land involved, according to the mode of apportionment provided in the law of said city applicable to such improvement; and if for any reason in law or fact such recovery can not be had, then a recovery shall be allowed quantum valebat, not exceeding the contract price for the improvement in front of the lot or lots, block or blocks, or tracts of land involved, according to the front foot rule or standard; and if for any reason in law or fact recovery can not be had in either of the above modes, then recovery shall be allowed, not exceeding the contract price, to the extent and according to the standard of benefits from the improvement in question to the lot or lots, block or blocks, or tract of land involved; and such recovery, in whichever mode allowed, shall be a lien on such lot or lots, block or blocks, or tract of land, for such amount as shall be established, together with six per cent thereon from the date of the acceptance of said work by the city, and such lien shall be established and foreclosed accordingly. In case of curbing, sidewalk, and street improvements, whether the recovery is had on the original assessment or otherwise, the lien shall extend in depth as to tracts of land not laid out into lots and blocks to the usual depth of lots in said city, namely, one hundred feet.

Sec. 28. The sum assessed against each separate lot or tract of land, when not divided into lots described in the roll of ownership, shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the first day of the month next after the acceptance by the city council of the work embraced in said roll, and shall be divided by the city secretary into annual installments, not less than three nor more than ten, as may be provided by the resolution authorizing said assessments, and of as nearly equal amounts, not less than ten dollars each, as he may deem most convenient, and he shall add to each installment the amount of interest to become due on the entire amount of principal unpaid at the maturity of said installment, and the sum so computed shall constitute the total amount due each year respectively on said tract of land. The first of said installments shall become due on the first day of the month next after the acceptance of the work embraced in said roll, and the remaining installments shall become due on the same day in each year thereafter until all are due; and the failure to pay any installment, with interest thereon, within six months after it becomes due, shall, at the option of the person entitled to collect the same, cause all subsequent installments to mature, and shall authorize the foreclosure of the lien, for all installments of principal and interest unpaid. The owner of any property subject to assessment may at any time, whether the same be due or not, pay the same or any part thereof, with interest to the date of such payment, to the city treasurer, who shall give a receipt therefor, and note the same on the assessment roll, and if an improvement certificate has issued therefor notify the owner thereof, if known, by card through the mail, and upon the presentation of said certificate apply the sum so collected towards its payment; otherwise deposit the same as hereinafter provided in case of other collections of special assessments for street improvements; and the payment of any such assessment in full shall release said property and the owner thereof from any further liability for the work upon which said assessment was made or the obligation issued therefor.

Sec. 29. Where it has been provided by the contract that such improvements shall be paid for in improvement certificates, such certificates may be issued for the sums assessed against the several separate tracts of land appearing on said roll, whether embracing one or more lots. Each certificate shall designate the tract of land against which and the sums of money for which it is issued, that said sum has been assessed against said property as its proportion of the cost of street improvement made under a contract between the city of Houston and [here name the contractor], dated [here give the date], executed by virtue of a resolution of the city council of said city, passed [here give date], authorizing said improvements. It shall state the area or the frontage of the property upon which said assessment is based, the name of the owner, as mentioned in said roll, that it was issued by virtue of section 29 of the charter of the city of Houston, and that, as provided in section 24 of said charter, the sum of money for which it is issued is a tax against the owner of and a lien upon the property therein described. That it is payable in [here state the number of] annual installments of [here state the number] dollars each, the first of which is due on the first day of the month next after the work upon which it is issued was accepted by the council, and that each of the remaining installments will become due on the same day in each year thereafter, until all are paid. That the entire amount of principal and interest represented in said certificate bears interest at the rate of six per cent from date until paid, and that failure to pay any installment of principal and interest within six months after the same has become due shall at the option of the person entitled to collect the same cause all subsequent installments to mature, and authorize the foreclosure of the lien for all such installments. Said certificates shall be issued by series and numbers, and be dated the first day of the month next after the work upon which they were issued was accepted by the city council, and may have attached to them as many coupons as there are installments to be provided for, each of which shall show the date, number, and series of the certificates, the amount of principal and the amount of interest which it represents, and the date when it becomes due.

Sec. 30. When the resolution passed, as authorized by section 24 of this act, shall provide that the work of improvement to be done thereunder may be paid for in bonds of the city of Houston, the city council, before bids have been advertised therefor, may, by ordinance duly passed by a two-thirds vote of all the aldermen elected, provide for the issuance of street improvement bonds. Said ordinance shall refer to said resolution by caption and date of passage, state the probable cost of said improvement as estimated by the city engineer, and authorize the mayor to have prepared bonds to that amount and of such denominations as may be deemed most convenient. Said bonds to run ten years, bear interest not to exceed six per cent per annum, with coupons therefor attached, and to be secured by lien, as hereinafter provided, upon special assessments for such street improvements. After the bonds have been so prepared, bids may be advertised for said work, to be paid for either in cash or in said bonds, the bidder to state the price of the work in each, and the city reserving the option, at the completion and acceptance by the city council of any installment of said work, of paying for the same or any part thereof either in cash or in said bonds, at the price named in said bid and upon the execution in good faith of a contract for the work authorized in said resolution, and not until then, said bonds may be sold, but in no event to be sold for less than par. The special assessments against any property improved under the first resolution of the city council, as aforesaid, which shall be passed after the passage of this act, shall constitute a special street improvement fund, to which fund the special assessments against other property for improvements made under subsequent resolutions of said city council providing for similar improvements shall, from time to time, be added, incorporated into, and constitute part of said improvement fund, which fund shall be applied exclusively to the payment for such improvements; and the bonds issued therefor, under whichever resolution made, and each and all such bonds, shall be a lien and charge against so much of said fund as is equal in amount to the entire amount of said bonds and accrued interest at any time outstanding. All special assessments for such improvements shall be collected by the city treasurer, by suit if necessary, directly from the assessment rolls, and be noted thereon and receipted for by him under seal of the city, and under no circumstances shall any abatement of principal or interest be made in favor of any person or property liable therefor on said rolls. All such collections as made, with a statement of the rolls upon which they were made, together with the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, and the amount of such bonds, and also a statement of the amount of bonds paid out towards the payment for any such improvement, shall be by the said treasurer at once deposited with some bank in the city of Houston, to be designated by the city council as the trustee of said fund. The city secretary shall also, from time to time, as such assessment rolls are approved by the city council, furnish to said trustee a certified statement, under the seal of the city, of the amount of such rolls, and under what resolutions the work embraced in said rolls was done; and under no circumstances shall said trustee pay any draft upon said fund which will have the effect of reducing the amount thereof, including cash in the hands of said trustee and the uncollected assessments on said rolls, to an amount aggregating less than the total amount of such improvement bonds then outstanding. Any excess of said fund over that amount, however, may be drawn out under authority of the city council, by check of the city treasurer, countersigned by the mayor and finance committee of said city; and after paying therefrom the matured interest on any of such bonds outstanding, under whichever of said resolutions the same were issued, the remainder shall be applied in payment for the work being done under either of said resolutions, as the same is accepted by the city council, and to no other purpose whatever. Said city council may, in its discretion, provide by ordinance for the collection of said special assessments by the city treasurer by advertisement and sale in the same manner, so far as practicable, as in the case of general taxes levied by said city; and in such event all the provisions of said city charter relative to the collection of taxes and proceedings had in reference to tax sales under the same shall be applicable.

Sec. 31. There shall be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the city council three citizens of the city, who shall constitute a board of public works. They shall hold their office for two years and until their successors are appointed, and shall serve gratuitously. They shall be allowed, however, $500 annually, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to cover any expense incurred in the performance of their duties. All matters pertaining to public improvements involving an outlay of as much as $500 shall be referred to said board before they are finally approved by the council; and they shall, within ten days thereafter, make their report thereon, with such recommendations as they may deem expedient. They shall examine and pass upon all plans and specifications relating to such improvements, and on all bids for the work embraced therein; and after the completion of any such work shall examine and report whether the same has been completed according to contract; and no plans or specifications for any such work shall be adopted, bids accepted, contracts awarded, or work accepted for any such improvement until the report of said board in reference to said matters shall have been received by the council, or until after the expiration of ten days after the matter was referred to them. Said board may also originate and suggest public improvements, and prepare and recommend plans therefor, including all matters pertaining to their construction.

Sec. 32. The city council shall have authority, by ordinance or resolution, to order the repair of any sidewalk or curb wall in front of any private property; to order the filling up or draining any property where water is liable to accumulate and become stagnant; to order the proper and permanent connection of sinks and water closets with the public sewers, the removal of privies, and the filling up of cesspools; to order the cutting of weeds and tall grass on private property and on the adjacent sidewalks; to establish, regulate, and control cemeteries; to locate and regulate the management of slaughter pens; and generally to order and control the doing of any work of a sanitary character which may be deemed necessary on or about any premises within the limits of the city of Houston, and to prescribe the time within which the same shall be done. On the passage of any such ordinance or resolution, the same shall be published at least four days in some daily newspaper published in said city; and it shall thereupon be the duty of the owners of the premises on which work of the character named in said ordinance or resolution is ordered to be done, or the owner of the lot or tract of land when not divided into lots, abutting upon the street at the place where the repairing or construction of sidewalks or curb walls is ordered, to comply with the directions and orders contained in such resolution, and perform or cause to be performed on such premises or adjacent to the same the work therein directed to be done, within the period prescribed in said resolution, to the satisfaction of the city engineer or such other officials as may be provided for by the ordinances of said city, in accordance with such instructions as may, on application, be given by such official, when all needful instructions shall not be contained in the resolution itself. And should any said property owner fail or neglect to comply with the requirements of such resolution before the lapse of the period therein prescribed, within thirty days after his or her attention shall have been called to said resolution by any officer of the city, by mail or otherwise, or within thirty days after the lapse of said period to be prescribed in the said resolution, and after the publication of the same, when such owner or his residence is unknown to the mayor, then the mayor may order the work to be done by some official of the city, who shall keep a correct account of the cost of the same, and the cost and expense of doing such work, when done by the city, together with six per cent in addition thereto as a penalty, shall be a tax and charge against the person or persons owning the lot or tract of land on which such work may be done, or abutting upon the street or highway at the place where such work is done, and a lien and incumbrance upon the land itself; and such tax and charge against said property owner shall be due on completion of the work, and shall be collected promptly by the city assessor and collector, and if not paid within thirty days thereafter, after becoming due, the same may be collected, with six per cent interest per annum, and the lien foreclosed in any court having jurisdiction. An itemized bill, or statement of the cost of the work, when done by the city under the provisions of this section, after being duly sworn to by the officer under whose direction the work has been done, and after being approved by the mayor, shall be prima facie evidence in any court of the performance of the work stated in such bill, at the cost therein stated, and compliance with all the provisions of this act, and that the amount stated is a just charge and tax against the property owner therein named, and a lien upon the property described as shown therein, subject to such correction as to such court shall seem meet and proper.

Sec. 33. The city council is hereby authorized and empowered to take and condemn land and real estate within the corporate limits of said city to the public use for streets, alleys, and highways, and for extending and widening the same; and for public wharves and landing places for steamers and other crafts; for public schools and for public squares, parks, and pleasure grounds. For the condemnation of any land or real estate, the following proceedings shall be had: The city council shall pass a resolution describing by metes and bounds the land to be condemned, stating for what public purpose it is intended to be used, and thereupon the provisions contained in articles 4183 to 4205a, inclusive, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, A. D. 1879, relating to the condemnation of lands by railway companies, shall regulate and control the proceedings had and taken by said city for condemnation purposes, so far as applicable. After the passage of a resolution of the character next above mentioned, and after proceedings have been had thereunder for the condemnation of any real estate, and after the cost of condemning and obtaining title to the land in question shall have been ascertained, it shall be the duty of the mayor to appoint three disinterested and competent persons, whose appointment shall be confirmed by the city council, who shall act as special assessment and apportionment committee. It shall be the duty of said committee to view the neighborhood and premises in question, and under their instructions a map shall be prepared by the city engineer, embracing the territory in which, in their opinion, land has been or will be benefited or enhanced in value by the improvement for which said condemnation proceedings shall have [been] had. The city engineer shall also prepare, in connection with said map, a roll of ownership, showing the number of lots, blocks, or tracts of land when not divided into lots and blocks, in the said territory above referred to, the name or names of the owner or owners of such lot, block, or tract of land, if known to the said city engineer, and if unknown it shall be so stated, and the area of such lot, part lot, block, or tract of land. Said apportionment committee shall thereupon assess and apportion two-thirds of the entire expenses incurred by the city, or such parts thereof as the city council, in its discretion, may determine, not exceeding two-thirds, in obtaining title to the property condemned, against such owners, according to the benefit conferred or to be derived from the improvement contemplated by such condemnation, taking into account the respective areas and locations of the different tracts of lands, and the distances of the same from the property condemned, which sums thus assessed and carried out on the said roll against the respective lots, blocks, or tracts of land therein named shall be a tax and charge against the person or persons owning the same at the time of the final approval of said roll by the city council, and a lien and encumbrance against the land itself, which tax and charge may be collected and the lien upon the property foreclosed in any court having jurisdiction. The city engineer shall endorse on said roll a certificate in substance as follows: "I certify that the foregoing roll of ownership and assessment sheet is correct," and he shall sign his name to the same; and said apportionment committee shall make and endorse thereon an affidavit in form and substance as follows: "We, the undersigned apportionment committee, do solemnly swear that we have justly, impartially, and to the best of our ability prepared, and caused to be prepared, the above and foregoing assessment roll, and the same is, to the best of our knowledge and belief, correct and fair." It shall thereupon be the duty of the city attorney to examine said roll of ownership, and the same shall not be submitted to the city council for approval until he shall have certified that said roll is in due form, as required by the city charter. Said roll of ownership shall then be deposited with the city secretary, and notice of its filing, calling attention to the fact that a special tax assessment has been made against the property embraced in said roll to pay the cost and expenses of condemning the property, shall be published in some newspaper published in Houston for five successive days; and where the owner or owners of any property embraced in said roll of ownership are unknown, it shall be the duty of the city secretary to send, through the United States mails, written or printed notices, in substance the same as is required to be published; and the same proceedings shall be had in regard to said roll of ownership, and in regard to its approval by the city council, and in regard to corrections and changes being made in same, and in regard to the division of assessments therein named into installments, and the collection of the same by the city, and in regard to all other matters pertinent thereto, as have hereinbefore been provided for in reference to special assessments for streets, sidewalks, sewerage, and drainage improvements, as far applicable; and all the provisions of this act relative to such special assessments shall be equally applicable to the special assessments levied to cover the cost and expense of condemning land, so far as may be practicable, and the city council of the city of Houston shall pass such ordinances as may be necessary to supply all deficiencies in respect thereto.

Sec. 34. That said city council are hereby authorized, and it is hereby declared to be their duty, in all cases where special tax assessments for public improvements, or improvement certificates issued in payment for the same, which may be declared void by any court of last resort by reason of the want of power or authority to make or issue the same, or by reason of noncompliance with any of the provisions of the charter of said city existing at the time, whether of a jurisdictional character or otherwise, at any time thereafter, to reassess and relevy the amount of such assessment or taxes so declared void, and to collect and authorize the collection of the same in the same manner as though such assessment or certificate had been originally valid. The reassessment or relevy of any general tax or special assessment may be made directly by the city council, or in such mode as to them may seem meet and proper, nor shall any person whatsoever be heard to complain of the manner and form of such reassessment, or of the result thereof, unless he can show substantial injury to himself therefrom accruing, and in such event only to the extent of the injury or loss shown; and the provisions of this section and of the next preceding sections of this act, from section 24 to section 33 inclusive, shall be liberally construed in favor of said city, or in favor of the contractor doing said work, or persons holding under him, to the end that in all cases the payment of both general taxes and special tax assessment may be rigidly and impartially enforced: Provided, that this act shall not validate any certificate heretofore issued, nor shall such certificate be reissued, nor shall any roll of ownership ever be approved for improvements made prior to this act, except contracts now pending.

Sec. 35. If the purchaser at any tax sale, or at any sale under proceedings had to foreclose a tax lien on property sold in the city of Houston for nonpayment of general taxes or special tax assessments by said city, shall fail to acquire a valid title to the property so purchased by him, by reason of any irregularity or defect in the assessment or levy, or for any other reason whatsoever, whether of a jurisdictional character or otherwise, such purchaser shall nevertheless have a lien on the property so purchased for the taxes which would have been due on the same had all proceedings in reference thereto been legal and regular, together with all costs connected therewith; also for all taxes, both general and special, by him subsequently paid on said property, with interest on all of such sums at the rate of eight per cent per annum; and he shall be entitled to judgment for such amounts and for the enforcement of the lien against the owner of said property in the same action wherein the inability [invalidity] of said tax sale or the sale under foreclosure of the tax lien is declared void, together with his costs incurred in such action.

Sec. 36. The city council shall have power and authority to secure the safety and convenience of passing in the streets, sidewalks, and other places in the city, to fix the squaring and to prevent encroachments and obstructions on the streets, sidewalks, squares, ways, levees, public roads and places; to fix the place for the anchoring of water craft on Buffalo bayou; to establish an active system of inspection over the conduct of persons and premises; to prevent cattle, horses, swine, goats, geese, and animals from running at large in the streets or within such prescribed limits as may be established by the city council; to establish and maintain a city police, prescribe the duties of policemen and regulate their conduct; to provide for lighting the streets by gas, electricity, or other means, and for this purpose may establish gas works or electric works for the manufacture of gas or electricity for the use of the city and the inhabitants thereof at cost price; to determine in what part of the city slaughter houses, bone boilers, soap makers, brick yards, or other establishments of any business which is or may be injurious to the value of adjacent property, or unwholesome or disagreeable to the occupants of adjacent property, shall not be allowed to be carried on or to be erected, and to regulate the same, and provide for the removal of such establishments; to determine in what part of the city wooden buildings shall not be erected; within the limits prescribed, no person shall be permitted to erect such buildings; to prevent gunpowder or other explosive material, kerosene oil or other inflammable oils being stored within the city limits in such quantity as to endanger the safety of adjacent property; to provide means for the protection against and the extinguishment of conflagrations, and for the regulation, maintenance, and support of a fire department; to permit or forbid theaters, balls, or other public amusements, and to suppress the same whenever the preservation of order, tranquility, or public safety may require; to close dram shops, drinking saloons, and other places where intoxicating liquors are sold, and variety theaters, whenever necessary or expedient; to define what shall be a nuisance in said city, and to abate them by summary proceedings; to prohibit the burial of the dead within the limits of the city, and to regulate such burial when allowed; to prohibit and punish keepers and inmates of bawdy houses and variety shows, and to segregate and regulate the same, and to determine such inmates and keepers to be vagrants, and provide the punishment of such persons; to provide a work house for vagrants and disorderly persons who are unable to pay fines, and to make regulations concerning the same; to regulate weights and measures, fix standards of weight and measure, and to fix penalties for not using the same; to provide and keep a city prison; to make all needful and proper regulations concerning bakers, butchers, keepers of taverns, grog shops, and other public houses, draymen, horse drivers, water carriers, omnibus drivers, hack drivers, and drivers of baggage wagons, and especially to preserve order and prevent noise and confusion in and about the several depots on the arrival and departure of railway trains; to prevent extortion by carriers of passengers or baggage, hacks, drays, and all public conveyances by establishing maximum rates of charges; to suppress gambling houses, and to punish keepers of gambling houses, and all persons who play at cards or games of any kind, and to punish persons who sell lottery tickets, or who advertise lottery drawings or schemes and the results of the drawings of lotteries; to direct and control the laying and construction of railroad tracks, turnouts, and switches, and that they be required to be constructed and laid out so as to interfere as little as possible with the ordinary travel and use of the streets; to require railway companies to keep the streets through which they run in repair, and to light the same whenever deemed necessary; to construct and keep in repair bridges and crossings at the intersection of streets and avenues, and over all ditches, sewers, and culverts on the line of the railways; to regulate the speed of engines and locomotives within the city: and generally to make and establish all rules, regulations, by-laws, and ordinances which may contribute to and promote the better administration of the officers of the said city, as well for the maintenance of the peace, tranquility of said city, and for the protection of the persons and property of its inhabitants. The city council shall also have power to pass ordinances authorizing the destroying of clothing, bedding, furniture, and buildings infected with the germs of any contagious or infectious disease, when in the opinion of the city health officer the public health requires the destruction of the same, and may also, in the same manner, authorize the destruction or removal of buildings or other objects, after the same shall have been declared a nuisance by the city council: Provided, the city shall pay the value of such property to the owners thereof before destroying the same. The city shall have power to enforce the observance of ordinances adopted by the city council, either by imposition of penalties to be collected by civil proceedings in suits brought by the city or by fine and imprisonment, as may be deemed most expedient: Provided, however, that no penalty imposed for the violation of any ordinance shall exceed the sum of two hundred dollars, and there shall be only one recovery had for all acts committed previous to the institution of a suit for the recovery of such penalties; and any person or corporation violating an ordinance of the city of Houston, to enforce the observance of which a penalty may have been imposed in lieu of a fine, shall be liable to the city in a civil suit, brought for the amount of such penalty in either of the justice courts of precinct No. 1 in Harris county, Texas; and it shall be the duty of the city council, within six months after the passage of this charter, to have compiled, printed, and published in book form, convenient of access by all citizens, all the ordinances of the city which may at the time be in force; and all such ordinances not so published shall thereafter become void; nor shall any ordinance hereafter passed take effect or be in force until the same has been published in some newspaper in said city.

Sec. 37. No person shall erect any building or fence in the city without first obtaining a permit from the mayor and having the lines of his property established by the city engineer: Provided, that fences may be constructed on interior lines without such permit, and the lines of property not subdivided into lots or blocks may be established and fences built thereon without such permit; but all permits for building houses or fences shall be issued by the mayor or city engineer free of charge.

Sec. 38. The city council may provide, own, and maintain water works for the use of the city and the inhabitants; and for this purpose may issue and cause to be issued the bonds of the city in such sums as may be requisite and necessary, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of not exceeding six per cent, and shall not be sold at less than par. The city council, by resolution, shall fix the denomination of such bonds and the date of their maturity: Provided, that no such bonds shall be issued or sold until a plant of sufficient capacity has been contracted for, and then only a sufficient number of bonds shall be issued to cover the actual cost of construction or purchase. In like manner the city council may establish gas works or electric works, or both, in the discretion of the council, and may issue the bonds of the city of Houston in like manner and under like restrictions as provided in this section for the establishing of water works.

Sec. 39. The city council shall have authority, by ordinance duly passed or enacted, to provide for a system of public free schools and for a public library in the city of Houston, and to this end may make appropriations of the revenues of the city in amounts within the discretion of the council, and may receive donations of books, papers, magazines, periodicals, or other property or money for the benefit of and maintenance of such public library.

Sec. 40. It shall be the duty of the mayor, at the last meeting of the city council held in January of each and every year, to present to the city council a message containing a statement of the financial condition of the city, including an itemized estimate of the cost of maintaining the various departments of the city government for the ensuing year, and the sums of money which, in his opinion, should be appropriated for the maintenance of such respective departments, together with his recommendations in regard to such appropriation, and in regard to the percentage of taxation and amount of occupation tax necessary to be levied for such ensuing year. It shall be the duty of the city council at its first meeting in February of each and every year to appropriate such sums of money respectively for each of the various departments of the city government as said council shall deem necessary for the proper maintenance of the same during the current year. Such current year shall be deemed to begin on the first day of January previous to such meeting, and to end on the 31st day of December next thereafter. Said council at said meeting shall accordingly appropriate a certain sum of money for the use of each of the following departments of said city government, to-wit: Public school department, police department, fire department, street department, bridge [bridge] department, public health department, salaries of officials not included in appropriations for the foregoing departments, public lights, water works, and such other departments as it may be deemed proper to mention, together with an appropriation for the sum deemed necessary to cover all miscellaneous expenses not mentioned under the head of any special department; and it shall be the duty of the city secretary to keep a separate account with each of such departments, and he shall be prepared at every regular meeting of the city council to give information as to the amount expended and the balance remaining to the credit of any department; and no draft shall be drawn upon or paid by the city treasurer unless the same shows on its face to which of said departments the sum of money named in the same should be charged.

Sec. 41. That the council shall have power and authority to establish one or more markets and market places, and within reasonable hours, not later than 10 o'clock daily, to prevent the sale of fresh meats, game, fresh fish, poultry, eggs, vegetables, and such country produce as is usually sold in markets at any place in said city other than said markets and market places so established, and to collect market licenses and privileges; to rent and lease for such length of time as the city council may determine, not exceeding one year, stalls or stands in said market for the sale of the before mentioned articles, and to regulate and fix the prices at which said stands or stalls shall be rented, and to provide for prompt collection of rent of the same, and to pay all expenses of collection thereof, and for properly caring for and keeping in repair the market building, and for pavement of streets fronting on and adjacent thereto, and for insurance of the same and its contents; and such care, paving, insurance, and general keeping of said market houses shall be paid for out of the revenues collected out of said market houses.

Sec. 42. That the market and market privileges of said city may be let and farmed out annually to the highest bidder, at public outcry, at the market house, after ten days notice of the time, place, and terms shall have been published in one of the city papers, and two copies posted in conspicuous places in said market house. The city council shall, before the day of letting, fix upon the minimum sum at which the market and market privileges may be leased for the ensuing year, and publish the same in the public notices required to be given as herein provided, and all bids below the amount named shall be rejected. At least five days before the day advertised for the letting, the mayor shall cause to be prepared the contract required to be signed by the lessees, and the same shall not in any manner be changed or modified within the five days previous to the letting, and said contract, so prepared, shall be open, at the mayor's office, to the inspection of all parties who may desire to see it. A good bond and securities, to be approved by the city council, shall be required of the lessees, and new additional securities may be required at any time under penalty of forfeiture of contract.

Sec. 43. That the city council may appropriate to such use and purposes as may be deemed advisable such halls and rooms in the upper story of the market house as may not be necessary for public use, and to lease and rent the same from time to time, in the discretion of the council.

Sec. 44. That the city council shall have the power to construct wharves on the banks of Buffalo bayou, within the limits of the corporation, and make such other improvements as may be necessary for the better navigation of said bayou, and for convenience of landing vessels and their cargoes; and to levy contribution upon all such vessels and their cargoes as may land at said wharves, and to demand and collect the same, to defray the expenses of such improvements and repairs.

Sec. 45. That whenever any steamboat or other craft shall sink in the Buffalo bayou above Harrisburg, and the navigation be obstructed thereby, it shall be the duty of the mayor of the city of Houston to appoint three good and discreet commissioners to inspect and examine the same and its condition, and immediately to report, in writing, their opinion, stating whether, in their opinion, the boat or craft sunk can be or is likely to be raised or removed within the space of ten days after their examination; and should they be of opinion that such boat or craft is not likely to be raised so as to open the navigation within twenty days from the time of their examination, then and in that case the mayor and aldermen of the city of Houston may order the removal of such boat or craft so sunk in any manner they shall deem proper, without incurring any penalty for the same.

Sec. 46. That said corporation of the city of Houston is hereby given full power and authority to take such steps to preserve and improve the navigation of the said Buffalo bayou above the town of Harrisburg as they may think proper, and for that purpose they are authorized to levy and collect a tax on all steamboats and other craft running in said bayou to the city of Houston, for the purpose of improving the navigation thereof: Provided, that the power in this section shall not be construed to give said corporation any jurisdiction or control over said Buffalo bayou or the banks thereof, in any manner, beyond or without the corporate limits of said city, except for the purpose of protecting or improving the navigation of said bayou, and shall not give said corporation jurisdiction or control to prevent or interfere with the construction of any railroad or other bridges, by any company or person, across said bayou in such manner as not to interfere with the navigation of said bayou.

Sec. 47. That the city council, by a vote of the majority of the whole number of aldermen, taken by yeas and nays and entered upon the journal, shall have power to assess, license, and tax hawkers, peddlers, auctioneers, theatrical and other exhibitions, shows, and amusements, billiard tables, nine and ten pin alleys, alleys with any number of pins, public drays, wagons, omnibuses, and carriages, grog shops, tippling houses, and dram shops, beer saloons (whether for the sale of domestic beer or otherwise), and such other trades or occupations not especially mentioned herein as may be taxed by the laws of the State; but no assessment or license tax levied under this section shall exceed one-half the amount levied by the State for the same period on such profession or occupation, and the same may be regulated, levied, and collected in the same manner as said taxes are regulated and collected by the State.

Sec. 48. The city council may continue annually to assess, levy, and collect the special tax provided by ordinance passed by the city council of said city on the 2d day of June, A. D. 1888, for the purpose of paying the interest and principal of the various outstanding bonds issued by the city of Houston, and may by ordinance assess, levy, and collect annually upon all property, real and personal, in the city of Houston not exempt from taxation such additional tax, not exceeding one and one-half per cent ad valorem, as the interest of the city may require, for other purposes. It may also determine when taxes shall be paid by corporations or by individual incorporators, and levy, assess, and collect from each male citizen of the city over the age of twenty-one years an annual poll tax of one dollar. All taxes upon real estate shall be a lien and charge upon the property, which lien may be foreclosed and the tax collected by suit in any court having jurisdiction. All taxes not paid within the time prescribed by the ordinances shall bear interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum. All real and personal property held, owned, or situated in the city of Houston shall be liable for all taxes due by the owners thereof, including taxes on real estate, personal property, and poll tax, and all personal property may be levied upon, seized, and sold by the assessor and collector for any taxes that may be due, without further warrant of authority than the production of his tax roll, which sale, when made, shall convey a perfect title to the purchaser thereof. It shall be the duty of every person owning or holding property in the city of Houston to render to the assessor and collector of taxes at his office in said city, annually, within the time prescribed by the ordinances of said city, a full and complete inventory of all property so owned or held by him, whether real or personal, and to take and subscribe an oath as to the correctness of such inventory, which oath may be administered by the assessor and collector in person or by deputy. All taxes shall be payable at the office of the assessor and collector, and no demand by him be requisite or necessary to enforce the collection thereof by any proceedings herein prescribed. The assessor and collector shall inventory and assess all property which the owners thereof may fail or refuse or may have failed or refused to inventory and assess for previous year, which inventory and assessment, when so made by him, shall be as valid and effective as if made by the owner thereof.

Sec. 49. That the license tax shall be collected by the assessor and collector of taxes, and shall be paid to that officer in current funds of the United States, by each and every person or firm owning [owing] such license, and before engaging in any trade, profession, business, calling, avocation, or occupation subject to such tax, taking his receipt therefor, which receipt shall entitle him, her, or them to a corresponding license, to be issued by the mayor; and if any person shall engage in any business, calling, avocation, or occupation, which by an ordinance of said city is subject to a license tax, without first having obtained such license, he, she, or they shall be liable to arrest and imprisonment and a fine of ten dollars for each and every day such violation of said ordinance may continue; and this section shall apply to all persons owing license and failing to pay the same; and the city council may make such further regulations as it deems necessary to enforce the provisions of this section and punish the violation thereof.

Sec. 50. That the city council may and shall have full power to provide, by ordinance, for the prompt collection of all taxes levied, assessed, and due or becoming due to said city, and to that end may and shall deem necessary to the levying, laying, imposing, assessing, and collecting of any of said taxes, and to regulate the mode and manner of making out tax lists, and inventories and the appraisement of property thereon, and to prescribe the oath that shall be administered to each person on such rendition of property, and to prescribe how and when property shall thus be rendered, and to fix the duties and define the power of the assessor and collector of taxes. All taxes due by property owners, as appears upon the rolls of said city, and upon the rolls prepared and completed up to the first day of July, 1889, may be collected by suit from delinquents, and foreclosure of the lien thereon in any court having jurisdiction of the same, but no suit shall be brought for taxes assessed after the first day of July, 1889. The city council shall have full power and authority to provide, by ordinance, for the appointment of a board of appraisement, and to regulate their duties, and to provide for notices to be given to tax payers to appear before such appraisers; and all determinations of such appraisers shall be final. The city council shall have full power and authority to provide for seizure by the assessor and collector and sale by him of any personal property for taxes due on personal property, without the necessity of any writ, and such tax roll shall be a sufficient warrant for such seizure and sale by the assessor and collector of taxes. And to provide, by ordinance, that any firm, corporation, or person owing [owning] or controlling property in said city subject to a tax, and failing or refusing to render a list, inventory, or appraisement thereof, verified by affidavits, shall be liable to fine, upon complaint before the recorder, in such sum as such ordinance may provide. The city council shall have full power and authority to pass all ordinances necessary to regulate advertisements and sales by the assessor and collector of property upon which taxes may be unpaid, and to provide for the perpetuation of all proceedings with reference to such advertisement and sale, and for the execution of titles to purchasers of property at tax sales, and to pass all ordinances necessary to enforce the collection of taxes: Provided, that such ordinances shall allow any person whose real property has been sold for taxes at least one year to redeem the same, by paying such tax and fifty per cent thereon, and all costs of advertisement and sale: And provided further, that any of such proceedings so perpetuated shall be received in evidence in any court, when the titles so conferred by the collector shall be called in question; and the city may become the purchaser of any land sold for taxes, and the deed executed by the assessor and collector shall be prima facie evidence that all the prerequisites of the law have been complied with; and the city, or any other purchaser of property at a tax sale, may sue for and recover such real property after the expiration of the time allowed to redeem the same, and no defense to any suit for such property shall be allowed, unless there first be made a tender, in open court, of the amount of tax for which the same was sold, together with the fifty per cent additional and all costs of sale and cost of suit. At any time after the sale of any property to the city, or to any person, of property for the taxes due thereon, and before the expiration of twelve months after such sale, the city, or such person, as the case may be, may institute suit for the amount of such tax, and for fifty per cent added, and may foreclose the lien existing for such tax that existed in favor of the city at the date of such sale. Nothing but current money of the United States shall be collected or received in payment of taxes and licenses due or hereafter assessed, and scrip which may be issued for pavement of streets and construction of sidewalks, which shall express upon its face the purpose for which it is issued, and coupons and scrip made receivable for taxes on the face thereof, shall not be receivable for all taxes, except the bond tax. The city council shall have power and authority to assess and collect a tax on all vehicles belonging to persons residing in said city, or which may be used for traffic or hire in said city, which shall be known as a wheel tax, and require such owners to obtain a license for such vehicles, and to prescribe a penalty for using any vehicle on the streets of the city without payment of such tax and procuring such license, but such tax shall not exceed two dollars per wheel: And provided, that all such vehicles licensed under the ordinances in force in said city shall not be required to pay such wheel tax. All sums collected for such wheel tax shall be kept separate by the collector of taxes and shall be applied and expended exclusively for the pavement of intersections of streets as provided for herein.

Sec. 51. The city council may, by resolution, provide for the payment of taxes at any time before such taxes shall become due, and may allow interest upon advance payment of taxes at a rate not to exceed six per cent per annum for the time intervening between the time of such payment and the time when such taxes would be due and payable: Provided, that no such resolution shall be passed, nor such interest allowed, except for the purpose of raising money to meet the current expenses of the city for legitimate purposes. Such resolution shall state the amount of money sought to be raised by this means, and when said amount has been received, the assessor and collector shall immediately notify the mayor and city council that the amount called for in the resolution has been received, and the city shall not pay interest on moneys subsequently paid in for taxes of that year. In receiving moneys for taxes in advance, under the resolution provided for herein, the assessor and collector shall allow the tax payer to retain out of such payment the amount of interest allowed thereon, and shall give his receipt for the whole amount, showing what sum is actually paid in and what sum is allowed as interest on such payment.

Sec. 52. That the said corporation shall not be liable to any person for damages for injuries caused from streets, ways, crossings, bridges, or sidewalks being out of repair from gross negligence of said corporation, unless the same shall have remained so for ten days after special notice, in writing, given to the mayor or street commissioner.

Sec. 53. That it shall not be necessary in any action, suit, or proceedings in which the city of Houston shall be a party that any bond or security shall be given, but all actions, suits, or proceedings shall be conducted as if such bond or security had been given; and in all judicial proceedings it shall be sufficient to plead any ordinance of the city by caption without embodying the entire ordinance in the pleadings, and all printed ordinances or codes of ordinances shall be admitted in evidence in any suit and shall have the same force and effect as the original ordinance. The property, real and personal, belonging to the city, shall not be liable to be sold or appropriated under any writ of execution, nor shall the funds belonging to the city, in the hands of any person, be liable to garnishment, nor shall the city, or any of its officers or agents, be required to answer any writ of garnishment.

Sec. 54. That the following property shall be exempt from taxation to-wit: All lands used exclusively for graveyards, or grounds for burying the dead, except such as are held by any person, company, or corporation with a view to profit or for the purpose of speculation in the sale thereof; all buildings belonging to institutions of purely public charity, together with the lands belonging to and occupied by such institutions not leased or otherwise used with a view to profit, and all moneys and credits appropriated solely to sustaining such institutions, together with such other property as is exempt from taxation by the laws of the State of Texas.

Sec. 55. That no person shall be an incompetent judge, justice, witness, or juror by reason of his being an inhabitant or freeholder in the city of Houston, in any action or proceeding in which said city may be a party interested; and all officers of said city shall be exempt from jury service while holding office.

Sec. 56. That the city council shall annually appoint, by ballot, one person from each ward of the city, who, together with the mayor as president thereof, shall constitute a board of health of the city. The city council may appoint a health physician, and as many health inspectors as they may deem necessary, and shall prescribe by ordinance the powers and duties of the board and its members; and the secretary of the city council shall be clerk of the board of health, and shall keep a record of their proceedings.

Sec. 57. Quarantine, pest houses, etc. That the city council shall have power to take such measures as they deem effectual to prevent the entrance of any pestilential, contagious, or infectious disease into the city; to stop, detain, and examine for that purpose any person coming from any place infected or believed to be infected with such diseases; to establish, maintain, and regulate pest houses or hospitals within the city, or not exceeding five miles from its bounds; to cause any person who shall be suspected with any disease to be sent to such pest house or hospital; to remove from the city or destroy any furniture, wearing apparel, or property of any kind which shall be suspected of being tainted or infected with pestilence; to prevent persons from infected places coming into the city of Houston, and to adopt any sanitary measure whereby the health of the city may be protected and improved; but said corporation shall not have power or authority to prevent railroad trains and passengers therein from passing through the city, but may regulate the speed of such trains passing through, and prevent their stopping.

Sec. 58. That all works of improvements and public works for said city, the cost of which will exceed the sum of one thousand dollars, shall be let out to the lowest or best bidder, in the discretion of the council, by sealed proposals; and no contract shall be made or entered into until the plans and specifications such work or improvement shall have been prepared and submitted to the council and adopted by it, and an advertisement published in at least four issues of some daily paper published in the city, inviting bids therefor, and stating the time when such sealed proposals will be opened: Provided, that if no bids be received, or those received be rejected by the city council, the city may, in its discretion, proceed to have such work or improvement done under the discretion [direction] of a committee from the membership. City printing and all repairing of bridges or other similar work, of which it is manifestly impossible to make specifications, are not embraced in this requirement. No bids shall be considered unless made in accordance with the plans and specifications, and no allowance for extra work shall ever be made or paid for. The sealed proposals shall be addressed to the city secretary, and shall be opened only in the presence of the city council at a regular meeting. Bond and security, to be fixed and approved by the city council, shall be required of all contractors. The taking of any contract or interest therein, openly or secretly, directly or indirectly, by any officer of the city, shall, ipso facto, work a forfeiture of the contract, and the consideration thereof, and shall create a vacancy in the office held by the party taking the same.

Sec. 59. The city council shall have power and authority to issue bonds for the purpose of funding bonds of the city of a previous issue, and also for street improvements as provided in section 30 of this act, and in addition thereto may also, by a vote of two-thirds of all the aldermen elected, borrow money on the credit of the city for other purposes to an amount not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars in any one year, and issue bonds of the city therefor. To create a debt during any one year exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, exclusive of refunding and street improvement bonds, as above authorized, the question must be submitted to the tax paying voters of the city, and if two-thirds of the votes polled shall be in favor of creating such debt, it shall be lawful for the city council to authorize the issuance of the bonds for the amount named in the resolution or ordinance submitting the question to the voters. No bonds shall be issued drawing more than six per cent per annum interest, and shall be invalid if sold for less than par, and all bonds shall express upon their face the purpose for which they were issued. The ordinance authorizing any bonds to be issued shall also provide a fund to pay the interest and create a sinking fund of at least two per cent thereon, and said sinking fund shall be invested in bonds of the city, or in United States bonds, and neither said interest nor sinking fund shall be diverted to any other purpose whatever.

Sec. 60. That the city council shall make all necessary regulations concerning elections, and provide for officers to conduct the same, and for the examination and counting of the returns of elections.

Sec. 61. That the general election of officers of the city shall take place on the first Monday in April, 1894, and every two years thereafter, and the present incumbents shall hold over until their successors, elected at the first election, shall qualify. No election of city officers shall be held on the day of State or county elections.

Sec. 62. That an act entitled "An act to consolidate in one act, and amend the several acts incorporating the city of Houston, in Harris county," passed August 2, 1870, and all other acts relative to the incorporation of the city of Houston, in conflict with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed; but all property, actions, rights of action, claims, and demands of every nature and kind whatever vested in said corporation under and by virtue of the said laws hereby repealed, shall vest in and remain and inure to the said corporation, under this act, as fully and completely in all respects as if the said laws had not been repealed; and all by-laws and resolutions and ordinances made and passed under or in pursuance of said laws hereby repealed shall continue and remain in full force and effect until repealed by the proper authorities of said corporation.

Sec. 63. That this act shall be deemed a public act, and judicial notice shall be taken thereof in all courts. No general law hereafter passed by the Legislature of the State shall be held to repeal any power herein granted, or which is now vested in the corporation of Houston, unless the act conferring such power be specially referred to in such repealing act.

Whereas, there are no adequate laws in force providing for the paving, improving and repairing of the streets and sidewalks of the city of Houston, there exists an imperative public necessity for suspending the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days; and an emergency exists which requires this act to take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act takes effect ninety days after adjournment.]

EL PASO—AMENDMENT TO CITY CHARTER.

CHAP. 6.—[S. B. No. 262.] An act to amend sections 14, 89, and 93, of an act entitled "An act to grant a new charter to the city of El Paso," approved March 2, 1889.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That an act entitled "An act to grant a new charter to the city of El Paso," approved March 2, 1889, be and the same is hereby amended as follows: That section 14 shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 14. The recorder shall be learned in the law; and the officers and agents of the city, except the aldermen, shall receive for their services such compensation as the city council may ordain. The aldermen shall each receive such a sum, not to exceed five dollars for each session of the city council attended, as the city council may ordain: Provided, that no alderman shall receive in any one year more than the sum of three hundred dollars.

That section 89 shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 89. No bonds shall be issued unless the same shall have been ordered by the city council, at a regular meeting thereof, by the consent of two-thirds of the aldermen elected, nor then until the action of the city council has been ratified by a majority of the qualified voters of the city who pay taxes on property in said city, as shown by the last assessment roll, voting at an election held for the purpose of determining whether or not such bonds shall be issued. All bonds shall specify for what purpose they were issued, and shall not be sold for less than their par value; and when any bonds are issued by the city a fund shall be created to pay the interest and create a sinking fund to redeem the bonds, which fund shall not be diverted nor drawn upon for any other purpose, and the city treasurer shall honor no drafts on said fund except to pay interest upon or redeem the bonds for which it was provided.

That section 93 shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 93. The city council shall have power by ordinance annually to levy and collect taxes to the amount of two per cent on the assessed value of all property, real and personal, in the city, not exempt from taxation by the Constitution and laws of the State, for the purpose of defraying its current municipal expenses, to pay debts heretofore contracted, to pay interest on and create sinking funds for its bonded debt, to construct or acquire water works, gas works, canals, and public buildings, to improve its streets, and make other permanent and public improvements, and for the support of its public free schools: Provided, that no tax shall ever be levied except with the consent of two-thirds of all the aldermen elected, at a regular meeting of the city council.

Sec. 2. This act shall be deemed a public act, and the courts shall take judicial notice hereof at all times and places.

Sec. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Sec. 4. The fact that the city of El Paso must immediately enlarge its system of water works, and make other public improvements, creates an emergency that this act take effect at once; and the near approach of the close of the session creates [an] imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 22d day of March, A. D. 1893, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature. Geo. W. Smith, Secretary of State.]

[Note.—The foregoing act takes effect April 2, 1893.]

D. 1893, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature. FRANKLIN, DELTA, HARRISON, PANOLA, UPSHUR, SHEL-

CHAP. 9.—[H. B. No. 594.] An act to create a more efficient road system in the counties of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Harrison, Panola, Upshur, Shelby, and Smith; and auxiliary thereto, to provide for the appointment of road overseers; to define the powers and jurisdiction of the commissioners courts of said counties with regard thereto; to utilize the labor of defaulting poll tax payers on the public roads of said counties; and to provide adequate penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all public roads and highways that have heretofore been laid out and established, agreeably to law, in Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Upshur, and Smith counties, except such as have been discontinued, are hereby declared to be public roads.

Sec. 2. The commissioners courts of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Upshur, Harrison, Panola, Shelby, and Smith counties shall have full power, and it shall be their duty, to order the laying out and opening of public roads, when necessary, and to discontinue or alter any road, whenever it shall be deemed expedient, as hereinafter prescribed.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the commissioners courts to classify all public roads in said counties into first, second, and third class roads.

Sec. 4. First class roads shall be clear of all obstructions, and not less than forty feet nor more than sixty feet wide; all stumps over six inches in diameter to be cut down to six inches of the surface, and rounded off; all stumps six inches and under to be cut smooth with the ground; and all causeways made at least sixteen feet wide.

Sec. 5. Second class roads shall be clear of all obstructions, and not less than thirty feet wide. Stumps six inches and over in diameter to be cut down to six inches of the surface, and rounded off, and all stumps less than six inches in diameter to be cut smooth with the ground; all causeways to be made sixteen feet wide.

Sec. 6. Third class roads shall be clear of all obstructions, and not less than twenty feet wide; stumps six inches and over in diameter to be cut down to six inches of the surface, and rounded off, and all stumps less than six inches in diameter to be cut smooth with the ground; all causeways to be made at least sixteen feet wide.

Sec. 7. The commissioners court shall in no instance grant an order on an application for any new road, or to discontinue an original one, unless the person making application therefor, or some one of them, shall have given at least twenty days' notice, by written advertisement, of their intended application, posted up at the court house door of the county and at two other public places in the vicinity of the route of the proposed new road, or the road proposed to be discontinued.

Sec. 8. All applications for a new road, and all applications to discontinue an existing one, shall be by petition to the commissioners court, signed by at least ten freeholders of the precinct or precincts in which said road is desired to be made or discontinued, specifying in such petition the beginning and termination of such road proposed to be opened or discontinued.

Sec. 9. All roads hereafter ordered to be made shall be laid out by a jury of freeholders of the county, to be appointed by the commissioners court. Said jury shall consist of five persons, a majority of whom may proceed to lay out and mark the road so ordered, to the greatest advantage to the public, and with as little prejudice to enclosures as may be.

Sec. 10. The jurors provided for in the preceding section shall, before proceeding to act as such, take the following oath before some officer authorized to administer oaths, to-wit: I, ———, do solemnly swear that I will lay out the road now directed to be laid out, by the order to us directed from the commissioners court, according to law, without favor or affection, malice or hatred, to the best of my skill and knowledge, so help me God.

Sec. 11. It shall be the duty of such jurors, when qualified as provided in the preceding article, to proceed to lay out and mark the road, in accordance with the order of the court and the law, and to report their proceedings in writing to the next regular term of the commissioners court.

Sec. 12. No public road shall be surveyed or laid out upon or across any farm, lot, or enclosure without first obtaining the written consent of the owner or his agent or attorney to the same, except as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 13. If such written consent shall be refused, it shall be the duty of the commissioners court to appoint five disinterested freeholders, residents of the county, as commissioners, a majority of whom may act, to view the same, assess the damages incidental to the opening of the road of the first, second, or third class, through any part of said farm, lot or inclosure, as proposed, taking into consideration the advantages and disadvantages accruing to such owner from the opening of such road, and report their action in writing, and under oath, to the next regular term of the commissioners court.

Sec. 14. If the owner of any inclosed land, his agent, or attorney, shall file in the commissioners court a written protest against opening a road, viewed and marked out through such inclosed land, it shall be the duty of the commissioners court to appoint five disinterested freeholders, residents of the county, as commissioners, a majority of whom may act, to view said road, assess the damages, and report in manner and form as provided in the preceding article.

Sec. 15. If, in the judgment of the commissioners court, from the report of the commissioners named in the two preceding sections, the road should be deemed of sufficient importance, the court may order the survey or opening of the same; but the court shall first order the payment of the damages assessed, if any, by the commissioners of view, to be made to the owner of the land, out of the county treasury, and the county treasurer shall have paid the same, or secured its payment, by a special deposit of the amount in his office, subject to the order of such owner, and shall notify such owner by mail or otherwise, of such deposit.

Sec. 16. If no objection be filed, upon the report of a jury appointed upon an application to open a new road, the court shall proceed to establish and classify such road, and order the opening out of the same, and shall appoint an overseer and apportion hands for the same, as in other cases.

Sec. 17. The commissioners court may alter or change the course of any public road, after notice, and upon application in the same manner as provided in this chapter for the discontinuance of a road, except that the application need not be signed by more than one freeholder of the precinct in which such alteration or change is proposed to be made.

Sec. 18. When juries of view are appointed, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the court to make out copies of the order appointing them, in duplicate, and to deliver such copies to the sheriff of the county within ten days after such order of appointment was made, indorsing on such copies the date of such order.

Sec. 19. The sheriff receiving such copies shall serve the same upon the jurors by delivering to each of them, in person, a copy of the order of appointment provided for in the preceding article, or by leaving one of said copies at the usual place of abode of such juror. Service shall be made within twenty days after the sheriff receives said copies, and he shall make his return to the clerk on the duplicate copies, stating the date and manner of service, or, if service has not been made, stating the cause of his failure to make the same.

Sec. 20. Any juror of view, summoned as such, who shall fail or refuse to perform the service required of him by law as such juror, shall forfeit and pay for every such failure the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered by judgment, on motion of the district or county attorney, in the name of the county, in any court of competent jurisdiction of the county in which such defaulter may reside.

Sec. 21. For the further and better providing for public roads, any lines between different persons or owners of land may, upon the condition provided for in the following sections, be declared public highways, and left open and free from all obstructions for ten feet on either side of said lines; but the marked trees and other objects used to designate said lines, and the corners of surveys, shall not be removed or defaced.

Sec. 22. Whenever ten freeholders may desire the boundary lines between different persons or owners of land to be declared a public highway, in order to give them a nearer, better, or more practicable road to their church, county seat, mill, timber, or water, they may apply to the commissioners court for an order establishing such road.

Sec. 23. The application provided for in the preceding section shall be in writing, and shall be signed and sworn to by the applicants. It shall designate the lines sought to be opened, and the names and residences of the persons or owners to be affected by such proposed road, and shall state the facts which show the necessity for such road.

Sec. 24. Upon the filing of such application, the clerk shall issue a notice reciting the substance thereof, directed to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding him to summon the owners of the land, naming them, whose lines are proposed to be left open, to appear at the next regular term of the commissioners court and show cause why said lines should not be declared public highways.

Sec. 25. The notice provided for in the preceding section shall be served in the manner and for the length of time provided for the service of citation in civil actions in justices' courts, and shall be returned in like manner as such citations.

Sec. 26. At a regular term of the court, after due service of notice, as provided in the preceding section, the commissioners court may in its discretion, should it deem the road of sufficient public importance, issue an order declaring the lines designated in the application to be public highways, and direct that the same be opened by the owners thereof, and left open for the space of ten feet on each side of said lines.

Sec. 27. When an order as provided in the preceding section is made, the clerk shall, without delay, issue a notice reciting said order or its substance, directed to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding him to serve the owners of such lines named in such notice with a true copy thereof, and the officer to whom said notice is delivered shall, without delay, serve the same as therein directed, and return the same to the clerk, endorsing thereon the manner and date of such service.

Sec. 28. The commissioners court shall not be required to keep any such road as is mentioned in the last seven sections, worked by road hands, as in case of other public roads.

Sec. 29. All costs attending the proceedings provided for in relation to opening neighborhood roads shall be paid by the applicants for any such road, whether their application be granted or not, and may be collected as other costs in civil action.

Sec. 30. The commissioners court may discontinue any neighborhood road which has been established as a public highway in the same manner provided in this act for discontinuing other public roads.

Sec. 31. The owner or owners of the land whose lines have been or may be declared public highways, and also any person through whose land a third class road may run, shall have the right to erect a gate or gates across said road or roads when necessary; said gate or gates to be not less than ten feet wide.

Sec. 32. The amount of damages to be allowed to the owners of said lands for opening the lines of a neighborhood road, as provided in this act, shall be assessed as provided for in the case of first, second, and third class roads in this act. Said damages to be paid by the applicant or applicants for such road.

Sec. 33. The commissioners courts of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Upshur, and Smith counties shall lay off the counties into convenient road precincts, and shall number each precinct, and in the order establishing the same shall specify as definitely as practicable the boundaries thereof.

Sec. 34. An overseer shall be appointed by said courts for each road precinct at the time of establishing the same, and at the first regular term of the court in each year the said courts shall appoint an overseer for each road precinct in the county, and shall at the same time designate all the hands liable to work on public roads and apportion them to the several overseers.

Sec. 35. If from any cause the said courts shall fail to perform the duties required of them by the preceding section, at its first regular term in each year, it shall be competent and legal for said court to perform said duties at any subsequent term, whether the same be a regular or called term.

Sec. 36. In case of death, removal or other inability to act of any road overseer, it shall be the duty of the county judges, immediately upon information of the fact, to appoint an overseer to fill such vacancy, who shall be notified of his appointment, as in other cases.

Sec. 37. It shall be the duty of the clerks of said courts to make out copies of all orders appointing overseers of roads, in duplicate, and deliver the same to the sheriff of the county within ten days after such order shall have been made, endorsing on such copies the date of the order of appointment.

Sec. 38. All orders appointing overseers shall embrace the designation of hands liable to work under such overseer, as far as known, and shall specify the boundaries of such overseer's road precinct as laid off by the courts.

Sec. 39. The sheriff shall, within twenty days after the reception of the copies of any order appointing an overseer, deliver to or leave at the usual place of abode of such overseer one of such copies, and shall return the duplicate of such copy to the clerk of the county court, indorsing thereon the date and manner of service, and if not served, the cause of his failure to serve the same.

Sec. 40. The term of service of a road overseer shall be from the time of the service of the order of appointment until the first regular terms of the commissioners courts in the succeeding year.

Sec. 41. No person shall be compelled to serve as an overseer who is lawfully exempt from road duty, nor shall any one be compelled to serve as overseer more than one year in every three successive years.

Sec. 42. It shall be the duty of every person appointed overseer of a road, who is lawfully exempt from duty, to notify the clerks of the county courts of his nonacceptance within ten days after his being notified of his appointment.

Sec. 43. If any person appointed overseer of a road, who is lawfully exempt from road duty, shall notify the clerks of his nonacceptance, as provided for in the preceding section, the clerk shall forthwith report the same to the county judge, who shall immediately appoint another overseer for said precinct.

Sec. 44. Should any person appointed overseer, and who is lawfully exempt from road duty, fail to notify the clerk of his nonacceptance within ten days after being notified of his appointment, it shall be considered an acceptance of the appointment, and he shall not be permitted thereafter to plead his exemption from road duty as a defense against any neglect or failure to perform any of the duties of such overseer.

Sec. 45. It shall be the duty of the clerks to insert on the copies of all orders of appointment of overseers issued by him, the duties required of overseers in regard to their nonacceptance of such appointment.

Sec. 46. The clerk of the county courts shall post at the court house, on the first day of each term of the district court held in his county, a list of the names, and the road precincts, of all the overseers of roads in the county.

Sec. 47. All male persons between twenty-one and forty-five years of age shall be liable, and it is hereby made their duty, to work on, repair, and clean out the public roads, under the provisions and regulations of this act, except ministers of the gospel actually engaged in the discharge of their ministerial duties, and invalids, and members of any company of voluntary guards organized under the provisions of the title "militia," who shall be exempt.

Sec. 48. No person shall be compelled to work on a road who has not been residing in the county in which he is summoned to work for the space of fifteen days immediately preceding such summons.

Sec. 49. Any person liable to road duty, and who has been summoned to do such duty, shall have the privilege to furnish an able bodied substitute to work in his place, which substitute shall be accepted by the overseer if he be capable of performing a reasonable amount of work; otherwise he shall not be accepted.

Sec. 50. Every person liable to work on roads, by paying to his road overseer, at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work, shall be exempt from working for each day paid for, and also exempt from any penalties for failure to work for the time for which he has so paid.

Sec. 51. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, or such tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer; or, if he have no such tool as he is desired and directed by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have.

Sec. 52. It shall be the duty of such road hand to perform his duties as such as required by law, and to do a reasonable amount of work, and in accordance with the directions of his overseer.

Sec. 53. No person shall be compelled to work on any public road or roads more than ten days in each year.

Sec. 54. Every insolvent poll tax payer, being a resident of the county, and not disqualified or excused by physical infirmity, who shall be indebted to the county on any unpaid county poll tax, and from whom the said poll tax can not be otherwise collected by law, may be permitted to discharge the amount of such unpaid county poll tax in labor upon the public roads of his precinct, at the rate of one dollar per day; and in order to enforce the provisions of this section, the collector of taxes for the county shall be required, on or before the second Monday in May of each year, to furnish to the several overseers of the counties, the names of all the defaulting poll tax payers, together with the amount of county poll tax due and unpaid by each, for which ex officio service the collector shall be exempt from road duty five days; and it shall be the duty of the overseer, whenever any such person shall have discharged his county poll tax as herein provided, to report the same in his regular reports to the commissioners courts: Provided, that no penalty shall ever be imposed upon poll tax payers for refusal or failure to work upon public roads.

Sec. 55. This act shall be cumulative of all laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges and employment of county convicts not in conflict herewith, and where not otherwise provided herein such general laws shall apply; but in case of conflict with general laws, this act shall govern; and the courts of the State shall have and take judicial cognizance of this act in the same manner and to the same extent as they are required to know and notice the general laws of the State.

Sec. 56. The vast amount of important business pending, and the fact that the roads of said counties are in a deplorable condition for the want of a more efficient road law, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted, and that this act take effect from and after its passage.

ROADS—GUADALUPE COUNTY.

CHAP. 11.—[H. B. No. 657.] An act to create a more efficient road system in the county of Guadalupe; and auxiliary thereto, to provide for the appointment of road overseers, to define the powers and jurisdiction of the commissioners court with regard thereto, to utilize the labor of county convicts and defaulting poll tax payers on the public roads of said county, and to provide adequate penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the commissioners court of Guadalupe county may appoint a road overseer for each commissioner's precinct in the county, or for each justice's precinct, who shall hold their offices for two years, and until their successors are qualified.

Sec. 2. The overseers so appointed shall perform all the duties required of overseers, under the general laws of this State, and such other duties as may be required of them by the commissioners court of said county, and shall receive such compensation as the commissioners court may prescribe, not [to] exceed two dollars per day for the time actually engaged.

Sec. 3. Each overseer shall, within twenty days after his appointment, take the constitutional oath, and enter into bond payable to the county judge, in such sum as may be fixed by the commissioners court, to be approved by the county judge, conditioned that he will well and faithfully discharge all of the duties incumbent upon him as such overseer, that he will promptly make all reports required of him by this act, or by the commissioners court, and that he will correctly disburse and account for all funds that may come into his hands according to law and the orders of the commissioners court, which bond shall not be void for want of form, or void on the first recovery, but may be sued upon until fully exhausted.

Sec. 4. The commissioners court may, for good cause, to be determined by themselves, at any time remove an overseer, and in case of vacancy from any cause, may fill the same for the unexpired term.

Sec. 5. Each overseer shall take charge of all tools, implements, teams, and supplies of any kind placed under his control by the commissioners court, and execute his receipt therefor, which shall be filed with the county clerk, and he shall be responsible for all such tools, teams, implements, and supplies, and for the proper expenditure of all public moneys coming into his hands, and shall be liable for the loss, injury, or destruction of all such tools, teams, implements, and supplies, if the result of his negligence, or for the wrongful or unauthorized expenditure of such money; and upon the expiration of his term, or in case of his resignation or removal, he shall deliver all such money and property to his successor, or to such person as the commissioners court may direct.

Sec. 5a. The overseer of each precinct shall subdivide his precinct into as many sections as may be necessary or convenient, and shall require each person subject to road duty in his precinct to work upon the roads in the particular section in which he resides; and in order to have all road work more promptly and vigorously prosecuted, the overseer may appoint suboverseers in the several sections of his precinct, but the overseer himself shall exercise at all times a supervision over the different sections and suboverseers, and shall plan and direct all work to be done, and may require the suboverseers to warn all road hands subject to duty of the time and place of working, as is required by existing laws.

Sec. 6. The commissioners court shall require all able-bodied county convicts, not otherwise more profitably employed, to labor upon the public roads of the county, or upon the public streets of some city or town in the county, under such regulations as may be prescribed, and each convict so employed shall receive credit, first, upon the fine, and then upon the cost, of fifty cents per day for each day he may labor: Provided, that no convict shall be required to labor on Sunday, but shall, nevertheless, have the same credit as if he had labored on that day.

Sec. 7. The commissioners court may, at any regular term, allow the officers and witnesses in a convict case, where the convict is worked upon the roads, such portions of their lawful costs as it may determine, not to exceed, in any case, the following: County judges, $2.50; county attorneys, $5, including commissions; county clerks and justices of the peace, $2; sheriffs and constables, $2.50; witnesses, twenty-five per cent of their legal fees; which allowance shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund, upon the warrant of the county judge, when said fine and cost shall have been worked out by the convicts, as provided in this act. The commissioners court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, food, clothing, bedding, medicine, medical attention, and guards necessary for the safe keeping and humane treatment of such convicts, and may grant a reasonable commutation of time to a convict, in consideration of faithful service and good behavior, such commutation in no case to exceed one-tenth of the entire time.

Sec. 8. The overseers may contract with any person subject to road duty in their precinct for the use of wagons and teams, and permit such person to discharge his road service in the hire of such wagon and team: Provided, he shall not allow more than $2 per day for any wagon and team; nor more than $3 per day for wagon and team and driver.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of each overseer to see that all roads, bridges, culverts, and drains in his precinct are kept in good repair; to see that every person subject to road duty in his precinct performs the service for which he is liable under the law, or that such service is in some way excused or commuted, as provided by law; to see that all mile posts and guide boards at the forks of roads are kept continuously up, and in good order, and when the same are removed or defaced, to immediately repair or replace them. He shall act as supervisor of roads in his precinct, and perform all duties as supervisor heretofore devolving upon the county commissioners, and the county commissioners of said county are hereby delivered from the duties prescribed by article 4390a of the Revised Civil Statutes.

Sec. 10. Each able-bodied male person, between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years, resident of the county, except such persons as are exempt from road duty under the general laws of the State, shall be liable to labor on the public roads: Provided, that any one so liable may discharge said liability:

1. By furnishing a substitute who is acceptable to the overseer.
2. By paying to the overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may be summoned to work, or by paying four dollars at any one time shall be discharged from all liability for the entire year, to end on December 31 of each year.
3. By producing to the overseer the certificate of a reputable practicing physician, certifying that the party is permanently or temporarily incapacitated for such physical labor as is necessary for road service.
4. By substituting wagons and teams, suitable and satisfactory to the road overseer, as provided in section 8 of this act.

Sec. 11. Every insolvent poll taxpayer, being resident of the county, who shall be indebted to the county on any unpaid county poll tax, and from whom the said poll tax can not be otherwise collected by law, shall be permitted to discharge the amount of such unpaid county poll tax in labor upon the public roads of his precinct, at the rate of one dollar per day; and in order to enforce the provisions of this section, the collector of taxes for the county shall be required on or before the second ——— in February of every year, to furnish to the several overseers of the county the names of all the defaulting poll taxpayers, together with the amount of county poll tax due and unpaid by each, for which ex officio services the collector shall be exempt from road duty; and it shall be the duty of the overseer, whenever any such person shall have discharged his county poll tax, as herein provided, to report the same back to collector, who shall credit the party on the poll tax roll, and report the same in his regular report to the commissioners court: Provided, that no fine or penalties shall be recovered of insolvent poll taxpayers for failure to work out their poll tax under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 12. Each road overseer shall make his report under oath to the commissioners court, every six months, giving an itemized statement of all money belonging to the road fund, which he has received, from whom received, and for what, and what disposition he made of the same; the condition of all the roads, bridges, culverts, and drains; the number and character of all mile posts and guide boards erected, and where the same are located; and such other information as the commissioners court may require, and may accompany said report with such suggestions as may seem to him pertinent, in regard to the public roads and the duties of the office.

Sec. 13. Any road overseer who shall willfully or negligently fail or refuse to comply with any provision of this act, or to perform any lawful and reasonable order of the commissioners court, or to discharge any duty imposed upon him by this act, or by any other existing law of the State not in conflict herewith, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, in a court of competent jurisdiction, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, such fine, when collected, to go into the road and bridge fund.

Sec. 14. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any private lands for the purpose of opening, widening, straightening, or draining any public road, or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the commissioners court can not agree upon the amount of damages to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same, in the same manner that a railway company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same rights shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond either for cost or on appeal.

Sec. 15. This act shall be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges and employment of county convicts not in conflict herewith, and where not otherwise provided herein, such general laws shall apply, but in case of conflict with general laws, this act shall govern, and the courts of the State shall have and take judicial cognizance of this act in the same manner and to the same extent as they are required to know and notice the general laws of the State.

Sec. 16. The vast amount of important business pending, and the fact that the roads of said county are in a deplorable condition for the want of a more efficient road law, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 28, A. D. 1893.

ROADS—NACOGDOCHES COUNTY.

CHAP. 12.—[H. B. No. 647.] An act to authorize the commissioners court of Nacogdoches county to lay out and condemn land for right of way, and to establish and maintain a first class road around Orton's Hill, in Nacogdoches county.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the commissioners court of Nacogdoches county shall have the power to lay out and condemn land for right of way, and establish and maintain a first class public road, leading from the corporate limits of the town of Nacogdoches, in said county, around a steep hill, known as Orton's Hill, in the direction of the town of San Augustine, in San Augustine county, and to intersect the main public road leading from said town of Nacogdoches to the town of San Augustine at a suitable point, after passing around said hill.

Sec. 2. That said commissioners court shall proceed to lay out said road, and condemn sufficient land for a right of way over same, and to establish and maintain said road in the manner prescribed under the general road law of this State.

Sec. 3. Whereas, the near approach of the close of the session of the Legislature, and the great number of bills now pending make it doubtful whether this bill will be reached, and that there is now no adequate law authorizing said court to lay out and condemn land for right of way to establish and maintain said road, therefore an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days and said rule is suspended; and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 18th day of April, A. D. 1893, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature. ROADS—CAMERON, HARRIS, FAYETTE, DALLAS, BRAZOS, CORYELL, BEXAR, ROCKWALL, AND ELLIS COUNTIES.

CHAP. 13.—[H. B. No. 682.] An act to authorize and create a more efficient system of public roads and bridges for Cameron, Harris, Fayette, Dallas, Brazos, Coryell, Bexar, Rockwall, and Ellis counties, for the issuance of bonds by said counties for the purpose of constructing permanent public roads, to authorize the investment of the permanent school fund of the State and of said counties in such bonds, to provide for and limit the expenditure of the moneys arising from the sale of such bonds, and to prescribe and define the powers and duties of the commissioners court in reference thereto.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county commissioners courts of Cameron, Harris, Fayette, Dallas, Rockwall, Brazos, Coryell, Bexar, and Ellis counties, State of Texas, may, as hereinafter provided, build or construct, or cause to be built or constructed, in said counties, lasting or permanent county roads and bridges, of some permanent or durable material, to be selected and agreed upon by said commissioners courts, and may also construct drains or ditches to carry off the waters from such road or roads, and from lands adjacent thereto, whenever and wherever same can be done without conflicting with the rights of private property owners, and may take and condemn any land or lands necessary for the purpose of constructing roads or drains under its general powers of eminent domain.

Sec. 2. Whenever the commissioners courts of said counties shall deem it necessary or expedient to build or construct any public roads and bridges of the character herein provided for, they shall pass a resolution, which may be done at any regular or special meeting of said courts, setting forth that it is the sense of the said commissioners court that public roads and bridges of a lasting or permanent nature should be constructed or built in said county, and that the county should issue its bonds to raise money for that purpose. Said resolution shall be submitted to a vote of the property owners of said counties at any regular or special election, which may be ordered by the commissioners court for that purpose; and if at such election, a majority of the votes cast shall be for said resolution, the same shall be adopted, but if a majority of votes cast at such election shall be against said resolution it shall be rejected. Such election shall be governed in all respects by the laws governing elections in this State, and the returns shall be made and canvassed in the same manner, and result declared by proclamation of the county judge, which proclamation shall be posted in at least three public places in said counties, and at the option of the commissioners court published in some newspaper in said counties.

Sec. 3. No person shall be permitted to vote at any election as provided for in section 2 of this article, unless he is a property owner and taxpayer in said counties of Harris, Fayette, Cameron, Dallas, Rockwall, Brazos, Coryell, Bexar, or Ellis, and unless he is otherwise a qualified voter of said county. Those desiring to vote for the resolution shall have written or printed on their tickets the words, "For the resolution to issue bonds to build permanent county roads and bridges," and those desiring to vote against the resolution shall have written or printed on their tickets the words, "Against the resolution to issue bonds to build permanent county roads and bridges." Such tickets shall be written or printed on plain white paper with black ink, and shall contain no distinguishing mark or device, except the words above set out, and if printed, shall be in type of uniform size and face.

Sec. 4. If, at the election herein provided for, a majority of the qualified voters at such election shall vote in favor of the resolution provided for in section 2 of the act, and after the commissioners court has canvassed the said vote and declared the result, and after the proclamation of the county judge declaring said result has been posted for at least thirty days, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners court, under the supervision and direction of the Comptroller of this State, to prepare and execute the bonds of the county for such sums as may be deemed advisable by said commissioners courts, said bonds to bear not exceeding five per cent interest, payable annually, and which shall be redeemable in not less than ten years and not more than forty years from the date thereof, the maturity to be expressed on the face of the bonds, and shall have the same registered or enrolled, as in the case of other county bonds, and the same shall not be sold or negotiated at less than their face or par value: Provided, that in no case shall said county issue bonds under this act for a greater sum or amount than a levy of fifteen cents on the hundred dollars property valuation of such county will yield sufficient revenue to pay the interest as it accrues, and will at the same time create a sinking fund sufficient to pay the principal at maturity.

Sec. 5. When the bonds of the county are issued and sold under the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners court of said county to levy an annual ad valorem tax on all property of the county, which tax, when collected, shall be used only for the purpose of paying the interest on the county road and bridge bonds, and create a sinking fund to pay the principal of same; and after the adoption of the resolution as herein provided for, it shall be unlawful for the county commissioners court to transfer any funds from the road and bridge fund to any other fund of said county, or to divert the funds arising from the sale of such bonds, or any funds that may be derived from the road and bridge tax of said county, to any other purpose than the construction and maintenance of county roads and bridges. Should the commissioners court of said counties divert any funds contrary to the provisions of this act, they and each member of said court so acting or voting shall be deemed guilty of malfeasance in office, and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of two hundred dollars, and may be removed from office.

Sec. 6. Whenever there shall be or remain in the treasury of this State any moneys to the credit of the permanent school fund, uninvested, the State Board of Education is authorized and empowered to lend the same to said county, when it shall have complied with the foregoing provisions of this act, by purchasing at par value the permanent road and bridge bonds of said county, when satisfactory evidence is presented to said board that all the provisions of this act have been complied with. And the State Board of Education shall have the preference to purchase said permanent road and bridge bonds, when there is sufficient permanent school funds in the treasury, and they are satisfied that all requirements of law in reference to the issuing of said bonds have been complied with. Should there not be sufficient money in the treasury to the credit of the permanent school funds to purchase the whole issue of such county road and bridge bonds, then the State Board of Education may purchase said bonds to the extent of the funds on hand, or the county commissioners court may, at their option, place said issue of bonds elsewhere, as to them may seem best for the interest of the county; and in like manner, the county permanent school fund may be invested in such county bonds, and whenever said county shall have on hand permanent school funds uninvested, said county shall have the preference to invest said funds in the road and bridge bonds of said county.

Sec. 7. The moneys arising from the sale of the bonds herein provided for shall not be used for any other purpose than the construction of durable and permanent county roads and bridges, and the purchase of material therefor, and any county commissioners court, or any county commissioner, or any other person, who shall misapply or convert same or any part thereof to any other purpose than the one named, shall be deemed guilty of malfeasance in office, and on conviction shall be punished as hereinbefore provided for that offense.

Sec. 8. All roads and bridges built under the provisions of this act shall be laid out and constructed under the supervision of the county commissioners court, and a competent civil engineer, the county surveyor, or other competent person, to be employed by the county for that purpose.

Sec. 9. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 10. The great importance to the counties of Cameron, Harris, Fayette, Dallas, Rockwall, Coryell, Bexar, and Ellis of the passage of this act, and the near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, and the crowded condition of the calendar, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and said rule is so suspended; and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 18th day of April, A. D. 1893, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature. ROADS—COLLIN, GRAYSON, WILLIAMSON, LAMAR, AND BELL COUNTIES.

CHAP. 14.—[H. B. No. 351.] An act to create a more efficient road system for Collin, Grayson, Williamson, Lamar, and Bell counties, in the State of Texas, and making county commissioners of said counties ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and providing for the appointment of deputy road commissioners and defining the powers and duties of the commissioners court of said counties, and to provide for the manner of training hedges along any public road, and fixing a penalty for the violation of this act, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each member of the commissioners court of Collin, Grayson, Williamson, Lamar, and Bell counties shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the commissioners court shall have charge of all the teams, tools, and machinery belonging to the county, and placed in their hands by said court; and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the commissioners court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of their office, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge of said county for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law or by the commissioners court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession: Provided, that with the consent of the commissioners court any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute the same bond that is required of commissioners in this section; and such deputy road commissioners shall be entitled to the same compensation that is allowed county commissioners for the same service: Provided, that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation as road commissioners when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The commissioners court of said counties shall have full power and authority, and it shall be their duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining, and repairing the public roads in said counties as they may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plans or system of working. Said commissioners court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools, and machinery as may be necessary for the workings of its roads. Said court shall have the power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case said court, or the county judge, may advertise, in such manner as said court may determine, for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond, payable to the county judge of said county, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good, sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract, but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making any such contract the court shall direct the county treasurer to pass the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such fund, and the same shall not be used for any other purposes, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads, under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best.

Sec. 3. The commissioners court of said counties shall require all county convicts, not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads, under such regulations as it may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine first, and then on the cost, for each day he may labor. The commissioners court may, at a regular term, allow to the officers and witnesses such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convicts as it may deem best: Provided, that it shall not allow to any officer an amount greater than the following: County judge, $3.00; county attorney, $5.00, including commissions; county clerks and justices of the peace, $1.70; sheriffs or constables, $2.00; which amount shall be paid to the officers out of the road and bridge fund, on the warrant of the county judge, when said fine and costs shall have been worked out as provided in this section: Provided, that this shall not be construed as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State. The commissioners court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed, as a reward for faithful services and good behavior: Provided, that such commutation shall in no case exceed one-tenth of the whole time. The commissioners court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention, and guards, for the safe and humane keeping of the convicts.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have control of all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them all teams, tools, and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, so far as he has been supplied therewith by the commissioners court, taking receipt of said road overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liability of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any team, tools, or machinery belonging to said county, shall be liable for any damages that may occur to the same while in his possession. It shall be the duty of the road overseer, when he has finished work on his road, to return to said commissioner all teams, tools, and machinery received from him, and to take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the county commissioner, when acting as road commissioner, to inform himself of the condition of the public roads in his district, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining, or otherwise improving the same, which directions shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time: And provided, that all road hands in a particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and he shall see that each hand, when called out, shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand, when so called out, shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The commissioners court may allow to any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year, a compensation, not to exceed one dollar and one-half per day, for the time so served.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Collin, Grayson, Lamar, Williamson, and Bell counties, liable for road duty, who shall, on or before the first day of January of any year, pay to the county treasurer the sum of $3, shall be exempt from road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of January. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him, and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund, and he shall keep a separate account for each road district from which it is received. The treasurer shall, on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish to each county commissioner a list of all persons in their respective districts that have paid said sum as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the purpose of opening, widening, straightening, or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the county commissioners court can not agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had, and the same rights shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 9. Every owner of a farm or other lands, upon which a hedge of any description grows on or near the public road, shall be required to keep the same trimmed so that the height of the same shall not exceed eight feet above the level of the ground. Any such owner who shall fail or neglect to so trim such hedge, shall be notified in writing by the road overseer of that district to trim such hedge as herein required; and in such case [if] such owner shall, after receiving such notice fail or refuse to so trim such hedge within a reasonable time, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not to exceed $20 per week from and after the time that he received such notice; such fine to be paid into the county treasury and to be placed to the credit of the road and bridge fund of said county. If any owner of any farm shall fail or refuse, after being notified as herein required, to trim his hedge as required by this act, then the road overseer shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with the provisions of this act, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 10. Each county commissioner, when acting as road commissioner, and performing the duties imposed upon him by law, or by the commissioners court, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for the services actually performed: Provided, that he shall not receive more than forty-five dollars ($45.00) per quarter, when the road and bridge tax has not been levied as provided by law, under the amendment of 1889, as adopted in 1890, to the Constitution of the State of Texas. And when said tax shall have been levied he may receive an amount not to exceed ninety ($90) per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund, when the account shall have been approved by the commissioners court, and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due, and unpaid, and specifying the number of days work actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner while he is performing the duties of a county commissioner.

Sec. 11. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith; but in a case of conflict this act shall control as to the counties of Collin, Grayson, Williamson, Lamar, and Bell; and an act passed at the regular session of the Twenty-second Legislature, approved April 4, 1891, providing a special road law for Collin county, is hereby repealed.

Sec. 12. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

C. C. DUPREE—RELIEF OF.

CHAP. 15.—[S. B. No. 104.] An act for the relief of C. C. Dupree, sheriff and collector of taxes of Franklin county, Texas.

Whereas, C. C. Dupree, as collector of taxes for Franklin county, Texas, had on the 17th day of November, 1887, collected for the State the sum of three hundred dollars, taxes due for the year 1887, and had deposited said sum of money for safe keeping in an iron safe provided by the county commissioners court for the use of the treasurer and collector of taxes for said county, in which to keep the funds of the county, which safe was, on said 17th day of November, burglarized, and said sum of three hundred dollars stolen therefrom; and

Whereas, said C. C. Dupree has paid to the State of Texas said sum of three hundred dollars, as appears by reference to his account with the Comptroller of the State for the year 1887; therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Comptroller of the State is hereby authorized and directed to allow the said C. C. Dupree a credit of three hundred dollars upon his account for taxes collected by him for the State for the year 1892 as sheriff and collector of taxes for said Franklin county, Texas.

Sec. 2. The fact that collectors of taxes are soon required to make their report to the Comptroller of taxes collected by them for the year 1892 creates an emergency, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act takes effect ninety days after adjournment.]

SARAH A. NICHOLS—GRANTING PERMISSION TO SUE THE STATE.

CHAP. 16.—[H. B. No. 411.] An act granting permission to Sarah A. Nichols to bring suit against the State of Texas in the district court of Travis county to ascertain the amount, if any, the State is indebted to said Sarah A. Nichols, surviving widow of Quilla J. Nichols, on account of the construction of the General Land Office building of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Sarah A. Nichols be and is hereby granted permission to bring suit against the State of Texas in the district court of Travis county, to ascertain and fix the amount, if any, the State is indebted to said Sarah A. Nichols, surviving widow of Quilla J. Nichols, on account of the construction of the General Land Office building of Texas: Provided, that she shall give the necessary cost bond as in other civil suits: And provided further, that the amount which said Sarah A. Nichols may be entitled to recover shall not exceed seven thousand dollars, and such sum within said amount as she may recover shall not bear nor include interest.

Sec. 2. Either party shall have the right of appeal, and any judgment finally established against the State in such suit shall be a liquidated debt which shall be paid by the State.

Sec. 3. The advanced age and infirm condition of the said Sarah A. Nichols makes it important that whatever may be done by way of giving her an opportunity to establish her claim against the State, shall be done at the earliest possible day; wherefore there is an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and an emergency requiring that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 8th day of May, A. D. 1893, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature. J. R. Curl, Acting Secretary of State.]

GENERAL LAWS
OF
THE STATE OF TEXAS

PASSED AT THE
REGULAR SESSION OF THE TWENTY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE

CONVENED
AT THE CITY OF AUSTIN

JANUARY 8, 1895, AND ADJOURNED APRIL 30, 1895.

GENERAL LAWS OF TEXAS.

TWENTY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE, 1895.

APPROPRIATION TO PAY MEMBERS' MILEAGE AND PER DIEM, AND OFFICERS' AND EMPLOYEES' PER DIEM.

CHAP. 1.—[S. B. No. 3.] An act appropriating one hundred and ten thousand dollars to pay members' mileage and per diem, and officers' and employes' per diem, of the Twenty-fourth Legislature.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of one hundred and ten thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the money in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of mileage and per diem pay of members and per diem pay of officers and employees of the Twenty-fourth Legislature.

Sec. 2. The certificate of the Secretary of the Senate, approved by the President thereof, or of the Chief Clerk of the House, approved by the Speaker thereof, shall be sufficient evidence to the Comptroller, upon which he shall audit the claims and issue his warrants upon the Treasurer for the respective amounts.

Sec. 3. And, whereas, the Twenty-fourth Legislature is now in session, and public policy requires their payment, therefore an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage.

Approved January 15, A. D. 1895.

APPROPRIATION TO DEFRAY CONTINGENT EXPENSES.

CHAP. 2.—[S. B. No. 4.] An act making an appropriation to defray the contingent expenses of the Twenty-fourth Legislature.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of forty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated to pay the contingent expenses of the Twenty-fourth Legislature; that, except in cases of accounts for printing done and stationery furnished, the certificate of the chairman of the committee on contingent expenses that an account has been examined and approved by said committee and countersigned by the President of the Senate or Speaker of the House, as the case may be, shall be sufficient authority to authorize and require the Comptroller of Public Accounts to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer for the payment of any claims against said fund. The accounts for printing and stationery shall take the course prescribed by the Revised Statutes.

Sec. 2. That the fact that it is important that the expenses of the Legislature be promptly paid, creates an emergency and a public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect from its passage. It is so enacted.

Approved January 15, 1895.

EXECUTIONS AND JUDGMENTS—REGULATING THE ISSUANCE.

CHAP. 3.—[S. B. No. 26.] An act to regulate the issuance of executions upon judgments of courts of record, and to prevent such judgments from becoming dormant.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: If no execution is issued within twelve months after the rendition of a judgment in any court of record, the judgment shall become dormant and no execution shall issue thereon unless such judgment be revived; but where the first execution has issued within the twelve months the judgment shall not become dormant unless ten years shall have elapsed between the issuance of executions thereon, and executions may issue at any time within ten years after the issuance of the preceding execution.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is no statute prescribing when judgments of courts of record shall become dormant, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved January 26, A. D. 1895.

CONDEMNED PROPERTY.

CHAP. 4.—[S. B. No. 73.] An act to authorize the State Health Officer, with the advice and consent of the Governor, to sell any condemned property in the State Quarantine service, and to pay over the proceeds into the general revenue of the State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the State Health Officer be and is hereby authorized, with the advice and consent of the Governor, to sell to the best advantage of the State, for cash, any property in the quarantine service that is useless, and to apply the proceeds thereof to the general revenue of the State of Texas, and make due report of said sale or sales to the Governor.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there is now on hand in the quarantine service some useless property, for which a bidder can be found, and it being to the interest of the State to dispose of the same when it can, and that said property is daily depreciating in value, therefore an emergency and imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, therefore said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved February 1, A. D. 1895.

FIFTH SUPREME JUDICIAL DISTRICT—TRANSFERRING SMITH AND GREGG.

CHAP. 5.—[S. H. B. No. 99.] An act to take the counties of Smith and Gregg out of the Fifth Supreme Judicial District, and place the same in the First Supreme Judicial District.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the counties of Smith and Gregg be and the same are hereby removed from the Fifth Supreme Judicial District, and placed in the First Supreme Judicial District, and appeals and writs of error from the district and county courts of said counties shall be returnable to and heard by the Court of Civil Appeals at Galveston.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the docket of the Fifth Supreme Judicial District is now overcrowded, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted, and that this act take effect from and after its passage.

Approved February 9, A. D. 1895.

RAILROADS—RELIEF OF.

CHAP. 6.—[S. B. No. 34.] An act for the relief of railway corporations, and belt and suburban railway companies, having charters granted or amended since the first day of January, 1887, and which have failed, or are about to fail, to construct their roads and branches, or any part thereof, within the time required by law.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the time within which any railroad corporation, chartered under the laws of the State of Texas since the first day of January, 1887, or the charter of which has been amended since that date, is required to begin the construction of its road and construct, equip and put in good running order, as provided in article 4278 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, amended by act of April 8, 1889, shall be and the same hereby is, as to any unfinished portion of such road, extended two years from the taking effect of this act; and any railway company having been chartered since January first, 1887, or the charter to which has been amended since said date, which shall have forfeited its corporate existence, or any of its rights and powers, or is about to do so by reason of failure to comply with said article 4278, or any part of said article, or amendment thereof, shall have restored and preserved to it its corporate existence, and it shall have and enjoy all of the corporate franchises, property and rights and powers held or acquired by it previous to any cause of forfeiture on account of such failure as aforesaid: Provided, that no railroad company which shall be revived or the time extended by virtue of this act, shall claim or exercise any right or franchise not allowed, granted or permitted to other railway corporations under the laws as now in force in this State, and such railroad company as may be revived or time extended by this act shall comply with the laws of this State now in force appertaining to railway corporations, and the provisions of this act shall extend to and embrace suburban and belt railroads heretofore chartered under the laws of this State.

Sec. 2. Any railway corporation chartered since the first day of January, A. D. 1887, and which by its original charter, or by amendment thereto filed since said first day of January, A. D. 1887, has provided for the locating, constructing, owning, maintaining and operating of any extension or branch line or lines of railway, and which has failed or is about to fail to complete the same, or any part thereof, within the time required by law, shall be and is hereby restored to and granted all and singular the rights, privileges and franchises acquired by such original charter, or by such amendment to its articles of incorporation as if the same were filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State on the day of the taking effect of this act, and such corporation shall be and is hereby authorized to project, complete, construct, own and operate any such extensions and branch line or lines of railway under and as provided for in its charter, or in any such amendment to its articles of incorporation: Provided, that said extensions and branch lines of railway shall be by such corporation completed and put in running order at the rate of at least ten miles within one year from the taking effect of this act, and twenty additional miles for each and every year thereafter until all of said extensions and branch line or lines so provided for are completed.

Sec. 3. The fact that no good can result to the State from the forfeitures provided against in this act, and that the public interest and convenience will be promoted, and citizens in many parts of the State having invested in railway enterprises saved from great loss, unless the relief herein provided for be granted, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and it is so suspended, and demanding that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 30th day of January, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

RAILROADS—CONSOLIDATION OF LA PORTE, HOUSTON AND NORTHERN RAILROAD, NORTH GALVESTON, HOUSTON AND KANSAS CITY RAILROAD, AND HOUSTON BELT AND MAGNOLIA PARK RAILROAD.

CHAP. 7.—[S. B. No. 35.] An act to authorize the La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad Company to purchase and acquire and consolidate with it, all the property, rights and franchises of the North Galveston, Houston and Kansas City Railroad Company and the Houston Belt and Magnolia Park Railway Company, and to change its corporate name.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad Company shall have the right to purchase and acquire all of the stock, bonds, property, rights and franchises of the North Galveston, Houston and Kansas City Railroad Company, and the Houston Belt and Magnolia Park Railway Company, and to absorb said roads and consolidate them with the said La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad, and make them a part thereof. That when so purchased, the La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad Company shall have the right to take and enjoy all of the rights, privileges and franchises that the said road or roads so purchased are or were entitled to have or enjoy, and shall be liable for all the debts and liabilities of the roads so purchased by it under the provisions of this act, the same as the original company is liable therefor.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, that the said North Galveston, Houston and Kansas City Railroad and the said Houston Belt and Magnolia Park Railway, when so purchased and acquired by the said La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad company, under the provisions of this act, shall be consolidated with and become a part of the said La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad, and such sale and purchase shall operate as a surrender of the charter of the road or roads so purchased, and said road or roads so purchased shall thereafter be and become a part of the said The La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad, and shall be operated under its charter.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, that any sale and purchase of the roads or either of them, as hereinbefore authorized, to be valid and binding, must be approved by three-fourth of the capital stock of each of the contracting companies at a meeting of the stockholders called for the purpose of approving such sale and purchase; the certificate of such sale and purchase shall be signed by the president and attested by the secretary of each of the contracting companies, and filed with the Railroad Commission, and a like certificate shall also be filed with the Secretary of State, and when so filed, such sale and purchase shall be complete.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, that the corporate name of the said La Porte, Houston and Northern Railroad Company shall be and the same is hereby changed to Galveston, La Porte and Houston Railway Company.

Sec. 5. The fact that the passage of this act will enable the railroads above named to be connected as one road, and operated under one charter, thereby largely lessening the expense to the stockholders of the said roads; and, whereas, such connection and consolidation of said roads will be a public benefit by establishing another line of railway between Houston and Galveston, which will be a parallel and competing line with the other railroads now running between Houston and Galveston; and, whereas, it is necessary in order that the consolidation of said railroads may be effected at once, that said lines may be connected without delay, creates an emergency that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 30th day of January, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the House in which it originated with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

GREGG COUNTY—RESTORING CIVIL AND CRIMINAL JURISDICTION.

CHAP. 8.—[H. B. No. 155.] An act to restore and confer upon the county court of Gregg county the civil and criminal jurisdiction heretofore belonging to said court under the Constitution and general statutes of Texas; to define the jurisdiction of said court; to conform the jurisdiction of the district court of said county to such change; to fix the time of holding court, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county court of Gregg county shall hereafter have exclusive original jurisdiction in civil cases wherein the matter in controversy shall exceed in value two hundred dollars and shall not exceed five hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, and shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the district court of said county when the amount in controversy shall exceed five hundred dollars and not exceed one thousand dollars.

Sec. 2. Said county court shall have appellate jurisdiction in civil cases over which justice's courts have original jurisdiction, when the judgment of the court appealed from or the amount in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, exclusive of interest, and said county court shall have power to hear and determine cases brought up from justice's court by certiorari under the provisions of the title of the Revised Statutes relating thereto.

Sec. 3. The county judge of said county shall have authority, either in term time or in vacation, to grant writs of injunction, sequestration, mandamus, garnishment, attachment, certiorari, supersedeas, and all other writs necessary to the enforcement of the jurisdiction of said court, and shall also have power to issue writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the Constitution has not exclusively conferred the power on the district court or judge thereof.

Sec. 4. That said court shall have and exercise the general jurisdiction of a probate court; shall probate wills, appoint guardians of minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis, and common drunkards; grant letters testamentary and of administration; settle accounts of executors, administrators and guardians; transact all business pertaining to the estates of deceased persons, minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis and common drunkards, including the partition, settlement and distribution of estates of deceased persons; and to apprentice minors as provided by general law, and to issue all writs necessary for the enforcement of its jurisdiction, orders and decrees.

Sec. 5. Said county court shall have jurisdiction in the forfeiture and judgment of all bonds and recognizances taken in criminal cases of which said court has original or appellate jurisdiction.

Sec. 6. Said county court shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all misdemeanors, except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and except misdemeanors in which the highest penalty that may be imposed by the law is a fine without imprisonment that does not exceed two hundred dollars; and said court shall have concurrent jurisdiction with that of justices of the peace in criminal cases and appellate jurisdiction, with trial de novo, in criminal cases in which justices of the peace and other inferior tribunals of said county have original jurisdiction.

Sec. 7. The district court of said county shall no longer have jurisdiction of misdemeanors, except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and shall no longer have jurisdiction of cases of which the county court of said county by provisions of this act has original or appellate jurisdiction.

Sec. 8. It shall be the duty of the district clerk of said county, within thirty days after this act shall take effect, to make full and complete transcripts of orders on the criminal and civil docket then pending before the district court of said county, of which cases by the provisions of this act original and appellate jurisdiction is given to the said county court, and to deliver said transcript, together with the original papers in each case, to the county clerk of said county, and the said county clerk shall file the same and enter said cases on the respective dockets for trial by said courts.

Sec. 9. The said county court shall also have the power to hear and determine all motions against sheriffs and other officers of the court for failure to pay over moneys collected under the process of said court, or other defalcations of duty in connection with such process, and shall have power to punish by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding three days, any person guilty of contempt of said court, and all other powers and jurisdiction conferred on county courts by the Constitution and general laws of this State.

Sec. 10. The terms of said court shall commence on the second Monday in January and on the second Monday in April and on the second Monday in July and on the second Monday in October of each year, and shall continue in session for each term until the business may be disposed of: Provided, that the county commissioners court of said county may hereafter change the terms of said court whenever it may be deemed necessary.

Sec. 11. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby expressly repealed.

Sec. 12. The importance of restoring without delay the jurisdiction of the county court of said county creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the law requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and said rule is hereby suspended, and that this act do take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is hereby so enacted.

Approved February 15, 1895.

TOWNS AND CITIES—OFFICERS—ELECTORS.

CHAP. 9.—[H. B. No. 382.] An act to amend article 347 of an act entitled "An act to adopt and establish the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas," passed March 17, 1879, and to amend article 346 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas as amended on April 6, 1881, giving the qualified voters of incorporated towns and cities the right to vote for all elective officers, as guaranteed by the Constitution.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 347 of the Revised Civil Statutes and article 346 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, as amended April 6, 1881, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows, to-wit:

Article 346. At the first election under this title, there shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city, voting by ballot, a mayor, who shall hold his office for two years from the date of his election, and until his successor shall be elected and qualified; and at the first election held under this title there shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city two aldermen from each ward in said city, one of whom shall hold his office for one year, and the other for two years from the date of their election; and the term for which each shall hold his office shall be determined at the first regular meeting after said election, by lot: Provided, that there shall be one alderman for the long term and one for the short term from each of said wards respectively: And provided, further, that at each annual election thereafter there shall be elected one alderman from each ward, who shall hold his office for two years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified: And provided, further, that where the city or town shall not be divided into wards the city council may determine by proper ordinance what number of aldermen shall go out of office in one year and the mode and manner of deciding which members shall hold for the long term and which for the short term.

Article 347. At all elections under this title the ballots of each ward shall be taken separately, the polls being opened in each ward for one day only, from eight o'clock a. m. until six o'clock p. m., with the privilege of a recess of one hour from twelve to one o'clock. Should the polls not be promptly opened for the reception of votes by eight o'clock a. m., the time thus lost shall be extended beyond the hour of six p. m. so as to secure the full period of nine hours for voting purposes. On closing the polls, the managers of election shall immediately proceed to count and cast up the votes for each candidate and certify and sign the returns in duplicate, one of which shall be sealed up and returned by the presiding officer for future use as a reference in case of a contested election; the other copy shall be sealed up with the name of the presiding officer written across the seals, and by the presiding officer, or in his absence or inability, by one of the judges or clerks, delivered in open session to the city council the next day or as soon thereafter as practicable. The officer so delivering the same shall make oath before the mayor or one of the aldermen that the returns by him delivered have not been altered or opened since being signed and sealed, as aforesaid. As received the city council shall immediately open the returns from each ward, casting up the votes of the wards for mayor, city attorney, tax assessor and collector, treasurer, city marshal, city engineer and secretary, and for aldermen of the several wards as hereinbefore provided for; and the persons receiving the highest number of votes for the office of mayor, city attorney, tax assessor and collector, treasurer, city marshal, city engineer, secretary, and aldermen shall be declared elected to their respective offices: Provided, that at the first election held under this statute the two persons from the same ward receiving the highest number of votes in the city for aldermen of the wards for which they are candidates, shall be declared elected aldermen of such wards respectively in which they were candidates; and at all subsequent elections held thereunder only one alderman shall be elected from each ward by the qualified voters of such town or city. The newly elected officers may enter upon their duties on the fifth day thereafter, Sundays excepted: Provided, that any officer may qualify at any time within thirty days after his election, otherwise the office shall be deemed vacant, and a new election held to fill the same. It shall be the duty of the secretary to notify all persons elected or appointed to office of their election or appointment, and the city council elect shall meet at the usual place of meeting on the fifth day, Sundays excepted, after their election, or as soon thereafter as possible, and be installed, under the provisions of this title.

Sec. 2. Whereas, all city elections are held in April of each year, and it being so important that aldermen be elected according to the Constitution, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency for the immediate passage of this act, and the suspension of the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days in each house, and said rule is so suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved February 27, 1895.

BONDS—CUSTODIAN OF.

CHAP. 10.—[H. B. No. 251.] An act to make and constitute the Treasurer of the State of Texas the custodian of all bonds held by the State of Texas under the provisions of an act of the Legislature of the State of Texas, approved March 24, 1885, and also an act of the Legislature of the State of Texas, approved February 1, 1889, and to define his duties in relation thereto.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Treasurer of the State of Texas is hereby made the custodian of all bonds in which the school funds of the State of Texas have been or may hereafter be invested, under the provisions of an act of the Legislature, approved March 24, 1885, and also an act of the Legislature approved February 1, 1889; and that it is hereby made his duty to keep said bonds in his custody until the same shall be paid off, discharged, or otherwise disposed of by the proper authorities of said State.

Sec. 2. Said Treasurer shall upon the payment of any installment of interest see that the proper credit is given, and that the coupons on said bonds when paid shall be properly separated therefrom and cancelled by said Treasurer.

Sec. 3. The fact that there is now no law clearly defining the duties of the Treasurer in reference to the bonds hereinbefore mentioned creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended and that this act should take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved February 28, 1895.

COURT—TEXARKANA CIVIL AND CRIMINAL.

CHAP. 11.—[S. B. No. 30.] An act entitled an act to establish a court at Texarkana, in Bowie county, to be styled "Texarkana Civil and Criminal Court," and to prescribe the jurisdiction and organization thereof; and to conform the jurisdiction of other courts thereto.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That there is hereby established and created a court to be held in the city of Texarkana, in Bowie county, Texas, which is hereby styled "Texarkana Civil and Criminal Court."

Sec. 2. Within that portion of the territory of Bowie county described in section 3 of this act, the "Texarkana Civil and Criminal Court," shall have and exercise all the jurisdiction, power and authority in both civil and criminal cases which is now or may hereafter be vested by the constitution and laws of this State in the districts courts of this State, except such jurisdiction, power and authority as are specially withheld from said court by this act, and said court shall also have original jurisdiction of all suits, complaints and pleas whatever, without regard to any distinction between law and equity, as well as of all proceedings under distress warrants issued by justices of the peace when the amount in controversy shall exceed in value two hundred ($200) dollars exclusive of interest; but said court shall have no jurisdiction in probate matters, and the jurisdiction of the county court of Bowie county as a probate court, and the jurisdiction of the district court of said county in probate matters shall not in any manner be affected, altered or changed by this act. Said Texarkana Civil and Criminal Court shall also have exclusive original jurisdiction of all the criminal cases, both felonies and misdemeanors, where the offense is committed in that portion of Bowie county described in section 3 of this act, and over which justices of the peace and mayors' or recorders' courts have not jurisdiction under the laws of this State, and shall have appellate jurisdiction of all cases both civil and criminal over which justices of the peace and mayors' and recorders' courts of cities and towns have original jurisdiction, and in which cases appeals are now or may hereafter be by law allowed to be prosecuted to the county court.

Sec. 3. [Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 19th day of February, A. Thornton, Acting Secretary of State.]

SCHOOL LANDS—AUTHORIZING REMOVAL OF TIMBER.

CHAP. 12.—[C. S. for H. B. No. 211.] An act to extend for the period of two years the time in which certain purchasers of timber on the school lands in this State may remove the timber from said lands.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all persons who have heretofore purchased timber on the school lands in this State under the provisions of the act of April 1, 1887, and the acts amendatory thereof, and who have not when this act takes effect removed the timber purchased by them from said land, and all persons claiming under said purchaser, shall have two years in addition to the time specified in their several contracts of purchase in which they may remove the timber on said lands so purchased by them: Provided, that such purchaser or purchasers, or those claiming under them, shall for the two years extension herein provided for annually pay in advance to the State Treasurer for the use of the available school fund, six per cent interest on the purchase money so paid for such timber so purchased by them respectively.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is great depression in the timber business of this State, and that the contracts of many of the purchasers of the timber on the school lands in this State will soon expire, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house of the Legislature be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 19th day of February, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

STATE ORPHANS HOME—SALE OF SURPLUS WATER.

CHAP. 13.—[H. B. No. 314.] An act authorizing the Board of Managers of the State Orphans Home at Corsicana, Texas, to sell, lease or dispose of the surplus water flowing from the artesian well on the grounds belonging to the said Orphans Home.

Sec. 2. The importance of utilizing the water now going to waste to the interest of the State creates a necessity and emergency for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act takes effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 6, 1895.

THEFT—PUNISHMENT OF.

CHAP. 14.—[S. B. No. 115.] An act to amend articles 735 and 736 of the Penal Code of the State of Texas, relating to the punishment for theft.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That articles 735 and 736 of the Penal Code of the State of Texas be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 735. Theft of property of the value of fifty dollars, or over, shall be punished by confinement in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than ten years.

Article 736. Theft of property under the value of fifty dollars shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding two years, during which time the prisoner may be put to hard work on the county roads or otherwise, and by fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by such imprisonment without fine.

Sec. 2. The fact that the dockets of the district courts of Texas are crowded, and great expense is being entailed upon the State by reason thereof, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 26th day of February, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

MONUMENT—STATE FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

CHAP. 15.—[H. B. No. 432.] An act to amend sections 1 and 3 of an act entitled "An act to permit the State Firemen's Association to erect a monument in the Capitol grounds in the city of Austin," approved March 28, 1883.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That sections 1 and 3 of the above recited act be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. That the State Firemen's Association of the State of Texas be and they are hereby permitted to erect a monument in the Capitol grounds in the city of Austin at such a place therein as may be agreed upon by the Governor, Attorney General and Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, and the proper authorities of said State Firemen's Association of the State of Texas.

Sec. 3. Whereas, the Capitol Board mentioned in said act have been superseded by the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, without having agreed upon the place for the erection of said monument; and whereas, there is no law now in force authorizing such agreement; and whereas, the patriotic firemen of the State of Texas are anxious to begin at once the work upon a monument to their heroic dead without further delay, therefore such an emergency and imperative public necessity exist that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and that this bill should be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 27th day of February, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

CITIES AND TOWNS—INCORPORATION OF.

CHAP. 16.—[S. B. No. 21.] An act to define the territory and provide for establishing the boundaries of cities and towns in this State, and to validate the incorporation of any city or town heretofore incorporated in this State in certain cases.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That no city or town in this State shall be hereafter incorporated under the provisions of the general charter for cities and towns contained in title 17 of the Revised Civil Statutes of this State with a superficial area of more than two square miles when such town or city has less than two thousand inhabitants, nor more than four square miles when such city or town has more than two thousand and less than five thousand inhabitants, nor more than nine square miles when such city or town has more than five, and less than ten thousand inhabitants. It shall be the duty of the mayor and board of aldermen immediately after they qualify as such officers to pass an ordinance causing an actual survey of the boundaries of such town to be made according to the boundaries designated in the petition for incorporation, and the field notes thereof recorded in the minute book of such town or city, and also in the record books of deeds in the county in which such town or city is situated,

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of the mayor and the board of aldermen of any town or city in this State heretofore incorporated under the above named title 17 of the Revised Civil Statutes of this State, and whose boundaries have been established so as to include more territory than is specified in section 1 of this act, to immediately cause a resurvey of the boundaries of such city or town to be made, so as not to include more territory than is provided for in section 1. Such resurvey to be made and the field notes thereof to be recorded as provided in section 1 of this act.

Sec. 3. All cities and towns in this State whose charter may be void by reason of a failure to properly define their limits, or that may have included in such limits more territory than is provided for in section 1 of this act, that shall, within ninety days from the taking effect of this act, comply with section 2 of this act, be and such charter or incorporation are hereby in all things validated, the same as if such territorial limits had at first been properly established.

Sec. 4. The fact that many towns and cities in this State have illegally included rural lands in their boundaries, which may invalidate their charters, and the further fact that many towns and cities in this State which are desirous of securing the benefits and relief herein afforded, failed through inadvertance and oversight to act under chapter 120, acts of the Twenty-third Legislature of the State of Texas, within the ninety days, as provided therein, creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and the necessity for a law properly defining and validating the boundaries of towns and cities in this State creates an emergency that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 28th day of February, A. D. 1895. but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

MERCHANTS—CLASS, TAX.

CHAP. 17.—[H. B. No. 74.] An act to provide a method of ascertaining the class of a merchant so as to determine the amount of his occupation tax, and to provide for the collection of same, and fixing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: Every person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, desiring to sell goods, wares or merchandise within this State, shall, before pursuing such occupation, pay the tax and take out a license to pursue the occupation of a merchant of the class to which he properly belongs, according to his annual purchases, as provided by law; and shall file with the tax collector an affidavit of the amount of his annual purchases for the past year, if previously engaged in such business, or part of a year if engaged in such business less than a year, and also of the estimated amount of his annual purchases for the ensuing year. Said affidavit shall be filed and preserved by the tax collector as a part of the records of his office, and shall be in substance as follows, viz.:

“The undersigned, as the representative of ———, doing business at ———, Texas, do solemnly swear that the estimate made of the annual purchases of said concern of goods, wares and merchandise for the next ensuing year does not exceed ——— thousand dollars. I further swear that the annual purchases of said concern for the past ——— months did not exceed the sum of ——— thousand dollars.”

Said affidavit shall be signed and sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oaths, and for this purpose the tax collectors of counties, cities, and towns are hereby authorized to administer oaths.

Sec. 2. If any tax collector shall issue any occupation tax receipt without first taking or filing the affidavit provided for in the foregoing section of this act, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 3. No occupation tax receipt or license taken out by a merchant of a lower class than the one to which he properly belongs, shall be any protection against a prosecution and conviction for knowingly pursuing that of a higher class and failing to pay the occupation tax due therefor.

Sec. 4. Whereas, there is now no law by which the class of a merchant can be properly ascertained so as to determine the amount of his occupation tax, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 13, 1895.

UNIVERSITY LANDS.

CHAP. 18.—[S. B. No. 110.] An act to invest the Board of Regents of the University of Texas with the management and control of the University lands.

Sec. 2. The Commissioner of the General Land Office is hereby directed to furnish as soon as practicable to the said Board of Regents complete and accurate maps and all other data necessary to show the location and condition of every tract of said University lands, and shall at all times hereafter furnish to said board such additional information as they may require, and shall at all times render to said board such assistance as may be possible and as they shall request in the discharge of the duties hereby imposed on said board.

Sec. 3. All records and accounts of transactions in University lands, and of moneys paid thereon, shall be kept in the General Land Office and in office of the Treasurer, as heretofore, and all patents shall be signed and issued as heretofore, and all moneys received on the sales or leases of said lands shall be paid to the Treasurer of the State.

Sec. 4. Whereas, it is desirable to place said University lands under the control of the Board of Regents at as early date as possible, in order that the interests of the University be properly looked after, and the greatest possible amount of revenue realized, it is declared that an imperative public necessity exists requiring the suspension of the Constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days, and the same is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the first day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

PROTECTION OF STOCKRAISERS—DESTRUCTION OF WILD ANIMALS.

CHAP. 19.—[H. B. No. 111.] An act to repeal chapter 100, General Laws of the regular session of the Twenty-second Legislature of the State of Texas, entitled "An act to protect stockraisers, farmers, and horticulturists; providing for the destruction of wolves and other wild animals; to make an appropriation therefor, and to repeal chapter 119, relating to same subject," approved April 2, 1887, and to revive chapter 119 of the Twentieth Legislature, approved April 2, 1887, entitled "An act to protect stockraisers; providing for the destruction of wolves and other wild animals."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That chapter 100, General Laws of the regular session of the Twenty-second Legislature of the State of Texas, entitled "An act to protect stockraisers, farmers, and horticulturists; providing for the destruction of wolves and other wild animals; to make an appropriation therefor, and to repeal chapter 119 relating to the same subject," approved April 2, 1887, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. That hereafter when any person shall kill in this State any wolf, either cayote or lobo, panther, Mexican lion, tiger, leopard or wildcat, he may be paid in the county in which he killed such animals the sum of fifty cents for each cayote wolf or wildcat, and one dollar for each lobo wolf, and the sum of two dollars for each panther, Mexican lion, tiger or leopard so killed.

Sec. 3. The commissioners court of any county may order to be paid to the person or persons having killed any of said animals in their respective counties as fixed in section (2) of this act, upon their exhibiting the scalps of the animals killed to the county judge of said county, accompanied by the written affidavit of such person, stating when and where he killed said animals and the kind of each.

Sec. 4. Such scalp shall consist of a sufficient portion of the said animal's hide, including the ears thereof, to determine whether the same has been taken from one of the above named animals; and the commissioners court may in all cases when it is not satisfied as to the sufficiency of the evidence before it under this act reject any and all claims. The commissioners court shall destroy all such scalps as soon as practicable.

Sec. 5. The fact that much litigation has been occasioned by said act, chapter 100, and that counties are suffering from heavy expense thereunder, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the House in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

Approved March 19, 1895.

IRRIGATION.

CHAP. 21.—[S. H. B. No. 120.] An act to encourage irrigation and to provide for the acquisition of the right to the use of water, and for the construction and maintenance of canals, ditches, flumes, dams, reservoirs and wells for irrigation, and for mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, and stockraising.

Sec. 4. The appropriation of water must be either for irrigation, mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, or stockraising.

Sec. 5. As between appropriators the first in time is the first in right.

Sec. 6. Every person, corporation, or association of persons who have constructed or may hereafter construct any ditch, canal, reservoir, dam or lake for the purposes named in this act, and taking the water from any natural stream, storage reservoir, dam or lake, shall within ninety days after this act goes into effect, or within ninety days after commencement of such construction, file and cause to be recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county where the headgate of such ditch or canal may be situated or to which said county may be attached for judicial purposes, in a well-bound book to be kept by said clerk for that purpose, a sworn statement in writing showing approximately the number of acres of land that will be irrigated, the name of such ditch or canal, the point at which the headgate thereof is situated, the size of the ditch or canal, in width and depth, and the carrying capacity thereof in cubic feet per second of time, the name of said stream from which said water is taken, the time when the work was commenced, the name of the owner or owners thereof, together with a map showing the route of such ditch or canal; and when the water is to be taken from a reservoir, dam or lake, the statement above provided for shall show in addition to the ditch and other things provided for, the locality of the proposed dam, reservoir or lake, giving the names or numbers of the surveys upon which it is to be located, its holding capacity in cubic feet of water, the acreage and surface feet of land that will be covered, and the limits of such lake, reservoir or dam, and the area of the watershed from which the storm or rain water will be collected.

Sec. 7. By compliance with the preceding provision of this act the claimant's right to the use of the water relates back to the time when the work of excavation or construction was commenced on said ditch, canal, reservoir, dam or lake: Provided, that a failure to file said statement shall in no wise work a forfeiture of such heretofore acquired rights, nor prevent such claimants of such heretofore acquired rights from establishing such rights in the courts.

Sec. 8. Any person, firm, association of persons or corporation may acquire the right to and appropriate for irrigation purposes the unappropriated waters of the ordinary flow or underflow of every running or flowing river or natural stream, and the storm or rain water of every river or natural stream, canyon, ravine, depression or watershed within those portions of the State referred to in section 1 of this act, by filing a sworn statement in writing, to be recorded as provided in section 6 of this act, declaring his or its intention of appropriating such water. Said statement shall also show approximately the number of acres of land proposed to be irrigated, the name of such ditch or canal, the point at which the headgate thereof will be situated, the size of the ditch or canal in width and depth, and the carrying capacity thereof in cubic feet per second of time, the name of the person, firm, association or corporation appropriating such water, the name of the stream, and shall attach to such statement a map showing approximately the proposed route of such ditch or canal; and when the water sought to be appropriated or acquired is storm or rain water, the statement above required shall also show or describe the locality of the proposed dam, reservoir, or lake by giving the names or numbers of the surveys upon which it is to be located, and approximately the following, that is to say, its holding capacity in cubic feet of water, the acreage of land that will be covered and the area of the watershed from which the storm or rain waters will be collected: Provided, any person, association of persons or corporation who has heretofore had a survey made of the proposed route of his or its ditch shall have a preference right at any time within ninety days from the time this act shall take effect to file the statement hereinbefore required for the appropriation of water. Within ninety days next after filing of said statement the party or corporation claiming the right to appropriate the water shall begin actual construction of the proposed ditch, canal, dam, lake or reservoir, and shall prosecute the work thereon diligently and continuously to completion.

Sec. 9. "Completion" as used in the preceding section is hereby defined to be the conducting of the water in the main canal to the place of the intended use.

Sec. 10. Whenever any person, corporation or association of persons shall become entitled to the use of any water of any river, stream, canyon, or ravine, or the storm or rain water hereinbefore described, it shall be unlawful for any person, corporation or association of persons to appropriate or divert any such water in any way, except that the owner whose land abuts on a running stream may use such water therefrom as may be necessary for drinking purposes for himself, family and employes, and for drinking purposes for his and their livestock, and any one whose land may be located within the area of the watershed from which the storm or rain waters are collected may construct on his land such dams, reservoirs or lakes as may be necessary for the storage of water for drinking purposes for such owner of land, his family and employes, and for his and their livestock: Provided, that the excess of such water not used or contracted for use by such person, corporation or association of persons for irrigation, mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, or stockraising may be appropriated by any person, corporation or association of persons in the manner hereinbefore provided for the appropriation of water.

Sec. 11. Corporations may be formed and chartered under the provisions of this act and of the general corporation laws of the State of Texas, and for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating canals, ditches, flumes, feeders, laterals, reservoirs, dams, lakes and wells, and of conducting, transferring and furnishing water to all persons entitled to the same for irrigation, mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns and stockraising, and for the purpose of building storage reservoirs for the collection and storage of water for the uses before mentioned, and for mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, and stockraising. All such corporations shall have full power and authority to make contracts for the sale of permanent water rights and to have the same secured by liens on the land or otherwise, and to lease, rent or otherwise dispose of the water controlled by such corporation for such time as may be agreed upon, and in addition to the lien on the crops hereinafter provided for, the lease or rental contract may be secured by a lien on the land or otherwise. All persons who own or hold a possessory right or title to land adjoining or contiguous to any canal, ditch, flume or lateral constructed and maintained under the provisions of this act, and who shall have secured a right to the use of water in said canal, ditch, flume, lateral, reservoir, dam or lake, shall be entitled to be supplied from such canal, ditch, flume, lateral, dam or lake with water for irrigation of such land, and for mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, and stockraising in accordance with the terms of his or their contract: Provided, that in case of shortage of water from drought, accident or other cause the water to be distributed shall be divided among all consumers pro rata according to the amount he or they may be entitled to, to the end that all shall suffer alike and preference be given to none. The sale of the permanent water right shall be an easement to the land and pass with the title thereof, and the owner thereof shall be entitled to the use of the water upon the terms provided for in his or their contract with such person or corporation, and any instrument of writing providing a permanent water right shall be admitted to record in the same manner as other instruments relating to the conveyance of land.

Sec. 12. All corporations and associations formed for the purpose of irrigation, mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, and stockraising, as provided in this act, are hereby granted the right of way, not to exceed one hundred feet in width, over all public, public free school, university and asylum lands of the State, with the use of the rock, gravel and timber on the right of way for construction purposes, and may obtain the right of way over private lands by contract. Any such corporation or association of persons, or any city or town, may also obtain the right of way over private lands, and also the land for dam sites and storage reservoirs and the water belonging to the riparian owner by condemnation, by causing the damages for any private property appropriated by any such persons, corporations or associations to be assessed and paid for as provided in cases of railroads, and the delay necessary to condemn and acquire the property needed for the ditch, dam site, reservoir and sewers for water supply and drainage or water of the riparian owner shall not work to the prejudice of the person, corporation or association of persons constructing such ditch, canal, lake, reservoir or dam, and shall not be taken into account in estimating the time for the completion of such work.

Sec. 13. All surplus water of a running stream not used or disposed of as provided in the preceding sections of this act shall be conducted back to the stream from which it was taken through a ditch or canal constructed under the provisions of this act, or through a natural channel leading back to the stream.

Sec. 14. All said persons, corporations and associations shall have the right to run along or across all roads and highways necessary in the construction of their work, and shall at all such crossings construct and maintain necessary bridges for the accommodation of the public, and shall not impair the usefulness of such road or highway: Provided, that if any public road or highway or public bridges should be upon the ground necessary for the dam site, reservoir or lake, it shall be the duty of the commissioners court to change said road and to remove such bridges that the same may not interfere with the construction of the proposed dam, reservoir or lake: Provided, further, that the expense of making such change shall be paid by the person, firm or corporation owning such dam site, lake, reservoir or canal.

Sec. 15. Any person who shall wilfully or through gross negligence injure any irrigating canal or its appurtenances, wells, dams or reservoirs, or who shall waste the water thereof, or shall take the water therefrom without authority, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each offense shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

Sec. 16. Any person who shall wilfully or maliciously injure or destroy any irrigation canal or its appurtenances, or any irrigation reservoir, dam, well, or any of the appurtenances thereto to the extent of fifty dollars, or if said injury shall amount in value to fifty dollars, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and for each offense shall be punished by confinement in the State penitentiary for not less than two nor more than ten years.

Sec. 17. Unless such persons, association of persons, or corporation shall fence their said ditch, canal, reservoir, dam or lake, and keep the same securely fenced, then there shall accrue in their favor no cause of action against owners of livestock for any trespass thereon.

Sec. 18. Every person, corporation or association of persons which has heretofore constructed or which may hereafter construct any ditch, canal, dam, lake or reservoir for the purpose of irrigation, and who shall lease or rent the water from said ditch, canal, lake, dam or reservoir, to any person or association of persons or corporation owning any lands subject to irrigation from any such ditch, canal, lake, dam or reservoir, such person, corporation or association of persons owning such ditch, canal, lake, dam or reservoir shall have a preference lien, superior to every other lien, upon the crop or crops raised upon the land thus irrigated under such lease or contract.

Sec. 19. Any corporation organized under the provisions of the general laws of this State, or the provisions of this act, for the purpose of irrigation, shall have the power to acquire lands by voluntary donation or purchase or in payment of stock or water rights, and to hold and dispose of all such land and other property, and to borrow money for the construction, maintenance and operation of its canals, ditches, flumes, feeders, reservoirs and wells, and may issue bonds and mortgage its corporate and other property and franchises to secure the payment of any debts contracted for the same: Provided, all lands acquired by said corporations, except such as are used for the construction, maintenance and operation of said canals, ditches, laterals, feeders, reservoirs, dams, lakes and wells, shall be alienated within twenty years from the date of acquiring said lands, or be subject to judicial forfeiture.

Sec. 20. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 21. Whereas, it is necessary that irrigating canals should be built at once to afford water for irrigating purposes for the present year, therefore an emergency exists and an imperative public necessity demands the suspension of the constitutional rule which requires a bill to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 9th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE—DISQUALIFICATION OF.

CHAP. 22.—[H. B. No. 65.] An act to amend articles 1563, chapter 5, title 32, of the Revised Statutes of Texas, relating to disqualification of justices of the peace.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 1563, chapter 5, title 32, of the Revised Civil Statutes shall hereafter read as follows:

Article 1563. That if any justice of the peace shall be disqualified from sitting in an [any] civil case pending or which may hereafter be brought before him, or should such justice of the peace be sick or absent from the precinct, the parties to said suit may agree upon some person who is qualified to try said case, and in the event said parties fail to agree upon some person to try said cause at the first term of the court after service is perfect, it shall be the duty of the county judge in whose county said case is pending, upon the application of the justice of the peace in whose court said cause is pending, or upon the application of either party to said suit, to appoint some person who is qualified to try said cause, and the fact of the disqualification of the justice of the peace and the selection by agreement or appointment of some other person to try said cause shall be noted on the docket of said justice in said cause.

Sec. 2. Whereas, much inconvenience accrues to litigants in this State in cases in justice courts for the want of a law authorizing them to agree upon some person to try cases in which the regular justice is disqualified, therefore, an imperative public necessity exists requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it [is] so enacted.

Approved March 21, 1895.

IRRIGATION—AMENDMENT.

CHAP. 23.—[S. B. No. 262.] An act to amend sections 10, 11 and 19 of an act heretofore passed at the present session of the Legislature entitled "An act to encourage irrigation, and to provide for the acquisition of the right to the use of water, and for the construction and maintenance of canals, ditches, flumes, dams, reservoirs and wells for irrigation, and for mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, and stockraising."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That sections 10, 11 and 19 of an act entitled "An act to encourage irrigation, and to provide for the acquisition of the right to the use of water, and for the construction and maintenance of canals, ditches, flumes, dams, reservoirs and wells for irrigation and for mining, milling, the construction of waterworks for cities and towns, and stockraising," be and the same are hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Section 10. Whenever any person, corporation or association of persons shall become entitled to the use of any water of any river, stream, canyon or ravine, or the storm or rain water hereinbefore described, it shall be unlawful for any person, corporation or association of persons to appropriate or divert any such water in any way, except that the owner whose land abuts on a running stream may use such water therefrom as may be necessary for domestic purposes, and any one whose land may be located within the area of the watershed from which the storm or rain waters are collected may construct on his land such dams, reservoirs or lakes as may be necessary for the storage of water for domestic purposes for such owner of land: Provided, that the excess of such water not used or contracted for use by such person, corporation or association of persons for irrigation, mining, milling, waterworks for cities or towns, or stockraising, may be appropriated by any person, corporation or association of persons in the manner hereinbefore provided for the appropriation of water.

Section 11. Corporations may be formed and chartered under the provisions of this act and of the general corporation laws of the State of Texas, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating canals, ditches, flumes, feeders, laterals, reservoirs, dams, lakes and wells, and of conducting and transferring water to all persons entitled to the same for irrigation, mining, milling, to cities and towns for waterworks, and for stockraising, and for the purpose of building storage reservoirs for the collection and storage of water for the purposes before mentioned. All such corporations shall have full power and authority to make contracts for the sale of permanent water rights, and to have the same secured by liens on the land or otherwise, and to lease, rent or otherwise dispose of the water controlled by such corporation for such time as may be agreed upon, and in addition to the lien on the crops hereinafter provided for, the lease or rental contract may be secured by a lien on the land or otherwise. All persons who own or hold a possessory right or title to lands adjoining or contiguous to any canal, ditch, flume or lateral constructed and maintained under the provisions of this act, and who shall have secured a right to the use of water in said canal, ditch, flume, lateral, reservoir, dam or lake, shall be entitled to be supplied from such canal, ditch, flume, lateral, dam or lake with water for irrigation of such land, and for mining, milling and stockraising in accordance with the terms of his or their contract: Provided, that if the person, association or corporation owning or controlling such water, and the person who owns or holds a possessory right or title to land adjoining or contiguous to any canal, ditch, flume or lateral constructed and maintained under the provisions of this act fail to agree upon a price for a permanent water right, or for the use or rental of the necessary water to irrigate the land of such person and for mining, milling and stockraising, such person, firm, association or corporation shall, nevertheless, if such person, firm, association or corporation has or controls any water not contracted to others, furnish the necessary water to such person to irrigate his lands, and for mining, milling and stockraising, at such prices as may be reasonable and just: Provided, further, that in case of shortage of water from drought, accident or other cause, the water to be distributed shall be divided among all consumers pro rata, according to the amount he or they may be entitled to, to the end that all shall suffer alike, and preference be given to none. The sale of the permanent water right shall be an easement to the land and pass with the title thereof, and the owner thereof shall be entitled to the use of the water upon the terms provided in his or their contract with such person or corporation, or in case no contract is entered into, then at just and reasonable prices. Any instrument of writing providing a permanent water right shall be admitted to record in the same manner as other instruments relating to the conveyance of land.

Section 19. Any corporation organized under the provisions of the general laws of this State or the provisions of this act, for the purpose of irrigation, shall have the power to acquire lands by voluntary donation or purchase or in payment of stock or water rights, and to hold and dispose of all such land and other property, and to borrow money for the construction, maintenance and operation of its canals, ditches, flumes, feeders, reservoirs, dams, lakes and wells, and may issue bonds and mortgage its corporate and other property and franchises to secure the payment of any debts contracted for same: Provided, no corporation shall issue stock or bonds except for money paid, labor done, or property actually received, and all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void: And provided, further, all lands acquired by said corporation, except such as are used for the construction, maintenance and operation of said canals, ditches, laterals, feeders, reservoirs, dams, lakes and wells, shall be alienated within fifteen years from the date of acquiring said lands, or be subject to judicial forfeiture.

Sec. 2. Whereas, it is necessary that irrigation canals should be built at once to afford water for irrigating purposes for the present year, therefore, an emergency exists and an imperative public necessity demands the suspension of the constitutional rule which requires a bill to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 21, 1895.

PUBLIC FREE SCHOOLS.

CHAP. 24.—[C. S. for H. Bs. Nos. 3 and 7.] An act to amend section 58 of chapter 122 of the general laws enacted by the Twenty-third Legislature, entitled "An act to provide for a more efficient system of public free schools for the State of Texas; defining the school funds," etc., approved May 20, 1893; to provide for separate boards of trustees for the white and colored schools of each school district; to provide for the maintenance of separate schools for white and colored children of each district; to provide for the apportionment of the school funds of each district to the respective schools thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 58 of said act be amended so that hereafter it shall read as follows:

Section 58. White and colored children shall not be taught in the same schools, but impartial provision shall be made for both races. Three white trustees shall in all cases be elected for the control and management of the white schools of the district, and three colored trustees shall be elected for the control and management of the schools for colored children. The election for white and colored trustees shall be held at the same times and places, and the ballots cast for white trustees shall be deposited in a separate box from that used for the ballots cast for colored trustees. The returns of the election shall be made to the county judge, who shall deliver the same to the commissioners court to be canvassed and the result declared as in cases of other county elections. The returns shall show distinctly the separate votes for white and colored trustees, and the county clerk shall certify to the county superintendent the white and colored trustees elected for each district, and the county superintendent shall issue the commissions of trustees. Each year after the scholastic census of the county is completed, the county superintendent shall, if any district has less than twenty pupils of scholastic age, either white or colored, have authority to consolidate said district as to said white or colored schools with other adjoining districts, and to designate the board of trustees which shall control the white or colored school of such consolidated district. But this shall be done before the apportionment is made, and the apportionment shall be made with respect to such consolidation. The white trustees of each district shall be the trustees of the district for all purposes having relation to the management or control of the white schools, and the fund apportioned for their support, and the colored trustees shall be the trustees for all purposes in reference to the management or control of the colored schools and the funds apportioned for their support. The apportionment to the white and colored schools of each district shall be made in the following manner: The county superintendent, upon the receipt of the certificate issued by the Board of Education for the State fund belonging to his county, shall apportion the same to the several school districts (not including the independent school districts of the county), making a pro rata distribution as per the scholastic census, and shall at the same time apportion the income arising from the county school funds to all the school districts, including the independent school districts of the county, making a pro rata distribution as per scholastic census. Within thirty days after said apportionment is made by the county superintendent of education, the white and colored boards of trustees of such district shall, if possible, agree upon a division of the funds of the district between the white and colored schools, and shall fix the term for which the schools of the district shall be maintained for the year. Should they agree upon a division of the funds of the district or upon the length of the term for which the schools of the district shall be maintained, they shall at once certify their agreement to the county superintendent, who shall not approve any contract with teachers of the district until said agreement is received. Should said boards of trustees fail to agree upon a division of the funds of the district or upon the length of the term for which the schools of the district shall be maintained, they shall at once certify their disagreement to the county superintendent, who shall proceed to fix the school term of such district and declare the division of the school fund of the district between the white and colored schools therein, endeavoring, as far as practicable, to provide for the schools of such district a school term of the same length.

Sec. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Whereas, the near approach of the new scholastic year creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 21, 1895.

DIRECT TAX—MODE OF DISBURSEMENT.

CHAP. 25.—[H. B. No. 300.] An act to amend section 1 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the prompt, speedy and economical disbursement of the direct tax refunded to the State of Texas under the act of the Fifty-first Congress, approved March 2, 1891," as enacted by the regular session of the Twenty-third Legislature in 1893, being chapter 30 (S. H. B. No. 67), and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 1 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the prompt, speedy and economical disbursement of the direct tax refunded to the State of Texas under the act of the Fifty-first Congress, approved March 2, 1891," as enacted by the regular session of the Twenty-third Legislature in 1893, being chapter 30 (S. H. B. No. 67), be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. That all claims against the direct tax, penalties, costs and interest refunded to the State of Texas in trust for those from whom the same was collected, or their legal representatives, under the act of the Fifty-first Congress, approved March 2, 1891, shall be filed under the direction of the Governor, who shall cause a claim register to be kept by the Comptroller of Public Accounts showing the counties in which and by whom the tax was paid, by whom the claim for reimbursement is made, the number of the claim and the date of the filing, the award of the Comptroller, the name of the payee, the number, date and amount of the warrant. All claims now on file with the Comptroller by virtue of previous laws or joint resolutions shall be considered as filed under this act, and no refiling thereof shall be necessary, and they shall be acted upon the same as if this act had been in force at the date of the filing thereof.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this amendment be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that there is now a large sum of the fund mentioned in this act in the hands of the State Treasurer, and that there is now no law upon the statute books of the State allowing the Comptroller to issue warrants to persons who are entitled to same and who have long been deprived of the use and benefits of said fund, creates an imperative public necessity that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 22, 1895.

SMITH AND GREGG COUNTIES—TRANSFER OF CASES AND WRITS OF ERROR FROM COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS AT DALLAS TO COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS AT GALVESTON

OHAP. 26.—[H. B. No. 562.] An act to transfer cases and writs of error now on appeal from the counties of Smith and Gregg in Court of Civil Appeals at Dallas, to the Court of Civil Appeals at Galveston.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all cases, whether on appeal or by writ of error, now pending in the Court of Civil Appeals at Dallas from the counties of Smith and Gregg shall be transferred to the Court of Civil Appeals at Galveston. The clerk of the said court at Dallas shall forthwith transmit to the clerk of the said court at Galveston the records and all papers in said cases, together with a copy of the orders therein.

Sec. 2. The fact that the docket of the Court of Civil Appeals at Dallas being so crowded, and for the relief of said court and the convenience and relief of litigants of said counties, an imperative public necessity exists requiring that the constitutional rule which requires that bills be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 22, 1895.

DELTA COUNTY COURT—JURISDICTION RESTORED.

CHAP. 27.—[H. B. No. 165.] An act to restore to and confer upon the county court of Delta county the civil and criminal jurisdiction heretofore belonging to said county under the Constitution and general statutes of the State, and to conform the jurisdiction of the district court of said county to said change.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county court of Delta county shall hereafter have exclusive original jurisdiction in civil cases where matters in controversy shall exceed in value two hundred dollars, and not exceed five hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, and shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the district court of said county when the matter in controversy shall exceed five hundred dollars and not exceed one thousand dollars, exclusive of interest.

Sec. 2. Said county court shall have appellate jurisdiction in civil cases over which justice courts have original jurisdiction when the judgment of the court appealed from or the amount in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, exclusive of cost, and said county court shall have power to have [hear] and determine cases brought up from the justice court by certiorari under the provisions of the rules of the Revised Civil Statutes relating thereto.

Sec. 3. The county judge of said county shall have authority either in term time or in vacation to grant writs of mandamus, injunction, sequestration, garnishment, attachment, certiorari, supersedeas, and all other writs necessary to the enforcement of the jurisdiction of the said court, and shall also have power to issue writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the Constitution has not exclusively conferred the power on the district court or the judge thereof.

Sec. 4. Said county court shall have jurisdiction in the forfeiture and judgment on all bonds and recognizances taken in criminal cases, of which criminal cases said court has jurisdiction.

Sec. 5. Said county court shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all misdemeanors, except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and except cases in which the highest penalty of fine that may be imposed under the law may not exceed two hundred dollars, and said court shall also have appellate jurisdiction in criminal cases of which justices of the peace and other inferior tribunals of said county have original jurisdiction.

Sec. 6. The district court of Delta county shall no longer have jurisdiction in cases in which the county court of said county by the provisions of this act has exclusive original or appellate jurisdiction; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the district court of Delta county within thirty days from the passage of this act to make a full and complete transcript of all orders on his docket in cases now pending before the said district court of which cases by the terms of this act exclusive jurisdiction is given to the county court, and to deliver said transcript, together with the original papers and certified bill of cost, to the clerk of said county court, and said county clerk shall enter said case or cases on his docket for trial by said county court.

Sec. 7. The county court of said county shall hereafter hold its regular terms of civil or criminal business as provided in the Constitution and general laws of the State, and process heretofore issued from the district court of said county in cases to be transferred under this act to the county court shall be returnable to the first term of the county court, and all civil cases transferred shall be entered as appearance cases upon the docket of said county court.

Sec. 8. The county court of said county of Delta shall have as now the general jurisdiction of probate courts for the probate of wills, appointment of guardians of minors, idiots and lunatics, persons non compos mentis and common drunkards, and for issuance of letters testamentary and of administrators, settlement of accounts of administrators and guardians, and the settlement and distribution of decedent's estates, and the apprenticeship of minors and all other necessary powers conferred by law on courts of probate.

Sec. 9. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Sec. 10. Whereas, the near approach of the district court in and for Delta county creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 12th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

PRIVATE CORPORATIONS—CHARTERS RESTORED AND REVIVED.

CHAP. 28.—[S. B. No. 183.] An act to restore and revive the charters of private corporations chartered under the laws of the State of Texas, and all permits issued by the State of Texas to foreign corporations to transact business within this State, which have from failure to pay their annual franchise tax lapsed or been declared forfeited by the Secretary of State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That any private domestic corporation chartered under the laws of the State of Texas, whose charter has been declared forfeited by the Secretary of State, and each and every foreign corporation that has heretofore received a permit to do business under the laws of this State, whose permit has been canceled for its failure to pay its franchise taxes as provided by law, may have its charter revived and reinstated as it existed prior to such failure to pay taxes and declaration of forfeiture upon the payment within ninety days after this act takes effect to the Secretary of State of all taxes, together with a penalty of five dollars. Upon so doing the charter of such corporation shall be revived and reinstated as it existed prior to the date of such forfeiture or lapse of charter: Provided that the provisions of this bill shall not apply to any corporation whose charter has been declared forfeited by a judicial proceeding instituted for that purpose.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there are in this State some private domestic corporations for the development of the mineral and other resources and valuable products of the State which have by oversight neglected to pay said taxes when they became due; and, whereas, the State is desirous of collecting the revenue due the State from such corporations, and it is to the interest and material development of the State that such corporations continue to do business, and there is no law in effect for their relief, therefore, an emergency exists and imperative public necessity demands that the constitutional rule requiring a bill to be read on three several days be suspended and that this law take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 29, 1895.

Sec. 2. That all process issued or served before this act goes into effect, returnable to the district courts in said judicial district, shall be returnable to said courts as fixed by the terms of this act; and said process is hereby legalized and validated, and all grand and petit jurors selected and drawn under existing laws in any of the counties of said judicial district shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the next term of the district court of the respective counties held after this act takes effect, and all appearance bonds and recognizances taken in and for said courts shall bind the parties therein obligated to appear at the next term of such court held under this act.

Sec. 3. That all laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The great amount of business now before the Legislature rendering it improbable that this bill can be read on three several days, and the existing inconvenience in attending the courts in said judicial district as now arranged, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency requiring the constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days to be suspended, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage.

LIMITATION.

CHAP. 30.—[H. B. No. 25.] An act to amend article 3201 of the Revised Statutes of Texas.

3. A person imprisoned;

The time during which such disability shall continue shall not be deemed any portion of the time limited for the commencement of such suit, or the making of such defense; and such person shall have the same time after the removal of his disability that is allowed to others by the provisions of this chapter: Provided, that limitation shall not begin to run against married women until they arrive at the age of twenty-one years; and, further, that their disability shall continue one year from and after the passage of this act, and that they shall have thereafter the same time allowed others by the provisions hereof; and, further, that this act shall in no way affect suits that are now or may be pending when the same takes effect, and all such suits shall be tried and disposed of under the law now in force.

LANDS—VALIDATING CERTIFICATES.

CHAP. 31.—[S. B. No. 138.] An act to validate certain titles to lands located by virtue of certificates issued to railroad companies and now owned by purchasers in actual good faith for value, their heirs or assigns, and by actual settlers, or belonging to the public free school, university or asylum funds.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the titles to all lands located by virtue of certificates issued to railroad companies in whole or in part for sidings, switches or turnouts, and which lands were transferred by any of said companies or their duly appointed receivers or assigns prior to the first day of January, A. D. 1891, to purchasers in actual good faith for value, and are now owned by such purchasers, their heirs or assigns, be and the same are hereby validated to such purchasers, their heirs or assigns, and also to all actual settlers on such lands so far as the State may have any claim, and that the titles to all public free school, university or asylum lands located by virtue of such certificates are also validated, whether the locations were voidable or not by reason of their having been made by the wrong surveyor: Provided, that this act shall not apply to lands for the recovery of which suit as has already been instituted by the State, nor be construed to validate locations made on lands that were at the time appropriated or reserved from such locations, nor shall it be construed to in any manner apply to or affect the rights of third parties heretofore acquired in good faith: Provided, further, this act shall not apply or be held to validate titles in the following other cases: (1) Where said lands were transferred through foreclosure proceedings against such companies to trustees or mortgagees or other persons or corporations interested in mortgages on said lands, or who held said lands for such interested persons or corporations, and where the apparent title to said lands was still in said companies or their receivers or their transferees at such foreclosure sale on January 1, 1891, and have not been subsequently transferred to actual settlers on such land or to bona fide purchasers thereof for value and without notice. (2) Where said lands have been transferred by said companies in evasion and fraud of the laws of alienation applicable thereto and the title is now in the name of the original vendees of said companies.

Sec. 2. The great amount of business before this Legislature rendering it improbable that this bill can be read on three several days, and the fact that by the decisions of the Supreme Court of Texas a cloud has been cast upon the titles to lands of many citizens, purchasers in actual good faith for value, and which cloud this act is intended to remove, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

The receipt of the State Treasurer shall be evidence of the payment of such taxes, and no occupation taxes shall be levied upon express companies by any county, city or town in this State: Provided, this shall not be construed to prohibit the levy of State, county and municipal taxes upon the real and personal property of such companies. Each and every express company failing or refusing to file the report herein required and pay the required taxes shall forfeit to the State twenty-five dollars for each day said report and payment are delayed. For the purpose of suit to recover the taxes and forfeitures venue and jurisdiction is hereby expressly conferred upon the courts of Travis county, and service upon any officer or agent of such company within this State shall in all respects be held legal and valid.

Sec. 2. That part of each act of 1889 levying an occupation tax of one thousand dollars upon express companies, and all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act, are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The importance of this bill creates an emergency and a public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days be suspended, and said rule is hereby suspended.

Approved April 6, 1895.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

Section 1. CONFEDERATE HOME.

CHAP. 36.—[H. B. No. 540.] An act to amend chapter 14, General Lws of 1891, being an act entitled "An act to authorize the transfer of the Confederate Home at Austin from private to State management, and to establish said Home as a State institution, and provide for its support," approved February 27, 1891.

Whereas, the home for the support of the maimed, disabled and indigent ex-Confederate soldiers and sailors, established at Austin by the contributions of the humane and benevolent of all sections of the Union, which has been managed for some years with marked economy by the John B. Hood Camp of Confederate Veterans, a private corporation duly incorporated under the laws of the State of Texas, cannot, without rapid exhaustion of its resources, provide for the increasing number of veterans who by reason of age and infirmity are unable to obtain by their own exertions the necessary means of subsistence; and,

Whereas, it is not deemed to be within the constitutional power of the Legislature to contribute to the maintenance of said home as a private institution; and,

Whereas, it is now proposed by the said John B. Hood Camp, Confederate Veterans, to transfer to the State of Texas the present Confederate Home, situated on West Sixth street, city of Austin, Travis county, Texas, on condition that the State shall assume the control and maintenance of said Confederate Home, and it is most fitting that the State should make some adequate provision for this large and increasing class of helpless and indigent citizens; now, therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That there shall be established and maintained at the city of Austin a home to be known as "The Texas Confederate Home" for the maintenance of indigent and disabled ex-Confederate soldiers and sailors within this State, the same to be located on the grounds now known as the Confederate Home, and now under the control and management of the John B. Hood Camp, Confederate Veterans: Provided, that the said John B. Hood Camp, Confederate Veterans, shall within twenty days from the time this act shall go into effect make and execute to the State of Texas, in the manner hereinafter provided, a deed of transfer of the said real estate and all the personal property of every description now in and on said grounds, and shall also release and relinquish to the State all its interest in the building known as the Temporary Capitol, which they acquired by virtue of a certain lease executed in the name of the State of Texas, in pursuance of an act at the regular session of the Twenty-first Legislature, entitled "An act to lease the Temporary Capitol building in the city of Austin to the board of directors of the John B. Hood Camp of Confederate Veterans."

Sec. 2. That all deeds and other instruments conveying property for the purposes herein mentioned shall be in the name of the State of Texas, for the use of the Confederate Home.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall appoint a board of five ex-Confederate soldiers for the management of said home, said managers to remain in office two years, or until their successors are appointed and qualified; and they shall be governed in their regulations of the affairs of said home by the laws now in existence relative to the Deaf, Dumb and Blind institutions of this State, so far as the same may be applicable, and shall make and prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the internal government, discipline and management of the home, and shall have power to enforce obedience to and compliance with said rules and regulations by discharging from the home, if in its judgment it be necessary, any inmate who may violate said rules and regulations; and said board shall be required to make such examinations from time to time as it may deem necessary, as to the qualifications and record as a soldier in the Confederate army or navy of any inmate, and to discharge at once any said inmates who procured admission to the home by fraud or misrepresentation; and said board shall every three months cause to be examined by a board of physicians consisting of the home physician and two others not connected with the home, any inmate who may be designated by the superintendent and the home physician, or by any member of the board of managers, as to the physical condition of such inmate, and if it be shown from said examination and report of said examining board that any inmate so examined has sufficiently recovered from his disabilities to be able to earn a living, such inmate shall be given an honorable discharge from the home, with transportation to the place from which he entered the home: Provided, however, that such inmate be given twenty days notice of his dismissal, and that he be subject to all the rules and regulations governing the home during said twenty days, or such part of that time as he may remain in the home after said notice of dismissal be given. The two physicians assisting the home physician in such examinations shall be selected by the board of managers, and they shall be paid for such service two dollars and fifty cents each for each examination made by them; and that said board of managers shall also have charge of all the property received from the John B. Hood Camp, Confederate Veterans, or from any other source, for the maintenance of said home. Said board of managers shall make annual reports to the Governor on the first day of each December, embracing a full statement of all expenditures and transactions of the institution for the fiscal year next preceding. They shall visit the home at least once each month.

Sec. 4. The said board of managers shall appoint a superintendent who shall be an ex-Confederate soldier, whose duties of office shall be the supervision of the affairs of said home, keeping the accounts of the same and its general management, under the direction of the board of managers. He shall be under the control of and subject to removal (for cause duly spread upon the records of said home) by said board, and unless sooner removed by said board for cause, shall hold his office for two years, or until his successor shall be appointed and qualified. In addition to his other duties he shall keep in a book, prepared for that purpose, the name and age of each inmate, date of admission to the home, the company and regiment or other command or capacity in which the military service was performed, and the State from which he entered the service, and such other data concerning the history of the inmates as the board of managers may prescribe.

Sec. 5. The superintendent of said home shall receive a salary of fifteen hundred dollars per annum.

Sec. 6. All applications for admission to said home must show on the oath of applicant:

1. Name of applicant.
2. His age.
3. His residence (county and postoffice address).
4. The company, regiment, brigade, and army in which he served.
5. That he is disabled and indigent, and is not receiving a pension from any source, and is now a bona fide citizen of Texas. And further (if he did not serve in a Texas command) that he was a bona fide resident of Texas on January first, 1895. Proof of the honorable service of applicant, as stated by himself, must be made by affidavit of two reputable persons, or by his written discharge, duly authenticated with sufficient proof of identity, or such other proof in manner and form as may be entirely satisfactory to the board of managers. The application must also be accompanied by a certificate of a regular practicing physician that the applicant is unable to provide a support for himself, giving the character of the disability, and that the applicant is not a lunatic and is not afflicted with any contagious or infectious disease.

Sec. 7. All applications for admission to said home shall be referred to and passed upon by the board of managers, or a committee of said board.

Sec. 8. For the purpose of carrying into effect this law, a sufficient sum, not to exceed the sum of one hundred thousand dollars for any one year, shall be appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated for additional buildings and grounds, and improvements of the same, and the support and maintenance of the said Confederate Home, subject to withdrawal as needed upon the order of the board of managers by warrant issued by the Comptroller. All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 9. Whereas, there is now a large number of worthy applicants for admission to the home who are without homes and the necessary means of support, but who can not be admitted on account of the want of room; and whereas, it is important to said applicants that this bill should become a law at an early day; therefore, an emergency and imperative public necessity exists requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force immediately from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 12, 1895.

CITIES AND TOWNS—VALIDATING THE INCORPORATION OF.

CHAP. 37.—[H. B. No. 597.] An act to validate the incorporation of cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over which have heretofore attempted to be made under certain conditions.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over which have heretofore attempted to accept the provisions of chapter 1, title 17, of the Revised Civil Statutes, and which have attempted to be incorporated under the provisions of said general law, but which said attempted incorporation is invalid by reason of the failure of said cities or towns to comply with all the requirements of law relating to the incorporation of towns or villages, but which said cities or towns have from and after the dates of their several efforts to accept the provisions of law relating to the incorporation of cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over, exercised the functions of cities or towns of the class named, and been recognized as such cities or towns, be and are hereby declared to be cities of one thousand inhabitants or over, and their incorporation as such is hereby in all things validated: Provided, that nothing in this act shall be held to validate the incorporation of cities or towns that had less than one thousand inhabitants at the time of their attempted incorporation as such cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there are many cities in Texas of one thousand inhabitants or more which have heretofore attempted to accept the provisions of the general law as stated in the preceding section, and have attempted to incorporate themselves but have failed by reason of the failure of said cities to comply with all the requirements of law relating to the incorporation of towns and villages, but have nevertheless been recognized as cities, and have borrowed money, incurred debts, purchased property and levied taxes, built school houses and engaged in many different enterprises for the public good; and whereas, the corporate existence of many of these cities is threatened by legal proceedings by which the creditors of said cities would be without remedy, and the public interest greatly injured, therefore an emergency and an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and the same is hereby suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 30th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Tom C. Thornton, Acting Secretary of State.]

HARBOR ISLAND—SALE OF.

CHAP. 38.—[S. B. No. 270.] An act to authorize the Aransas Pass Harbor Company to purchase Harbor Island, on the coast of Texas, in order to encourage the procuring of deep water at Aransas Pass.

Whereas, the Aransas Pass Harbor Company has arranged with certain capitalists to furnish the money to secure deep water over the bar at Aransas Pass on the gulf coast of Texas upon certain conditions, among others that said Aransas Pass Harbor Company acquire the title to Harbor Island, situated near said Aransas Pass; and

Whereas, deep water harbors, docks and wharves on the gulf coast of Texas are of great importance to the development and prosperity of the State of Texas and the entire West and Northwest; now, therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Aransas Pass Harbor Company shall be permitted to purchase from the State of Texas, at two dollars per acre, Harbor Island, situated near Aransas Pass, on the gulf coast of Texas: Provided, that the sale hereby authorized shall not include the twenty-five acres patented to the United States government for Aransas lighthouse; nor shall it in any way interfere with the State keeping the quarantine station on said island as long as the State desires to do so: And be it further provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to affect any rights acquired before the passage of this act.

Sec. 2. Upon the written application of said Aransas Pass Harbor Company to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, accompanied by one-fifth of the purchase money for said island, together with the field notes and plat officially made by the proper county surveyors, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall execute his receipt for the money when paid, and plat the field notes upon the maps of his office, and the remainder of said purchase money may be paid thereafter at any time within five years, the deferred payments to bear interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, payable annually, until said purchase money is fully paid. One-half of the proceeds of the sale of said island shall belong to the permanent school fund and one-half to the general revenue of the State. If the said Aransas Pass Harbor Company shall fail to pay the annual interest upon any part of the purchase money when said interest shall become due, or shall fail to pay the principal when the same shall become due, then all rights acquired under the purchase, with all payments made thereon, shall be forfeited without judicial ascertainment of such forfeiture, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall endorse upon the contract of purchase that the same is forfeited, whereby all rights so acquired shall be forfeited and revert to the State.

Sec. 3. No patent shall issue to said Aransas Pass Harbor Company for said land purchased and paid for until said company has procured a depth of twenty feet of water at mean gulf tide over the bar of Aransas Pass, nor until the same has been maintained for two years thereafter: Provided, that said company shall obtain a depth of fifteen feet of water at mean gulf tide over said bar by the 15th day of April, A. D. 1896, and twenty feet of water at mean gulf tide over said bar by the 1st day of September, A. D. 1896.

Sec. 4. Should said Aransas Pass Harbor Company fail to obtain fifteen feet of water at mean gulf tide over said bar by said 15th day of April, A. D. 1896, or twenty feet of water at mean gulf tide over said bar by said 1st of September, 1896, or to maintain said last named depth for two years after said depth has been obtained, then said Aransas Pass Harbor Company shall forfeit all purchase money paid and all right to purchase under the provisions of this act. The depth of water over said bar shall be determined at mean gulf tide by the engineer in charge of the work and by a competent engineer appointed by the Governor of the State of Texas, whose joint certificate as to said depths shall be sufficient authority for the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue the patent to the Aransas Pass Harbor Company, when all purchase money and interest has been paid as provided.

Sec. 5. The privileges and rights granted under this act shall not be exercised so as to hinder or interfere with the completion of any terminal or suburban railroad heretofore chartered so far as any rights which it now has under said charter to build to and upon Harbor Island, nor to hinder or interfere with any such terminal or suburban railroad which now has the right under its charter to acquire and control depot grounds, wharf grounds and deep water fronts.

Sec. 6. The great importance of beginning the work and procuring deep water at the earliest possible day, and the fact that the Legislature will soon adjourn, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency which demands that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 29th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him not returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Tom C. Thornton, Acting Secretary of State.]

ANGELINA COUNTY COURT—DIMINISHING CIVIL AND CRIMINAL JURISDICTION OF.

CHAP. 39.—[H. B. No. 545.] An act to diminish the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the County Court of Angelina County, and repeal all laws in conflict therewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county court of Angelina county shall have and exercise the general jurisdiction of a probate court; shall probate wills, appoint guardians of minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis and common drunkards, grant letters testamentary and of administration, settle accounts of executors, administrators and guardians, transact all business appertaining to the estates of deceased persons, minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis and common drunkards, including the partition, settlement and distribution of estates of deceased persons, and to apprentice minors as provided for by law, and issue all writs necessary for the enforcement of its own jurisdiction, to punish contempt under such provisions as are now or may be provided by general law governing county courts throughout the State; but the said county court of Angelina county shall have no other civil or criminal jurisdiction whatsoever.

Sec. 2. That the district court of Angelina county shall have and exercise jurisdiction in all civil and criminal matters and causes over which by the laws of this State the county court of said county would have jurisdiction, except as provided in section 1 of this act; and all causes other than probate matters and such as are provided by section 1 of this act be and the same are hereby transferred to the district court of Angelina county; and all writs and process relating to any civil or criminal matters not included in the subject matter of jurisdiction prescribed in section 1 of this act, issued by or out of said county court of Angelina county, be and the same are hereby made returnable to the next term of the district court of said county after this act takes effect.

Sec. 3. That the county clerk of Angelina county be and he is hereby required within thirty days after this act takes effect to make a full and complete transcript of all entries upon his civil and criminal dockets heretofore made in causes which by section 2 are required to be transferred to the district court of said county, and deliver the same to the district clerk of said county, together with all the papers to such causes pertaining and a certified bill of costs in each case, and all such causes shall be immediately docketed by said district clerk, and such civil causes so transferred shall stand on the docket of said court as appearance cases for the next succeeding term, and all criminal cases shall be docketed and disposed of in the same manner as if the same had originally been triable in said district court, and all process now issued and returnable to said county court shall be returnable to said district court.

Sec. 4. That this act shall not be construed to in any manner affect judgments heretofore rendered by said county court of Angelina county pertaining to matters and causes which by section 2 of this act are transferred to the district court of Angelina county; but the county clerk of said county shall issue all executions and orders of sale as the judgments in such cases require, and such executions and orders of sale and proceedings thereunder shall be as valid and binding, to all intents and purposes, as though the changes had not been made as by section 2 therein contemplated.

Sec. 5. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 6. The near approach of the close of the session of the Legislature, and the press of business before it, rendering it improbable that this bill can be read on three several days, and the great saving to said county by the passage of this bill, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 30th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Tom C. Thornton, Acting Secretary of State.]

TAXATION—NATIONAL BANK AND U. S. TREASURY NOTES.

CHAP. 40.—[H. B. No. 383.] An act providing for the assessment of national bank notes and United States Treasury notes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That circulating notes of national banking associations and United States legal tender notes and other notes and certificates of the United States, payable on demand and circulating or intended to circulate as currency, and gold, silver and other coin, shall be hereafter subject to taxation as money on hand or on deposit, under the laws of this State.

Sec. 2. The assessor of taxes shall assess the same in the same manner as money on hand or on deposit or other personal property, as provided for in the general assessment laws of this State.

Sec. 3. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. Whereas, the assessors of taxes are now assessing taxes for 1895, and whereas, there is now no law providing for such assessments, therefore an imperative public necessity exists justifying the suspension of the constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days in each house, and the same is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 12, 1895.

CITIES AND TOWNS—DISPENSING, WITH MARSHAL.

CHAP. 41.—[H. B. No. 362.] An act to authorize city and town councils in cities and towns having less than three thousand inhabitants, according to the last preceding census, to dispense with the office of marshal.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the city council or town council in any city or town within this State having less than three thousand inhabitants, according to the last preceding census, may by an ordinance of said city council or town council, as the case may be, dispense with the office of marshal: Provided, that when the city marshal has been elected by the people he shall not be removed during his term of office under the provisions of this bill.

Sec. 2. The fact that in many cities and towns of less than three thousand inhabitants the office of marshal is unnecessary and expensive, creates an imperative public necessity that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 12, 1895.

DELINQUENT TAXES.

CHAP. 42.—[S. B. No. 149.] An act to provide for the collection of taxes heretofore levied and that may hereafter be levied, making such taxes a lien on the lands taxed; establishing and continuing such lien; providing for the sale and conveyance of lands delinquent for taxes since January 1, 1885, which may have been returned delinquent or reported sold to the State, or to any county, city or town, for the tax due thereon and not redeemed, or which may hereafter be returned delinquent or reported sold to the State or to any county, city or town, to satisfy the lien thereon.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That for the purposes of taxation real property shall include all lands within the State and all buildings and fixtures thereon and appertaining thereto, except such as are expressly exempted by law.

Sec. 2. All lands or lots which have been returned delinquent or reported sold to the State, or to any city or town, for taxes due thereon since the first day of January, A. D. 1885, or which may hereafter be returned delinquent or reported sold to the State, or to any city or town, shall be subject to the provisions of this act, and said taxes shall remain a lien upon the said land, although the owner may be unknown or though it be listed in the name of a person not the actual owner, and though the ownership be changed, the land may be sold under the judgment of the court for taxes, interest and costs due for any preceding year.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the Comptroller of Public Accounts immediately upon the taking effect of this act to prepare a list of all lands, lots or parts of lots sold to the State for taxes since the first day of January, 1885, and which have not been redeemed in each of the counties of this State, and to record such lands in books to be called the "Delinquent Tax Records," and may show when the lands or lots were reported delinquent or sold to the State for taxes, also the name of the owner at the time of such sale or delinquency, the number of acres, the amount of taxes due when first sold, and the amount of tax levied against it for each year since it was first returned delinquent, as shown by the records of his office; and making up the list or lists contemplated by this act for each county the Comptroller is hereby required to make corrections and supply omissions in the description of any real estate embraced in said list or lists, so that when the corrections are made and the omissions are supplied the description will be such as is given in the abstracts of all the titled, patented and located lands in the State of Texas, or, as required in section 12 of this act, such as may be furnished by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and the Comptroller is further required, in bulk assessments, to apportion to each tract or lot of land separately its pro rata part of the entire tax, interest and cost. The list for each county when signed by the Comptroller shall be prima facie evidence that all the requirements of the law have been complied with by the officers charged with any duty thereunder as to the regularity of listing, assessing and reporting same as delinquent or as sold to the State any real estate whatsoever. This "delinquent tax record" for each county shall be preserved by the Comptroller in his department, and upon the completion of such "delinquent tax record" the Comptroller shall cause a duplicate of same to be sent to the county clerk of the county for which such "delinquent tax record" is made, or if unorganized, then of the county to which it is attached for judicial purposes, and may require of said county clerk a receipt for the same.

Sec. 4. On receipt of such "delinquent tax record" from the Comptroller containing a complete list of the lands or lots that have been reported delinquent or sold to the State for taxes for any year or number of years since January 1, 1885, and containing also the data and information mentioned in section 3 of this act, it shall be the duty of the county clerk of each of the counties of this State respectively to cause same to be recorded in a book in like manner as is prescribed to be done by the Comptroller in section 3 of this act, which book shall be labeled the "Delinquent Tax Record of ——— County." The delinquent tax records shall be arranged alphabetically in each case as to the names of delinquents.

Sec. 5. Upon receipt of said "delinquent tax record" from the Comptroller by the county clerk of any county in this state, it shall be his duty immediately to certify same to the county commissioners court, and the commissioners court shall cause the same to be published in some newspaper published in the county for three consecutive weeks, if a newspaper is published in the county, but if no newspaper is published in the county, such list may be published in a newspaper outside of the county, to be designated by the commissioners court by contract duly entered into, and a publisher's fee of twenty-five cents shall be taxed against such tract or parcel of land so advertised, and the publishers shall receive such compensation as is provided by law for like services in other cases.

Sec. 6. Twenty days after the publication of such notice, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the commissioners court, or the county judge acting for said court, shall file a list of all lands so advertised for taxes due for any year or number of years, the tax on which remains unpaid, with the county clerk of the county in which such lands are located, or if unorganized, then with the county clerk of the county to which attached for judicial purposes, and are to be sold under the provisions of this act for the taxes, interest and costs, and shall cause suit to be filed in the name of the State of Texas in the district court for said county, or if unorganized, then in the district court of the county to which attached for judicial purposes, stating therein by apt reference to lists or schedules annexed thereto a description of all lands or lots in such county upon which taxes have remained unpaid for any year or number of years since the first day of January, 1885, and the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for the sale thereof, and shall pray for judgment for the payment of the several amounts so specified therein, and in default thereof that such lands be sold to satisfy said judgment for taxes, interest and costs, and for such other relief to which the State may be entitled under the law and the facts. The petition in such suit shall be signed by the attorney bringing the suit, and shall be verified by the affidavit of said attorney or the county judge to the effect that the averments contained in said petition are true to the best of the knowledge and belief of affiant, and the pleadings of the defendant, except those of law, shall be verified by like affidavit of the defendant, his agent or attorney.

Sec. 7. The proper persons shall be made parties defendant in such suit and shall be served with process and other proceedings had therein as provided by law for suits of like character in the district courts of this State; and in case of foreclosure an order of sale shall issue and the lands sold thereunder as in other cases of foreclosure; but if the defendant or his attorney shall at any time before the sale file with the sheriff or other officer in whose hands any such order of sale shall be placed a written request that the property described therein shall be divided and sold in less tracts than the whole, together with a description of said subdivisions, then such officer shall sell the land in said subdivisions as the defendant may request, and in such case shall only sell as many subdivisions, as near as may be, to satisfy the judgment, interest and costs, and after the payment of the taxes, costs and interest adjudged against it the remainder of the purchase price, if any, shall be paid by the sheriff to the clerk of the court out of which said execution or other final process issued, to be retained by him subject to the order of the court for the period of two years, after which time the court may order the same to be paid to the State Treasurer, who shall hold same in trust to be paid to the owner against whom said taxes were assessed: Provided, any one claiming the same shall make proof of his claim to the satisfaction of the State Treasurer within ten years after the sale of said lands or lots, after which the same shall be governed by the law regulating escheats: Provided, that no suit shall be brought to enforce such lien upon any lands that a sufficient description to identify the same can not first be had.

Sec. 8. In all cases in which lands have been sold or may be sold for default in the payment of taxes it shall be lawful for the sheriff selling the same, or any of his successors in office, to make a deed or deeds to the purchaser or to any other person to whom the purchaser may direct the deed to be made, and any such deed shall be held in any court of law or equity in this State to vest a good and perfect title in the purchaser thereof, subject to be impeached only for actual fraud.

Sec. 9. The county attorney shall represent the State and county in all suits against delinquent tax payers that are provided for in this act. In litigated cases additional counsel may be retained by the commissioners court if they deem it necessary to do so, whose compensation shall be such reasonable fee as may be agreed upon at the time of employment, but in no case shall the compensation for said county attorney be greater than five dollars for the first tract in one suit, and one dollar for each additional tract if more than one tract is embraced in same suit, recover taxes, interest and costs: Provided, that in no case shall the State or county be liable for such fees, but in each case they shall be taxed as costs against the land to be sold under judgment for taxes and paid out of the proceeds of the sale of same after the taxes and interest due thereon to the State are paid. The sheriff shall be entitled to a fee of two dollars for selling, and making deed thereto, each tract or lot of land that he sells under judgment for taxes, which fee shall be taxed as costs in the suit, and the district clerk shall be entitled to a fee of three dollars in each case, to be taxed as costs of suit.

Sec. 10. The tax collector of each county shall make up a list of the lands and lots on the 31st day of March of each year on which the State and county taxes for the preceding year remain unpaid, and shall file a certified copy of said list with the county clerk of his county, and shall send one to the Comptroller of Public Accounts. The county clerk and Comptroller shall enter said list in the "delinquent tax record," as provided in section 3, immediately upon receipt of same from the tax collector. The commissioners court shall examine such delinquent list, correct errors in same, if there be any, and cause the corrections to be made upon the "delinquent tax record" of the clerk's office, and notify the Comptroller of such corrections made. When the delinquent list is corrected as provided for in this section, then such list shall be advertised as provided for in section 5 of this act, and after such advertisement suit shall be instituted against delinquents in the district court as above provided, and such list as furnished by the tax collector and corrected by the commissioners court shall constitute prima facie evidence of the proper assessment of the real estate, and that the amounts charged against said real estate is a true and correct charge: Provided, that the commissioners court shall have the power in cases where lands delinquent for taxes for any year or years which have been subsequently subdivided and sold by the holder of such tracts of land at the time of delinquency, to pro rate the amount of delinquent or back tax among the holders of subdivisions, and on the payment of such pro rata by the holder of any subdivision he shall be released from any liability for the remainder of the delinquent tax due on the whole tract.

Sec. 11. Any incorporated city or town or school district shall have the right to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes due it under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 12. Real estate which may have been rendered for taxes and paid under erroneous descriptions given in assessment rolls, or lands that may have been doubly assessed and taxes paid on one assessment, or lands which may have been assessed in a county other than the one in which they are located, or lands which may have been sold to the State and upon which taxes have been paid and through error not credited in the assessment rolls, shall not be deemed subject to the provisions of this act. When called upon the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall furnish the Comptroller officially with such information as may be necessary to enable him to determine the validity or locality of such surveys and grants as have not been shown by the printed abstracts of the Land Office.

Sec. 13. Any delinquent taxpayer whose lands have been returned delinquent or reported sold to the State for taxes due thereon, or any one having an interest therein, may redeem the same at any time before his lands are sold under the provisions of this act by paying the taxes due thereon since January first, 1885, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum and accrued costs of suit.

Sec. 14. Where lands are sold under the provisions of this act the owner or any one having an interest therein shall have the right to redeem said land, or his interest therein, within two years from the date of said sale upon the payment of double the amount paid for the land.

Sec. 15. That all laws and parts of laws heretofore passed that may be in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 16. The fact there exists no adequate law to enforce the collection of taxes in this State creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be in this case suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—This bill was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 2d day of April, 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Tom C. Thornton, Acting Secretary of State.]

LIBERTY AND MEDINA COUNTIES—JURISDICTION RESTORED.

CHAP. 44.—[H. B. No. 73.] An act to restore to and confer upon the county court of Liberty and Medina counties the civil and criminal jurisdiction heretofore belonging to said courts under the Constitution and general statutes of the State; to conform the jurisdiction of the district courts of said counties to such change, and to repeal all laws in conflict with the provisions of this act, in so far as relates to Liberty and Medina counties.

Sec. 3. The county judges of said counties shall have authority either in term time or in vacation to grant writs of mandamus, injunction, sequestration, garnishment, attachment, certiorari, supersedeas, and all other writs necessary to the enforcement of the jurisdiction of said courts, and shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the Constitution has not exclusively conferred the power on the district courts or judges thereof.

Sec. 4. Said county courts shall have jurisdiction in the forfeiture and judgment of all bonds and recognizances taken in criminal case of which said courts have jurisdiction.

Sec. 5. Said county courts shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all misdemeanors, except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and except in cases in which the highest penalty of fine that may be imposed under the law may not exceed two hundred dollars, and said courts shall also have appellate jurisdiction in criminal cases of which justices of the peace and other inferior tribunals of said counties have original jurisdiction.

Sec. 6. The district courts of Liberty and Medina counties shall no longer have jurisdiction of cases of which the county courts of said counties by the provisions of this act have exclusive original or appellate jurisdiction; and it shall be the duty of the clerks of the district courts of Liberty and Medina counties, within thirty days from the passage of this act, to make a full and complete transcript of all orders on the docket and minutes in cases now pending before said district courts, of which cases by the terms of this act exclusive jurisdiction is given to said county courts, and they shall deliver said transcripts, together with the original papers and certified bill of costs, to the clerks of said county courts, and said county clerks shall enter said case or cases on the docket for trial by said county courts.

Sec. 10. Whereas, the county courts of Liberty and Medina counties are without the jurisdiction necessary for the just and proper administration of the laws, creates such an emergency and public necessity as require the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, said rule is therefore suspended, and it is enacted that this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved April 15, 1895.

GOLIAD COUNTY—JURISDICTION INCREASED.

CHAP 45.—[H. B. No. 596.] An act to increase the civil jurisdiction of the county court of Goliad county.

Sec. 4. This act shall not be construed to deprive the justices' courts of the jurisdiction now conferred upon them by law, but only to give concurrent original jurisdiction to the said county court over such matters as are specified in section 1 of this act, nor shall this act be construed to deny the right of appeal from the justices' courts to the said county court in any case originally brought in the justice's court where the right of appeal now exists by law.

Sec. 5. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 6. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, the crowded condition of the calendar, and the fact that no statute now exists granting such relief to the citizens of Goliad county as is sought in this bill, creates an imperative public necessity demanding the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is so suspended; and the fact that no law now exists upon this subject creates an emergency requiring that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 15, 1895.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That contested elections for the office of district attorney shall be tried by the district judge of the district in the county where the candidate who shall have received the certificate of election shall reside, and if there are two district judges in said county, then to be tried before either of said judges.

By the "return day" is meant the day on which the votes cast in said election are counted and the official result thereof declared.

Sec. 7. The person holding such certificate shall within ten days after receiving such notice and statement deliver or cause to be delivered to said contestant, his agent or attorney, a reply thereto in writing.

Sec. 8. The notice, statement and reply required by the two preceding articles may be served by any person competent to testify, and shall be served by delivering the same to the party for whom they are intended in person, if he can be found in the county, if not found, then upon the agent or attorney of such person, or by leaving the same with some person over the age of sixteen years at the usual place of abode or business of such person.

Sec. 9. If the contest be for the validity of an election for any State office, except the office of Governor and Lieutenant Governor, or for any district office except members of the Legislature, or for any county office, a copy of the notice and statement of the contestant and of the reply thereto of the contestee served on the parties shall be filed with the clerk of the court having jurisdiction of the case.

Sec. 10. When the notice, statement and reply have been filed with the clerk of the court he shall docket the same as in other causes, and the said contest shall have precedence over all other causes. Should the office contested for be that of clerk of the district court, then a clerk pro tem. shall be appointed as is provided now by law in suits where the clerk is a party to the suit.

Sec. 11. In trials of all contests of election the evidence shall be confined to the issues made by the statement and reply thereto, which statement and reply may be amended as in civil cases; and as to the admission and exclusion of evidence, the trial shall be conducted under the rules governing proceedings in civil causes.

Sec. 12. Whenever the validity of an election for an office other than for members of the Legislature is contested, the contestee shall within twenty days after the service of the notice and statement of such contest upon him, as provided in this act, file with the clerk of the court in which such contest is pending a bond with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the contestant, to be approved by said clerk, in an amount to be fixed by said clerk, not less than double the probable amount of salary or fees or both, as the case may be, to be realized from the office being contested for a period of two years. Said bond to be conditioned that in the event the decision of the contest shall be against such contestee, and in favor of the contestant, such contestee will pay over to such contestant whatever sum may be adjudged against him by a court having jurisdiction of the subject matter of such bond.

Sec. 13. Should the contestee fail to file the bond as required in the preceding section, and within the time therein prescribed, it shall be the duty of said clerk to notify the contestant immediately of such failure, and such contestant shall have the right within ten days after such notice to file a like bond payable to the contestee, conditioned that in the event the decision of the contest is against him and in favor of the contestee, he will pay over to such contestee whatever sum may be adjudged against him, the said contestant, by a court having jurisdiction of the subject matter of such bond.

Sec. 14. Immediately upon the filing of said bond by the contestant the clerk shall certify in writing, and under his official seal, to the Governor that the contestee failed to give the required bond, and that the contestant has given such bond in accordance with law.

Sec. 15. Upon receiving such certificate from the clerk it shall be the duty of the Governor to issue a commission to the said contestant for the office in controversy pending such contest, and thereupon the contestant, upon qualifying in said office as required by law, shall exercise all the rights and powers and perform all the duties of said office for the full term thereof, unless it shall be otherwise determined and ordered by the court upon the trial of such contest.

Sec. 16. It shall be the duty of the Governor to issue the commission to the contestee at the time provided by law as in other cases, unless he has been notified of the failure of such contestee to file the bond required by section 12, in which event the Governor shall withhold the issuance of such commission until after the time allowed the contestant to file such bond has elapsed, but if the said contestant shall also fail to file bond as provided in section 13, and within the time therein required, it shall be the duty of the clerk to certify all the facts in the case under his official seal to the Governor, who shall thereupon issue the commission to the contestee.

Sec. 17. If upon the trial of any contested election case any vote or votes be found to be illegal or fraudulent, the court trying the same shall subtract such vote or votes from the poll of the candidate who received the same, and after a full and fair investigation of the evidence shall decide to which of the contesting parties the office belongs.

Sec. 18. Should it appear on the trial of any contest provided for in section 9 of this act that it is impossible to ascertain the true result of the election as to the office about which the contest is made, either from the returns of the election or from any evidence within reach, or from the returns considered in connection with other evidence, or should it appear from the evidence that such a number of legal voters were by the officers or managers of the election denied the privilege of voting as, had they been allowed to vote, would have materially changed the result, the court shall adjudge such election void, and direct the proper officers to order another election to fill said office, which election shall be ordered and held and returns thereof made in all respects as required by the general election laws of the State.

Sec. 19. The bonds required to be filed by the contestant and contestee under the provisions of this act shall remain on file in the office of the clerk where filed, and may be sued upon as other bonds.

Sec. 20. Either the contestant or contestee may appeal from the judgment of the district court to the Court of Civil Appeals under the same rules and regulations as are provided for appeals in civil cases, and such cases shall have precedence in the Court of Civil Appeals over all other cases.

Sec. 21. In case of appeal as provided for in the preceding section, the clerk shall without delay make up the transcript and forward the same to the clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals for that district.

Sec. 22. The costs in all contested election cases shall be taxed according to the laws governing costs in civil cases, except when otherwise specially provided, and bond for cost may be required as in civil suits.

Sec. 23. Where the contest shall have been decided against one of the parties and the other party shall have filed a bond and performed the duties of the office under the provisions of this act, the bond so filed shall inure to the benefit of the successful party in any suit thereon in a court having jurisdiction of the amount in controversy, and the measure of damages recoverable, besides cost of suit, shall be the salary, fees, and emoluments of office of which he has been deprived, less such reasonable expenses as the party holding the office shall have incurred in executing the duties of the office: Provided, that he shall have acted in good faith in receiving the certificate of election or commission for the office.

Sec. 24. If the contest be for the validity of an election for members of the Legislature, a copy of the notice, the statement and the reply served upon the parties as required by this act, shall within twenty days after the service thereof be filed with the district returning officer to whom the returns of such election were made, who shall envelope the same, together with a certified copy of the poll book or register of the votes of each precinct and county returned to him in said election, and shall seal the said envelope and write his name across the seals, and address the package to the President of the Senate or Speaker of the House of Representatives, as the case may be, to the care of the Secretary of State, and shall forward the same by mail or other safe conveyance to the seat of government, so as to reach there if possible before the convening of the Legislature.

Sec. 25. At any time after filing said papers with said returning officer either party to said contest may proceed, at his own expense, to take such written testimony as he may deem proper, having first served the opposite party, his agent or attorney, with a copy of the interrogatories he intends to propound to each witness, and the name of the officer before whom such interrogatories will be answered, as well as the time and place of taking such testimony.

Sec. 26. Any officer authorized by the law of this State to administer oaths, upon being satisfied as to any costs, including his own fees, that may accrue in the taking of such testimony, shall proceed, upon the application of the party desiring it, to summon the witness or witnesses named in the interrogatories and take his or their answers in writing and under oath to such interrogatories and cross interrogatories as may be propounded in writing.

Sec. 27. The answers of each witness shall be reduced to writing and signed by such witness, and sworn to by such witness before the officer taking the same, and shall be certified to by such officer and sealed in an envelope, and the name of the said officer shall be written by him across the seals, and he shall forward the same without delay by mail or other safe conveyance to the President of the Senate or Speaker of the House of Representatives, as the case may be, to the care of the Secretary of State, at the seat of government.

Sec. 28. The notice and statement of contest and the other papers pertaining thereto shall immediately after the organization of the Legislature be opened by the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, as the case may be; and the same shall be referred to the committee on privileges and elections of the house in which that contest is pending, which committee shall proceed without delay to fix a time for the hearing of said case, and after due notice to the parties thereto shall investigate the issues between said parties, hearing all the legal evidence that may be presented to said committee, and shall as soon thereafter as practicable report their conclusions of law and fact in respect to said case to the house by which said committee was appointed, accompanied by all the papers in the cause, and the evidence taken therein, with such recommendations as may to them seem proper. Any one or more of the committee dissenting from the views of the majority may present a minority report.

Sec. 29. The rules of evidence and the laws in force respecting the admissibility of evidence, the taking of depositions and the issuance and service of process in the district courts of this State shall be observed by said committee, so far as the same may be applicable. Said committee shall have the power to send for persons and papers, and the chairmen of said committees shall have the power to issue all process necessary to secure the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, ballot boxes and other documents before said committee, and such process shall be executed by the sergeant-at-arms of the house in which the contest is pending, or by such other person as may be designated by the presiding officer of said house.

Sec. 30. The house in which the contest is pending shall, as soon as practicable after the report of the committee has been received, fix a day for the trial of the contest, and shall proceed to determine whether the contestant or contestee, or either of them, is entitled to the contestant's seat: Provided, the said house may hold the election void after full consideration of all the evidence and for the reasons prescribed in section 18 of this act, and in such case the Governor shall be at once notified of the vacancy. Such fees shall be paid to the witnesses and the officers serving the process as shall be prescribed by the rules of the house in which said contest is pending, and no mileage or per diem shall be paid to either of the parties to said contest until said case is determined, and in no case shall any mileage or per diem be paid to any party against whom any contest is decided.

Sec. 31. If the contest be for the validity of an election for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Comptroller of Public Accounts, Treasurer, Commissioner of the General Land Office or Attorney General, the same shall be tried and determined by both houses of the Legislature in joint session, and the provisions of this chapter governing in the case of a contest for the validity of an election for members of the Legislature shall apply to and govern in a contest for the offices above named, as far as the same may be applicable.

Sec. 32. If the contest be for the validity of an election held for any other purpose than the election of an officer or officers in any county or part of a county or precinct of a county, or in any incorporated city, town or village, any resident of such county, precinct, city, town or village, or any number of such residents, may contest such election in the district court of such county in the same manner and under the same rules, as far as applicable, as are prescribed in this chapter for contesting the validity of an election for a county office.

Sec. 33. In any case provided for in the preceding section, the county attorney of the county, or where there is no county attorney the district attorney of the district, or the mayor of the city, town or village, or the officer who declared the official result of said election, or one of them, as the case may be, shall be made the contestee, and shall be served with notice and statement, and shall file his reply thereto as in the case of contest for office; but in no case shall the costs of such contest be adjudged against such contestee, or against the county, city, town or village which they may represent, nor shall such contestee be required to give any bond upon an appeal.

Sec. 34. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and are hereby repealed.

Sec. 35. The fact that there is no general law in force in this State regulating contested elections, and the great number of bills now requiring the attention of this Legislature, constitute an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read in each house of the Legislature on three several days be suspended, and said rule is so suspended.

Approved April 16, 1895.

LANDS—SALE AND LEASE OF PUBLIC FREE SCHOOL, ASYLUM AND PUBLIC LANDS.

CHAP. 47.—[S. B. No. 95.] An act to provide for the sale of all lands heretofore or hereafter surveyed and set apart for the benefit of the public free schools and the several asylums, and the lease of such lands and of the public lands of the State, and the patenting of any part of said lands for church, cemetery or school house sites; and to prevent the free use, occupancy, unlawful enclosure or unlawful appropriation of such lands, and to prescribe and provide adequate penalties therefor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all lands heretofore or hereafter surveyed and set apart for the benefit of the public free schools, the Lunatic Asylum, the Blind Asylum, the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, and the Orphan Asylum shall be sold and leased under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 2. The Commissioner of the General Land Office is hereby vested with all the power and authority necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act, and shall have full charge and discretion of all matters pertaining to the sale and lease of said lands, and their protection from free use and occupancy and from unlawful enclosure, with such exceptions and under such restrictions as may be imposed by the provisions of this act, or by the Constitution of the State. He shall, as soon as practicable, adopt such regulations not inconsistent with the Constitution or this act as may be deemed necessary for carrying into effect the provisions of this act, and may from time to time alter or amend such regulations so as to protect the public interest; but all regulations shall be submitted to the Governor for his approval before adoption or promulgation. He shall adopt all necessary forms of applications for sales or leases and all other forms necessary or proper for the transaction of the business imposed upon him by this act, and may from time to time call upon the Attorney General to prepare such forms; and it shall be the duty of that officer to furnish the Commissioner of the General Land Office with such advice and legal assistance as may be requisite for the due execution of the provisions of this act; and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to call upon the Attorney General for advice whenever there is any doubt as to the meaning of this act or any provisions thereof.

Sec. 3. The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall from time to time, as the public interest may require, cause any or all of the lands belonging to the several funds mentioned in this act to be carefully and skillfully classified and valued that have not heretofore been classified, and for this purpose he may appoint, with the approval of the Governor, such number of competent agents, who shall be citizens of the county or district where such land is situated, as may be necessary, or may determine and declare the classification and valuation without the aid of such agents, and upon such facts as may be satisfactory to the Commissioner. Such agents shall receive for their work a reasonable compensation, to be fixed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and not to exceed the sum of three dollars per section; and no such expense shall be incurred in the absence of an appropriation by law to cover such expenditure, and the State shall not be liable for any expenditure of this character incurred in excess of current appropriations.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of such agents as may be appointed under the provisions of this act, under such restrictions and instructions as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, to classify such lands belonging to the several funds mentioned in this act as the Commissioner may direct, into agricultural, pasture, and timber lands, and for this purpose they shall carefully examine the same, and after such examination they shall prepare an accurate plat of each section, showing the relative proportions of timber and open land on such section, and their situation; also, the quality of the soil, the topography of the land, and the quality and kind of timber, and the streams and other sources of water supply, and their location, and such other facts as may be important; and from time to time, as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, such agent shall prepare and forward to the Commissioner, with such plats, a tabulated statement of such lands so examined by him, with the value of each section, and such plats and reports when approved by the Commissioner, shall be filed in the General Land Office as a part of the records of said office; but nothing in this act shall be construed to require or authorize a classification of lands already classified under former laws: Provided, that any section or part of any section heretofore classified as timbered land which is not pine land nor valuable chiefly for the timber thereon may be classified under the provisions of this act as agricultural lands.

Sec. 5. When any portion of said land has been classified to the satisfaction of the Commissioner under the provisions of this act or former laws, such lands shall be subject to sale, but to actual settlers only, and in quantities of not less than forty acres, and in multiples thereof, nor more than one section containing six hundred and forty acres more or less: Provided, that when there is a fraction less than forty acres of any section left such fraction may be sold; but lands classified as purely pasture lands may be sold in quantities not to exceed four sections to the same settler.

Sec. 6. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of the General Land Office to notify in writing the county clerk of each county of the valuation fixed upon each section of land in his county, and in each county attached to it for judicial purposes, which he offers for sale, which notification shall be kept by the clerk in his office and recorded in a well bound book, which shall be open to public inspection.

Sec. 7. All lands belonging to the public free schools and the several asylum funds shall be sold at no less than two dollars per acre, except pasture lands, which shall be sold at not less than one dollar per acre, and all timber lands shall be sold at not less than five dollars per acre. By timber lands as here used is meant lands valuable chiefly for the timber thereon.

Sec. 8. Any bona fide actual settler who may reside on any part of the lands the sale of which is authorized by this act at the time this act may go into effect, shall have the prior right for a period of ninety days after this act goes into effect, or after said land shall have been placed upon the market, to purchase such quantity of land as may be limited by this act, to include his improvements, upon complying with the provisions of this act regulating sales as in other cases, and such land shall be appraised without reference to the improvements thereon. Any bona fide settler who has heretofore purchased or who may hereafter purchase not exceeding one section of agricultural land, shall have the right to purchase three strictly pastoral sections, upon his making oath that he is not acting in collusion with others for the purpose of buying for any other person or corporation, and that no other person or corporation is directly or indirectly interested in the purchase of the same.

Sec. 9. All sales shall be made by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, or under his direction, and he shall prescribe suitable regulations whereby all purchasers shall be required to reside upon as a home the land purchased by them for three consecutive years next succeeding the date of their purchase, except when otherwise provided. Such regulations shall require the purchaser to reside upon the land for three consecutive years herein mentioned, and to make proper proof of such residence and occupancy to the Commissioner of the General Land Office within two years next after the expiration of said three years, by his affidavit, corroborated by the affidavits of three disinterested and credible persons, to be certified by some officer authorized to administer oaths, and on making such proof the Commissioner shall issue to the purchaser, his heirs and assigns, a certificate showing that fact. If, however, any purchaser has sold his purchase, or any part thereof, his vendee shall be permitted to compute the time of the occupancy of his vendor as a part of his own occupancy; and if any person has sold the whole or any part of his purchase under this or any former law, his vendee, or if he refuses to do so, the vendor himself, may make proof of occupancy as provided herein. Any person desiring to purchase land in accordance with the provisions of this act shall forward his application to the Commissioner, describing the land sought to be purchased, which application shall be accompanied with the affidavit of the applicant, in effect that he desires to purchase the land for a home, and has in good faith settled thereon, except where otherwise provided herein, and he shall also swear that he is not acting in collusion with others for the purpose of buying the land for any other person or corporation, and that no other person or corporation is interested in the purchase thereof. Any owner of land heretofore purchased, and which land has been or may be forfeited for nonpayment of interest, shall have ninety days prior right after this act goes into effect, or after the land is again placed upon the market, to purchase said land without the condition of settlement and occupancy, in case it has been occupied for three consecutive years as required by law; but if not, then he shall reside thereon until the occupancy under the first and last purchase shall together amount to said term of three years: Provided, that when any forfeiture has been made the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall add to the appraised value of such land the amount of interest due thereon at the time of forfeiture, which shall be paid in cash with the first payment of one-fortieth of the appraised value of the land when purchased under the preference right to purchase given herein. Any original purchaser or his vendee of any of the lands the sale of which is provided for in this act, who has improved such land as a home, and who has been forced to temporarily abandon same on account of drouth, and who shall in good faith reoccupy the same, either by themselves or vendees, within six months after this act goes into effect, shall not have the forfeiture declared against them under the law providing for the forfeiture of such lands for non-occupancy: Provided, that they shall make affidavit, supported by the affidavit of three disinterested witnesses, that they have reoccupied the land as a home in good faith, and that they had abandoned the same since their purchase on account of the drouth and not otherwise; and such absence shall not be deducted from the three years occupancy required by law in making final proof of occupancy: And provided further, that any purchasers or their vendees of such lands who have failed to make proof of occupancy as required by the law regulating such purchases shall have six months after this act shall take effect to make such proof of occupancy as required by the provisions of this act. The purchaser shall transmit to the Treasurer of the State one-fortieth of the aggregate purchase money for the particular tract of land, and send to the Commissioner his obligation to the State, duly executed, binding the purchaser to pay to the State on the first day of November of each year thereafter, until the whole purchase money is paid, one-fortieth of the aggregate price, with interest at the rate of three per cent per annum on the whole unpaid purchase money, which interest shall also be payable on the first day of November of each year; and upon receipt of one-fortieth of the purchase money by the Treasurer, and the affidavit and obligation aforesaid by the Commissioner, the sale shall be deemed and held effective from the date the affidavit and obligation are filed in the General Land Office: Provided, that if the land applied for be timbered land, then the purchaser shall be required to pay the full amount of the purchase money at the time of his purchase.

Sec. 10. Purchasers shall have the option of paying the purchase money for their lands in full at any time after they have occupied the same for three consecutive years; and when they have made such payment in full, together with the proof that they have occupied the land for three consecutive years, they shall receive patents for the same upon payment of the patent fees prescribed by law. Purchasers may also sell their lands or a part of the same, in quantities of forty acres or multiples thereof, at any time after the sale is effected under this act, and in such cases the vendee, or any subsequent vendee, or his heirs or legatees, shall file his own obligation with the Commissioner of the General Land Office, together with the duly authenticated conveyance or transfer from the original purchaser and the intermediate vendee's conveyance or transfer, if any there be, duly recorded in the county where the land lies or to which said county may be attached for judicial purposes, together with his affidavit, in case three years residence has not already been had upon said land and proof made of that fact, stating that he desires to purchase the land for a home, and that he has in good faith settled thereon, and that he has not acted in collusion with others for the purpose of buying the land for any other person or corporation, and that no other person or corporation is interested in the purchase, save himself, and thereupon the original obligation shall be surrendered or canceled or properly credited, as the case may be, and the vendee shall become the purchaser direct from the State, and be subject to all the obligations and penalties prescribed by this act, and the original purchaser shall be absolved in whole or in part, as the case may be, from further liability thereon: Provided, that whenever a town shall be located and established upon any lands sold under this or any former act, the purchaser or his vendee shall be permitted to pay the entire balance of principal and interest due the State upon such land and obtain a patent therefor at any time, but no such payment shall be permitted or patent issued until such purchaser or owner of such land shall file in the General Land Office a certified plat of such town, made by a surveyor, which shall be accompanied by the affidavit of the owner of such land, corroborated by the affidavit of five disinterested and credible citizens of the county, to the effect that a town, giving its name, has been located and established upon the land, and that there has been erected therein, and is being occupied by bona fide citizens, twenty business and residence houses, or either, or both.

Sec. 11. If upon the first day of November of any year the interest due on any obligation remains unpaid, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall endorse on such obligation "Land Forfeited," and shall cause an entry to that effect to be made on the account kept with the purchaser, and thereupon said land shall thereby be forfeited to the State without the necessity of re-entry or judicial ascertainment, and shall revert to the particular fund to which it originally belonged, and be resold under the provisions of this act or any future law: Provided, if any purchaser shall die, his heirs or legal representatives shall have one year in which to make payment after the first day of November next after such death, and shall be absolved and exempt from the requirement of settlement and residence thereon. And if any purchaser shall fail to reside upon and improve in good faith the land purchased by him, he shall forfeit said land and all payments made thereon to the State, in the same manner as for non-payment of interest, and such land shall be again for sale as if no such sale and forfeiture had occurred: Provided, that all necessary and temporary absence from such land of such purchaser, for the time of not more than six months in any one year, for the purpose of earning money with which to pay for the land, or for the purpose of schooling his children, shall not work a forfeiture of his title: Provided, further, that nothing in this section contained shall be construed to inhibit the State from instituting such legal proceedings as may be necessary to enforce such forfeiture, or to recover the full amount of the interest and such penalties as may be due the State at the time such forfeiture occurred, or to protect any other right to such land, which suits may be instituted by the Attorney General or under his direction, in the proper court of the county in which the land lies or of the county to which such county is attached for judicial purposes: Provided, this section shall be printed on the back of the receipt.

Sec. 12. In all cases where persons have purchased or may hereafter purchase State, school or asylum lands under any act of the Legislature authorizing the sale thereof and requiring a residence of three years thereon, and said persons have so resided upon said land or may hereafter reside thereon for the period of three years as required by law, and their files have been or may hereafter be cancelled and purchases annulled by the Commissioner of the General Land Office on account of conflict with other surveys, said persons shall have the right to purchase other lands of the classes mentioned in this act without being required to reside thereon. Persons desiring to avail themselves of the benefits of this provision shall make satisfactory proof to the Commissioner of the three years residence under their first purchase.

Sec. 13. In all cases where any of the lands mentioned in this act have been heretofore sold under any law authorizing the sale thereof, and the original purchaser shall have sold or may hereafter sell any part of his purchase in quantities of forty acres or multiples thereof, and the conveyance to his vendee or vendees is filed in the General Land Office after having been duly recorded in the proper county, the Commissioner and Treasurer shall credit his account with the value of the land sold, and they shall open up new accounts with the original purchaser and such vendee or vendees, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall patent said land to the owners thereof in quantities of forty acres or multiples thereof: Provided, that when any of such land is situated within three miles of a county seat it may be patented in twenty acre tracts.

Sec. 14. The Commissioner of the General Land Office is hereby authorized to patent in quantities of not less than one nor more than five acres any of the vacant and unappropriated public domain of Texas or any of the lands mentioned in this act as sites for cemeteries, churches or school houses. When the land is desired as a location for a school house, the patent shall issue to the county judge of the proper county and his successors in office in trust for that purpose; and when desired for a church house or a cemetery, it shall be issued to trustees designated by those requesting the patent. If the land has been previously sold by the State and not patented, the owner thereof shall execute a deed therefor to the county judge or trustees as the case may be, and cause the same to be recorded in the office of the county clerk of the proper county, and to be filed in the General Land Office, and shall be entitled to credit on his account with the State for the value therefor. Except in case of vacant land the value of the land shall be deposited with the State Treasurer, and in all cases the patent fees shall be paid to the Commissioner of the General Land Office before patent issues. Such land shall be taken from the margin of a tract or section or of a subdivision thereof, as the case may be.

Sec. 15. The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall retain in his custody as records of his office all applications, affidavits, obligations and all other papers relating to the sales of said lands, and shall cause to be kept accurate accounts with each purchaser. All purchase money due upon lands, as well as accrued interest, and all other moneys arising from the sales or leases of said lands shall be paid by the purchaser or lessee direct to the Treasurer of the State, who shall cause an accurate account to be kept with each purchaser, and who shall execute duplicate receipts for all sums of money paid to him under the provisions of this act, one of which receipts shall be delivered to the purchaser or his agent, and the other transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Sec. 16. The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall adopt such regulations for the sale of the timber on the timbered lands as may be deemed necessary and judicious. Such timber shall not be sold for less than five dollars per acre, cash, except in such cases as the Commissioner may ascertain by definite examinations by an approved agent appointed by him for that purpose, to be paid by the purchaser, to be sparsely timbered or containing timber of but little value, in which case he may sell the timber on such sections or part of sections at its proper value: Provided, such timber is sold at not less than two dollars per acre. The purchaser shall have five years from the date of his purchase within which to remove the timber therefrom, and in case of failure to do so, such timber shall thereby be forfeited to the State without judicial ascertainment: Provided, that all timbered lands from which the timber has been cut and taken off may be placed on the market and sold as agricultural or grazing lands, according to the classifications to be made by the Land Commissioner: Provided, that the purchaser or his vendees of any such timber shall have the right to purchase the land upon which such timber so purchased is situated at two dollars per acre, cash, at any time before the expiration of five years from date of purchase of timber under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 17. The public lands and all lands referred to in the several funds mentioned in this act shall be leased by the Commissioner of the General Land Office under the provisions of this act. All lands classified as agricultural and all lands containing permanent water thereon shall be leased for a term of five years or less at not less than three cents per acre per annum, and all lands classified as pasture or dry grazing lands shall be leased for a term of not more than ten years at not less than two cents per acre per annum, which rental shall be paid yearly in advance, the first payment to be made at the time the lease contract is entered into. If at the termination of any lease the lands covered thereby are still for lease the lessee thereof shall have the preference right to again lease such lands theretofore leased by him upon the terms and at the prices then fixed by law. All leases shall be executed under the hand and seal of the Land Commissioner and delivered to the lessee or his duly authorized agent, and such lease shall not take effect until the first annual rental is paid, and such lease thereof duly filed for record in the clerk's office of the proper county, and it shall not be necessary for the Commissioner to acknowledge such lease contract so signed and delivered; and all leases under the provisions of this act shall be advertised by the Commissioner in such manner as he may think best, and let to the highest responsible bidder in such quantities and under such regulations as he may think to the best interest of the State, not inconsistent with the equities of the occupant. All bids and offers to lease may be rejected by him prior to signing the lease contract, for fraud or collusion, or other good and sufficient cause.

Sec. 18. Any person desiring to lease any portion of the lands belonging to any of the funds mentioned in this act shall make application in writing to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, specifying and describing the particular lands he desires to lease, and thereupon the Commissioner, if satisfied that the lands applied for are not in immediate demand for purposes of actual settlement, shall notify the applicant in writing that his proposition to lease is accepted, and thereupon he shall execute and deliver to the lessee, in the name and by the authority of the State of Texas, a lease of said land for such term as may be agreed upon, and deliver the same to such lessee when satisfied that the lessee has paid to the Treasurer of the State the rent for one year in advance. No lands which are now or may hereafter be classified as grazing or pasture lands shall be subject to sale, nor shall the possession thereof by the lessee be disturbed during the term of such lease, except as herein provided, so long as the rents are paid promptly in advance each year, as required by this act. Any actual settler upon any of the lands mentioned in this act, being the head of a family, shall have the right to buy at any time not more than three additional sections of strictly pasture lands, notwithstanding any lease thereof, unless by some other actual settler, the head of a family, leasing not more than three sections. Whenever any leaseholder has leased from the State of Texas exceeding ten sections, any actual settler, being the head of a family, shall have the right to lease within a radius of five miles of the land occupied by him not exceeding three sections of the land held by such larger leaseholder, but shall not be allowed thereby to reduce the larger leasehold to less than ten sections: Provided, that any man not the head of a family shall have this preference right to lease three sections after having placed two hundred dollars worth of improvements on the section purchased by him: Provided, that in all cases where the actual settler having purchased one section of land is permitted by the provisions of this section to buy or lease additional lands, and thus terminate the lease of the larger leaseholder, he shall be required to so select such additional lands sought to be purchased or leased by him as that by an exchange of lands, section for section and acre for acre, of like quality and class with the larger leaseholder, he can secure the quantity of land he desires to purchase or lease in a solid body; and in case the larger leaseholder desires to do so the actual settler so purchasing or leasing the additional lands in this section mentioned shall make such exchange with him, and shall be required to fence the same separate and apart from the lands of the larger leaseholder; but in no case shall the actual settler be allowed to purchase or lease the lands and terminate the lease of the larger leaseholder under the provisions of this section upon which there is a permanent natural or artificial water supply; and in no case shall such actual settler be permitted to so select such additional lands for purchase or lease as that by an exchange of lands with the larger leaseholder such larger leaseholder will be required to give in exchange any lands upon which there may be a permanent natural or artificial water supply, or upon which there may be improvements of the value of two hundred dollars. In case the larger leaseholder does not desire to exchange lands, as herein provided, with the actual settler, or upon request made by such actual settler refuses to do so within a reasonable time, then he shall not be required to fence his land, but may turn loose inside of any inclosure in which his lands may be situated not more than one head of cattle or horses, or in lieu thereof four head of sheep or goats, for every ten acres of land so purchased or leased by him: Provided further, that nothing herein shall be construed so as to prevent either lessee from fencing his own land from the other if he should desire to do so, or to require the small leaseholder to fence his lands at all unless the larger leaseholder shall have his leasehold fenced: And provided further, that nothing in this section shall be so construed as to permit any actual settler, either by purchase or lease, or by both, to terminate the lease of the larger leaseholder upon more than four sections: And provided further, that north of a line extending west from the southeast corner of Callahan county to the southeast corner of Martin county; thence north to the south line of Lynn county; thence west to the southwest corner of Lynn county; thence north to the south line of Castro county; thence west to the line of New Mexico, the settler exercising the preference right herein given to buy or lease within the enclosure of another may so buy or lease any lands except a section on which there are improvements of the value of two hundred dollars, or on which there is a permanent artificial water supply, and shall not be required to enclose his lands separate from the lands of the larger leaseholder unless he can obtain the full amount of four sections in a solid body, or unless the same can be secured in a solid body by exchange of lands for the term for which he leases, section for section or acre for acre, with the larger leaseholder; and in all cases where he is not required by the provisions of this act to enclose his lands he may turn loose not more than one head of horses or cattle, or in lieu thereof four head of sheep or goats, for every ten acres of land purchased or leased by him and unenclosed. Each violation of the provisions of this act which restricts the number of stock that may be turned loose on lands leased from the State shall be an offense, and the offender, on conviction, shall be punished by fine of one dollar for each head of stock he may so turn loose, and each thirty days violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offense. Any agricultural land that may be leased by an actual settler shall be subject to sale and settlement, but in case his lease does not embrace more than three sections, only on condition that the purchaser enclose with posts and at least two wires the land purchased by him separate from the land held by the lessee, and failure to so enclose it within three months from the date of the purchase shall be sufficient cause to authorize the Commissioner to cancel the contract of purchase and reinstate the lease. In all cases where the lease is terminated under any of the provisions hereof, before the expiration of the term of lease, the lessee shall have a pro rata credit upon his next year's rent, or the money refunded to him by the Treasurer, as he may elect. On the expiration of his lease or its termination under any provision of this section the lessee shall have the right for a period of sixty days to remove any or all the improvements he shall have placed upon the leased premises.

Sec. 19. Any person desiring to lease any portion of the lands aforesaid on which no permanent water supply exists, shall notify the Commissioner of the General Land Office in writing that he desires to lease lands, specifying and describing them, provided he can obtain the necessary supply of water by boring or otherwise, and that he will within ninety days lease said lands, provided such water supply can be obtained; he shall also make and file with the Commissioner of the General Land Office his bond, with good and sufficient personal security in a sum equal to one year's rental of the quantity of land applied for, payable to the State of Texas, conditioned that he will diligently and in good faith try to secure water on such land during such ninety days, and if secured will lease the designated lands for the term prescribed herein, and thereupon the Commissioner shall for such ninety days withhold the lands thus designated from lease to any other person; within or at the expiration of said ninety days and annually thereafter such applicant to lease shall pay to the State of Texas, in advance, one year's rental of the land applied for by him, on satisfactory proof of which payment the Commissioner shall execute and deliver to the lessee a lease of the said lands, signed by himself officially and attested by the seal of the Land Office, together with which he shall deliver up the bond of said lessee, marked "Satisfied." If the said lessee shall fail to apply for his lease and make the payment aforesaid within said ninety days, and shall also within said ninety days fail to make proof to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of the General Land Office within that time that he has in good faith and diligently used proper means and expended proper efforts to secure a water supply on such land and failed, then and in that case the Commissioner shall mark said bond "Forfeited," and shall deliver the same to the Attorney General of the State, who shall at once cause the said bond to be sued upon and collected; and such collection shall become a part of the available school fund. The penalty stated in such bond is hereby declared to be liquidated damages, and judgment for that sum shall in all cases be recovered by the State. Proof satisfactory to the Commissioner of the General Land Office that proper, suitable and diligent effort had been made by such applicant to secure water, and that sufficient water could not be secured, shall relieve the principal and sureties on said bond from all responsibility therein, and it shall be marked "Satisfied" by said Commissioner and delivered to the principal therein. No lease of less than four sections of unwatered pasture lands shall be made unless such less number includes all unleased land in that vicinity belonging to the several funds mentioned in this act. Lessees or their vendees who shall have at their own expense secured water on their leaseholds in accordance with the provisions of this section shall, at the expiration of their lease contract, have the right to a renewal of their leases for another term of five years at the price then provided by law, by giving sixty days written notice to the Commissioner, as provided in the preceding section.

Sec. 20. All lessees from the State of lands named in this act, who are one year or more in arrears on their contracts for rent, shall have the right for the period of four months from the time this act shall go into effect, but not longer, within which they may execute and deliver to the Commissioner of the General Land Office their respective obligations in writing, with personal security satisfactory to the Commissioner, for the respective sums of money then owing by them to the State; and on delivery of such obligation to the Commissioner and the cash payment of one year's rental in advance, they shall have the right to have their lease contracts cancelled, and may lease such lands anew under this act. Such obligation shall bind such lessees to pay said sums of money, one-third in one year, one-third in two years, and the remainder in three years from date, and shall draw six per cent interest per annum, payable annually; and thereupon the Commissioner shall balance their accounts on the books of his office and cancel and deliver up their old leases and make to them new leases under this act. All lessees who are not in arrears for rent or who shall pay all indebtedness on leases, have the right to surrender their present leases and lease anew their said lands under this act.

Sec. 21. All lessees shall pay the annual rents due for leased lands directly to the Treasurer of the State, who shall execute receipts in duplicate for each payment made by any lessee, one of which receipts shall be delivered to the lessee and the other transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The Treasurer shall cause to be kept an accurate account with each lessee, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall file in his office all applications and other papers relating to leases, and keep a record of all leases made, which papers shall constitute a part of the records of his office.

Sec. 22. If any lessee shall fail to pay the annual rent due in advance for any year within sixty days after such rents shall become due, the Commissioner of the General Land Office may declare such lease cancelled by a writing under his hand and seal of office, which writing shall be filed with the other papers relating to such lease, and thereupon such lease shall immediately terminate, and the lands so leased shall become subject to purchase or lease under the provisions of this act. Such lease shall not be made to original lessees until all arrears are fully paid. During the continuance of all leases, and after forfeiture, the State shall have a lien upon all property owned by the lessee upon the leased premises to secure the payment of all rents due, which lien shall be superior to all other liens whatsoever; and it shall not be essential to the preservation or validity of such lien that it shall be reserved in the instrument of lease.

Sec. 23. Lessees shall have the right at any time to purchase their leased lands, subject to the limitations as to quantity provided by this act, and at the price and on the conditions herein provided, without reference to any improvements made on such lands by such lessees; and all improvements made by lessees on lands leased by them are hereby declared to be personal property, which may be removed by such lessees on the expiration of their lease contracts; and they shall have sixty days after such expiration in which to remove the same.

Sec. 24. If the Governor shall at any time be informed upon the affidavit of some credible person that any portion of the public lands or the lands belonging to any of the several funds named in this act have been enclosed, or that fences have been erected thereon without authority of law, he is authorized in his discretion to direct the Attorney General to institute suit in the name of the State for the recovery of such lands and damages, and a fee of not less than ten dollars for the attorney when the sum recovered is less than one hundred dollars, and when it is over that sum the fee shall be ten per cent, to be paid by the defendant for the use and occupancy of the same, and the removal of such enclosures and fences and such damages shall not be for a less sum than the amount of all the leases due during such occupancy. Such suit may be instituted in the district court of the judicial district in which the land or any portion thereof [is] situated; and upon application of the Attorney General and without affidavit or bond the court in which suit is pending shall issue a writ of sequestration directed to any sheriff of the State, commanding and requiring such officer to take such land and all property thereon belonging to the person or persons so unlawfully occupying said land into his actual custody, and hold the same subject to the further orders of the court. Such writ of sequestration may be executed by any sheriff of the State into whose hands it may be delivered, and it shall be the duty of any sheriff into whose hands it may come to proceed and execute such writ. The defendant in such suit may replevy as in ordinary cases by giving bond as prescribed by law, and such cases shall have precedence on the docket and stand for trial before all other cases; and in case judgment is recovered by the State in such suit, the court shall order such enclosures or fences to be removed and shall tax the costs of the suit, if any, against the defendant; and all property found upon the land belonging to the defendant, not exempt from execution, shall be liable to the payment of such costs and damages in addition to the personal liability of the defendant. Appeals may be prosecuted from all judgments in such cases as in ordinary cases, except that the State shall not be required to give bond to perfect its appeal, and such cases on appeal shall have precedence over all other cases. If any person shall make a lease contract, and after the same is enclosed by fence shall for any cause decide not to continue payment of his lease, either in whole or in part, he shall give public notice by publication in any local paper having the largest circulation, for at least sixty days before the time in which his next annual payment shall become due, that he will not continue his lease after the year for which payment is made, and shall also state the number and block of the land which he will not lease inside his enclosure, if he only intends to surrender a part of his lease, and shall post and keep posted for said sixty days notices on all the gates of his pasture of such intention; then, and then only, he shall not be subject to the suit nor be liable for the damages provided for in this section.

Sec. 25. It shall be unlawful for any person to fence, use, occupy or appropriate by herding or line riding, any portion of the public lands of the State, or of the lands belonging to any particular fund specified in this act, without having first obtained a lease of such lands in accordance with the provisions of this act. Any person, whether owner of stock, manager, agent, employee or servant, who shall fence, use, occupy or appropriate by herding or line riding any portion of such lands without a lease thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, and in addition thereto shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a period of not less than three months nor more than two years. Each day of such fencing, occupying, using or appropriating by herding or line riding shall be deemed a separate offence, and any person so offending may be prosecuted by indictment or information in the proper court of the county where any portion of the land lies, or to which it may be attached for judicial purposes, or in the county of Travis, and jurisdiction of such offences is hereby vested in said courts; and in case any indictment or information is preferred or filed against a non-resident of this State for a violation of this article, it shall be the duty of the Governor to demand the extradition of the defendant from the proper officer of any State or Territory where he may be found, in order that he may be brought to trial. "Fencing," within the meaning of this article, is the erection of any structure of wood, wire or both, or any other material intended to prevent the passage of cattle, horses, mules, asses, sheep, goats or hogs, whether the same shall enclose lands on all sides or be erected on one or more sides. Any appropriation of land belonging to any particular fund specified in this act or of the public lands of this State, without having first obtained a lease thereof, by fencing of any kind, or by enclosures consisting partly of fencing and partly of natural obstacles or impediments to the passage of live stock, shall be deemed an unlawful appropriation punishable as provided in this article for appropriating such lands, and each day said land is appropriated shall be deemed a separate offense.

Sec. 26. The Commissioner of the General Land Office may withhold from lease any agricultural lands necessary for purposes of settlement; and no agricultural lands shall be leased if in the judgment of the Commissioner they may be in immediate demand for settlement, but such lands shall be held for settlement and sold to actual settlers only under the provisions of this act; and all sections or fractions of sections in all counties organized prior to the first day of January, 1875, except El Paso, Pecos and Presidio counties, which sections are detached and isolated from other public lands, may be sold to any purchaser except to a corporation, without actual settlement, at not less than two dollars per acre, upon such terms as the Commissioner of the General Land Office may prescribe.

Sec. 27. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 28. The inadequate provisions under the present law for support of the public free schools and the necessitous condition of the available school fund creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAP. 48.—[S. B. No. 299.] An act to repeal section 20 and to amend sections 17 and 24 of Senate bill No. 95, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of all lands heretofore or hereafter surveyed and set apart for the benefit of the public free schools and the several asylums, and the lease of such lands, and of the public lands of the State, and the patenting of any part of said lands for church, cemetery, or school house sites; and to prevent the free use, occupancy and unlawful enclosure or unlawful appropriation of such lands; and to prescribe and provide adequate penalties therefor," passed at the present session.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 20 of Senate bill No. 95, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of all lands heretofore or hereafter surveyed and set apart for the benefit of the public free schools and the several asylums, and the lease of such lands, and of the public lands of the State, and the patenting of any part of said lands for church, cemetery or school house sites; and to prevent the free use, occupancy and unlawful enclosure or unlawful appropriation of such lands, and to prescribe and provide adequate penalties therefor," passed at the present session, be and the same is hereby repealed, and sections 17 and 24 of said act be and the same are hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

The public lands and all lands referred to in the several funds mentioned in this act shall be leased by the Commissioner of the General Land Office under the provisions of this act, at not less than three cents per acre. All lands classified as agricultural and all lands containing permanent water thereon shall be leased for a term of five years or less, and all lands classified as pastoral or dry grazing lands shall be leased for a term of not more than ten years, and the rental shall be paid yearly in advance, the first payment to be made at the time the lease contract is entered into. If at the termination of any lease the lands covered thereby are still for lease, the lessee thereof shall have the preference right to again lease such lands theretofore leased by him upon the terms and at the price then fixed by law. All leases shall be executed under the hand and seal of the Land Commissioner and delivered to the lessee or his duly authorized agent, and such lease shall not take effect until the first annual rental is paid and such lease thereof duly filed for record in the clerk's office of the proper county, and it shall not be necessary for the Commissioner to acknowledge such lease contract so signed and delivered; and all leases under the provisions of this act may be advertised by the Commissioner in such manner as he may think best, and let to the highest responsible bidder in such quantities and under such regulations as he may think to the best interest of the State not inconsistent with the equities of the occupant. All bids and offers to lease may be rejected by him prior to signing the lease contract, for fraud or collusion or other good and sufficient cause.

Section 24. If the Governor shall at any time be credibly informed that any portion of the public lands or the lands belonging to any of the several funds named in this act have been enclosed or that fences have been erected thereon without authority of law, he is authorized in his discretion to direct the Attorney General to institute suit in the name of the State for the recovery of such lands and damages, and a fee of not less than ten dollars for the attorney when the sum recovered is less than one hundred dollars, and when it is over that sum the fee shall be ten per cent, to be paid by the defendant for the use and occupancy of the same, and the removal of such enclosures and fences; and such damages shall not be for a less sum than the amount of all the leases due during such occupancy. For the recovery by the State of all lands sold under the provisions of this or former laws which have been or may hereafter be forfeited to the State for any reason, and for the recovery of any money due the States on leases made under this or former laws, and for the recovery of damages for the unlawful use and occupancy of such lands, as provided in this section, or any former laws, jurisdiction is expressly conferred on the courts of Travis county having jurisdiction thereof under the Constitution concurrently with courts of the districts in which the land is situated, and all such suits shall be instituted by the Attorney General or under his direction. In suits provided for in this section, the court shall issue a writ of sequestration directed to any sheriff of the State, commanding and requiring such officer to take such land and all property thereon belonging to the person or persons so unlawfully occupying said lands into his actual custody, and hold the same subject to further orders of the court, and the State shall not be required to give bond. Such writ of sequestration may be executed by any sheriff of the State into whose hands it may be delivered, and it shall be the duty of any sheriff into whose hands it may come to proceed and execute such writ. The defendant in such suit may replevy as in ordinary cases by giving bond as prescribed by law, and such cases shall have precedence on the docket and stand for trial before all other cases; and in case judgment is recovered by the State in such suit the court shall order such enclosure or fences to be removed, and shall tax the costs of the suit against the defendant, and all property found upon the land belonging to the defendant, not exempt from execution, shall be liable to the payment of such costs and damages in addition to the personal liability of the defendant. Appeals may be prosecuted from all judgments in such cases as in ordinary cases, except that the State shall not be required to give bond to perfect its appeal, and such cases on appeal shall have precedence over all other cases. If any person shall make a lease contract, and after the same is inclosed by fence shall for any cause decide not to continue payment of his lease, either in whole or in part, he shall give public notice by publication in any local paper having the largest circulation, for at least sixty days before the time in which his next annual payment shall become due, that he will not continue his lease after the year for which payment is made, and shall also state the number and block of the land which he will not lease inside his inclosure, if he only intends to surrender a part of his lease, and shall post and shall keep posted for said sixty days notice on all gates of his pasture of such intention; then, and then only, he shall not be subject to the suit nor liable for the damages provided for in this section.

Sec. 2. The inadequate provisions of the present laws in reference to the support of the public free schools and the necessitous condition of the available school fund creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Sec. 3. The crowded condition of the dockets of the district court of Kerr county, together with the increase of business of the district court of Kerr county, thereby rendering it impossible to reach a trial in many of the causes pending in said court by reason of the limit of time as it now exists in which to hold the district court for said county, and the fact that the district court for said county will soon convene, creates an emergency and amounts to an imperative public necessity demanding the suspension of the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in both houses, and such rule is hereby suspended, and it is further enacted that this act shall be in force and shall take effect from and after its passage.

Approved April 16, 1895.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature and the large number of bills now pending on the calendar, and the fact that the occupation herein taxed is not now taxed by law, creates an emergency and a public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That there is hereby imposed upon and shall be collected from each and every person or firm acting as general agent or agents of life, fire, marine and accident insurance companies who may transact any business as such in this State, an annual occupation tax of fifty dollars. By "general agent," as used in this act, is meant any person or firm representative of any insurance company in this State, or who exercises a general supervision over the business of such insurance company in this State, or over the local agencies thereof in this State or any subdivision thereof.

Sec. 2. That there is hereby imposed upon and shall be collected from each and every person or firm acting as local agent or agents of life, fire, marine and accident insurance companies who may transact any business as such in this State, an annual occupation tax of seven dollars. By "local agent," as used in this act, is meant any person or firm who may solicit, contract for or receive premiums for insurance in this State for any insurance company or companies, or who may deliver contracts or policies of insurance, including railway agents and employees who may solicit or receive premiums for accident insurance in this State: Provided, that local agents shall pay county occupation taxes in each and every county in which they do business.

Sec. 3. That there is hereby imposed upon and shall be collected from each and every person or firm acting as local agent or agents of industrial life insurance companies who may transact any business as such in this State, an annual occupation tax of two dollars. By "industrial life insurance," as used in this section, is meant insurance adapted to the wants and necessities of the wage earners in that the policies are small and the premiums collected weekly at the homes of the insured. The maximum policy or insurance written on any one person being one thousand dollars.

Sec. 4. Whereas, there is now no occupation tax upon general and local agents for life, fire, marine, industrial and accident insurance companies in this State, therefore an emergency is created and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

STATE AND COUNTY OFFICES—ELIGIBLE FOR.

CHAP. 56.—[H. B. No. 93.] An act to better define who are eligible for the several State and county offices of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That no person shall be eligible to any county or State office in the State of Texas unless he shall have resided in this State for the period of twelve months, and six months in the county in which he offers himself as a candidate next preceding any general or special election, and shall have been an actual bona fide citizen in said county for more than six months.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, that there shall not be issued by the county judge of any county in this State to any person elected or appointed to any office in this State a certificate of election unless he shall have resided in this State for the period of twelve months, and having been an actual bona fide citizen of said county for more than six months in the county or district in which he offers himself for election next preceding any general or special election.

Sec. 3. Whereas, there is now no law better defining who are eligible for the several State and county offices, creates an emergency, and imperative public necessity demands that the constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 20, 1895.

Sec. 4. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 5. The importance of the passage of this act to the people of the various counties of the said judicial districts, the crowded condition of the calendars of each house, and the near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, create an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring that the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and the said rule is therefore suspended.

STOCK LAW.

CHAP. 59.—[H. B. No. 725.] An act to amend articles 4606, 4607 and 4608 of title XCIII, chapter 4, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to the mode of preventing certain animals from running at large in counties and subdivisions thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That articles 4606, 4607 and 4608 of title XCIII, chapter 4, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas be amended so to hereafter read as follows:

Article 4606. Any owner, lessee, or person in lawful possession of enclosed lands shall be entitled to the following fees for impounding stock, to-wit: ten cents per day per head for hogs, ten cents per day per head for goats, and five cents per head per day for sheep. The damages done by such stock, if any, and the fees due to the taker up of stock, if any, may be assessed by any three disinterested freeholders of the subdivision in which said stock is taken up, who shall upon the application of the taker up of the stock be appointed by the justice of the peace of the precinct in which such subdivision is situated. Where said justice shall fail or refuse to make appointment, or where the stock law has been adopted by an entire county, said freeholders shall be appointed by the county judge of the county. Said freeholders after being duly sworn to discharge with impartiality the duties devolving upon them by said appointment, shall proceed after hearing the evidence to determine whether or not any trespass prohibited by the provisions of this chapter has been committed, and to ascertain the damages, if any, occasioned thereby, and the fees due to the taker up of the stock by reason of said trespass, and shall make an assessment of damages and fees, in writing, and signed by said freeholders, or two of them, and verified by the affidavit of said freeholders, to the effect that said assessment is just and that they have no bias in favor of or prejudice against any party interested therein, and shall file said assessment with the justice of the peace, which shall be final: Provided, that the owner of the stock, if known, shall have five days notice of the time and place of the meeting of said freeholders, and if the owner is unknown then a written notice thereof shall be posted in two public places in said subdivision and one at the door of the court house of the county: And provided further, that nothing in this chapter shall be construed to deprive the taker up of the stock to enforce by suit in a court of competent jurisdiction any claim he may have for such fees and damages, and to subject the stock so taken for the payment of the same under the provisions of this chapter.

Article 4607. After the filing of the assessment, as provided for in the preceding article, the constable of the precinct shall sell such stock at public auction for cash, after having given notice of such sale as in constables' sales of personal property, and apply the proceeds of such sale, after deducting the expenses thereof, to the satisfaction of said fees and damages, and shall pay the balance, if any remains, to the owner of such stock. The justices and constables shall receive for their services the same compensation as is allowed for like services in civil cases.

Article 4608. If no owner can be found of stock so impounded, the taker up may make affidavit before a justice of the peace of the county, describing the stock impounded by him, and that the owner is unknown to affiant, which affidavit shall be forthwith delivered to the county clerk by such justice, to be kept in his office for inspection. After the filing of such assessment, the constable of the precinct shall sell such stock as in case where the owner is known, and if anything remains after satisfying the expenses of said sale and the fees and damages due to the taker up, he shall report the same under oath to the clerk of the county court, and pay the same over to the county treasurer, to be received and disbursed by him as in case of sales of estrays, or the taker up may at his option, after the expiration of five days, stray such stock, according to the laws regulating estrays in this State.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the Supreme Court of the State of Texas having declared certain sections of the stock law unconstitutional, the effect of which is to leave the State without a sufficient stock law, and the near approach of the close of the session creates an imperative public necessity and emergency which authorizes the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and the same is hereby suspended, and this law be and hereby declared to be in effect from and after its passage.

Approved April 20, 1895.

RAILROADS—ANNUAL REPORTS.

CHAP. 60.—[S. B. No. 41.] An act to repeal article 4249, chapter 10, title 84, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, adopted by the regular session of the Sixteenth Legislature, A. D. 1879, requiring railroad corporations to file an annual report with the Comptroller of Public Accounts.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 4249 of the Revised Statutes of Texas, adopted by the regular session of the Sixteenth Legislature, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Approved April 24, 1895.

BOARD OF ARBITRATION.

CHAP 61.—[S. B. No. 142.] An act to provide for the amicable adjustment of grievances and disputes that may arise between employers or receiver and employes, and to authorize the creation of a board of arbitration; to provide for compensation of said board, and to provide penalties for the violation hereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever any grievance or dispute of any nature, growing out of the relation of employer and employes, shall arise or exist between employer and employes, it shall be lawful, upon mutual consent of all parties, to submit all matters respecting such grievance or dispute in writing to a board of arbitrators to hear, adjudicate, and determine the same. Said board shall consist of five (5) persons. When the employes concerned in such grievance or dispute as the aforesaid are members in good standing of any labor organization which is represented by one or more delegates in a central body, the said central body shall have power to designate two (2) of said arbitrators, and the employer shall have the power to designate two (2) others of said arbitrators, and the said four arbitrators shall designate a fifth person as arbitrator, who shall be chairman of the board. In case the employees concerned in any such grievance or dispute as aforesaid are members in good standing of a labor organization which is not represented in a central body, then the organization of which they are members shall designate two members of said board, and said board shall be organized as hereinbefore provided; and in case the employees concerned in any such grievance or dispute as aforesaid are not members of any labor organization, then a majority of said employees, at a meeting duly held for that purpose, shall designate two arbitrators for said board, and said board shall be organized as hereinbefore provided: Provided, that when the two arbitrators selected by the respective parties to the controversy, the district judge of the district having jurisdiction of the subject matter shall, upon notice from either of said arbitrators that they have failed to agree upon the fifth arbitrator, appoint said fifth arbitrator.

Sec. 2. That any board as aforesaid selected may present a petition in writing to the district judge of the county where such grievance or dispute to be arbitrated may arise, signed by a majority of said board, setting forth in brief terms the facts showing their due and regular appointment, and the nature of the grievance or dispute between the parties to said arbitration, and praying the license or order of such judge establishing and approving of said board of arbitration. Upon the presentation of said petition it shall be the duty of said judge, if it appear that all requirements of this act have been complied with, to make an order establishing such board of arbitration and referring the matters in dispute to it for hearing, adjudication and determination. The said petition and order, or a copy thereof, shall be filed in the office of the district clerk of the county in which the arbitration is sought.

Sec. 3. That when a controversy involves and affects the interests of two or more classes or grades of employees belonging to different labor organizations, or of individuals who are not members of a labor organization, then the two arbitrators selected by the employees shall be agreed upon and selected by the concurrent action of all such labor organizations, and a majority of such individuals who are not members of a labor organization.

Sec. 4. The submission shall be in writing, shall be signed by the employer or receiver and the labor organization representing the employees, or any laborer or laborers to be affected by such arbitration who may not belong to any labor organization, shall state the question to be decided, and shall contain appropriate provisions by which the respective parties shall stipulate as follows:

1. That pending the arbitration the existing status prior to any disagreement or strike shall not be changed.

2. That the award shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county in which said board of arbitration is held, and shall be final and conclusive upon both parties, unless set aside for error of law, apparent on the record.

3. That the respective parties to the award will each faithfully execute the same, and that the same may be specifically enforced in equity so far as the powers of a court of equity permit.

4. That the employees dissatisfied with the award shall not by reason of such dissatisfaction quit the service of said employer or receiver before the expiration of thirty days, nor without giving said employer or receiver thirty days written notice of their intention so to quit.

5. That said award shall continue in force as between the parties thereto for the period of one year after the same shall go into practical operation, and no new arbitration upon the same subject between the same parties shall be had until the expiration of said one year.

Sec. 5. That the arbitrators so selected shall sign a consent to act as such and shall take and subscribe an oath before some officer authorized to administer the same to faithfully and impartially discharge his duties as such arbitrator, which consent and oath shall be immediately filed in the office of the clerk of the district court wherein such arbitrators are to act. When said board is ready for the transaction of business it shall select one of its members to act as secretary and the parties to the dispute shall receive notice of a time and place of hearing, which shall be not more than ten days after such agreement to arbitrate has been filed.

Sec. 6. The chairman shall have power to administer oaths and to issue subpoenas for the production of books and papers and for the attendance of witnesses to the same extent that such power is possessed by the court of record or the judge thereof in this State. The board may make and enforce the rules for its government and transaction of the business before it and fix its sessions and adjournment, and shall herein examine such witnesses as may be brought before the board, and such other proof as may be given relative to the matter in dispute.

Sec. 7. That when said board shall have rendered its adjudication and determination its powers shall cease, unless there may be at the time in existence other similar grievances or disputes between the same class of persons mentioned in section 1, and in such case such persons may submit their differences to said board, which shall have power to act and adjudicate and determine the same as fully as if said board was originally created for the settlement of such difference or differences.

Sec. 8. That during the pendency of arbitration under this act it shall not be lawful for the employer or receiver party to such arbitration, nor his agent, to discharge the employees parties thereto, except for inefficiency, violation of law, or neglect of duty, or where reduction of force is necessary, nor for the organization representing such employees to order, nor for the employees to unite in, aid or abet strikes or boycotts against such employer or receiver.

Sec. 9. That each of the said board of arbitrators shall receive three dollars per day for every day in actual service, not to exceed ten (10) days, and travelling expenses not to exceed five cents per mile actually traveled in getting to or returning from the place where the board is in session. That the fees of witnesses of aforesaid board shall be fifty cents for each day's attendance and five cents per mile traveled by the nearest route to and returning from the place where attendance is required by the board. All subpoenas shall be signed by the secretary of the board and may be served by any person of full age authorized by the board to serve the same. That the fees and mileage of witnesses and the per diem and traveling expenses of said arbitrators shall be taxed as costs against either or all of the parties to said arbitration, as the board of arbitrators may deem just, and shall constitute part of their award, and each of the parties to said arbitration shall, before the arbitration [arbitrators] proceed to consider the matters submitted to them, give a bond, with two or more good and sufficient sureties in an amount to be fixed by the board of arbitration, conditioned for the payment of all the expenses connected with the said arbitration.

Sec. 10. That the award shall be made in triplicate. One copy shall be filed in the district clerk's office, one copy shall be given to the employer or receiver, and one copy to the employees or their duly authorized representative. That the award being filed in the clerk's office of the district court as hereinbefore provided, shall go into practical operation and judgment shall be entered thereon accordingly at the expiration of ten days from such filing, unless within such ten days either party shall file exceptions thereto for matter of law apparent on the record, in which case said award shall go into practical operation and judgment rendered accordingly when such exceptions shall have been fully disposed of by either said district court or on appeal therefrom.

Sec. 11. At the expiration of ten days from the decision of the district court upon exceptions taken to said award as aforesaid, judgment shall be entered in accordance with said decision, unless during the said ten days either party shall appeal therefrom to the Court of Civil Appeals holding jurisdiction thereof. In such case only such portion of the record shall be transmitted to the appellate court as is necessary to the proper understanding and consideration of the questions of law presented by said exceptions and to be decided. The determination of said Court of Civil Appeals upon said questions shall be final, and being certified by the clerk of said Court of Civil Appeals, judgment pursuant thereto shall thereupon be entered by said district court. If exceptions to an award are finally sustained, judgment shall be entered setting aside the award; but in such case the parties may agree upon a judgment to be entered disposing of the subject matter of the controversy, which judgment, when entered, shall have the same force and effect as judgment entered upon an award.

Sec. 12. The near approach of the end of the session, and the great number of bills requiring the attention of the Legislature, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read in each house on three several days be suspended, and it is so suspended.

Approved April 24, 1895.

ROBBERY—OFFENSE OF.

CHAP. 62.—[S. B. No. 14.] An act to amend article 722, chapter 8, title 7 [17], of the Penal Code of the State of Texas, as amended by the Eighteenth Legislature, by an act entitled "An act to amend article 722, chapter 8, title 17, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas," approved April 12, 1883, defining the offense of robbery, and prescribing the penalty for robbery.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 722, chapter 8, title 17, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas, as amended by the Eighteenth Legislature, by an act entitled "An act to amend article 722, chapter 8, title 17, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas," approved April 12, 1883, be and the same is hereby so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 722. If any person by assault or violence or by putting in fear of life or bodily injury shall fraudulently take from the person or possession of another any property with intent to appropriate the same to his own use, he shall be punished by confinement in the penitentiary for life, or for a term of not less than five years; and when a firearm or other deadly weapon is used or exhibited in the commission of the offense, the punishment shall be death or by confinement in the penitentiary for any term not less than five years.

Sec. 2. The fact that there are a great many bills pending before the Legislature, and the crowded condition of the calendar, constitutes an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended.

CITIES AND TOWNS—BOARDS OF ALDERMEN—POWERS OF.

CHAP. 63.—[H. B. No. 94.] An act to amend article 521, chapter 11 of title 17, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to the power of the board of aldermen over streets, alleys, and other public places.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 521, chapter 11 of title 17, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas be and the same is hereby so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 521. The board of aldermen shall have and exercise exclusive control over the streets, alleys and other public places within the corporate limits, and shall have the power to cause the male inhabitants between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years, except ministers of the gospel actually engaged in the discharge of their duties, to work on the streets and public alleys not to exceed five days in any one year, or furnish a substitute, or a sum of money (not to exceed one dollar for each day's work demanded) to employ such substitute. They shall, as far as practicable, prevent any nuisances within the limits of the corporation, and cause such as exists to be removed at the expense of the person by whom they were occasioned or upon whose property they may be found; they may establish markets, and may do whatever else may be necessary to give effect to the provisions of this chapter: Provided, that with the consent of the board of aldermen, where streets are continuations of public roads, the commissioners court shall have power to construct bridges and other improvements thereon which facilitate the practicability of travel on said streets.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there is now no law by which the male inhabitants between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years residing in towns and villages incorporated under the provisions of this chapter can be compelled to work on the streets and alleys, therefore an emergency exists and an imperative public necessity demands that the constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

TOWNS AND VILLAGES—INCORPORATION— VALIDATION OF.

CHAP. 64.—[H. B. No. 598.] An act to validate incorporations of towns and villages heretofore attempted to be made under the provisions of chapter 11, title 17, of the Revised Civil Statutes, but which attempted incorporation failed to comply with the requirements of said chapter and title.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all towns and villages which have heretofore attempted to be incorporated under the provisions of chapter 11, title 17, of the Revised Civil Statutes, but which in said attempted incorporation failed to comply with all the requirements of said chapter 11, title 17, but which said towns or villages have from and after the date of their several attempted incorporations, as aforesaid, exercised the functions of towns and villages, and been recognized as such towns or villages, be and are hereby declared to be towns and villages of the class named, and their incorporations be and the same are hereby declared to be as legal and valid as if the original acts of incorporation had been in strict compliance with the requirements of the law: Provided, that nothing in this act shall be held to validate the incorporation of towns and villages that had less than two hundred inhabitants at the time of this attempted corporations of such towns and villages.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there are many towns and villages in Texas which have heretofore attempted to incorporate under the provisions of chapter 11, title 17, but failed to comply with all the requirements of said chapter, but have nevertheless been recognized as towns and villages; and whereas, the corporate existence of many of these towns and villages is threatened by legal proceedings whereby the public interest would be greatly injured, therefore an emergency and an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and the same is hereby suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CAMP COUNTY—RESTORING CIVIL AND CRIMINAL JURISDICTION.

CHAP. 65.—[H. B. No. 579.] An act to restore and confer upon the county court of Camp county the civil and criminal jurisdiction heretofore belonging to said court under the Constitution and general laws of the State, and to conform the jurisdiction of the district court of said county to such change, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county court of Camp County shall hereafter have exclusive original jurisdiction in civil cases when the matter in controversy shall exceed in value two hundred dollars and shall not exceed five hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, and shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the district court of said county when the matter in controversy shall exceed five hundred dollars and not exceed one thousand dollars, exclusive of interest, but shall not have jurisdiction of suits for the recovery of land.

Sec. 2. Said county court shall have appellate jurisdiction in civil cases over which justices' courts have original jurisdiction when the judgment of the court appealed from or the amount in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, exclusive of costs, and said county court shall have power to hear and determine cases brought up from the justice's court by certiorari under the provisions of the title of the Revised Statutes relating thereto.

Sec. 3. The county judge in said county shall have authority either in term time or in vacation to grant writs of mandamus, injunction, sequestration, garnishment, attachment, certiorari, supersedeas and all other writs necessary to the enforcement of the jurisdiction of said court, and shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the Constitution has not exclusively conferred the power on the district court or judge thereof.

Sec. 4. Said county court shall have jurisdiction in the forfeiture and judgment of all bonds and recognizances taken in criminal cases of which criminal cases said court shall have original or appellate jurisdiction.

Sec. 5. Said county court shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all misdemeanors of which exclusive original jurisdiction is not given to the justices courts as the same is now or may hereafter be prescribed by law, except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and except cases in which the highest penalty of fine that may be imposed under the law may not exceed two hundred dollars, and appellate jurisdiction in criminal cases of which justices of the peace and other inferior tribunals of said county have original jurisdiction.

Sec. 6. The district court of said county of Camp shall no longer have jurisdiction of misdemeanors, except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and shall no longer have jurisdiction of cases of which the county court of said county, by the provisions of this act, have original or appellate jurisdiction; and it shall be the duty of the district clerk of said county, within thirty days after this act shall take effect, to make full and complete transcripts of all the orders on the criminal and civil dockets in cases then pending before the district court of said county of which cases, by the provisions of this act, original or appellate jurisdiction is given to the said county court, and to deliver said transcripts, together with the original papers and a certified copy of the bill of costs in each case, to the county clerk of said county, and said county clerk shall take charge of said transcripts and papers, file the same, and enter said cases on their respective dockets for trial by said court.

Sec. 7. The said county court shall also have the power to hear and determine all motions against sheriffs and other officers of the court for failure to pay over moneys collected under the process of said court, or other defalcations of duty in connection with such process, and shall have power to punish by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and by imprisonment not exceeding three days any person guilty of contempt of said court, and all other powers and jurisdictions conferred on county courts by the Constitution and general laws of this State.

Sec. 8. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 9. The near approach of the close of the session, and the importance of transferring without delay the jurisdiction to the county court, creates an emergency and imperative necessity that the law requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 26, 1895.

Sec. 2. That all writs and processes returnable to the said courts shall be returnable to the terms of the said courts as herein fixed, and all such writs and process as have been issued, executed and returned shall be valid as if no change had been made in the time of holding said courts by the passage of this act.

Sec. 3. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect on and after the first day of July, 1895.

Sec. 4. The great number of bills now upon the calendar causes an emergency to exist and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be and the same is hereby suspended.

JUDICIAL DISTRICT—THIRTY-NINTH.

CHAP. 67.—[H. B. No. 696.] An act to be entitled an act to change and fix the times for holding courts in the Thirty-ninth Judicial District of the State of Texas, and to repeal all laws or parts of laws in conflict herewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Thirty-ninth Judicial District of the State of Texas shall be composed of the following counties, to-wit: Jones, Fisher, Scurry, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell and Throckmorton, and the terms of the district court therein shall be held each year as follows:

In the county of Jones on the first Mondays in February and August, and may continue in session for five weeks.

In the county of Fisher on the fifth Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Scurry on the seventh Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Kent on the ninth Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Stonewall on the eleventh Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Throckmorton on the fourteenth Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Haskell on the sixteenth Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and may continue in session four weeks.

Sec. 2. That all process issued or served before this act goes into effect returnable to the district courts in said judicial district shall be considered returnable to said courts in accordance with the terms as prescribed by this act, and all such process is hereby legalized; and all grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws in any of the counties of said judicial district shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the next term of the district court of their respective counties held after this act takes effect, and all such process is hereby legalized and validated.

Sec. 3. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. Whereas, the organization of Kent county since the former meeting of this Legislature, and the irregular time at which its term of court is being held, and near approach of the close of the present session of this Legislature makes it impossible to read this bill on three several days in each house, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency exists requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, therefore said constitutional rule is suspended; and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after the 20th day of May, A. D. 1895, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 27, 1895.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION AND REFORMATORY.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 12 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the more efficient government and maintenance of the House of Correction and Reformatory at Gatesville," approved April 2, 1889, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Approved April 27, 1895.

CITATIONS—WITNESSES DISOBEYING SUBPOENAS.

CHAP. 69.—[S. B. No. 89.] An act to amend articles 483, 484 and 485 of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas, prescribing the manner in which citations shall be served upon witnesses disobeying subpoenas in criminal cases, the character of judgment that may be rendered in such cases, and providing for the collection of same.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That articles 483, 484 and 485 of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 483. When a fine is entered against a witness for failure to appear and testify, the judgment shall be conditional, and a citation shall issue to him to show cause at the term of the court at which said fine is entered, or at the first term thereafter, at the discretion of the judge of said court, why the same should not be final: Provided, citation shall be served upon said witness in the manner and for the length of time prescribed for citations in civil cases.

Article 484. A witness cited to show cause as provided in the preceding article may do so under oath in writing or verbally at any time before judgment final is entered against him, but if he fails to show cause within the time limited for answering in civil actions, a judgment final by default shall be entered against him.

Article 485. It shall be within the discretion of the court to judge of the sufficiency of an excuse rendered by a witness, and upon the hearing of the case the court shall render judgment against the witness for the whole or any part of the fine, or shall remit the fine altogether, as to the court may appear proper and right, and said fine shall be collected as fines in misdemeanor cases.

Sec. 2. The fact that the operation of the courts of this State is being delayed by the failure of witnesses to obey subpoenas, and the further fact that there is now no adequate means of enforcing the attendance of witnesses, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 27, 1895.

CHAP. 70.—[H. B. No. 271.] An act to provide for the levy and collection of an annual ad valorem State school tax of twenty cents for the year 1895, and of eighteen cents for the years thereafter, on the one hundred dollars valuation, for the maintenance of the public free schools.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That there shall be levied and collected an annual ad valorem State school tax of twenty cents for the year 1895, and of eighteen cents for the years thereafter, on the one hundred dollars of the cash value thereof, estimated in lawful currency of the United States, on all real property situated and on all personal property owned in the State on the first day of January of each year, and all personal property sent out of the State for the purpose of avoiding the payment of taxes thereon and afterwards returned to the State, except so much thereof as may be exempted by the Constitution and laws of this State or the United States, which cash value shall be estimated in the manner prescribed by law.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the time for assessors to compile their assessment rolls creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency exists, wherefore the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and that this bill be put on its third reading and final passage, and this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 27, 1895.

LIENS.

CHAP. 71.—[S. B. No. 45.] An act to amend article 3183, chapter 4, title 61, of the Revised Civil Statutes, relating to liens.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 3183, chapter 4, title 61, of the Revised Civil Statutes be amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 3183. Proprietors of livery or public stables shall have a special lien on all animals placed with them for feed, care and attention, as also upon such carriages, buggies or other vehicles as may have been placed in their care, for the amount of the charges against the same, and this article shall apply to and include owners or lessees of pastures, who shall have a similar lien on all animals placed with them for pasturage.

Approved April 29, 1895.

TEXAS TRANSPORTATION COMPANY—SALE OF, ETC.

CHAP. 72.—[H. B. No. 682.] An act to authorize the sale of the railroad and other property and all the corporate franchises and privileges of the Texas Transportation Company to any railroad company owning or that may own a line or lines of railroad extending into the city of Houston, and owning tracks which connect or which may be hereafter connected with the tracks of said Texas Transportation Company, and conferring necessary power upon such companies.

Section 1. power and authority is hereby granted and conferred upon said Texas Transportation Company to sell and upon such other railroad companies to buy said railroad and other property and said corporate rights, franchises and privileges: Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be so construed as to authorize any such sale to or purchase by any parallel or competing line of railroad.

Sec. 2. That upon a completion of any such sale the said Texas Transportation Company shall become merged into the railroad company to which said sale is made and shall not thereafter be required to make to the Comptroller or the Railroad Commission of Texas, or to any other officer or department of the government, reports now required of railroad companies generally.

Sec. 3. That this act shall not become valid and binding, nor shall either of said corporations receive or enjoy any of the rights, powers and privileges hereby conferred, until such corporation shall file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of a resolution voted for by the holders, in person or by proxy, of not less than seventy-five per cent of the capital stock of such corporation, which resolution shall be certified by the stockholder or officer presiding at the meeting at which the resolution is passed, and attested by the secretary under the seal of the corporation; such resolution, when so certified and filed, shall be deemed and taken as conclusive evidence of the acceptance of the terms, provisions, benefits and conditions of this act.

Sec. 4. That the near approach of the close of this session, and the large amount of business remaining to be disposed of before final adjournment, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency which authorizes the suspension of the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and such rule is hereby suspended.

LIFE AND ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANIES.

CHAP. 73.—[S. B. No. 15.] An act to provide for the creation of life and accident insurance companies in this State, and for the regulation thereof, and to repeal all laws and parts of laws in conflict therewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: A life insurance company shall be deemed to be a corporation doing business under any charter involving the payment of money or other thing of value to families or representatives of policy holders, conditioned upon the continuance or cessation of human life, or involving an insurance, guaranty, contract or pledge for the payment of endowments or annuities. An accident insurance company shall be deemed to be a corporation doing business under any charter involving the payment of money or other thing of value to families or representatives of policy holders, conditioned upon the injury, disablement or death of persons resulting from traveling or general accidents by land or water. When consistent with the context and not obviously used in a different sense, the term "company" or "insurance company," as used herein, includes all corporations engaged as principals in the business of life, accident, or life and accident insurance. The term "home company," as used herein, designates those life, accident, or life and accident insurance companies incorporated and formed in this State. The term "home office" of a company means its principal office within the State or country in which it is incorporated or formed. The term "member" of a company shall include every person having a right to vote at any meeting of stockholders, other than a person having a right to vote only upon a proxy. The term "directors" or "board of directors" includes the persons duly appointed or designated to manage the affairs of the company. The "insured" or "policy holder" is the person on whose life a policy of insurance is effected. The "beneficiary" is the person to whom a policy of insurance effected is payable. By the term "net assets" is meant the funds of the company available for the payment of its obligations in this State, and also including uncollected and deferred premiums not more than three months due on policies actually in force, after deducting from such funds all unpaid losses and claims, and claims for losses, and all other debts, exclusive of capital stock. The "profits" of a company are that portion of its funds not required for the payment of losses and expenses, nor set apart for any other purpose allowed by law.

Sec. 2. Any three or more citizens of this State, who shall be known as corporators, may associate to form a home company under the provisions of this act for the purpose of transacting the business of a life insurance company, the business of an accident insurance company, or the business of both a life and accident insurance company: Provided, that such accident insurance business shall be made a separate department of the business of a life insurance company undertaking it.

Sec. 3. No home company shall adopt a name that so closely resembles the name of an existing corporation as to be likely to mislead the public, and the words "Insurance Company" must be a part of the title.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of a home company may be divided into classes or series, and each class or series shall be paid in at such times and in such amounts as the subscription contract or the stockholders may require: Provided, no company shall do or advertise to do business with a less capital stock paid in than one hundred thousand dollars. If default shall be made in the payment of any installment as required, all previous payments made thereon shall be forfeited for the use of the company after the expiration of sixty days from the date of the notice sent to such defaulting stockholder. Such forfeited stock may be reissued or subscription therefor may be received as in the case of stock not issued or subscribed for. Such capital stock shall be divided into shares, or fractional parts thereof, and the par value of each share shall be such an holder in exchange for new certificates it may issue in lieu thereof. The stockholders of any such company may increase or reduce the amount of its capital stock or the number of its shares to any amount: Provided, that the capital stock shall in no case be reduced to less than one hundred thousand dollars paid in. A statement of any such increase or reduction shall be signed and acknowledged by two officers of the company, and filed and recorded in the same manner as the charter. Any such company may, after any such increase or reduction, require the return of the original subscription receipts or certificates of stock held by each stockholder in exchange for new certificates it may issue in lieu thereof. The shares or fractional parts of shares of capital stock of such company shall be transferable on the books of the company according to law and the by-laws of the company by the owner in person or his authorized attorney, and every person becoming a stockholder by such transfer shall, in proportion to his shares or parts of shares, succeed to all rights and liabilities of prior stockholders. No share, or part thereof, however, of capital stock shall be transferred until all previous calls made and due thereon shall have been paid in.

Sec. 5. Any home company may incorporate under this act for a period of time not exceeding five hundred years, and at the expiration of any term may renew its charter in accordance with then existing laws.

Sec. 6. Not less than three of the corporators of a home company shall sign and acknowledge before any officer authorized to take acknowledgments to deeds, and file in the office of the Insurance Commissioner, the charter adopted by them, which shall specify the names of the corporators and the proposed name of the company; the location of its home office; the kinds of insurance it proposes to transact; the period of time it is to exist; the amount of its capital stock, and the number and par value of the shares; and such other provisions not inconsistent with law that they may deem proper to insert therein.

Sec. 7. Whenever such corporators shall have filed the proposed charter with, and paid a charter fee of twenty dollars to, the Insurance Commissioner, it shall be his duty to submit such charter to the Attorney General of this State for examination, and if it shall be found by him to be in accordance with law, he shall so certify and deliver back to the Commissioner.

Sec. 8. The Commissioner shall, upon receipt of such charter, approved by the Attorney General, record the said charter and certificate of the Attorney General in a book kept for that purpose, and shall, upon receipt of fee for certified copy of charter, of one dollar, furnish a certified copy of such charter and certificate of Attorney General to the corporators, upon receipt of which they shall be a body politic and corporate, and may proceed to complete organization of the company. The corporators shall have the direction of the affairs and the perfecting the organization of the company until they shall call a special meeting of the stockholders, and until such meeting has been held for the purpose of adopting by-laws, electing directors, officers, and transacting general business.

Sec. 9. Upon being notified that at least one hundred thousand dollars of the capital stock named in the charter of the company has been paid in, the Commissioner shall make an examination, and if it shall be found that such amount of the paid in capital stock has been invested in securities authorized by this chapter, he shall so certify. The corporators, or two officers of such company, shall be required to certify under oath to the Commissioner that the money, notes, stocks, bonds, mortgages, deeds of trust or other property exhibited to him are bona fide property of the company, and are worth in cash the amounts which they represent.

Sec. 10. When the corporators have fully complied with the requirements of this act the Commissioner shall, upon the receipt of the certificate of authority fee of one dollar, furnish the company authority to commence business and issue policies as proposed in its charter.

Sec. 11. Any home company may, by vote of the stockholders, change or amend its charter, and such alteration or amendment shall be signed by two officers of the company, and filed and recorded in the same manner as the original charter.

Sec. 12. The paid in capital stock of a home company shall consist in lawful money or bonds of the United States, or in bonds of this State, or any county or incorporated town or city thereof, or the stock of any national bank, or in first mortgages upon unincumbered real estate in this State, the title to which is valid, and the market value of which is double the amount loaned thereon, exclusive of buildings, unless such buildings are insured in some responsible company and the policy or policies transferred to the company taking such mortgage. The accumulations or surplus money of the company over and above its paid in capital stock may be invested in or loaned upon the pledges of public stocks or bonds of the United States, or any county or school district, or incorporated city or town, or of any of the States, or stocks or bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of any solvent dividend paying corporation, except its own stock, or in bills of exchange, or other commercial notes or bills, or in the reserve values of its own policies, or in first mortgages upon unincumbered real estate situated in this State, the title to which is valid: Provided, that the current market value of such stocks, bonds, mortgages, notes, bills or other evidences of indebtedness shall be at all times during the continuance of such loans at least twenty per cent more than the sum loaned thereon. The company may sell, change, or reinvest its capital stock or accumulations in like securities as occasion may from time to time require.

Sec. 13. No home company shall purchase or hold real estate except for the following purposes and in the following manner: The building in which it has its home office and the land upon which it stands; such as shall be requisite for its accommodation in the transaction of its business in this State, or any other State or country; such as shall have been acquired for the accommodation of its business; such as shall have been mortgaged to it in good faith by way of security for loans previously contracted or for moneys due; such as shall have been conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its dealings; such as shall have been purchased at sales upon judgments, decrees, or mortgages obtained or made for such debts.

Sec. 14. The first meeting of stockholders of the home company shall be held before the company is authorized to commence business. Annual meetings shall be held at such time and place as the stockholders may determine. At any meeting of stockholders each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for each share of the subscribed capital stock of such company standing in his name on the books of the company, which vote may be given in person or by proxy. A majority of the subscribed capital stock of such company represented at any meeting of stockholders shall constitute a quorum. The stockholders shall have authority to provide for the government of the affairs of such company by any number of directors, committees, officers, or other agencies, and may exercise or confer such powers and may perform or prescribe such duties in such manner as they deem proper, not inconsistent with law or the charter of such company.

Sec. 15. Any stockholder, director, member of a committee, officer or clerk of a home company who is charged with the duty of handling or investing its funds shall not deposit or invest such funds except in the corporate name of such company; shall not borrow the funds of such company; shall not be interested in any way in any loan, pledge, security or property of such company, except as stockholder; shall not take or receive to his own use any fee, brokerage, commission, gift or other consideration for or on account of a loan made by or on behalf of such company.

Sec. 16. Any home company may reinsure in other companies authorized to do business in this State any risk or part of a risk which it may take for its own benefit.

Sec. 17. No home company shall make dividends to its policy holders or stockholders, except from the profits arising from the business of such company.

Sec. 18. Each home company shall annually, after the first day of January of each year, and before the renewal of its authority to transact business, prepare, under oath of two of its officers, and deposit in the office of the Insurance Commissioner a statement, accompanied with the fee for filing annual statement of ten dollars, showing the condition of the company on the thirty-first day of December then next preceding, which shall include a statement in detail showing class and character of its assets and liabilities on that day, the amount and character of business transacted, moneys received, and how expended during the year, and the number and amount of its policies in force on that day in Texas, and the total amounts of all policies in force: Provided, that the Commissioner of Insurance may from time to time make such changes in the forms and requirements of the annual statement of companies as shall seem to him best adapted to elicit from the companies a true exhibit of their condition, and such statement shall also contain and set forth an exhibit of the investments of such company.

Sec. 19. Whenever any home company shall have filed its annual statement in accordance with the preceding section, the Insurance Commissioner shall, upon receipt of certificate of authority fee of one dollar, issue a renewal certificate of authority to such company, which shall expire on the last day of December of the current year.

Sec. 20. Any home company having received authority to transact business in this State, may, upon payment of certified copy of certificate of authority fee of fifty cents each, procure from the Commissioner, upon written request, a certified copy of its certificate of authority for each of its agents in this State.

Sec. 21. The Insurance Commissioner shall, at the end of each five years, or oftener if he deems it necessary, in person or by one or more examiners, commissioned in writing, visit each home company and examine its financial condition, and its ability to meet its liabilities. He shall have a free access to all the books and papers of the company or agents thereof, and shall have power to summon and examine under oath the officers, agents and employees of such company, and any other person within the State of Texas. He may revoke or modify any certificate of authority issued by him, when any conditions prescribed by law for granting it no longer exist. The expense of every such examination shall be paid by the company so examined, but the Commissioner shall not make any charge for his personal services, except for traveling or other actual expenses.

Sec. 22. Actions may be maintained by a home company against any of its policy holders, stockholders or other persons for any cause relating to the business of such company, and actions may also be prosecuted and maintained by any policy holder, or the heirs or legal representatives of such company against the company for losses which accrue on any risk, if payment is withheld for more than three months after the losses become due; but no action shall be brought or maintained by any person other than the Insurance Commissioner of this State for the enjoining, restraining or interfering with the prosecution of the business of the company.

Sec. 23. Nothing in this act shall be construed to affect or in any way apply to mutual benefit organizations doing business in this State through lodges, councils or chapters, such as the Order of the Chosen Friends, Knights of Honor, Progressive Endowment Guild, Knights of Maccabees, Knights of Pythias and kindred organizations, or to benevolent associations organized and chartered under title 20 of the Revised Statutes, or which are organized under the laws of any other State, which have no capital stock, and whose relief funds are created and sustained by assessments upon the members of said organization in accordance with their several by-laws and regulations: Provided, that the principal officer of every such benevolent association (not conducted by lodges, a quorum of whose members meet in their respective lodge rooms at least once a month) shall be required to make an annual statement under oath to the department of insurance on the first day of January of each year, or within sixty days thereafter, showing:

1. Name of organization and where located.
2. Name and residence of officers.
3. The salary paid each officer.
4. The gross amount of money received during the year, and from what sources.
5. The amount paid to policy holders on assessments to pay losses.
6. The amount paid out for all other purposes, stating in detail what purposes.
7. Surplus in the treasury, if any.
8. The amount of reserve fund, if any, and how invested.

And should any such benevolent organization refuse or neglect to make an annual report as above required, it shall be deemed an insurance company conducted for profit to its officers, and amenable to the laws governing such companies.

Sec. 24. The laws relating to and governing corporations in general shall apply to and govern home companies in so far as the same are pertinent and not in conflict with the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 25. So much of chapters 1, 2 and 3, of title 53, as relate to home life and accident insurance companies, and so much of laws and parts of laws that are inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to repeal article 2932 of title 53 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas: Provided, further, that the net reserve value on the first three years' existence of any policy of insurance issued by a home company, as computed by said section 2932 of title 53, shall not be accounted a liability of the company.

Sec. 26. The great public necessity for this law creates an emergency authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, said rule is therefore suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

He shall make out, on forms to be furnished by the Comptroller, three copies of such supplemental roll, one copy to be delivered to the Comptroller of Public Accounts, one to be delivered to the county clerk, and one to be filed in the collector's office. Said supplemental tax roll shall be made out and delivered to the county commissioners court with all other papers pertaining to the final settlement of said tax collector, and the same shall be examined and approved by the county commissioners court, in like manner as upon the tax roll of the tax assessor. The collectors of taxes are hereby authorized and empowered to administer all oaths necessary to obtain a full and correct assessment of all taxable property assessed by them under this act. The oath shall be the same as is administered by tax assessors under existing law. The collector of taxes shall receive the following compensation for his services on all assessments made by him under this act, to-wit: For assessing the state and county taxes, four cents for each one hundred dollars of property so assessed, and for assessing the poll tax, five cents for each poll, which fee shall be paid in the same way as the tax assessor's fee in article number 4724, Revised Statutes.

Sec. 2. All writs, process and bonds, civil and criminal, which may be issued or executed up to the time this act takes effect, by or from the district courts of the several counties above named, or under order of said courts, and made returnable to the terms of said courts as they are now fixed by law, shall be returnable to the next ensuing term of said courts in each county as they are prescribed by this act; and all such writs, process and bonds above mentioned are hereby legalized and validated to all intents and purposes as if the same had been made returnable to the term of said courts as the terms thereof are herein prescribed.

Sec. 3. The fact that this session is near its close, and the great number of bills pending before both houses, creates an emergency requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

JUDICIAL DISTRICT—TWENTY-THIRD.

CHAP. 77.—[H. B. No. 600.] An act to amend an act approved March 15, 1893, entitled "An act to amend section 23 of chapter 63 of an act passed at the regular session of the Twenty-second Legislature, approved April 13, 1891, entitled an act to amend section 23 of an act entitled an act to redistrict the State into judicial districts and fix the terms of holding court therein, and to provide for the election of judges and district attorneys in said districts at the next general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1884," and to change the time of holding the terms of the district court in Brazoria county, and confirm the issuance, service and return of process from said court to such change, and providing an extension of time of the January term of the district court in Brazoria county.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 23 of the above entitled act be so amended as that it will hereafter read as follows, to-wit:

Section 23. The Twenty-third Judicial District of Texas shall be composed of the counties of Brazoria, Fort Bend, Jackson, Matagorda, Waller and Wharton, and the terms of the district court to be held therein shall be held as follows, viz:

In the county of Waller on the second Monday in February and the first Monday in August of each year, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Fort Bend on the third Mondays after the first Mondays in March and September of each year, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the county of Wharton on the seventh Mondays after the first Mondays in March and September of each year and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Jackson on the tenth Mondays after the first Mondays in March and September of each year, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Matagorda on the thirteenth Mondays after the first Mondays in March and September of each year, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Brazoria on the first Mondays in January, and may continue in session five weeks, and on the fifteenth Monday after the first Monday in March, and may continue in session until the last Saturday in July.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that the terms of the district court in and for Brazoria county are not of sufficient length as that the business of said court can be transacted with efficiency and dispatch, and many cases are continued for want of time to try same, and the near approach of the end of the session of the Legislature, and the crowded condition of the calendar, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and the same is so suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 29, 1895.

FORGERY—PROSECUTION—COLLECTION OF FEES.

CHAP. 78.—[S. H. B. No. 19.] An act to amend chapter 1, title 14, of the Penal Code, so as to insert article 450a, providing for the prosecution in one bill of indictment of all such offenses as are based upon the same forged instrument of writing, and to prevent the double collection of fees in such cases.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That chapter 1, title 14, of the Penal Code be so amended as to insert article 450a to read as follows, to-wit:

Article 450a. A conviction for any of the offenses mentioned in articles 431, 443 and 445 of this code shall be a bar to any other prosecution under said articles based upon the same transaction or same forged instrument of writing: Provided, that one or more of said several offenses may be charged by separate counts in the same bill of indictment, and prosecuted together to final judgment without election by the State as to which it relies upon for conviction: And provided further, a judgment of conviction shall specify which offense or under which count the defendant is found guilty, and shall assess but one penalty not exceeding the greatest punishment fixed by law to the highest grade of offense of which defendant is convicted; and it is hereby declared unlawful for any county or district attorney or any person acting as such to wilfully or knowingly demand or receive fees for more than one prosecution that could have been combined or prosecuted in one bill of indictment, and subject to the penalties prescribed by law for the punishment of extortion of illegal fees.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there is now no specific limitation upon multiplying into several prosecutions such offenses as might be combined into one, thereby permitting great expense to the State in the payment of double fees, therefore an emergency exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 29, 1895.

LUNATIC ASYLUM AT AUSTIN--SALE OR LEASE OF WATER.

CHAP. 79.—[H. B. No. 704.] An act authorizing the board of managers of the State Lunatic Asylum at Austin, Texas, to sell, lease or dispose of the water flowing from the artesian wells on the grounds belonging to said asylum.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the members of the board of managers of the State Lunatic Asylum, situated at Austin, Texas, be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to sell, lease or dispose of the water belonging to the State and flowing from any of the artesian wells on the grounds of said asylum for such price and upon such terms and conditions as the said board may deem to the best interest of the State. Provided, that the term of said lease shall not exceed ten years.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the session of this Legislature, and the importance of having the water now going to waste from the wells of this asylum utilized to the interest and advantage of the State, creates a necessity and emergency for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 29, 1895.

JUDICIAL DISTRICT—FORTY-FIRST.

CHAP. 80.—[H. B. No. 457.] An act to reorganize the Forty-first Judicial District, and to provide the times of holding the terms of the district courts in said district.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the counties of Brewster, Buchel, Foley, Pecos, Val Verde, Kinney, Edwards, Jeff Davis and Maverick be and the same are hereby constituted the Forty-first Judicial District of the State of Texas.

Sec. 2. The district courts shall be held in the several counties composing the Forty-first Judicial District as follows:

Beginning in Jeff Davis county on the first Mondays in February and August, and continue in session two weeks.

In Brewster county on the second Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and continue two weeks.

In Pecos county on the fourth Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and continue one week.

In Val Verde county on the fifth Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and continue two weeks.

In Kinney county on the seventh Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and continue two weeks.

In Edwards county on the ninth Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and continue two weeks.

In Maverick county on the eleventh Mondays after the first Mondays in February and August, and continue until the business is all disposed of.

Sec. 3. All writs and process returnable to the district courts as heretofore fixed in the several counties affected by this act shall be as valid and binding as if no change had been made.

Sec. 4. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 5. The near approach of the close of the present session, and the crowded condition of the calendar, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended.

Approved April 29, 1895.

LABELS, TRADE MARKS, ETC.

CHAP. 81.—[H. B. No. 47.] An act to protect persons, associations, private corporations and unions of working men, incorporated or unincorporated, in their labels, trade marks, designs, devices, imprints, and forms of advertising and names; and to prescribe penalties for violation of same, and to repeal all laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever any person, association, private corporations or union of working men, incorporated or unincorporated, have adopted or shall hereafter adopt for their protection any label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement, indicating that goods to which such label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement shall be attached, were manufactured by such person, association, private corporations or union, or by a member or members of such association or union, it shall be unlawful for any person, inclusive of officers, agents, receiver or receivers of corporations, to counterfeit or imitate such label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement or to use such counterfeit or imitation of such label, trade mark, design, device, imprint, or form of advertisement, knowing the same to be counterfeit or imitation, or to aid, assist, countenance or knowingly permit such counterfeit or imitation or the use of such counterfeit or imitation for his own use or benefit, or for the use or benefit of any corporation of which he may then be an officer, agent or receiver. Every person, whether in his individual capacity or as an officer, agent or receiver of a corporation, violating this section shall, upon conviction, be punished by fine of not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars. Each day's violation of this section shall be considered a separate offense.

Sec. 2. Every person, whether in his individual capacity or as the officer, agent or receiver of a corporation, who shall wilfully and knowingly use or display the genuine label, trade mark, design, device, imprint, or form of advertisement, or name of any such person, association or union, incorporated or unincorporated, not being authorized to use or display the same, or shall aid, assist, countenance or knowingly permit the use of same, not being authorized to use the same, shall, upon conviction, be punished by fine of not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 3. Every person, association or union of workingmen, incorporated or unincorporated, having adopted a label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement, as aforesaid, may proceed by suit to enjoin the wrongful manufacture, use, display or sale of any such label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement, and the manufacture, use, display or sale of any such counterfeit or imitation, and all courts having jurisdiction thereof shall grant injunctions to restrain such manufacture, use, display or sale, and shall award the plaintiff in such suit such damages resulting from such wrongful manufacture, use, display or sale as by him may have been sustained. Where such association or union is not incorporated suits under this act may be commenced and prosecuted by any officer or member of such association or union in his own name, for himself and for the use and benefit of such association or union.

Sec. 4. Every person, association or union of workmen, incorporated or unincorporated, that has heretofore or shall hereafter adopt a label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement, shall file the same in the office of the Secretary of State by leaving two copies, counterparts or fac similes thereof, with the Secretary of State, and said secretary shall deliver back to such person, association or union so filing the same one of said copies, counterparts or fac similes, along with and attached to a duly attested certificate of the filing of same, for which he shall receive a fee of one dollar from such person, association or union. Such certificate of filing shall in all suits and prosecutions under this act be sufficient proof of the adoption of such label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement, and of the right of such person, association or union to adopt the same. No label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisements shall be filed as aforesaid that would probably be mistaken for a label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement already of record: Provided, that no person or associations shall be permitted to register as a label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement, any emblem, design or resemblance thereto that has been adopted or used by any charitable, benevolent or religious society or association without their consent: And provided, further, that all persons, institutions or associations now using a label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement shall have thirty days time after this act takes effect in which to file such label, trade mark, design, device, imprint or form of advertisement under the provisions of this act, before the same can be registered by others.

Sec. 5. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 6. It being important that the benefits of this act be realized at once, because the parties to be benefited by this act have no adequate protection under existing laws, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 29, 1895.

REVISED CIVIL STATUTES, PENAL CODE AND CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE—PUBLICATION AND DISTRIBUTION.

Sec. 2. That said Revised Statutes, Penal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure shall, with the Constitution of this State, and of the United States, be published in a volume to be entitled "The Revised Statutes of Texas, 1895;" and in the publication thereof the head and marginal indices and references, titles, chapters and articles contained and numbered in the acts by which the same were adopted and established shall be retained and published therein, together with a full and accurate index to each of said Constitutions and Codes and said Revised Statutes.

Sec. 3. Where any article in said Revised Statutes or Codes has been expressly repealed by the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Legislatures said articles shall be omitted in said volume, and in lieu thereof there shall be inserted a statement to the effect that said article has been repealed; also the date of the act by which the same was repealed, and the page of the session acts containing said repealing statute.

Sec. 4. Where any article in said Revised Statutes or Codes shall have been amended and re-enacted by either of said Legislatures, said articles shall be omitted, and the article as amended and re-enacted shall be inserted in lieu thereof, with marginal notes or references showing the date of the statute by which said article was amended, and the page of the session acts in which said statute appears.

Sec. 5. When any article, chapter or title of said Revised Statutes or Codes has been modified by an act of either of said Legislatures, but the same is not amended and re-enacted, then said article, chapter or title shall be retained in said volume, and the act modifying the same shall be inserted immediately after such article, chapter or title, together with like marginal notes or references, as hereinbefore provided.

Sec. 6. General acts of said Legislatures on the same subject with any of the articles, chapters or titles of said Revised Statutes and Codes shall be inserted immediately after such articles, chapters or titles, with marginal notes or references as provided above, and general laws of said Legislatures not on the same subject with any of said articles shall be inserted with reference to said articles, chapters and titles thereof as may be deemed most appropriate by the codifier to be appointed as hereinafter provided; but in no event shall the number of any article, chapter or title be changed by said codifier, but said number shall remain as in the act by which said Statutes and Codes were adopted and established.

Sec. 7. Full and accurate indices to said Constitutions, Codes and the Revised Statutes, including the laws of the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Legislatures which may be inserted in said volume under the provisions of this act, shall be attached to each of said Constitutions, and the Codes, and to the Revised Statutes respectively.

Sec. 8. The Governor shall appoint a codifier, who shall prepare said volume for publication as directed in this act, and who shall read and revise the proof of the said Constitutions, Statutes and indices, and other matters included in said volume, and shall receive for his services the same compensation as was allowed the commissioners who revised the Codes and Statutes for the time he is actually engaged in the duties required of him, in no case to exceed six hundred dollars, the same to be paid upon the certificate of the Governor out of the amount appropriated for printing the Revised Statutes.

Sec. 9. The said Constitutions, Statutes and Codes aforesaid shall be printed on the best quality of book paper, in size of page and style corresponding with the Revised Statutes of 1879; the text of the volume to be in long primer type, the codifier's notes in brevier type; and the chapter indices, marginal and foot notes and general indices in nonpareil type. The type used shall be modern, plain book faces, and shall not exceed in thickness the following number of ems to the complete lower case alphabet for each kind named: Long primer, $13\frac{1}{2}$ ems; brevier, $14\frac{1}{2}$ ems; nonpareil, $15\frac{1}{2}$ ems. There shall be printed ten thousand copies of said volume, or so many thereof as said printing board may prescribe, containing the whole, as prescribed in this act. The binding shall be of the best style and workmanship and in law sheep of the best quality, and the title page of each volume shall recite and show that it is published by authority of the State of Texas, and each shall be authenticated by the certificate of the Secretary of State annexed thereto, as other laws when published are required to be certified; and said printing board shall require said edition to be electrotyped and shall secure and preserve the plates as the property of the State.

Sec. 10. The board of public printing shall immediately after passage of this act advertise for thirty days in three daily newspapers in this State for sealed proposals for printing, binding and electrotyping the laws as aforesaid, and shall on the day fixed in the advertisement, in the presence of such persons as desire to be present, proceed to open the proposals and award the contract to the best and lowest bidder, which proposal shall state the price per volume at which the bidder proposes to electrotype, print, bind and furnish under the superintendence and direction of the said board the laws and electrotype plates, as herein provided, and no bid or proposal shall be considered that is not accompanied by a guarantee of two or more sufficient sureties that if the contract should be awarded to the bidder he will execute the necessary bond for the performance of the work in the manner and style provided in this act; and the person or persons to whom such contract is awarded shall within ten days after receiving notice thereof, execute a bond to the State of Texas in the sum of twenty thousand dollars, with two or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by the board, conditioned for the faithful performance of the work in the manner and style therein prescribed and according to the provisions of this act, and for the delivery of said volumes and plates to the Secretary of State on or before the first day of September, 1895, or in the discretion of the board within such time as they may determine, the work to be done within the shortest time practicable; and the volumes may be received, if necessary to an earlier distribution, in numbers of a thousand at a time, as the work progresses; and the right shall be reserved by the board to reject any and all bids and proposals if in their judgment the terms proposed are not favorable to the State.

Sec. 11. Upon the delivery by the contractor of the volumes and plates aforesaid to the Secretary of State, executed according to the terms of the contract and accepted by the board, the amount due therefor shall be audited, allowed, and paid as provided by law in cases of other public printing, and the statutes in force in relation to public printing shall be applicable to the contract under this act in all matters not herein otherwise provided, and the Secretary of State shall as soon as practicable proceed under the copyright laws of the United States to secure the copyright of said work in favor of the State of Texas.

Sec. 12. The Revised Statutes and Codes aforesaid shall be distributed in the same manner as the acts of each session of the Legislature are required to be distributed, and single copies may be sold by the Secretary of State to attorneys and other citizens of the State wanting the same for their own use at the cost of three dollars per volume, exclusive of postage, the proceeds of such sales to be paid to the State Treasurer, and the Secretary of State to report thereon in his biennial report: Provided, that the printing board may, in their discretion, have the Constitution of Texas, the Constitution of the United States, and the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas bound in one volume, to be numbered "Vol. 1," and the Penal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure in one volume, to be numbered "Vol. 2," said Vol. 1 to be sold at $2.50 and Vol. 2 at $1.50.

Sec. 13. Twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much of that sum as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act.

Sec. 14. The necessity for the publication of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas in as complete a form as possible, and their early distribution among the people, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 30, 1895.

TRUSTS.

CHAP. 83.—[H. B. No. 404.] An act to define trusts, provide for penalties and punishment of corporations, persons, firms and associations of persons connected with them, and to promote free competition in the State of Texas, and to repeal all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That an act entitled "An act to define trusts and to provide for penalties and punishment of corporations, persons, firms and associations of persons connected with them, and to promote free competition in the State of Texas," approved March 30, 1889, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. That a trust is a combination of capital, skill or acts by two or more persons, firms, corporations or associations of persons, or either two or more of them, for either, any or all of the following purposes:

1. To create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce or aids to commerce, or to create or carry out restrictions in the full and free pursuit of any business authorized or permitted by the laws of this State.

2. To increase or reduce the price of merchandise, produce or commodities.

3. To prevent competition in manufacture, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or commodities, or to prevent competition in aids to commerce.

4. To fix at any standard or figure, whereby its price to the public shall be in any manner controlled or established, any article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, use or consumption in this State.

5. To make or enter into or execute or carry out any contract, obligation or agreement of any kind or description by which they shall bind or have bound themselves not to sell, dispose of or transport any article or commodity, or article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption below a common standard figure, or by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graded figure, or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article or commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others to preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves or others in the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or unite any interest they may have in connection with the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity that its price might in any manner be affected.

Sec. 2. That any corporation holding a charter under the laws of the State of Texas which shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall thereby forfeit its charter and franchise, and its corporate existence shall cease and determine.

Sec. 3. For a violation of any of the provisions of this act by any corporation mentioned herein it shall be the duty of the Attorney General or district or county attorney, or either of them, upon his own motion and without leave or order of any court or judge, to institute suit or quo warranto proceedings in Travis county, at Austin, or at the county seat of any county in the State where such corporation exists, does business or may have a domicile, for the forfeiture of its charter rights and franchise and the dissolution of its corporate existence.

Sec. 4. Every foreign corporation violating any of the provisions of this act is hereby denied the right and prohibited from doing any business within this State, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General to enforce this provision by injunction or other proper proceedings in the district court of Travis county, in the name of the State of Texas.

Sec. 5. That the provisions of chapter 48, general laws of this State, approved July 9, 1879, to prescribe the remedy and regulate the proceedings by quo warranto, etc., shall, except in so far as they may conflict herewith, govern and control the proceedings when instituted to forfeit any charter under this act.

Sec. 6. If any person shall be or may become engaged in any combination of capital, skill or acts by two or more persons, firms, corporations or associations of persons, or of either two or more of them, for either, any or all of the following purposes:

1. To create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce or aids to commerce, or to create or carry out restrictions in the full and free pursuit of any business authorized or permitted by the laws of this State.

2. To increase or reduce the price of merchandise, produce or commodities.

3. To prevent competition in manufacture, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or commodities, or to prevent competition in aids to commerce.

4. To fix at any standard or figure whereby its price to the public shall be in any manner controlled or established any article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, use or consumption in this State.

5. To make or enter into or execute or carry out any contract, obligation or agreement of any kind or description, by which they shall bind or have bound themselves not to sell, dispose of, or transport any article or commodity, or article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption, below a common standard figure, or by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graduated figure, or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article or commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others to preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves and others in the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or unite any interest they may have in connection with the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity that its prices may in any manner be affected, or aid or advise in the creation or carrying out of any such combination, or who shall as principal, manager, director, agent, servant or employee, or in any other capacity, knowingly carry out any of the stipulations, purposes, prices, rates, directions, conditions or orders of such combinations, shall be punished by fine of not less than fifty nor more than five thousand dollars, and by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than ten years, or by either such fine or imprisonment. Each day during a violation of this provision shall constitute a separate offense.

Sec. 7. In any indictment for an offense named in this act it is sufficient to state the effects or purposes of the trust or combination, and that the accused was a member of, acted with or in pursuance of it, without giving its name or description, or how, when or where it was created.

Sec. 8. In prosecutions under this act it shall be sufficient to prove that a trust or combination as defined herein exists and that the defendant belonged to it or acted for or in connection with it, without proving all the members belonging to it or proving or producing any article of agreement or any written instrument on which it may have been based, or that it was evidenced by any written instrument at all. The character of the trust or combination alleged may be established by proof of its general reputation as such.

Sec. 9. Persons out of the State may commit and be liable to indictment and conviction for committing any of the offenses enumerated in this act, which do not in their commission necessarily require a personal presence in this State, the object being to reach and punish all persons offending against its provisions, whether within or without the State.

Sec. 10. Each and every firm, person, corporation or association of persons who shall in any manner violate any of the provisions of this act shall for each and every day that such violation shall be committed or continued forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars, which may be recovered in the name of the State of Texas in any county where the offense is committed, or where either of the offenders reside, or in Travis county, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General or the district or county attorney to prosecute for and recover the same.

Sec. 11. That any contract or agreement in violation of the provisions of this act shall be absolutely void and not enforceable either in law or equity.

Sec. 12. That the provisions hereof shall be held cumulative of each other and of all other laws in any way affecting them now in force in this State: Provided, this act shall not be held to apply to livestock and agricultural products in the hands of the producer or raiser, nor shall it be understood or construed to prevent the organization of laborers for the purpose of maintaining any standard of wages.

Sec. 13. That nothing in this act shall be held or construed to affect or destroy any rights which may have accrued, or to affect the right of the State to recover penalties, or to affect the right of the State to forfeit charters of domestic corporations and prohibit foreign corporations from doing business in this State, or affect the right of the State to maintain prosecutions for violations thereof, under any laws of this State relating to trusts, for acts heretofore done.

Sec. 14. Any court, officer or tribunal having jurisdiction of the offense defined in this act, or any district or county attorney or grand jury may subpoena persons and compel their attendance as witnesses to testify as to the violation of any of the provisions of the foregoing sections. Any person so summoned and examined shall not be liable to prosecution for any violation of said sections about which he may testify fully and without reservation.

Sec. 15. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 16. Whereas, the people of this State are without an adequate remedy against trusts, therefore an emergency and imperative public necessity exists requiring that the constitutional rule which requires that all bills shall be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 30, 1895.

STOLEN OR EMBEZZLED PROPERTY.

CHAP. 84.—[S. B. No. 51.] An act to amend articles 798 and 799, of chapter 18, title 17, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas, relating to stolen or embezzled property brought into the State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That articles 798 and 799, of chapter 18, title 17, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas be so amended as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 798. If any person having committed an offense in any foreign country, State or territory, which if committed in this State would have been robbery, theft, embezzlement, or receiving of stolen goods or property, knowing the same to have been stolen, or fraudulently receiving or concealing property acquired by another by embezzlement, knowing the same to have been so acquired, shall bring into this State any property so acquired or received, he shall be deemed guilty of robbery, theft, embezzlement, or receiving of goods or property stolen or embezzled, as the case may be, knowing the same to have been stolen or embezzled, and shall be punished as if the offense had been committed in this State. And in cases herein mentioned the offense may be charged to have been committed in any county into or through which the property may be brought in the same manner as if the act constituting such offense had taken place wholly within this State.

Article 799. To render a person guilty under the preceding article it must appear that by the law of the foreign country, state or territory from which the property was taken and brought to this State the act committed would also have been robbery, embezzlement, theft or receiving stolen goods or property, or receiving or concealing goods or property embezzled.

Approved April 29, 1895.

AD VALOREM TAX.

CHAP. 85.—[H. B. No. 270.] An act to provide for the levy and collection of an annual ad valorem State tax for the general revenue purposes of twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars valuation for 1895, and twenty cents thereafter.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: There shall be levied and collected for the year 1895 an ad valorem tax of twenty-five cents, and annually thereafter an ad valorem tax of twenty cents on the one hundred dollars of the cash value thereof, estimated in lawful currency of the United States, on all real property situated and on all property owned in the State on the first day of January in each and every year, and on all property sent out of the State prior to the first day of January for the purpose of evading the payment of taxes thereon, and afterwards returned to the State, except so much thereof as may be exempted by the Constitution and laws of this State or the United States, which cash value shall be estimated in the manner prescribed by law.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the time for assessors to compile their assessment rolls creates an imperative public necessity, and an emergency exists wherefore the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended and that this bill be put on its third reading and final passage, and this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved May 3, 1895.

Provided, that no part of the appropriation herein made for the salaries of special judges shall be applied to the payment of any such judges, who, sitting as judges of the Criminal Court of Appeals, shall have held under advisement for as long a period as twelve months the case or cases that they were appointed to try, thereby denying persons charged with crime the constitutional right of a speedy trial, and depriving them of their liberty: And provided, further, that hereafter no officer, superintendent or employe of the State shall create any debt against the State of Texas, except where specifically provided by law, and where an appropriation has been made therefor, or authorized by law.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is no appropriation to pay the claims herein stated, which are registered and estimated as outstanding against the the State, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity which justifies the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, and this act should take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

QUARANTINE.

CHAP. 88.—[S. B. No. 230.] An act to amend sections 3 and 10 of an act entitled "An act to regulate the establishment of quarantine in the State of Texas and in the counties, cities and towns thereof, and to repeal all laws and parts of laws in conflict therewith," approved April 29, 1891.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 3 of said act be amended so as to read: "Such health officer (State health officer) shall, during the time he is engaged in the public service, receive for his services twenty-five hundred dollars per year, and his necessary traveling expenses incurred in the discharge of his legitimate duties, a bill of which must be made out in detail and approved by the Governor, on which approved account the Comptroller shall issue his warrant on the Treasurer for the amount of said approved account." Amend section 10 of said act so as to read: All the costs and expenses of enforcing and maintaining the general quarantine or such as are ordered by the Governor or State health officer shall be paid out of the fund appropriated for quarantine purposes. All quarantine officers appointed by the Governor shall be selected and commissioned by the Governor of the State, and shall be paid by the State, and all health authorities of the State, or of any county or city thereof, shall obey the rules and regulations prescribed by the Governor or State health officer. The regular officers in charge of regular established quarantine stations on the coast shall be allowed one hundred and fifty dollars per month while on duty at their respective stations: Provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to the port of Galveston: And provided, that the officer in charge of said station shall receive two hundred dollars per month. Temporary officers, or those commissioned by the Governor to guard against threatened epidemics, and those stationed at railway crossings on the Rio Grande shall receive one hundred and fifty dollars per month while on duty, and such other pay for extra expenses actually incurred as may be deemed just by the Governor and State health officer. All quarantine officers, whether of towns, cities, counties or State, shall be authorized to administer oaths to any person or persons suspected of violating any quarantine regulations, and any person or persons swearing falsely shall be punished according to the provisions of the Penal Code.

Sec. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that appropriations must be made for the support of these officers creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved May 4, 1895.

PERSONAL INJURIES.

CHAP. 89.—[H. B. No. 32.] An act to provide for the survival of causes of action for personal injuries, other than those resulting in death, and for the enforcement thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That from and after the passage of this act causes of action upon which suit has been or may hereafter be brought by the injured party for personal injuries other than those resulting in death, whether such injuries be to the health or to the reputation or to the person of the injured party, shall not abate by reason of his death, nor by reason of the death of the person against whom such cause of action shall have accrued; but in the case of the death of either or both, such cause of action shall survive to and in favor of the heirs and legal representatives of such injured party and against the person, receiver or corporation liable for such injuries and his legal representatives; and so surviving such cause may be thereafter prosecuted in like manner and with like legal effect as would a cause of action for injuries to personal property.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is no law providing for the survival of such causes of action, and that this Legislature is nearing its close, constitutes an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved May 4, 1895.

COUNTIES—GRAY ATTACHED TO ROBERTS.

CHAP. 90.—[S. B. No. 257.] An act to attach Gray county to Roberts county for judicial purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the unorganized county of Gray be and the same is hereby attached to the county of Roberts for judicial purposes.

Sec. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the session of the Legislature and the great number of bills to be disposed of, and of the convenience of the people of Gray county demand that this act should take immediate effect; therefore an imperative public necessity and an emergency exists requiring the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved May 4, 1895.

The petition shall be filed with the clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals within thirty days from the overruling of the motion for rehearing, and thereupon the said clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals shall note upon his record the filing of said application, and shall forward to the clerk of the Supreme Court the said application, together with the original record in the case, and the opinions of the Court of Civil Appeals, and the motion filed therein, and certified copies of the judgments and orders of the Court of Civil Appeals: Provided, that the party applying for the writ of error shall deposit with the clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals a sum sufficient to pay the expressage or carriage of the said record to and from the clerk of the Supreme Court, which sum shall be charged as costs in the suit. If the writ of error be granted and the plaintiff in error has given no bond, then the Supreme Court in granting the writ shall specify what bond shall be given, and the plaintiff in error shall file said bond in the trial court, to be approved by the clerk of said court, and a certified copy thereof shall at once be transmitted to the Supreme Court, and upon the filing of said certified copy the clerk of the Supreme Court shall issue the citation in error as may be prescribed by the rules of the Supreme Court.

SUPREME COURT—WRITS OF ERROR TO COURTS OF CIVIL APPEALS.

CHAP. 92.—[S. B. No. 123.] An act to amend article 1011a of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, as amended by "An act entitled an act to amend articles Nos. 1002, 1005, 1011, 1012, 1014, 1017, 1019, 1023, 1024, 1025, 1033, 1039, 1043, 1044, 1049, 1050, 1056, 1057, 1058, 1060 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, and to add articles 1011a, 1011b, 1011c, 1011d, and 1011e, and to repeal articles Nos. 1006, 1007, 1008, 1009, 1034, 1035, 1036, 1037, 1038, 1045, 1046, 1048 of the same title of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, and to provide for the transfer of cases pending in the Supreme Court to the Court of Civil Appeals," passed by the special session of the Twenty-second Legislature, approved April 13, 1892, relating to writs of error from the Supreme Court to the Courts of Civil Appeals.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 1011a of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, as amended by chapter 14 of the acts of the special session of the Twenty-second Legislature, be amended so as to read as follows:

Article 1011a. All cases shall be carried up to the Supreme Court by writs of error upon final judgment, and not on judgments reversing and remanding cases, except in the following cases, to-wit:

1. Where the State is a party or where the Railroad Commissioners are parties.

2. Cases which involve the construction and application of the Constitution of the United States or of the State of Texas, or of an act of Congress.

3. Cases which involve the validity of a statute of the State.

4. Cases involving the title to a State office.

5. Cases in which a Civil Court of Appeals overrules its own decisions or the decision of another Court of Civil Appeals, or of the Supreme Court.

6. Cases in which the judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree.

7. Cases in which any two of the Courts of Civil Appeals may hold differently on the same question of law.

8. When the judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals reversing a judgment practically settles the case, and this fact is shown in the petition for writ of error, and the attorneys for petitioners shall state that the decision of the Court of Civil Appeals practically settles the case, in which case, if the Supreme Court affirms the decision of the Court of Civil Appeals, it shall also render final judgment accordingly.

Whereas, there are a great number of bills now pending, and the session is nearing its close, therefore there exists an imperative public necessity and emergency that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

that said bond is in proper form and has been executed by the witness with one or more good or solvent securities, and said bond shall in no case be less than $100: Provided, the Comptroller may require from such officer a certified copy of all such process before auditing any account.

9. For attending a prisoner on habeas corpus, for each day $2, together with mileage as hereinbefore provided in subdivision 5, when removing such prisoner out of the county under an order issued by a district or appellate judge.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fees now paid sheriffs and constables in felony cases being exorbitant, unreasonable, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

LANDS—RELIEF OF ACTUAL OCCUPANTS.

CHAP. 95.—[S. B. 195.] An act for the relief of actual occupants of portions of the unappropriated public domain as homes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall find by inspection of the whole body of the application that it was made for the purpose of having a survey made of a portion of the unappropriated public domain for the homestead of the applicant, under "An act for the benefit of actual occupants of the public lands," approved May 26, 1873, and acts amendatory thereof, and upon which application the surveyor did make the survey as required by law, even though his field notes were not returned to the Land Office within twelve months, and shall also find that the proof of occupancy as required by law is fully and properly made, from all of which it shall be manifestly clear to the Commissioner that the applicant had in good faith endeavored to comply with the law hereinbefore recited, but was misled through the omission or ignorance of the officers charged by law to perform their duties in the premises, he shall issue and sign the patent, notwithstanding the application may not have been sworn to, or not signed if sworn to, or shall not have the seal of the officer before whom the affidavit was made attached thereto, and notwithstanding the application may contain a recital of articles 3926 and 3927 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, "An act for the relief of actual occupants of the public lands," approved April 24, 1879, when it shall be manifest from all the papers on file in the Land Office that such recital was erroneously made.

Sec. 2. That nothing in this act shall be construed to allow any applicant to obtain a patent in any case where subsequent settlers have, by reason of any of the failures or delays recited in this act, themselves settled upon any of such lands in good faith as a home, nor thus defeat such subsequent applicant.

Sec. 3. The great importance of this act to innocent persons creates the imperative public necessity for its immediate enforcement, and that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act shall take effect at once; therefore said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage.

PARTITION AND DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATES.

CHAP. 96.—[S. S. B. No. 164.] An act to amend article 2126, title 37, chapter 25, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, relating to partition and distribution of estates.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 2126, title 37, chapter 25, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, shall be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 2126. If any distributee be a minor his share shall be delivered to his guardian, and if such minor has no guardian, and is a resident of this State, the executor or administrator shall retain his share until a guardian of such minor shall be appointed and qualified; and if any distributee be a minor and reside in any other than this State, and the guardianship of such minor or minors may be or has been granted in the State where such minor or minors reside, it shall be lawful for the executor or administrator in this State to settle with and pay or deliver over to such guardian any and all estate in his hands, which shall be as good and valid as if the guardianship had been granted in this State: Provided, said guardian before he receives such estate shall make and enter into a bond as guardian in the matter of the guardianship so pending, conditioned and for the amount prescribed by the court having jurisdiction of such guardianship: And provided further, that he shall produce to the court of the county wherein administration has been or may be granted in this State a certified copy of the bond so given and of the record of his appointment as guardian, with certificates from the clerk and judge of the court in which said guardianship is pending that said appointment and bond are in due and legal form under the laws of the said State; also a copy of his bond as guardian; and if the court shall be satisfied that said guardian has been legally appointed and otherwise complied with the requirements herein, such court shall order to be recorded in the clerk's office of the county court, which, when recorded, shall entitle the guardian to settle for the amount due his ward.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, and the crowded condition of the calendar, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

DRAINAGE.

CHAP. 97.—[H. B. No. 549.] An act to provide for the construction and maintenance of ditches, drains and water courses, and for the improvement and enlargement of natural drainage of the several counties within the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the commissioners court of any county in this State, at any regular or called session thereof, may, in the manner hereinafter provided, and shall have power, whenever the same shall be conducive to the public health, convenience or welfare, or where and whenever the same will be of public benefit or utility, to cause to be straightened, widened, altered, deepened, any creek, bayou or other stream or water course, and shall cause to be constructed and maintained, as hereinafter provided, any ditch, drain or water course within any of the said counties, and shall have power to make the said improvement, if necessary, by removing from any adjacent lands or any stream or water course any timber, bush, tree or other substance liable to or causing the obstruction thereof, and shall also have power to construct in connection with any such ditch or drain any side, lateral, spur or branch ditch or water course necessary to the accomplishment of this act: Provided, however, that no ditch, drain, outlet or water course shall be deepened, widened, constructed or maintained without a sufficient outlet being provided for all water that may collect therein: Provided further, that the word "ditch" in this act hereafter shall be construed to embrace any ditch, drain or water course that may be constructed under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 2. That before the commissioners court of such county shall establish any ditch, drain or water course there shall be filed with the clerk of the county court of said county a petition signed by at least five persons who are land owners and whose land will be liable to be affected by or assessed for the expense of the construction of the same, setting forth the necessity thereof, with a general description of the proposed starting point, route and terminus of the said ditch; and said petitioners shall give a bond not to exceed one hundred dollars, with good and sufficient sureties, payable to the said county, to be approved by the clerk of the said court, conditioned to pay all expenses in case the commissioners court shall fail to establish said proposed ditch, drain or water course. As soon as said petition is filed said court shall, if in regular session, or at their next regular session, appoint a jury of three freeholders and householders of the county, not interested in the construction of the proposed work, and not of kin to any of the parties interested therein, who shall constitute a jury of viewers, who shall meet at a time and place specified by the said court in the order of making said appointment preparatory to commencing their duties as hereinafter specified, and it shall be the duty of the said clerk of the said county court thereupon to issue to the said viewers a certified copy of the petition and order of said court, who shall proceed at the time set in said order with a surveyor, who shall be a civil engineer, or a civil engineer and surveyor, to make an accurate survey of the line of said ditch, drain or water course, from its source to its outlet; and they shall cause stakes or monuments to be set along said line at intervals of 100 feet, together with such intermediate stakes as may be necessary, and numbered progressively at each one hundred feet; and they shall establish permanent bench marks along said line, at intervals of one mile or less, as may be necessary; and they shall prepare a map showing the location of said ditch, drain or water course, together with the position of stakes or monuments, with numbers corresponding with those on the ground, and the position of bench marks, with their elevations referred to on assumed or previously determined datum. The map should also show the lines and boundaries of adjacent property, and the position of county roads and railroads which may be affected by said ditch or drain, and such information should be obtained as will lead to the determination of the benefits or damages which will accrue from the construction of the same; and they shall prepare a profile of the line of said ditch, drain or water course, which shall show the assumed datum and the grade line of the bottom of the same, and the elevation of each stake or monument and other important feature along the line, such as top of bank and bottom of all ditches or water course and surface of water, top of rail and bottom of tie, foot of embankment, bottom of burrow pits, of all railroads, and center of road, and bottom and top of ditches of highways. And they shall, in tabular form, give the depth of cut, width at bottom and width at top at the source, outlet, and at each one hundred feet stake or monument of said ditch, drain or water course; and they shall make a computation of the total number of cubic yards of earth to be excavated and removed from said ditch, drain or water course, and an estimate of the total cost of construction of the whole work and they shall prepare specifications in detail for the execution of the same; and they shall have power, when they find it necessary, to provide for running said ditch under ground through drain tiles or other materials, as they may deem best, by specifying size of tile or other kind of material to be used in such underground work, and shall include the cost of same in the estimate of the total cost of the work; and they shall set apart and apportion to each parcel of land, and to each corporation, road or railroad, and to the county when public highways are benefited, a share of said work in proportion to the benefits which will result to each from such improvement, and the cost of the construction of each share or allotment separately. And they shall describe each parcel of land to be assessed in the construction of said ditch, giving the number of acres in each tract assessed and an estimate of the number of acres benefited, the amount that each tract will be benefited by the construction of said work, and the amount of each tract as assessed therefor; and they shall also ascertain and give the names of the owners of the lands that are assessed in the construction of said ditch, drain or water course, as far as they may be able to ascertain by reasonable enquiry and search of the public records, and report whether or not the proposed ditch or drain will be of public utility; and they shall submit with their report a copy of the map and profile of the line of said ditch, drain or water course, and a copy of the specifications for the construction of the same, which, together with the report, shall become a public record, and shall be placed in the custody of the county clerk, to be presented [preserved] as such.

Sec. 3. Whenever a public ditch, drain or water course is located wholly or in part of the bed of a private ditch already or partially constructed, the viewers shall make an estimate of the number of cubic yards of earth already excavated and the cost of the same on each tract of land, and deduct the same from the assessment thereon.

Sec. 4. All lands benefited by public ditch, drain or water course shall be assessed in proportion to the benefit to the said lands by the construction thereof, whether it pass through said lands or not; and the viewers in estimating the benefit to lands in controversy by said ditch shall not consider what benefit such lands will receive after some other ditch or ditches shall be constructed, but only the benefits that may be received by reason of the construction of the public ditch as it affords an outlet for the drainage of such lands; and in the making of the said assessment should the viewers find that the construction of said ditch or drain would to any extent construct or constitute a public road of utility to the county in that section, or be a material benefit in the drainage of any public road then constructed, they will assess as against the county such sum as will represent the benefit so accruing to the public: Provided, that all assessments for benefits accruing to counties or county roads shall be approved by the commissioners courts of such counties.

Sec. 5. The said jury of viewers, as provided for in this act, shall issue a notice in writing to the land owner through whose lands such proposed ditch or drain may run, or to his or their agent or attorney, of the time when they shall proceed to lay out such ditch, or when they shall proceed to lay out such ditch, or when they will assess the damage incidental to the construction of same, which notice shall be served upon such owner, his agent or attorney, at least five days before the day named therein; if such owner is a non-resident of the county the notice shall be given by publication in a newspaper published in the county, as notices are required to be given to non-resident defendants as to actions in the district or county court, and such ditch or drain may be constructed four weeks after such publication, the cost of publishing the same to be paid as directed by the commissioners court.

Sec. 6. That all persons whose land may be affected by such ditch, drain or water course, shall have the right to appear before said viewers and freely express their opinions on all matters pertaining thereto, and the owner of any such lands may at the time stated in said notice, or previously thereto, present to the jury a statement in writing of any objections to or dissatisfaction therewith, and any claim for damages which he may have by reason of the making of the said ditch or drain; and a failure to make such claim in writing, as herein specified, for damages or compensation, shall be deemed and held a waiver for all right thereto, all of which said claim or objections shall be returned to the commissioners court, in connection with the report of the said viewers.

Sec. 7. The commissioners court, at the time set for the hearing of said petition, shall hear and determine the same, in connection with all remonstrances or objections thereto, and if they find that the said viewers' report is made in accordance with the provisions of this act, and it be in favor of the proposed work, and if they find the proposed ditch or drain to be of public utility, or conducive to public health, or of public benefit or convenience, they shall enter an order on the minutes establishing the same, as specified in the said report, and order the same to be constructed according to the said report, and shall then or thereafter take such further action and make such other and further orders and decrees in the premises as may be proper or necessary to secure the execution of said work. But should said viewers report adversely to the said work, the board shall dismiss the petition and tax the costs as against the said petitioners.

Sec. 8. The said viewers, before proceeding to act as such, shall take the following oath, before any officer authorized to administer oaths, to-wit: "I do solemnly swear that I will lay out the ditch or drain now directed to be laid out by the order to us directed in the commissioners court, according to law, without favor or affection, malice or hatred, to the best of my ability, skill and knowledge. So help me God."

Sec. 9. Any person or corporation aggrieved thereby may appeal from the final order of the commissioners court made in said proceedings and entered upon their record to the county court of that county within ten days thereafter, by filing within ten days thereafter a transcript of said proceedings in said county court, and also filing within the said ten days with the clerk of the said court an appeal bond, with at least two good sureties, to be approved by the said county clerk, conditioned that he will prosecute such appeal to effect and pay all costs that may be adjudged against him in said court; and the said appeal shall be heard and determined upon the following issues, to-wit:

1. Whether said ditch shall be conducive to the public health, convenience or welfare.

2. Whether the route thereof is practicable.

3. Whether the assessments made for the construction of such ditch are in proportion to the benefits to be derived therefrom.

4. The amount of damages, if any, to be allowed to any person or persons, or corporation; and if more than one person appeal the judge of the said court shall order the said cases to be consolidated and tried together, and the rights of each party shall be separately determined by the said court and jury, if any, in its verdict and final determination, and the cause so appealed and so conducted in said county court shall have precedence over all other causes on the docket of a different nature, and shall be tried and determined as other civil cases in said court. Either party to such action may appeal to such appellate court as has jurisdiction of said cause, and said action shall be returnable at once to said appellate court at either of its terms, and said action so filed shall have precedence in said appellate court of all cases of a different character therein pending.

Sec. 10. In the trial of all cases so appealed from the order of the commissioners court the burden of proof shall rest upon the complainant.

Sec. 11. Every person or corporation through whose lands any public ditch is constructed shall be required to keep the same open, free, and clear from all obstructions upon his or its premises, by him or it placed therein, and in case of failure to do so shall be liable to pay all reasonable and necessary expenses of removing such obstruction.

Sec. 12. Whenever the route of the proposed ditch, drain, or water course extends into two or more counties, then a petition shall be signed by at least five free-holders, one or more of whom are land owners in the county other than that of the filing of the petition, and whose lands will be liable to be assessed for the construction of such ditch, and file the same with the clerk of the commissioners court, the said petition to be filed in the county containing the head or source of the proposed ditch, at least ten days before any regular meeting of the commissioners court of that county, and thereupon the clerk of such court shall transmit to the clerk of the court of such other county or counties interested therein a certified copy of such petition; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners court of each county interested in the proposed work, at their first regular session after such petition is filed, to appoint three disinterested freeholders and householders of their respective counties as viewers, in like manner as is provided for the appointment of viewers on a ditch in but one county, to meet and act jointly at such time and place as the board of commissioners of the county where the petition is filed may designate, and such joint viewers shall have the same power and perform the same duties as is provided in this act for the viewers on a ditch in one county; and they shall file a report of their proceedings with the clerk of each of said counties so interested at least two weeks before the next regular session of the board of commissioners, whereupon the clerk of each county shall give notice in the manner provided for as to ditches in one county, and the time for the hearing thereof shall be set by the respective courts of each county: Provided further, that in an action of a joint board of viewers the approval and report of a majority of the whole board shall be necessary to constitute a valid report of said board.

Sec. 13. The joint board of viewers, as herein provided for, of the counties interested in said joint ditch, shall proceed to establish the same in the manner specified in ditches in but one county, and in all matters pertaining to such joint ditch the board of commissioners shall act in the same manner, so far as is applicable, as is required by this act for ditches into but one county, and they shall act jointly, and the same shall be determined by the respective orders of the said respective commissioners courts, and such further proceedings had thereon as herein provided for in but one county.

Sec. 14. When any ditch established under this act drains either in whole or in part any public road or railroad, or benefits any such road or railroad, so that the roadbed or travel or track of any such road will be made better by the construction of any such ditch, then the jury of viewers shall apportion to any such county if the same be a public road, or to such railroad if the same be a railroad, such portion of the costs and expenses thereof as herein provided for to private individuals.

Sec. 15. If any person shall wilfully obstruct any public ditch or shall wilfully divert the water from its proper channel, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than five nor more than five hundred dollars, and shall also be liable for any and all damages accruing to any person or persons or corporation or county for any such act.

Sec. 16. That in all reports made by any jury of viewers the same shall be sufficient if signed by a majority of said viewers.

Sec. 17. The said jury of viewers shall each receive the sum of three dollars per day as compensation for said work for each day so actually engaged. And said surveyor and engineer shall receive such compensation as shall be fixed by the commissioners court.

Sec. 18. That all assessments, sums and charges by the said viewers on order of court assessed against any land or lands shall be a lien thereon, and shall be collected as other assessments and taxes are collected under the general tax laws of this State. That any damages, if any, that the said jury of viewers or commissioners court assesses in favor of any individual or corporation shall be paid out of the county treasury upon the order of the said court. And any sums assessed against any county on account of any public road shall be paid by the said county under an order of the commissioners court.

Sec. 19. Whereas, there is now no law upon the subject and an imperative public necessity exists that this bill should become a law and take effect at once; therefore, be it resolved, that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this bill be placed on its third reading, become a law and take effect immediately after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 23d day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

BANDERA COUNTY—CIVIL AND CRIMINAL JURISDICTION DIMINISHED.

CHAP. 98.—[H. B. No. 294.] An act to diminish the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the county court of Bandera county, to conform the jurisdiction of the district court thereto, and to repeal all laws in conflict herewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county court of Bandera county shall have and exercise the general jurisdiction of a probate court, shall probate wills, appoint guardians of minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis, and common drunkards, grant letters testamentary and of administration, settle accounts of executors, administrators and guardians, transact all business appertaining to the estates of deceased persons, minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis, and common drunkards, including the partition, settlements and distribution of estates of deceased persons, and to apprentice minors as provided by law, and to issue all writs necessary for the enforcement of its own jurisdiction, to punish contempt under such provisions as are or may be provided by general law governing county courts throughout the State, but the said county court of Bandera county shall have no other jurisdiction, civil or criminal, whatsoever.

Sec. 2. That the district court of Bandera county shall have and exercise jurisdiction in all civil and criminal matters and causes over which, by the laws of this State, the county court of said county would have jurisdiction, except as provided in section 1 of this act; all causes other than probate matters, and such as are provided by section 1 of this act, be and the same are hereby transferred to the district court of Bandera county, and all writs and processes relating to any civil or criminal matters not included in the subject matters of jurisdiction prescribed in section 1 of this act, issued by or out of said county court of Bandera county, be and the same are hereby made returnable to the next term of the district court of said county after this act takes effect.

Sec. 3. That the county clerk of Bandera county be and he is hereby required, within thirty days after this act takes effect, to make a full and complete transcript of all entries upon his civil and criminal docket heretofore made in cases which, by section 2 of this act, are required to be transferred to the district court of said county, together with all the papers to such causes pertaining, and a certified bill of costs in each case, and all such causes shall be immediately docketed by said district clerk; and such civil cases so transferred shall stand on the docket of said court as appearance cases for the next succeeding term, and all criminal cases shall be docketed and disposed of in the same manner as if the same had been originally triable in said district court, and all process now issued and returnable to said county court shall be returnable to said district court.

Sec. 4. That this act shall not be construed to in any manner affect judgments heretofore rendered by said county court of Banderita county pertaining to matters and causes which, by section 2 of this act, are transferred to the district court of said county, but the county clerk of said county shall issue all executions and orders of sale, and proceedings thereunder shall be as valid and binding, to all intents and purposes, as though the change had not been made as by section 2 therein contemplated.

Sec. 5. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 6. Owing to the great inconvenience caused the people of Banderita county, and the almost unanimous demand by the citizens of said county that said jurisdiction be diminished, an emergency is created and an imperative public necessity requires the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house; said rule is therefore suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

MAKING PROVISION FOR THE RECORD OF CERTIFIED COPIES OF DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS.

CHAP. 99.—[H. B. No. 56.] An act to amend article 4334 of Revised Statutes of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 4334, title 86, chapter 3, of the Revised Statutes of Texas be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 4334. Every conveyance, covenant, agreement, deed, deed of trust or mortgage in this chapter mentioned, or certified copies of any such original conveyance, covenant, agreement, deed, deed of trust or mortgage copied from the deed or mortgage records of any county in this State where the same has been regularly recorded, although the land mentioned may not have been situated in the county where such instrument was recorded, and which shall have been acknowledged, proved or certified according to law, may be recorded in the county where the land lies, and when delivered to the clerk of the proper court to be recorded shall take effect and be valid as to all subsequent purchasers for a valuable consideration without notice, and as to all creditors from the time when such instrument shall have been so acknowledged, proved or certified and delivered to such clerk to be recorded, and from that time only: Provided, however, that all certified copies filed and recorded under the provisions of this act shall take effect and be in force from the time such certified copy was filed for record: And provided further, that nothing in this act shall be construed to make valid any instrument which was at the time of its execution from any cause invalid.

Sec. 2. The fact that there are many deeds conveying land in this State which have been recorded in counties other than the county in which the lands are situated, which record is not now authorized by law, and the record thereof being invalid, and not notice to subsequent purchasers for value, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and it is so suspended, and demanding that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 23rd day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

Sec. 2. The fact that the time wherein the killing of the larger game permitted under this law is now far advanced, an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house of the Legislature be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and is so enacted.

Sec. 2. In prosecutions under the preceding article it shall not be necessary for the indictment to allege the name of the owner of the land, nor shall it be necessary for the State to prove the name of such owner, but it shall be sufficient to allege and prove that the land was not the property of the person accused.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of this session of the Legislature, and the crowded condition of the calendar, and the fact that it is improbable that this bill can be read on three several days, create an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

Section 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, and the crowded condition of the calendar, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and the same is hereby suspended.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

CHAP. 103.—[S. B. No. 42.] An act to amend articles 683b of the Penal Code of the State of Texas, as enacted by the Legislature of said State, by an act entitled "An act to amend articles 683, chapter 3, title 17, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas, relating to malicious mischief, and providing a penalty therefor by adding thereto article 683b," approved March 22, 1889, and amendatory of said recited act, and to define and punish the offense of wilfully or maliciously throwing missiles or firing guns or other fire arms at or into moving trains on railroads or any railway depot, private residence, school house, church house, court house, store house, hotel or other public or private building, sailboat or steamboat in this State.

LANDS—MONEYS REFUNDED—WHEN.

CHAP. 104.—[H. B. No. 358.] An act to amend chapter CXI of the General Laws of the Eighteenth Legislature of the State of Texas, approved 14 April, 1883, and entitled "An act authorizing the refunding from the State Treasury from deposits made to special funds to parties who may have paid the same in error, and who may have received no consideration therefor."

Whereas, it appears that sundry payments have been made into the State treasury for State revenue and special funds on public domain and other classes of lands for taxes, lease and purchase money, for which, because of conflict, erroneous surveys, illegal sales and other causes, patents can not issue, or have been issued and cancelled, and the party whose money has been so deposited can not receive proper consideration for such payments, and will lose their moneys; therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 1 of said act be so amended as to hereafter read as follows: "That upon proper proof being made to the Comptroller that money has been in good faith paid into the State treasury upon lands for taxes, lease and purchase money, for which, on account of conflicts, erroneous surveys, or illegal sales, patents can not legally issue, or upon lands which patents have issued and have been or may hereafter be legally cancelled, the Comptroller is hereby authorized to issue his warrant for the amount so paid into the treasury in favor of the parties who have in good faith paid such money for which they receive no consideration: Provided, that this act shall not apply to surveys the errors in which may be corrected: And provided further, that whenever the official records of the General Land Office shall show that patents for such lands can not legally issue upon such surveys, on account of conflicts, erroneous or illegal sales, or that patents issued on such lands have been legally cancelled, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to issue his certificate to that effect, which certificate filed with the Comptroller shall be sufficient proof to authorize him to act under the provisions hereof."

Sec. 2. The crowded condition of the calendar and the near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity demands that the constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so suspended.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS—DISTRICTS LYING IN TWO OR MORE COUNTIES.

CHAP. 105.—[H. B. No. 225.] An act to provide for the organization and control of school districts lying partly within two or more counties, and school communities composed of persons living within two or more counties.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever the people living near a county line desire to organize a school district lying partly within two or more counties, a petition setting forth the boundaries of the proposed district, signed by a majority of the qualified voters within said boundaries and approved by the county superintendent (or ex officio county superintendent) of public instruction of each county in which any part of the proposed district lies, shall be presented to the commissioners court of any of one of said counties, and said commissioners court shall have authority to establish such school district according to said petition.

Sec. 2. When such school district is so established it shall be regarded and treated in all respects as a district of the county by whose commissioners court it is established: Provided, that the children of scholastic age living in each county shall be reported separately to the proper county authorities and apportionments for such pupils shall be made by the several counties as to other children of the same counties, but the funds apportioned to such children shall all be transferred during each school year to the county whose commissioners court established the district: And provided, further, that when any such school district authorizes the levy of a local school tax by vote of tax payers the returns of the election shall be made to the commissioners court of the county establishing the district, and when the result of the election is declared the county clerk shall transmit to the commissioners court of each of the other counties interested notice of the result and of the rate of tax, if any, authorized. And the commissioners court of each county shall levy, the assessor shall assess, and the collector shall collect the tax separately for the portions of the district in their respective counties, but the funds so derived shall all be transferred to the county whose commissioners court established the district.

Sec. 3. County line communities may also be organized, including the residents of two or more community counties residing within three miles of the county line, upon petition to the county superintendent of public instruction of either county, in which case all the funds prorated to the children belonging to such community shall be transferred to the county whose county superintendent establishes the community.

Sec. 4. The near approach of the end of the session and the demand for immediate legislation on this subject constitute an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read in each house of the Legislature on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

INSANE CONVICTS.

CHAP. 106.—[H. B. No. 140.] An act to amend article 101a of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relative to insane convicts.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 101a of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas shall hereafter read as follows:

Article 101a. When a convict shall be discharged from one of the State penitentiaries, and is insane at the time of his discharge, and it shall be adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction within thirty days after his discharge that said convict is insane and that he should be placed under restraint, he shall be delivered to the superintendent of the penitentiaries, or to one of the assistant superintendents of the penitentiary, to be conveyed to one of the lunatic asylums of this State by said superintendent or under his direction; and the expenses incurred in said adjudication and in keeping and conveying such patient to the asylum, including such clothing as shall be necessary for his comfort, shall be paid by the State upon the certificate of the superintendent of the penitentiary.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas on the 30th day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

COUNTIES AND CITIES—BRIDGES.

CHAP. 107.—[H. B. No. 661.] An act authorizing counties and cities to erect bridges in incorporated cities, or to co-operate with cities in the erection thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever the commissioners court of any county shall deem it to the interest of the county to erect any bridge or bridges within the corporate limits of any city or town, said court may make contracts therefor, and erect said bridges to the same extent and under the same conditions now prescribed by law for the construction of bridges outside of the limits of any city or town.

Sec. 2. If said commissioners court and the city council of any city or town desire to co-operate in the erection of a bridge within the corporate limits of any city or town, they may jointly erect such bridge upon such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed upon; and either or both of the city and county may issue its bonds to pay for its proportional part of the debt: Provided, that no such contract shall be made or entered into or bonds issued under the provisions of this act unless a proposition therefor shall be submitted to the property tax paying voters of the county at an election to be held by virtue of an order of the commissioners court for the purpose, and a majority of such voters shall vote at such election in favor of such proposition; and the same laws governing other elections shall govern said election, canvass and return, and the county judge of said county shall declare by proclamation the result thereof by publication in some newspaper in said county.

Sec. 3. And for the purposes herein mentioned, counties in this State may execute and issue its bonds, in the manner, under the conditions and to the same extent as they are now or may be hereafter authorized to issue for the erection of bridges outside of the corporate limits of cities and towns.

Sec. 4. The fact that there is no adequate law authorizing cities and counties to erect and build bridges within the corporate limits of any city creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

FUNDING INDEBTEDNESS OF COUNTIES.

CHAP. 108.—[S. B. No. 184.] An act to amend section 1, chapter 106, Acts of the Twenty-second Legislature, as approved 13th day of April, 1891, entitled "An act to amend section 1 of chapter 79, of an act passed at the regular session of the Twenty-first Legislature," approved April 4, 1889, entitled an act to authorize counties to fund their indebtedness and to provide means to pay same.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 1 of chapter 106 of the acts of 1891, approved the 13th day of April, 1891, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. That the county commissioners court of any county in this State is hereby authorized and empowered to compromise, compound, refund, settle with and to fund any existing indebtedness lawfully made and undertaken by such county by authority of law created prior to January 1, 1895, and for this purpose the said commissioners courts are hereby authorized and empowered to issue bonds in denomination of not less than five hundred dollars, with interest coupons, payable annually; said bonds to become due and payable in twenty years from date of their issuance: Provided, that said bonds may be paid off at any time after two years from their date of issuance if the commissioners court should so elect: And provided further, that such bonds shall not be sold for less than their face or par value; said bonds to bear interest not exceeding six per cent per annum; and the said commissioners court are further authorized and empowered to levy a tax upon all real and personal property situated in the county, not to exceed twenty-five cents on the hundred dollars on the assessed value of such property in any one year, to pay the annual interest, and not less than two per cent annually of the principal of said bonds, besides the expenses of assessing and collecting the same, and no bonds shall be issued under this act until a levy as herein provided shall have been made, and when such levy shall have been made the same shall continue in force until the whole amount of the principal and interest shall have been fully paid: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to authorize any county to levy any tax in excess of that authorized by the Constitution and laws now in force: Provided further, that it shall not authorize the taking up of bonds heretofore issued and issuing new bonds in lieu thereof unless such new bonds shall bear a less rate of interest than the bonds taken up.

AUTHORIZING CITIES AND TOWNS TO ABOLISH THEIR CORPORATE EXISTENCE.

CHAP. 109.—[H. B. No. 171.] An act to authorize cities and towns incorporated under the general laws of the State, and cities and towns of ten thousand inhabitants or less chartered under special law, including those which may have heretofore accepted the provisions of title 17, chapter 1, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas in lieu of an existing charter, to abolish their corporate existence; to provide for the disposition of corporate property, the assessment and collection of taxes to pay existing indebtedness and the control of the public schools therein.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That cities and towns incorporated under the general laws of the State, and cities and towns of ten thousand inhabitants or less chartered under special law, including those which may have heretofore accepted the provisions of title 17, chapter 1, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State, may abolish their corporate existence in the manner hereinafter provided.

Sec. 2. When one hundred of the property tax payers who are qualified voters of any such city or town shall desire the abolishment of such corporation, they may petition the county judge to that effect, who shall thereupon order an election to be held in such city or town as in the case of its incorporation.

Sec. 3. All persons who are legally qualified voters of the State and county in which any such election is ordered, and are resident property tax payers in the city or town where such election is to be held, as shown by the last assessment roll of such city or town, shall be entitled to vote at such election; and if a majority of such qualified voters voting at such election shall vote to abolish such corporation, the county judge shall declare such corporation abolished, and enter an order to that effect upon the minutes of the commissioners court, and from the date of such order said corporation shall cease to exist.

Sec. 4. When any corporation is abolished as provided in the preceding sections, all the property belonging thereto shall be turned over to the county treasurer, and the commissioners court of the county shall provide for the sale and disposition of the same, except the property pertaining to the public free schools or devoted exclusively to public use; the commissioners shall also provide for the settlement of the debts due by the corporation, and for this purpose shall have the power to levy and collect a tax from the inhabitants of such city or town in the same manner as the said corporation would be entitled to do under its charter or the laws of the State; and any surplus remaining in the hands of the county treasurer after the payment of the debts of said corporation shall be paid to the trustees of the public free schools situated in said city or town, for the benefit of such schools.

Sec. 5. Where the public free schools of any such city or town are under the management of trustees appointed or elected by the voters of the city or town, or by the city or town council, at the time its corporation is abolished under the provisions of this act, such trustees shall constitute the management of said schools for the remainder of the term for which they were appointed or elected, subject to the supervision of the commissioners court, unless such city or town shall sooner become incorporated for school purposes only.

Sec. 6. All taxes for municipal or school purposes which have been levied at the date of abolishment of such corporation, and which have not been paid, shall be collected by the collector of the county in the same manner provided by law for the collection of State and county taxes, and paid into the county treasury; but the portion of such taxes levied for the purpose of maintaining the public free schools of such city or town shall be paid over to the trustees of public free schools of said city or town and applied by them to the purposes for which they were levied.

Sec. 7. When any corporation is abolished under the provisions of this act, and shall at the time of such abolishment own any public buildings, public parks, public works or other property, and the same shall not have been sold or disposed of as provided in this act, the same shall be managed and controlled by the commissioners court of such county for the purposes to which same were originally used and intended, and for this purpose the commissioners court shall have and exercise, with reference thereto, the powers originally conferred by charter upon the mayor and aldermen of such city.

Sec. 8. The fact that there exists no law for the abolishment of the corporation of cities and towns incorporated under chapter 1, title 17, of the Revised Statutes, and the further fact that many cities and towns of the State desire to incorporate for school purposes only and provide means to aid the public free schools within their limits, but are prevented from doing so by existing laws, and the burthens of maintaining a useless municipal government, create an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 27th day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

Publishers of newspapers

shall receive for publishing said sales fifty cents per square for the first insertion and thirty cents per square for subsequent insertions, to be taxed and paid as other costs; in such publications ten lines shall constitute a square, and the body of no such advertisements shall be printed in larger type than brevier: Provided, that on request of any defendant against whom judgment is rendered the clerk or justice of the peace shall note on the margin of the judgment record, "to be advertised by publication," and he shall note this fact on the execution, order of sale or venditioni exponas issued on such judgment, and notice of the sale of any real estate levied upon by virtue of such writ shall then be advertised in a newspaper as herein directed.

Sec. 2. Section 9 of said act is hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The crowded condition of the legislative calendar, and the fact that there is a demand for a more efficient management of the University,

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 26th day of April, A. UNLAWFUL BOARDING OR RIDING ON TRAINS.

CHAP. 113.—[S. B. No. 269.] An act to prevent persons from unlawfully boarding or riding upon any railway train unless he or she be in good faith a passenger thereon.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: Any person who shall board any passenger, freight or other railway train, whether moving or standing, for any purpose and without in good faith intending to become a passenger thereon, and with no lawful business thereon, and with intent to obtain a free ride on such train, however short the distance, without the consent of the person or persons in charge thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by fine of not less than five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of this session, the great press of bills, and the fact that there is no adequate law to protect property of railway companies from trespassers, and that such companies are being continually harrassed by such suits for damages, because of accidents happening to such persons trespassing on their trains, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there is now no law authorizing towns and city corporations organized under the general law to discontinue as a part of such corporation uninhabited territory, the near approach to the end of this session, and the great number of bills now undisposed of, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity to suspend the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, said rule is so suspended and it is so enacted.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature and the great importance of this bill to the counties of the State, creates an emergency that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this bill be placed on its third reading and final passage.

CHAP. 116.—[S. B. No. 209.] An act to amend article 4767, section 1, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, with reference to the compensation of tax collectors, so as to regulate the division of commissions between incoming and outgoing collectors, so as to prevent double payment, and to fix the amount of such commissions.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there is no law providing for the division of commissions between incoming and outgoing collectors, and the crowded condition of the calendar creates an emergency that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and it is enacted that said rule is hereby suspended.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 27th day of April, A. And hereafter the judge of each of said courts shall be elected by the qualified voters of said Bexar county. The judges of said courts may, in their discretion, transfer any suit or cause of action, civil or criminal, from one district court to another.

(5) That the district attorney of the Thirty-seventh Judicial District shall be and remain the district attorney of the Thirty-seventh Judicial District as herein defined, and shall also represent the State in all cases, criminal and civil, in the Forty-fifth Judicial District, and shall be elected by the qualified voters of said Thirty-seventh Judicial District.

(6) That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

(7) The crowded condition of the dockets of said district courts of Bexar county, and the near approach of the end of the present session of the Legislature, and the great number of bills pending, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring this bill to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this [act] take effect from its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 24th day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

FISH LAW—EXEMPTING DENTON, NACOGDOCHES AND NAVARRO COUNTIES.

CHAP. 119.—[H. B. No. 166.] An act to amend sections 1 and 2 of chapter 86 of the General Laws of the State of Texas, passed by the Twenty-third Legislature, exempting Denton, Nacogdoches and Navarro counties from the provisions of said law, making it a penal offense to use traps, nets, and seines for the purpose of taking fish.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That sections 1 and 2 of an act entitled "An act to prevent the catching and taking of fish, except with the ordinary hook, line and pole or trot line, and to prevent the use of traps, nets, seines, china berries, India berries, or other poisonous substances, or dynamite, giant powder, nitro glycerine, or other explosive compounds in any waters in the counties of Burnet, Hardin, Liberty, Tyler, Harrison, Nacogdoches, Tom Green, Bexar, Navarro, Travis, Austin, Jefferson, San Augustine, Jasper, Newton, Denton and Marion, State of Texas, for the purpose of catching or taking of fish therefrom, and to provide penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act," passed by the Twenty-third Legislature, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. That hereafter no person or persons shall throw, drag or haul any fish net, seine or other contrivance for the purpose of catching fish (except the ordinary hook, line and pole or trot line) in any stream, lake or pool of water within the counties of Burnet, Hardin, Liberty, Tyler, Harrison, Tom Green, Bexar, Travis, Austin, Jefferson, San Augustine, Jasper, Newton and Marion, State of Texas, above tide water, at any time of the year; and any one violating the provisions of this section shall, upon conviction, be fined in a sum of not less than twenty-five nor more than fifty dollars, with all costs.

Sec. 2. The fact that Denton county is now under a law which prohibits netting and trapping of fish, which is obnoxious to a large majority of the citizens of said county, creates an emergency and public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 644b of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, as adopted by an act of the Twentieth Legislature, approved April 1, 1887, be so amended as to read as follows:

Article 644b. Every such channel corporation shall, in addition to the power conferred, have power:

1. To cause such examination and survey for its proposed channel to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route for such purpose, by its officers, agents or servants, to enter upon any of the waters of such bays and upon any of the lands of this State, or of any person.

2. To take and hold such voluntary grant of real estate and other property as shall be made to it to aid in the construction and maintenance of its deep water channel and works pertinent thereto.

3. To construct its channel across, along, through or upon any of the waters of the bays within the jurisdiction of this State, and so far into the main land as may be necessary to reach a place for its docks that will afford security from cyclones, storms, swells and tidal waves, with such depth as may suit its convenience and the wants of navigation, not less than five feet, and a width of not less than forty feet.

4. To furnish to vessels and boats adapted to the purpose facilities for navigating in and along the entire length of its channel, and to charge and collect a toll therefor, to be prescribed and established by its by-laws, not to exceed one cent per barrel bulk of the capacity of each vessel for each mile of the length of its channel used by the vessel going either way.

7. To construct, own and operate its channel so far into the waters of the Gulf of Mexico as may be necessary to obtain an adequate depth of water at its gulf entrance to facilitate the ingress and egress of such vessels as may navigate the same, in so far as this State may have the power to grant such right, which shall be in subordination to that of the government of the United States, in as far as that government has the constitutional power to control the same.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature and the large number of bills upon the calendar and the importance of this measure create an imperative public necessity and an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so ordered, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

CONNECTING LINES OF COMMON CARRIERS.

CHAP. 121.—[S. B. No. 101.] An act to further define connecting lines of common carriers; their relationship to each other, and to those dealing with them, or either of them, and to prescribe a rule of evidence as to such relationship, and to further prescribe their duties and liabilities.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all common carriers over whose transportation lines, or parts thereof, any freight, baggage or other property received by either of such carriers for through shipment or transportation by such carriers between points in this State on a contract for through carriage recognized, acquiesced in or acted upon by such carriers shall, in this State, with respect to the undertaking and matter of such transportation, be considered and construed to be connecting lines, and be deemed and held to be the agents of each other, each the agent of the others, and all the others the agents of each, and shall be deemed and held to be under a contract with each other and with the shipper, owner and consignee of such property for the safe and speedy through transportation thereof from point of shipment to destination; and such contract as to the shipper, owner or consignee of such property shall be deemed and held to be the contract of each of such common carriers; and in any of the courts of this State any through bill of lading, waybill, receipt, check or other instrument issued by either of such carriers, or other proof showing that either of them has received such freight, baggage or other property for such through shipment or transportation, shall constitute prima facie evidence of the subsistence of the relations, duties and liabilities of such carriers as herein defined and prescribed, notwithstanding any stipulations or attempted stipulations to the contrary by such carriers, or either of them.

Sec. 2. For any damages for injury or damage to or loss or delay of any freight, baggage or other property sustained anywhere in such through transportation over connecting lines, or either of them, as contemplated and defined in the next preceding section of this act, either of such connecting carriers which the person or persons sustaining such damages may first elect to sue in this State therefor shall be held liable to such person or persons; and such carrier so held liable to such person or persons shall be entitled in a proper action to recover the amount of any loss, damage or injury it may be required to pay such person or persons from the carrier through whose negligence the loss, damage or injury was sustained, together with costs of suit.

Sec. 3. There being in this State no adequate law on the subject stated in the caption hereof, and there being a large and growing amount of work on the calendar of the Legislature, an emergency and imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days and that this act take effect upon its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 30th day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.

UNION DEPOTS.

CHAP. 122.—[S. S. B. No. 106.] An act to authorize the incorporation of companies for the purpose of constructing union depots, and to authorize railway companies to own stock and bonds of such depot companies, and to regulate the issuance of bonds by such union depot companies.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That corporations may be formed for the purpose of acquiring, owning, constructing and operating union passenger depots at any point in the State of Texas where two or more railroads now or hereafter intersect. Such corporations may be formed in the manner provided in title 20 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, and shall have all the powers and be subject to all the restrictions and requirements of the said title.

Sec. 2. The provisions of chapter 50 of the general laws of Texas, 1893, shall govern and control the issuance of stock and bonds by such companies as far as the same are applicable. Railroad companies existing under the laws of this State, whether under special act or charter, or whether incorporated under the general laws of the United States, are authorized and empowered to subscribe for stock and purchase and own stock or bonds of any depot company formed under the authority of this act.

Sec. 3. The fact that there are no adequate provisions of law under which the purposes of this act can be accomplished, and there is a present urgent need therefor, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency justifying a suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and it is so suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

PUBLIC FREE SCHOOLS—CANCELLATION OF CERTAIN CERTIFICATES.

CHAP. 123.—[S. B. No. 143.] An act to amend section 66, chapter 122, of an act to provide for a more efficient system of public free schools, etc., passed at the regular session of the Twenty-third Legislature, approved May 20, 1893, and cancelling certain certificates.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 66, chapter 122, of an act to provide for a more efficient system of free schools, passed at the regular session of the Twenty-third Legislature, approved May 20, 1893, shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 66. An applicant for a permanent certificate shall be examined upon the branches prescribed for third, second and first grade certificates, and in addition thereto in the history of education, general history, psychology, English and American literature, chemistry, solid geometry, plane trigonometry and elementary double entry bookkeeping. A permanent certificate shall be valid during good behavior of the holder: Provided, that if any person holding a permanent certificate shall withdraw from the school work for a period of three years or longer, such certificate shall become void, and it shall be the duty of the county superintendent or the State Superintendent, if the certificate be a State certificate, to cancel the same upon the records of his office. To receive a permanent certificate the applicant shall be a teacher of not less than three years successful experience in the schools of Texas, and upon examination shall make upon prescribed subjects an average grade of not less than eighty-five, and on each prescribed subject a grade of not less than fifty: Provided, further, that all certificates that have heretofore been issued by county superintendents or county judges without the favorable recommendations of the county boards of examiners after examining the applicants on the subjects prescribed by law, are hereby declared null and void, and the same are hereby cancelled and declared of no force.

Section 66a. The board of examiners shall grade the papers of the applicants on the basis of one hundred credits for a perfect paper, and endorse on each paper, in ink, the number of credits allowed on each answer, and the average (total) on the paper, and shall make to the county superintendent a separate report, under oath, on the examination of each applicant, which shall show the names of the members of the board conducting the examination, and the number of credits allowed upon each subject, and shall, if they believe that the applicant has fairly observed the rules prescribed for the examination, and if the applicant has made the grades and average required, recommend that he shall receive a certificate of such class, if any, as he may be entitled to, and shall deposit his papers with the county superintendent.

Section 66b. The county superintendent shall, upon the request of any applicant for second (grade), first (grade), or permanent certificate, made in writing, before the adjournment of the board of examiners, forward to the State Superintendent, to be submitted to the State board of examiners, hereinafter provided, such applicant's papers and the report of the county board of examiners thereon, together with one dollar of the fee deposited with him: Provided, that this shall not in any manner interfere with the issuance of the proper county certificate to said applicant.

Section 66c. The State board of examiners shall, at their next meeting after the receipt of said papers and report, together with said fee of one dollar, examine said papers and report thereon, and if they believe that the papers are fairly and accurately graded, they shall make a report to the State Superintendent, and shall recommend that the county certificate issued upon said examination be made valid in all the counties of the State, and they shall notify said applicant of their action, who may forward his county certificate to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who may issue in lieu thereof another certificate of equal rank, valid in all the counties of the State, and the State Superintendent shall preserve a record of certificates thus issued by him.

ESCHEATED ESTATES.

CHAP. 124.—[S. B. No. 312.] An act to amend article 1784 of title 36, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, relating to escheated estates.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 1784 of title 36, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, shall hereafter read as follows:

Article 1784. The court shall examine the claim and the allegations and proofs, and if it shall find that such person is an heir, devisee, legatee or legal representative, whether citizen or foreigner, such court shall make an order directing the Comptroller to issue his warrant on the treasury for the payment of the same, but without interest or costs, a copy of which order, under the seal of the court, shall be a sufficient voucher for issuing such warrant, and the same proceedings shall be instituted for the recovery of any money or property heretofore deposited with the Treasurer or Comptroller in accordance with the laws heretofore existing: Provided, that if such heir, devisee, legatee or legal representative or their assigns shall sue for and recover such estate, real or personal, in any court of competent jurisdiction in this State from any purchaser at sheriff's sale, as hereinbefore provided, or from his heirs, devisees, legatees, legal representatives or assigns, then and in any such event a certified copy of such judgment of recovery, together with the affidavit of the party cast in the suit that he is the owner of and entitled to the money theretofore paid into the state treasury as the proceeds of such escheated estate, shall be sufficient authority for the issuance by the Comptroller of a warrant on the State treasury for the payment to such purchaser, his heirs, legal representatives or assigns, such net amount of money as was paid into the State treasury by reason of said sheriff's sale of such estate.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there is no law enabling purchasers to recover from the State the amount paid by them when such estates are sued for and recovered by the heirs or legal representatives of the deceased; and, whereas, there are funds now in the State treasury belonging to such purchaser and no law authorizing the Treasurer to repay same; therefore an emergency is created and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act be in force and effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

51. The raising, buying and selling of live stock.

52. The establishment and carrying on of dairies and creamery companies.

53. The construction, maintenance and operation of terminal railway companies, said companies to have no right to charge other railroads for terminal facilities beyond what may be prescribed by the Railroad Commission.

54. To build, maintain and operate a line of road to mines, gins, quarries and mills, and to condemn land necessary for right of way for such road from and between such mine, gin, quarry or mill and the nearest line of railroad.

Sec. 2. The crowded condition of the calendar, and the near approach of the end of the session, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this bill be put upon its third reading and final passage, and it is so enacted.

LIENS—MECHANICS, CONTRACTORS, LABORERS AND MATERIAL MEN.

CHAP. 126.—[S. B. No. 284.] An act to amend sections 1, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8 and 9 of an act passed by the Twenty-first Legislature, approved April 5, 1889, being an act relating to the liens of mechanics, contractors, sub-contractors, builders, laborers, and material men.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That sections 1, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8 and 9 of an act passed by the Twenty-first Legislature, approved April 5, 1889, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. Any person or firm, lumber dealer or corporation, artisan, laborer, mechanic or sub-contractor who may labor or furnish material, machinery, fixtures or tools to erect any house or improvement or to repair any building or improvement whatever, or furnish any material for the construction or repair of any railroad within this State under or by virtue of a contract with the owner or his agent, trustee, receiver, contractor or contractors, upon complying with the provisions of this act shall have a lien on such house, building, fixtures, improvements or railroad, and all its properties, and shall also have a lien on the lot or lots of land necessarily connected therewith, to secure payment for the labor done, lumber, material, machinery or fixtures and tools furnished for construction or repair. The word "improvement," as used herein, shall be construed so as to include wells, cisterns, tanks, reservoirs or artificial pools or lakes made for supplying or storing water, and all pumps, syphons, wind mills or other machinery or appliances used for raising water for stock, domestic use or for irrigation purposes.

Section 3. Any person, firm or corporation who may furnish any material to any contractor, sub-contractor, agent or receiver, to be used in the erection of any house, building or improvement, or to repair any house, building or improvement, or to construct or repair any railroad or its properties, by giving written notice to the owner or his agent of such house, building or improvement, or the railroad company, its agent or receiver, of each and every item furnished, and by showing how much there is due and unpaid on each bill of lumber or material furnished by said lumberman, corporation or material man under said contract, at any time within ninety days after the indebtedness shall have accrued, may fix and secure the lien provided for in this act as to the material furnished at the time or subsequent to the giving of the written notice above provided for, by filing in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such property is situated, and if it be a railroad company in any county through which its road may pass, an itemized account of his or their claim, as provided in this section, and cause the same to be recorded in a book kept by the county clerk for that purpose: Provided, that in no case shall the owner be compelled to pay a greater sum for on account of labor performed or material, machinery, fixtures and tools furnished as provided in this act than the price or sum stipulated in the original contract between such owner and the original contractor or builder of such house, building, fixtures, improvements or repairs.

Section 4. If there be no written contract, it shall be the duty of the person seeking to obtain the benefit of this act to deliver to the clerk of the county court a sworn account as provided for in sections 2 and 3, to be filed and recorded as therein provided, and in such cases when the labor is performed for or the material is furnished to the owner of the building or improvements, or the owner or receiver of any railroad, the following form may be used, and will be sufficient to fix the meaning contemplated by this act:

County of ———. }

A. B., affiant, makes oath and says that the annexed is a true and correct account of the labor performed (or material furnished) C. D., of ——— county, Texas, and that the prices thereof as set forth in said account hereto annexed are just and reasonable, and the same is unpaid; that said labor was performed (or material furnished, or both) for said C. D. at the time in said account mentioned, under and by virtue of a contract between affiant (or affiant's principal) and C. D., and that due notice was given by affiant (or his principal) of the labor performed (or material furnished) in accordance with section 3; and affiant further makes oath and says that he is informed that C. D. was at the time said contract was made and entered into and said labor was performed (or material furnished) the owner of the house (or improvements) described as follows: (Here describe the house or improvements.) And the said house (or improvements) is situated upon a certain lot or tract of land which affiant is informed is owned by said C. D., and which is described as follows: (Here describe the lot or lots or the land.) And this affiant (or his principal) claims a lien upon said house (or improvements) and upon said land. (Or if the material was furnished to any railroad company, its agent or receiver, to construct or repair its railroad or other property, then the affiant shall describe said railroad by giving its charter name and the name of the receiver, if any, and the agent of said company, if any, with whom the contract was made, and that affiant or his principal claims a lien on said railroad and its property.) Provided, however, a substantial compliance with the above form shall be deemed sufficient to fix and secure the lien.

Section 5. If the labor is performed for or the material is furnished to a contractor, builder, agent or receiver, and not the owner of the property, then the following form shall be deemed sufficient to fix the lien provided for by this act:

The State of Texas, }
County of ———. }

A. B., affiant, makes oath and says that the annexed is a true and correct account of the labor performed for (or the material furnished to) C. D., a contractor (builder, agent, or receiver) by affiant (or his principal), and the prices therefor as set forth in the annexed account are just and reasonable, and that the same is unpaid (or the sum of $———, as shown by said account, is unpaid) after allowing all just and lawful offsets, payments and credits known to affiant; that said labor was performed (or material furnished, or both) for (or to) said C. D., to be used in the erection of a house (or building or improvements, or in the repair of the house, building or improvement, or in the construction or improvement of the railroad or its property), owned, as affiant is informed and believes, by E. F., of ——— county, Texas, and that said labor was performed (or material furnished, or both) to (or for) said C. D., under and by virtue of his contract between affiant (or his principal) and said C. D. (And in case of material furnished affiant shall further swear that he has given to the owner, his agent or representative or receiver, notice in writing of each item of said account as required in section 3, as the same was furnished to said C. D.: Provided, however, that a substantial compliance with the above form shall be deemed sufficient to fix and secure the lien.)

Section 7. When a contract or account is filed and recorded as required by the preceding section of this act, it shall be deemed sufficient diligence to fix and secure this lien. If this lien is against land in a city, town or village, it shall extend to or into the lot or lots upon which such house, building or improvement is situated, or upon which such labor was performed; and if the lien is against land in the country, it shall extend to and include fifty acres upon which such house, building or improvements is situated, or upon which such labor has been performed; and if the lien is against a railroad company, it shall extend to and include all of its property.

Section 8. The lien herein provided for shall attach to the house, building, improvements or railroad for which they were furnished, or the work was done, in preference to any prior lien or encumbrance or mortgage upon the land upon which the houses, buildings or improvements, or railroad have been put, or labor performed, and the person enforcing the same may have such house, building or improvement, or any piece of the railroad property sold separately: Provided, any lien, encumbrance or mortgage on the land or improvement at the time of the inception of the lien herein provided for shall not be affected thereby, and holders of such liens need not be made parties in suits to foreclose liens herein provided for.

Section 9. When the house, building, improvement, or any piece of the railroad's property are sold separately, the officers making the sale shall place the purchaser in possession thereof, and such purchaser shall have the right to remove the same within a reasonable time from the date of the purchase.

Sec. 10. Whereas, there is now no law on the statute books extending the material man's lien to railroads; and whereas, the crowded condition of the calendar and the approach to the end of the session creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this bill be put on its third reading and final passage, and it is enacted that it be so suspended.

MINING—DEVELOPMENT OF.

CHAP. 127.—[S. B. No. 175.] An act to better and more fully promote the development of the mining resources of Texas, and to repeal all laws in conflict with the provisions of this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all public school, university, asylum and public lands specially included under the operation of this act, all the lands now owned by the State situated within the reservation known as the "Pacific Reservation," which were taken off the market and reserved from sale by an act approved January 22, 1883, containing valuable mineral deposits, are hereby reserved from sale or other disposition, except as herein provided, and are declared free and open to exploration and purchase under regulations prescribed by law, by citizens of the United States and those who have declared their intention of becoming such: Provided, that all who have located and recorded valid claims under previous valid laws and have not abandoned same, but are engaged in developing same, shall have a prior preference right for ninety days after the passage of this act in which to relocate same under this act.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of the General Land Office immediately upon the passage of this act to have a map made showing the location of all public school, university, asylum and public lands which are unsold at that date, and it shall be the duty of the Geological and Mineralogical Survey to examine all such lands as soon as practicable thereafter, and to designate such tracts as are apparently mineral bearing as mineral lands for the purposes of this act. If mineral lands are afterwards claimed to exist at other locations than are so designated they shall also be examined and classified accordingly.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of the General Land Office to unite a suitable number of these mineral locations into mining districts, in each of which shall be a surveyor, who must either be the surveyor of the district or county or a regular appointed deputy and an officer qualified to administer oaths.

Sec. 4. A mining claim upon veins or lodes of quartz or other rocks in place bearing silver, gold, cinnabar, lead, tin, copper, and other valuable metals, excluding deposits of kaolin, baryta, salt, marble, fire clay, iron ore, coal, oil, natural gas, gypsum, nitrates, mineral paints, asbestos, marls, natural cement, clay, onyx, mica, precious stones or any other non-metallic mineral, and stone valuable for ornamental or building purposes or other valuable building material, may equal but shall not exceed one thousand five hundred feet along the mine or vein or lode. No such claim shall exceed twenty-one acres in total area. The end lines of each claim shall be parallel to each other, and all claims shall be in the form of a parallelogram or square, unless such form is prevented by adjoining rights or boundaries of the section in which the claim lies. The locator under this act shall be entitled to the use of all the superficial area between the enclosing lines of the claim, and to all minerals thereon and between the side and end lines, extending downwards vertically, until the rights secured by posting are forfeited as provided; and in all conflicts priority of location shall decide.

Sec. 5. The locators of any mining claim shall post up at the center of one of the end lines of the same a written notice, stating the name of the location and of the claim and date of posting, and describe the claim by giving the number of feet in length and width and the direction the claim lies in length from the notice, together with the section, if known, and the county, and shall place stone monuments at the four corners and otherwise describe the corners so that they can be readily found. The notice shall be placed in a conspicuous place so it can be readily seen.

Sec. 6. The locator shall, within three months after the date of posting the required notice, sink a shaft at least ten feet in depth by four feet square, or a tunnel of the same dimensions ten feet in length, or an open cross cut twenty feet in length, four feet or more wide and ten feet in depth at its shallowest part, and shall within said time file with the county surveyor or the district surveyor of the county, as the case may be, an application in writing for the survey of the claim, which application shall be accompanied by a fee of twenty dollars, unless its tender is waived, and also with an affidavit attached thereto that the required work, signifying that it has been done, and that the locators have found valuable minerals on the claim; and the affidavit shall state the date of the first posting of the notice on the claim by the applicants, and further, that the notice has not been post dated or changed in its date. Upon receiving said application and fee the surveyor shall record the application, together with the affidavit, and he shall thereupon forthwith proceed to survey said claim, and forward the field notes to the Commissioner of the General Land Office within thirty days after filing the application, in default of which he shall pay the aggrieved party such damages as he may sustain, and in addition thereto shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction fined not less than twenty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, and it shall be the duty of the applicants to see that the field notes are so returned. The fee of twenty dollars shall cover all the services provided for in this section. In all other cases enumerated in this act the fee shall be the same allowed county clerks for similar services.

Sec. 7. Annually after the filing of the application for a survey as hereinbefore provided, the claimant shall, until after the application is made for a patent, as hereinafter provided, do one hundred dollars worth of work in developing each claim; but where claims adjoin, the amount of work may be done on one for all belonging to the same party. The value of such shall be estimated at what it could be contracted for at a fair cash price, but the cost of tools and implements and the expense of going to and returning from the mine shall not be included in said estimate. Within one month after the expiration of each year the owner shall make and file with the surveyor his affidavit setting forth specifically what the work consists of in detail, and the value thereof. Upon the failure of any one of several owners to contribute his proportion of the expenditures required in this act within the necessary time, the co-owners who have performed the labor or made the improvements or paid the fees or other expenditures required in this act, may at the expiration of the year in which the same is to be done, give notice in writing or notice by publication in a newspaper published in the county where the claim is, if any; if none in such county, then in the newspaper published nearest the mine, for at least once a week for ninety days. If after such personal notice in writing or by publication such delinquent shall fail or refuse to contribute his proportion of the expenditure required by this act, his interest in the claim shall become the property of his co-workers who have made the required expenditures. An affidavit by the co-owners forfeiting the interest of such delinquent shall, when recorded in the office of the proper surveyor, be sufficient evidence of such delinquency.

Sec. 8. That when a tunnel is run for the development of a vein or lode or for the discovery of mines, the owner of such tunnel shall have the right of possession of all veins or lodes within two thousand feet of the face of such claim on the line thereof, not previously known to exist, discovered in such tunnel to the same extent as if discovered from the surface; and locations on the line of such tunnel of veins or lodes not appearing on the surface made by other parties after the commencement of the tunnel and while the same is being prosecuted with reasonable diligence shall be invalid; but failure to prosecute the work in the tunnel for six months shall be considered as an abandonment of the right of all undiscovered veins on the line of said tunnel.

Sec. 9. Whenever the owners of any mining claim shall desire a patent, they shall, within five years after the filing of the application for survey, file their application for a patent upon their claim with the Commissioner of the General Land Office, accompanied by the receipt of the State Treasurer showing that twenty-five dollars per acre has been paid by the applicant for patent to the State Treasurer. Whereupon such patent shall issue unless protest is filed as hereinafter provided for in section 11.

Sec. 10. Within twelve months after the filing of the affidavit hereinafter provided for, any person or association of persons qualified as required by section 1 of this act, shall have the right to purchase and obtain patent by compliance with this act, or any of the lands of the State which are specified or included in section 1 of this act, containing valuable deposits of kaolin, baryta, salt, marble, fire clay, iron ore, coal, oil, natural gas, gypsum, nitrates, mineral paints, asbestos, marl, natural cement, clay, onyx, mica, precious stones or any other non-metallic mineral and stones valuable for ornamental or building purposes or other valuable building material, in legal subdivisions, in quantity not exceeding one section: Provided, that where any such parties shall have heretofore expended, or shall hereafter expend, five thousand dollars in developing the aforesaid mineral resources of any of said lands, such party shall have the right to buy one additional section and no more, and to include in the purchase any section or part thereof on which the work may have been done. The land so purchased may be in different sections, and all embraced in one or more obligations, not to exceed the quantity stated. The purchaser shall pay not less than fifteen dollars per acre where the land shall be situated ten miles or less of any railroad in operation, and not less than ten dollars per acre where the land is over ten miles from such railroad, one-tenth of the purchase money to be paid in cash to the State Treasurer on or before the expiration of the twelve months aforesaid; and the purchasers shall file the Treasurer's receipt with the Commissioner of the General Land Office, together with an obligation to pay the State of Texas the remainder in nine equal annual installments, with interest at four per cent per annum from date, subject to forfeiture as in other cases; and all said lands are reserved from sale or other disposition than under this act; and where application is made to buy any of the lands herein named except under this act, the purchaser shall swear that there are none of the minerals named in this act on said lands, so far as he knows or has reason to believe or does believe: Provided further, that any party hereinbefore named, who shall prior to the passage of this act have been the first to work on said lands for the development of said mineral resources, and who has not abandoned said work, and is qualified at passage of this act to buy, shall have a prior preference right of doing so for thirty days after this act goes into effect: Provided, further, this section of this act shall not authorize the sale of lands containing valuable deposits of gold, silver, lead, cinnabar, copper or other valuable metal: Provided further, that any person desiring to acquire any lands under the provisions of this section shall have the right to prospect said land for a period of twelve months before making any payment thereon, upon condition that said prospector shall file with the proper surveyor his affidavit in writing, setting forth that he has gone upon the land in good faith with the intention of purchasing the same under the provisions of this section, and in said affidavit give a reasonable description of said land. After the filing of said affidavit the said surveyor shall immediately forward same to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who shall take said section off the market until the expiration of said twelve months after the filing of said affidavit with the surveyor.

Sec. 11. Any person desiring to contest the issuance of patent may do so by filing with the Commissioner of the General Land Office a protest setting forth the grounds of objection generally, and that protestant has an interest in the subject matter, which protest shall also state that the same is presented in good faith and not to injure or delay the applicants or any of them, and the same shall be verified by affidavit. Whereupon it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to withhold patent until the controversy is ended: Provided, that if the protestant shall not within thirty days after filing his protest institute suit in the court having jurisdiction thereof in the county where the claims are located, his protest shall constitute no further barrier to the issuance of patent. A certified copy of the petition or a certificate of the clerk of the court where suit is pending shall be sufficient evidence to the Commissioner of the pendency of the suit, and of the date of filing said suit. When the land in controversy lies partly in two counties suit may be brought in either. More than one claim shall not be embraced in the same patent or application. The suits here provided for shall be entitled to precedence of trial on the docket.

Sec. 12. All claims upon which patent has not been applied for within five years next after the application for survey, or which have not been surveyed and the field notes returned to the General Land Office within the time prescribed therefor as hereinbefore provided, or upon which the assessment work has not been done, an affidavit therefor filed as provided by this act, shall be and are declared forfeited without judicial action of any kind, and subject to location as originally, but not by any one interested in the claim at the time of forfeiture, and any location for or on behalf of any such party shall be wholly void. Whenever any such claim shall be relocated, the locators and each of them shall make affidavit that the location is made without any contract or agreement of any kind that any of the parties owning an interest in the location before the relocation has or is to have any interest in the same. In all other cases where affidavit is required by this act it may be made by one or more of the parties cognizant of the facts.

Sec. 13. No claim which has been forfeited for any cause shall be subject to relocation for a period of thirty days next thereafter, and the party owning the same may apply to the Land Commissioner within that time for relief, and if it appear to him from the proof submitted that the forfeiture was not occasioned by the negligence of the owner, but by circumstances which he could not reasonably control, the Commissioner may within that time, in his discretion, grant relief against the forfeiture, and if he be granted such relief he shall at once forward his order to that effect to the surveyor, who shall file the same for record in his office.

Sec. 14. Whenever any application shall be made to buy or obtain title to any of the lands embraced in section 1 of this act, except where the application is made under this act, the applicant shall make oath that there is not, to the best of his knowledge and belief, any of the minerals embraced in this act thereon, and when the commissioner has any doubt in relation to the matter he shall forbear action until he is satisfied. Any such sale or disposition of said lands shall be understood to be, with the reservation of the minerals thereon, to be subject to location as herein provided.

Sec. 15. That claims usually called placers, including all forms of metallic deposits, excepting veins of quartz or rock in place, shall be subject to entry and patent under like circumstances and conditions and upon similar proceedings as are provided for vein or lode claims. All placer claims located shall conform as near as practicable with existing surveys and their subdivisions, and no such location shall include more than forty acres for each individual claimant, and shall not exceed three hundred and twenty acres for any association of persons. The price which shall be paid for such placer shall not be less than ten dollars per acre, together with all costs of proceedings as before provided.

Sec. 16. Where non-mineral land not contiguous to the vein or lode is issued by the prospector of such vein or lode for mining or milling purposes, such non-adjacent surface ground may be embraced and included in an application for a patent for such vein or lode, and the same may be patented therewith, subject to the same preliminary requirements as to survey and notice as are applicable to veins or lodes; but no location of such non-adjacent lands shall exceed ten acres, and payment for the same must be made at the same rate as fixed by this act for the superficies of the lode. The owner of a quartz mill or reduction works, not owning a mine in connection therewith, may also receive a patent for a mill site, as provided in this section.

Sec. 17. Any owner or worker of mining claim under this act is authorized to fell and remove for building and mining purposes any timber or any tree growing or being upon unoccupied lands as described in section 1, said lands being mineral and subject to entry only as mineral lands, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed for the protection of timber and undergrowth upon such lands, and for other purposes.

Sec. 18. Nothing in this act shall ever be so construed as to either destroy, invalidate or impair any valid claim, right or interest existing in, to or concerning any lands whatever at the passage of this act, of any pre-emptor, purchaser, claimant, actual settler, locator or other person whatsoever.

Sec. 19. The net proceeds of all sales of mining lands under the provisions of this act shall inure to the benefit of the State and the respective funds for which the lands mentioned in section 1 of this act are now set apart under the Constitution and laws of the State, and it shall be the duty of the Comptroller, State Treasurer and Commissioner of the General Land Office to see to it and have said proceeds so paid rightly placed to the credit of the particular and proper fund.

Sec. 20. For the purpose of effectually carrying out the provisions of this act all county or district surveyors are hereby especially authorized and empowered to administer oaths, take affidavits and make certificates thereof: Provided, further, that all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act, or any part thereof, are hereby especially repealed.

Sec. 21. The mining interests of the State are great and important, and there are no general laws free from doubt and uncertainty regulating in an adequate, general and just manner the mining interest of the whole State; therefore, an imperative public necessity and emergency exists for the passage of this act; therefore, it is enacted that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

ROADS—FANNIN, KAUFMAN AND ROBERTSON.

CHAP. 128.—[H. B. No. 20.] An act to create a more efficient road system for Fannin, Kaufman and Robertson counties, Texas, and making county commissioners of said counties ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and providing for the appointment of deputy road commissioners, and defining the powers and duties of such county commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the public roads of said counties, and providing for officers' fees and rewards for the capture of escaped convicts, and to provide for the manner of training hedges along any public road, and to provide for the summoning of teams for road work, and for an allowance of time of road service for same, and fixing a penalty for a violation of this act, and repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the members of the commissioners courts of Fannin, Kaufman and Robertson counties shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the commissioners courts shall have charge of all the teams, tools and machinery belonging to the county, and placed in their hands by said counties, and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the commissioners courts may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, in addition to his regular bond as such county commissioner, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judges of said counties for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law, or by the commissioners court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession: Provided, that with the consent of the commissioners court any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute the same bond that is required of commissioners in this section; and such deputy road commissioners shall be entitled to the same compensation that is allowed county commissioners for same service: Provided, that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation as road commissioners when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The commissioners court of said counties shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining and repairing the public roads in said counties as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plan or system of working. Said commissioners court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its roads. Said court shall have the power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case said court, or the county judge, may advertise in such manner as said court may determine for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond, payable to the county judges of said counties for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good, sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making such contract, the court shall direct the county treasurer to pass the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads, under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best.

Sec. 3. The commissioners court of said counties shall require all county convicts, not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine first, and then on the cost, for each day he may labor. Such commissioners courts may provide such reasonable regulations and punishments as may be necessary to require such convicts to perform good work; and may provide a reward not exceeding ten dollars, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, for the recapture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person, other than the guard or person in charge of such convict at the time of his escape, which reward shall be taxed against such convict and worked out or paid by him as a part of the cost. The commissioners court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-tenth of the whole time. Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention, and guards for the safe and humane keeping of convicts. The commissioners court may at a regular term allow to the officers and witnesses such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convict as it may deem best: Provided, that it shall not allow to any officer an amount greater than the following: County attorney, five dollars, including commissions; county clerks and justices of the peace, including commissions, one dollar and seventy cents; sheriffs or constables, five dollars; which amount shall be paid to the officers out of the road and bridge fund, upon the order of said court, when said fine and costs have been worked out as provided in this section: Provided, that this shall not be construed as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have control of all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them all teams, tools and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, so far as has been supplied therewith by the commissioners court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liability of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any teams, tools or machinery belonging to said county shall be liable for any damages that may occur to the same while in his possession caused by his negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes without the consent of the commissioners court. It shall be the duty of the road overseer when he has finished work on his roads to return to said commissioner all teams, tools and machinery received from him and take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the county commissioner when acting as road commissioner to inform himself of the condition of the public roads of his district, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, or two days with himself and team, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time: And provided, that all road hands in any particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer, or in case of his absence any person deputized by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand when so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The commissioners court may allow any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year a compensation not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents per day for the time so served.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Fannin, Kaufman or Robertson counties liable for road duty who shall on or before the first day of January of each year pay to the county treasurer the sum of three dollars shall be exempt from road duty for such year beginning on the first day of January. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him, and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund, and shall keep a separate account for each road district from which it is received. The treasurer shall on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish to each county commissioner a list of all persons in their respective districts that have paid said sum as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on roads, by paying to his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work, and one dollar and fifty cents for each day he is summoned to furnish his team for road work, shall be exempt from working or furnishing his team for each day paid for, and also exempt from any penalties for failure to work or furnish such teams for the time for which he had so paid.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, plow, scraper or such other tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tools as are desired and directed by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have: Provided, the county shall be liable for, and the commissioners court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to such tools as may have resulted from public road work and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer may also summon and require such road hand to bring with him for public road work such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work: Provided, such hand shall be allowed two and one-half days' time for each day put in by a hand with his team, and one and one-half days' time for his team without such hand.

Sec. 10. If any person liable to work upon the public roads after being legally summoned shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may have been notified to work on the road, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar and fifty cents for each day he may have been notified to furnish his team for road work; or, having attended, shall fail to perform good service or any other duty required of him by law or the person under whom he may work, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof fined in any sum not exceeding ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the commissioners court in November of each year all road overseers shall make their reports under oath, upon forms to be furnished them by said court, which said report shall be examined by said court, and all accounts for services or labor performed for overwork by such overseer during the past year, and of moneys had and expended by him, shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable said commissioners court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duty required of him by law or by the commissioners court or by the commissioner of his district, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the county commissioners court cannot agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 13. Every owner of a farm or other lands upon which a hedge of any description grows on or near the public road shall be required to keep the same trimmed so that the same shall not obstruct said road; and any such owner who shall fail or neglect to so trim such hedge shall be notified in writing by the road overseer of that district to trim such hedge as herein required; and in such case if such owner shall, after receiving such notice, fail or refuse to trim such hedge within a reasonable time, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty dollars per week from and after the time that he receives such notice, such fine to be paid into the county treasury and to be placed to the credit of the road and bridge fund of said county. If any owner of any farm shall fail or refuse, after being notified as herein required, to trim his hedge as required by this act, then the road overseer shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with the provisions of this act, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 14. Each county commissioner when acting as road commissioner and performing the duties imposed upon him by law, or by the commissioners court, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for the services actually performed: Provided, said sum to be paid him shall not exceed ninety dollars per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the commissioners court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due and unpaid, and specifying the number of days actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner either for himself or for his deputy while he is performing the duties of county commissioner, nor shall he receive any additional pay than that provided by this section for inspecting or riding over his road or for other road service.

Sec. 15. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith; but in case of conflict, this act shall control as to the counties of Fannin, Kaufman and Robertson.

Sec. 16. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 4th day of February, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

CHAP. 129.—[H. B. No. 147.] An act to amend section 53, chapter 51, of an act entitled "An act to create a more efficient road system in the counties of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Harrison, Panola, Upshur, Shelby and Smith, and auxiliary thereto to provide for the appointment of road overseers; to define the power and jurisdiction of the commissioners courts of said counties with regard thereto; to utilize the labor of defaulting poll tax payers on the public roads of said counties; and to provide adequate penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act," as passed by the Twenty-third Legislature, and approved April 19, 1893, and declaring an emergency.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 53 of an act entitled "An act to create a more efficient road system in the counties of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Harrison, Panola, Upshur, Shelby and Smith, and auxiliary thereto to provide for the appointment of road overseers; to define the powers and jurisdiction of the commissioners courts of said counties with regard thereto; to utilize the labor of defaulting poll tax payers on the public roads of said counties; and to provide adequate penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act," passed by the Twenty-third Legislature of the State of Texas, and approved April 19, 1893, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 53. No person who under the provisions of this act is subject to road duty in the counties of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Franklin, Delta, Harrison, Panola, Upshur, Shelby and Smith shall be compelled to work on any public road or roads more than ten days in each year: Provided, that no person under the provisions of this act who is subject to road duty in the counties of Trinity, Cherokee, Franklin and Delta shall be compelled to work on any public road or roads more than five days in each year.

Sec. 2. The vast amount of important business pending, and the fact that the people of Trinity county are now burdened with an unnecessary and onerous public road duty, and the fact that it will likely be impossible to reach this bill in regular order, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be and the same is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved February 15, 1895.

ROADS—PARKER COUNTY.

CHAP. 130.—[H. B. No. 487.] An act to create a more efficient road system for Parker county, Texas, and making county commissioners of said county ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and defining the duties and powers of such county commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the public roads of said county; and providing officers' fees; and to provide for the payment for teams to work on roads, and allowance for time of service for same on public roads in Parker county; and fixing a penalty for violation of this act; and repeal all laws in conflict with this act as to Parker county.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each member of the commissioners court of Parker county shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the commissioners court of said county shall have charge of all teams, tools and implements belonging to said county and placed in their hands by said court; and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the commissioners court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of the commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, execute a bond of seven hundred dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge, or his successor, of said county, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law, or by the commissioners court, and that they will account for all property belonging to the county that may come into their possession. That with the consent of the commissioners court any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute the same bond that is required of commissioners in this section, and such deputy road commissioner shall receive any amount agreed upon by the commissioners court, not to exceed two dollars per day: Provided, that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation as road commissioners when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The commissioners court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be their duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining and repairing the public roads in said county as they may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plans or system of working said roads; said court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools and implements as may be necessary for the working of said roads; such court shall have the power to construct, grade or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case said court, or the county judge by the authority of the commissioners court, may advertise in such manner as the court may determine for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond payable to the county judge and his successors in office of said county, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but the court shall reserve the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making the said contract, the commissioners court shall direct the county treasurer to place the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such fund, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said court shall have the power to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads in said county under such regulations and for such price as they may deem it to the best interest of said county, not to exceed two dollars and fifty cents per day, of ten hours per day, for a team and driver, and not to exceed one dollar and twenty-five cents per day for day hands; and no road hand when working out his time on the road shall be required to work but eight hours per day, but when hands are hired by the day they shall be required to work ten hours per day.

Sec. 3. The commissioners of said county may require all county convicts of said county, not otherwise employed, to labor on the public roads under such regulations as said court may prescribe; and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine first, and then on the cost, of each day that he may labor. The commissioners may at a regular term allow to the officers such amount of their costs for the arrest and conviction of said convicts as it may deem best: Provided, that it shall not allow to any officer an amount greater than the following: The county attorney, five dollars, including commissions; county clerk and justice of the peace, one dollar and seventy cents; sheriffs or constables, two dollars; which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund on the warrant allowed by the commissioners court, when said fine and costs shall have been worked out as provided for in this section: Provided, that this shall not be construed so as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State. The commissioners court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for good behavior and faithful service: Provided, that such commutation shall in no case exceed one-tenth of the whole time. The commissioners court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention and guards for the safe and humane treatment of convicts.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners when acting as road commissioners to inform themselves of the condition of the public roads in their districts, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining, or otherwise improving the same, which directions shall be observed and obeyed by all overseers of his district.

Sec. 5. The commissioners may require each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work necessary: Provided, no road hand shall be required to work more than five days in any one year: And provided, that all road hands in a particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and he shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The commissioners court may allow any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year a compensation not to exceed one dollar per day for the time he may serve over five days.

Sec. 6. Every person liable to work on public roads in Parker county who shall pay to his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work shall be exempt from work for each day paid for.

Sec. 7. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade or such tool as he is desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have; and any person furnishing a team to work on the county roads of Parker county shall receive a credit of two days work for each day that said team shall be furnished. The county shall be liable for, and the commissioners court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for, all damage done to tools while being used on said roads for public road work not caused by the negligence of the party furnishing same.

Sec. 8. If any person liable to work upon the public roads, after being legally summoned, shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to the overseer such sum as one dollar per day for each day summoned to work, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof he shall be fined in any sum not to exceed ten dollars.

Sec. 9. At the regular term in November of the commissioners court each year, all road overseers of Parker county shall make their reports, upon forms to be furnished them by the commissioners court. Said reports shall state the condition of their roads, number of hands and the name of each hand subject to road work, and the number of days that each hand has worked, amount of all money collected and expended; and if there is a balance on hand it shall be turned over to his successor in office, to be paid out for work on said road. Said reports shall be sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oaths. Said reports shall be examined by the commissioners court, and if they be found correct shall be approved by said court, and as soon thereafter as practicable the said court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or failing to comply with the law in any way concerning his duties as overseer, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 10. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of said land cannot agree with the courts as to damages to be paid, the court may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to each party that would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 11. Each county commissioner when acting as road commissioner shall be entitled to two dollars per day for services actually performed: Provided, that he shall not receive more than one hundred and fifty dollars for any one year; said amount to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, when the account shall have been approved by the commissioners court, and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due and unpaid; and said account shall specify the number of days' work actually performed by him; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner for the days that he is performing the duties of county commissioner; nor shall he be allowed pay for any other road service, except as herein provided for. Neither shall he be required to inspect the roads as heretofore provided by law.

Sec. 12. This act shall be cumulative of all general laws on this subject, and be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges, when not in conflict therewith; but in case of conflict this act shall control as to Parker county, and all laws conflicting herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 13. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 7th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

CHAP. 131.—[H. B. No. 413.] An act to amend chapter 51, section 1, section 2, section 33, section 53, and section 54 of the acts of the Twenty-third Legislature, entitled "An act to create a more efficient road system in the counties of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Harrison, Panola, Upshur, Shelby, Smith and Rusk, and auxiliary thereto," etc.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That chapter 51, section 1, section 2, section 33, section 53, and section 54 of the acts of the Twenty-third Legislature be so amended as to read as follows:

Section 1. That all public roads and highways that have heretofore been laid out and established, agreeable to law, in Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Upshur, Smith and Rusk counties, except such as have been discontinued, are hereby declared to be public roads.

Section 2. The commissioners courts of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Upshur, Harrison, Panola, Shelby, Smith and Rusk counties shall have the full power and it shall be their duty to order the laying out and opening of public roads when necessary, and to discontinue or alter any road whenever it shall be deemed expedient, as hereinafter prescribed.

Section 33. The commissioners courts of Cherokee, Houston, Anderson, Trinity, Franklin, Delta, Upshur, Smith and Rusk counties shall lay off the counties into convenient road precincts, and shall number each road precinct, and in the order establishing the same shall specify as definitely as practicable the boundaries thereof.

Section 53. No person shall be compelled to work on any public road or roads more than ten days in each year: Provided, that no person in Rusk, Trinity, Delta and Franklin counties shall be compelled to work more than five days in each year on any public road or roads.

Section 54. That all of section 54 is hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the above counties are virtually without a road law, and the great amount of business now pending creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this bill be placed on its third reading without so reading, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

ROADS—DALLAS, LAMAR AND MEDINA COUNTIES.

CHAP. 132.—[H. B. No. 283.] An act to create a more efficient road system for Dallas, Lamar and Medina counties, Texas, and making county commissioners of said counties ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and defining the duties and powers of such county commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the public roads of said counties, and providing for officers' fees, and to provide for the summoning of teams for roads and allowance of time of service for same on roads, and fixing a penalty for violation of this act, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each member of the commissioners courts of Dallas, Lamar and Medina counties shall be ex officio road commissioner of his respective district, and under the direction of the commissioners court of his county shall have charge of all the teams, tools and implements belonging to said county and placed in his hands by said court, and it shall be his duty, under such rules and regulations as the commissioners court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of the commissioners shall before entering upon the duties of his office execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judges or their successors of said counties, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that he will perform all the duties required of him by law or by the commissioners court, and that he will account for all property belonging to the county that may come into his possession.

Sec. 2. The commissioners courts of said counties have full power and authority, and it shall be their duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining and repairing the public roads in said counties as they may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plans or system of working said roads; said court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools and implements as may be necessary for the working of said roads; such court shall have the power to construct, grade or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract; in such case said court, or the county judge by the authority of the commissioners court, may advertise, in such manner as the court may determine, for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond payable to the county judge and his successors in office of said counties, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but the said court shall reserve the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making said contract the commissioners court shall direct the county treasurer to place the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such fund and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said court shall have the power to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads in said counties, under such regulations and for such price as they may deem is to the best interest of said counties.

Sec. 3. The commissioners of said counties shall require all county convicts of said counties not otherwise employed to labor on the public roads, under such regulations as said court may prescribe; and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine first, and then on the cost, of each day that he may labor. The commissioners may at a regular term allow to the officers such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convicts as now provided by law, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund on the warrant of the commissioners, when said fine and cost shall have been worked out as provided for in this section: Provided, that this shall not be construed so as to relieve any convict from the payment of all cost for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State. The commissioners court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for good behavior and faithful service: Provided, that such commutation shall in no case exceed one-tenth of the whole time. The commissioners court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention and guards for the safe and humane treatment of convicts.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners when acting as road commissioners to inform themselves of the condition of the public roads in their districts, and they shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining or otherwise improving the same, which directions shall be observed and obeyed by all overseers of his district.

Sec. 5. The commissioners may require each overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work necessary: Provided, no road hand shall be required to work more than five days in any one year: And provided, that all road hands in a particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and he shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a reasonable day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons.

Sec. 6. Any citizen of Dallas, Lamar or Medina county who is subject to road duty who shall, on or before the first day of January of any year, pay to the county treasurer of his county the sum of three dollars shall be exempt from road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of January. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him, and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund. The treasurer shall, on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish the commissioners court with a list of all parties who have paid said sum as is provided in this section.

Sec. 7. Every person liable to work on public roads in Dallas, Lamar or Medina counties who shall pay to his road overseer, at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work shall be exempt from work for each day paid for.

Sec. 8. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, scraper, plow or team, as the overseer may direct; and any person furnishing a team to work on the county roads in Dallas, Lamar, or Medina counties, shall receive a credit of two day's work for each day that said team shall be furnished. The county shall be liable for, and the commissioners court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all damage done to tools while being used on said roads for public work.

Sec. 9. If any person liable to work upon the public road, after being legally summoned, shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to the overseer such sum as one dollar per day for each day summoned to work, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof he shall be fined in any sum not to exceed ten dollars.

Sec. 10. At the regular term in November of the commissioners court each year, all road overseers of Dallas, Lamar and Medina counties shall make their reports upon oath, upon forms to be furnished them by the commissioners court. Said reports shall state the condition of their roads, number of hands, and the name of each hand subject to road work, and the number of days that each hand has worked, amount of all money collected and expended, and if there is a balance on hand it shall be turned over to his successor in his office, to be paid out for work on said road; said report shall be sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oaths; said report shall be examined by the commissioners court, and if they be found correct shall be approved by said court; and as soon thereafter as practicable the said court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or failing to comply with the law in any way concerning his duties as overseer, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 11. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of said land can not agree with the court as to damages to be paid, the court may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had, and the same rights shall exist to each party that would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 12. Each county commissioner when acting as road commissioner shall be entitled to two dollars and one-half per day for services actually performed: Provided, that he shall not receive more than seventy-five dollars per quarter; said per diem to be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the commissioners court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due and unpaid; and said account shall specify the number of days' work actually performed by him, and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner while he is performing the duties of county commissioner.

Sec. 13. That all road funds raised by taxation be expended among the several commissioners districts in proportion to the amount of taxes paid by each district, except in district number one in Dallas county. That in district number one, that portion of the district exterior to the city limits be allowed the pro rata of the road funds which it has contributed by taxation. That the balance of the road funds contributed by taxation within the city limits be appropriated as follows: For the construction and repair of necessary bridges on permanent improvement for first class roads as hereafter provided for in the permanent construction and repair of main thoroughfare roads leading from the city limits to the county lines, the commissioners court to be governed in the selection of routes by the volume of population to be accommodated, donations of labor, money, material, etc., offered by the citizens and property owners of said roadway. That the county convicts shall be kept at work all the time upon four first class roads, beginning at the city limits, and extending as nearly as practicable north, south, east and west to the county lines, except in cases of emergency, when by an order of the commissioners court said convicts may be temporarily transferred to some other route or the county farm; Provided, further, that when said four roads have been put in first class condition, four other roads shall be selected by said court leading from the city limits to the county lines; each road to run as nearly as practicable centrally between two of the first four roads herein mentioned. That the roads to be built by the convict labor shall be macadamized, except in the black waxy neighborhoods, where material can not be had with reasonable convenience or reasonable expense, but at such points the roads must be permanently graded and thoroughly drained. That the assessor of taxes be required to prepare a tax roll for each commissioner's district separately, except district number one, for which he shall prepare two, one embracing all the property in the city, and the other embracing all the property in district number one outside of the city limits.

Sec. 14. In all cases where the cost of material and labor exceeds two hundred dollars it shall be the duty of said court to construct, grade or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract, the same to be advertised for as provided for by said commissioners court.

Sec. 15. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges, when not in conflict therewith; but in case of conflict this act shall control as to Dallas, Lamar and Medina counties.

Sec. 16. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 12th day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

ROADS—GUADALUPE COUNTY.

CHAP. 133.—[S. B. No. 207.] An act to amend sections 1 and 7 of chapter 62 of the acts of the Twenty-third Legislature of the State of Texas, approved April 28, 1893, and entitled "An act to create a more efficient road system in the county of Guadalupe; and auxiliary thereto to provide for the appointment of road overseers; to define the powers and jurisdiction of the commissioners court with regard thereto; to utilize the labor of county convicts and defaulting poll tax payers on the public roads of said county, and to provide adequate penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That sections 1 and 7 of chapter 62 of the acts of the Twenty-third Legislature of the State of Texas, approved April 28, 1893, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows, to-wit:

Section 1. That the county commissioners of Guadalupe county are ex officio road commissioners of said county and for their respective precincts, and may receive such compensation for their services as is provided for road overseers, and may as a court appoint a road overseer for each commissioner's precinct in the county, or for each justice's precinct, who shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are qualified.

Section 7. The commissioners court may at any regular term allow the officers and witnesses in a convict case, where the convict is worked upon the road, such portions of their lawful costs as it may determine, not to exceed in any case the following: County attorneys, five dollars, including commissions; county clerks and justices of the peace, four dollars; sheriffs and constables, four dollars; witnesses, twenty-five per cent of their legal fees; and the county judge shall receive a fee of three dollars for each convict who is worked by the county; which allowance shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund upon the warrant of the county judge when said fine and costs shall have been worked out by the convicts as provided in this act. The commissioners court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, food, clothing, bedding, medicine, medical attention, guards necessary for safe keeping and humane treatment of such convicts, and grant a reasonable commutation of time to a convict in consideration of faithful service and good behavior, such commutation in no case to exceed one-tenth of the entire time.

Sec. 2. Owing to the fact that the calendar is now crowded with bills, and the present Legislature is near its close, creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

ROADS—HILL, GRIMES, COOKE, HUNT, JACKSON, BEE, AND VICTORIA COUNTIES.

CHAP. 134.—[H. B. No. 538.] An act to create a more efficient road system for Hill, Grimes, Cooke, Hunt, Jackson, Bee and Victoria counties, Texas, and making county commissioners of said counties ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and providing for the appointment of deputy road commissioners, and defining the powers and duties of such county commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the public roads of said counties, and providing for officers' fees and rewards for the capture of escaped convicts, and to provide for the manner of training hedges along any public road, and to provide for the summoning of teams for road work, and for an allowance of time of road service for same, and fixing a penalty for a violation of this act, and repeal laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each member of the commissioners courts of Hill, Grimes, Cooke, Hunt, Jackson, Bee and Victoria counties shall be ex officio commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the commissioners courts shall have charge of all the teams, tools and machinery belonging to the county, and placed in their hands by said county, and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the commissioners court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of their office, in addition to their regular bond as such county commissioner, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge of their county for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law, or by the commissioners court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession: Provided, that with the consent of the commissioners court any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute the same bond that is required of commissioners in this section; and such deputy road commissioners shall be entitled to the same compensation that is allowed county commissioners for same service: Provided, that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation as road commissioners when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The commissioners court of said counties shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining and repairing the public roads in said counties as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plan or system of working. Said commissioners court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its roads. Said court shall have the power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such cases said court, or the county judge, may advertise in such manner as said court may determine for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond, payable to the county judges of said county for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good, sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making such contract, the court shall direct the county treasurer to pass the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads, under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best.

Sec. 3. The commissioners court of said counties shall require all county convicts, not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine first, and then on the costs, for each day he may labor. Such commissioners courts may provide such reasonable regulations and punishments as may be necessary to require such convicts to perform good work; and may provide a reward not exceeding ten dollars, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, for the recapture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person, other than the guard or person in charge of such convict at the time of his escape, which reward shall be taxed against such convict and worked out or paid by him as a part of the cost. The commissioners court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-tenth of the whole time. Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention, and guards for the safe and humane keeping of convicts. The commissioners court may at a regular term allow to the officers and witnesses such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convict as it may deem best: Provided, that it shall not allow to any officer an amount greater than the following: County attorney, five dollars, including commissions; county clerks and justices of the peace, including commissions, one dollar and seventy cents; sheriffs or constables, five dollars; which amount shall be paid to the officers out of the road and bridge fund, upon the order of said court, when said fine and costs have been worked out as provided in this section: Provided, that this shall not be construed as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have control over all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them all teams, tools and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, so far as has been supplied therewith by the commissioners court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liability of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any teams, tools or machinery belonging to said county shall be liable for any damages that may occur to the same while in his possession caused by his negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes without the consent of the commissioners court. It shall be the duty of the road overseer when he has finished work on his roads to return to said commissioner all teams, tools and machinery received from him and take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the county commissioner when acting as road commissioner to inform himself of the condition of the public roads of his district, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, or two days with himself and team, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time: And provided, that all road hands in any particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer, or in case of his absence any person deputed by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand when so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The commissioners court may allow any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year a compensation not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents per day for the time so served.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Hill, Grimes, Cooke, Hunt, Jackson, Bee and Victoria counties liable for road duty who shall on or before the first day of January of each year pay to the county treasurer the sum of three dollars shall be exempt from road duty for such year beginning on the first day of January. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him, and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund, and shall keep a separate account for each road district from which it is received. The treasurer shall on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish to each county commissioner a list of all persons in their respective districts that have paid said sum as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on roads, by paying to his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work, and one dollar and fifty cents for each day he is summoned to furnish his team for road work, shall be exempt from working or furnishing his team for each day paid for, and also exempt from any penalties for failure to work or furnish such team for the time for which he had so paid.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, plow, scraper or such other tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tools as are desired and directed by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have. Provided, the county shall be liable for, and the commissioners court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to such tools as may have resulted from public road work and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer may also summon and require such road hand to bring with him for public road work such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work: Provided, such hand shall be allowed two and one-half days' time for each day put in by a hand with his team, and one and one-half days' time for his team without such hand.

Sec. 10. If any person liable to work upon the public roads after being legally summoned shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may have been notified to work on the road, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar and fifty cents for each day he may have been notified to furnish his team for road work; or, having attended, shall fail to perform good service or any other duty required of him by law or the person under whom he may work, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof fined in any sum not exceeding ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the commissioners court in November of each year all road overseers shall make their reports under oath, upon forms to be furnished them by said court, which said report shall be examined by said court, and all accounts for services or labor performed for overwork by such overseer during the past year, and of moneys had and expended by him, shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable said commissioners court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any road overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duty required of him by law or by the commissioners court or by the commissioner of his district, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the county commissioners court can not agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 13. Every owner of a farm or other lands upon which a hedge of any description grows on or near the public road shall be required to keep the same trimmed so that the same shall not obstruct said road; and any such owner who shall fail or neglect to so trim such hedge shall be notified in writing by the road overseer of that district to trim such hedge as herein required; and in such case if such owner shall, after receiving such notice, fail or refuse to trim such hedge within a reasonable time, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty dollars per week from and after the time that he received such notice, such fine to be paid into the county treasury and to be placed to the credit of the road and bridge fund of said county. If any owner of any farm shall fail or refuse, after being notified as herein required, to trim his hedge as required by this act, then the road overseer shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with the provisions of this act, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 14. Each county commissioner when acting as road commissioner and performing the duties imposed upon him by law, or by the commissioners court, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for the services actually performed: Provided, said sum to be paid him shall not exceed ninety dollars per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the commissioners court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due and unpaid, and specifying the number of days actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner either for himself or for his deputy while he is performing the duties of county commissioner, nor shall he receive any additional pay than that provided by this section for inspecting or riding over his road or for other road service.

Sec. 15. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith; but in case of conflict, this act shall control as to the counties of Hill, Grimes, Cooke, Hunt, Jackson, Bee and Victoria.

Sec. 16. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 9th day of March, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him, nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

PUBLIC EDUCATION—TRANSFERRING CERTAIN COUNTIES FROM DISTRICT TO COMMUNITY SCHOOL SYSTEM.

CHAP. 135.—[H. B. No. 311.] An act to transfer Morris and other counties from the district school system to the community school system, and to authorize and empower said counties to organize and conduct all of their public free schools under the community system as provided by the laws now in force.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the following counties are hereby transferred from the district school system to the community school system, and are hereby authorized and empowered to organize and conduct all their free schools under the community school system, as provided by the laws now in force, to-wit:

Morris, Camp, DeWitt, Bowie, Duval, Fayette, Grimes, Victoria, Starr, Webb and Houston counties.

Sec. 2. Whereas, it is likely that a new scholastic year will be reached before ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved April 8, 1895.

GUARDIANS' BONDS.

CHAP. 136.—[S. B. No. 186.] An act to amend article 2519 of chapter 6, Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, so as to compel county judges to require that the bonds of guardians be kept solvent, and prescribing their liability for negligence so to do.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That chapter 6, article 2519, of the Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as to read as follows:

The bond of the guardian of the estate of a ward shall be in amount equal to double the estimated value of the property belonging to such estate, payable to the county judge of the county where such guardianship is pending and to be approved by such county judge, conditioned that such guardian will faithfully discharge the duties of guardian of the estate of such ward according to law; and it shall be the duty of such county judge to annually examine into the condition of the estate of the ward and the solvency of such guardian's bond, and to require such guardian at any time it may appear that such bond is not ample security to protect such estate and the interests of his ward, to execute another bond in accordance with law. And in such case he shall notify the guardian as in other cases; and should damage or loss result to the estate of any ward through the negligence of such county judge to perform the duties herein prescribed, such county judge shall be liable on his official bond, payable to such ward, an amount equal to his loss due to such negligence.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the estates of minors is now involved in the immediate passage of this bill; therefore, an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring this bill to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing is a true copy of Senate bill No. 186 as it was enacted and became a law, as appears from the Journals of both houses of the Legislature. The enrolled bill was filed in the Department of State on May 8th, 1895; became a law without the signature of the Governor and was so indorsed, and has since been lost or abstracted from this office.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

RESOLUTIONS.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

House Concurrent Resolution No. 11.

Whereas, the drouth which has prevailed for the last three or four years, the shortage in crops, the low prices for cotton and other farm products, and the general financial depression has rendered many of the purchasers and settlers of the public free school, the university and the several asylum lands unable to meet their obligations therefor; and,

Whereas, there are now about 3600 claims and accounts of such purchasers which have been or are about to be forfeited for the non-payment of interest; and,

Whereas, such forfeitures will render homeless and penniless many of such purchasers, and will thereby work a hardship and produce great trouble and distress upon them and their families; therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring: That the Commissioner of the General Land Office do, and he is hereby instructed to, withhold and suspend the forfeiture of all such lands sold under the acts of 1887 and subsequent acts thereto, until further legislation is had upon such land matters by the Legislature now in session, or until the close of said session, and the State Treasurer is hereby instructed to receive interest and principal payments upon such lands under the rules of law regulating such payments for and during said time.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

House Concurrent Resolution No. 25.

Whereas, Lieutenant Robert J. Lambert, of Company B, Fourth Texas Infantry, Hood's Brigade, fell at Gaines' Mill, Va., June 27, 1862, in Hood's memorable charge against McClellan, and sacrificed his young and noble life upon the altar of his country; as a tribute to his gallant and chivalrous conduct on the field of battle; therefore be it

Resolved, that his friends be permitted to inter his remains in the State Cemetery.

Approved March 21, 1895.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

[S. C. R. No. 21.] Authorizing and directing the Secretary of State to correct a mistake in enrollment of Substitute House Bill No. 120, passed at a former day of the present session of the Legislature, so as to show the action of the Senate thereon.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate, the House concurring: That the Secretary of State be and he is hereby authorized and directed to correct an error on the enrolled bill now on file in his office, passed at the present session of the Legislature, the error to be corrected being the following: "Substitute House bill No. 120 being under consideration in the Senate on March 6th, 1895, was on that day read the third time and duly passed by the following vote: twenty (20) yeas, and one (1) nay." Such action of the Senate was thereupon correctly endorsed on the engrossed bill, and the same was on the 7th day of March reported to the House of Representatives; the bill was then enrolled by the enrolling clerk of the House of Representatives, but in enrolling the same the said clerk inadvertently and by mistake failed to copy the action of the Senate thereon as aforesaid. The bill as enrolled appearing by such act of said clerk to have passed the Senate by the following vote: "twenty (20) ayes, and no (0) nays;" and the Secretary of State is hereby directed to correct said mistake on the said act in his hands, and to file this resolution in his office along with said act, and in publishing the act he shall cause its publication as if said mistake had not occurred, and in accordance with the action of the Senate thereon.

Sec. 2. That the fact of such mistake having occurred creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days be suspended, and that this resolution take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved March 30, 1895.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

B. 170, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled an act to amend article 1054, chapter 2, title 15, of the Code of Criminal Procedure, as amended by an act of the Twenty-first Legislature, approved April 4, 1889," constituting chapter 93, general laws of the State of Texas, 1891, in order that the same may be presented to the Speaker of the House of Representatives for his signature.

Whereas, at a previous day of the present session of the Legislature, S. B. 170, being entitled "An act to amend an act entitled an act to amend article 1054, chapter 2, title 15, of the Code of Criminal Procedure, as amended by act of the Twenty-first Legislature, approved April 4, 1889, constituting chapter 93, general laws of the State of Texas, 1891," was introduced and has passed both the Senate and House of Representatives, and has received the signature of the President of the Senate and has been presented to the Governor for his signature, and said bill has been by him approved and delivered to the Secretary of State; and,

Whereas, by mistake the same was not presented to the Speaker of the House of Representatives for his signature and was not signed by him as is required by the Constitution of Texas; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring: That the Secretary of State be and he is hereby requested to return to the Senate the said bill, in order that it may be presented to and receive the signature of the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

JOINT RESOLUTION.

[H. J. R. No. 32.] Amending article 6, section 2, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, requiring persons of foreign birth to declare their intention to become citizens of the United States six months before any election at which such persons may offer to vote.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 6, section 2, of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 2. Every male person subject to none of the foregoing disqualifications, who shall have attained the age of twenty-one years, and who shall be a citizen of the United States, and who shall have resided in this State one year next preceding an election, and the last six months within the district or county in which he offers to vote, shall be deemed a qualified elector. And every male person of foreign birth subject to none of the foregoing disqualifications, who, not less than six months before any election at which he offers to vote, shall have declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States in accordance with the Federal naturalization laws, and shall have resided in this State one year next preceding such election, and the last six months in the county in which he offers to vote, shall also be deemed a qualified elector; and all electors shall vote in the election precinct of their residence: Provided, that electors living in any unorganized county may vote at any election precinct in the county to which such county is attached for judicial purposes.

Sec. 2. The Governor of this State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation submitting this amendment to the qualified voters of Texas at the next general election.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

[C. S. H. C. R. No. 22.] Authorizing and instructing the State Board of Public Printing to dispose of the property comprising what is known as the State printing office.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the State Board of Public Printing is hereby authorized and instructed to advertise and sell all and singular the type, stands, stones, presses, boilers, engines, tools and implements, electrotyping machinery, tools, implements and material, and all other property of any character whatever and wherever found belonging to and comprising what was formerly known as the State printing office; not, however, including the outfit originally purchased for the Deaf and Dumb Institute for use in instructing the pupils in the art of printing and bookbinding in accordance with the provisions of an act of the Legislature March 13, 1875.

Sec. 2. Said Board of Public Printing shall dispose of said property as speedily as practicable, either at public or private sale, and in such manner as said board shall deem to the best interest of the State, the proceeds to be paid over to the Comptroller to the credit of the general revenue account of the State.

Sec. 3. The fact that said property is rapidly deteriorating in value and the near approach of the close of the session and crowded condition of the calendar creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity for a suspension of the constitutional rule requiring joint resolutions to be read on three several days, and that this resolution take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved May 4, 1895.

JOINT RESOLUTION.

[H. J. R. No. 18.] To amend section 4 of article 7 of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That section 4 of article 7 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be so amended as to read hereafter as follows:

Section 4. The lands herein set apart to the public free school fund shall be sold under such regulations, at such times and on such terms as may be prescribed by law; and the Legislature shall not have power to grant any relief to purchasers thereof. The Comptroller shall invest the proceeds of such sales, and of those heretofore made, as may be directed by the board of education herein provided for in the bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties in said State, or in such other securities as may be prescribed by law, or in agricultural lands, for the benefit of the penitentiary system of the State, under such restrictions as may be prescribed by law, and the State shall be responsible for all such investments.

Sec. 2. The foregoing amendment shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State at the next general election. Should any alderman remove from his ward during the term for which he was elected his office shall thereupon become vacant and the mayor shall order an election to fill such vacancy.

That section 8 of said charter shall be amended in the first paragraph of said section so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 8. Meetings of the Council.—That regular meetings of the city council shall be held in the council chamber weekly at such times as may be fixed by resolution of the board, and the mayor of his own motion may call special meetings for the transaction of special business by written notices served personally upon each member of the board, or left at his usual place of abode. Any three members of the board may in like manner call special meetings of the council; but no special meetings shall be called except in cases of urgent necessity, and the written notices served upon the members of the board shall state the object and purpose for which the meeting is called. General business shall only be transacted at the regular meetings. The city council may adjourn from day to day until the business properly coming before it is disposed of.

That section 10 of said charter shall be amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Section 10. That there shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city of Houston a mayor, city treasurer, assessor and collector of taxes, city engineer, health officer, city marshal, street commissioner, city recorder and a city attorney, who shall hold their respective offices for two years, and until their successors are qualified, unless sooner removed by the city council: Provided, that the present officers of said city shall hold their offices until the next election of city officers, as prescribed by the ordinances now in force. The assessor and collector may appoint one or more deputies, for whose conduct he shall be responsible, and deputy or deputies shall have power to perform any act which may be performed by the assessor and collector in person.

That section 11 of said charter shall be amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Section 11. The mayor shall appoint a superintendent of schools, a city secretary, a city scavenger, and a market master, whose appointment shall be confirmed by the city council, who shall hold their respective offices for two years, and until their successors are qualified, and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the city council; and all elective and appointive officers, together with members of the police force, shall be constitutional citizens and tax-payers of the city.

That section 24 of said charter shall be amended so as hereafter to read as follows in the first paragraph:

Section 24. Cost of Street Improvements.—The city council shall fix and determine the nature and extent of all sidewalks, curbings, street, drainage and sewerage improvements, and decide as to the kind of material to be used, except as limited or qualified by section 25 of this act. The cost of constructing or repairing (as the case may be) of all sidewalks, foot ways and curbings, and cost of grading, shelling, paving, repairing, repaving or otherwise improving any avenue, street, alley or other highway, or any portion thereof, within the limits of the city, and the cost of all drains or sewers laid and constructed within the city, together with the cost of collecting thereof, shall, whenever, by a vote of two-thirds of the aldermen elected, such improvements shall be declared necessary for the public interests, be defrayed in case of curbing, sidewalks and street improvements by the owner or owners of the lot or lots, block or blocks, tracts of land when not laid out into lots and blocks, abutting on such street or portion of street improved, according to the cost of work in front of the particular lot or block or tracts of land; and in case of sewerage or drainage improvements shall be defrayed by the owner or owners of such lot or lots, block or blocks, or tracts of land when not laid out into lots or blocks, according to the proportionate benefits of the lots, blocks or tracts of land within the sewerage or drainage districts hereinafter provided for, taking into consideration the area and locality of the property affected; and the cost of all such improvements shall be a tax and charge against the person or persons owning such lots, blocks or tracts of land at the time such tax, or any portion thereof, shall become due as to such lots, blocks and tracts of land, and a lien and encumbrance upon the land itself; and said tax against the property owner may be collected and a lien upon the property foreclosed in any court having jurisdiction.

In the third paragraph of section 24:

The city council shall, by resolution duly passed, designate the streets or portions of streets on which curbing, sidewalks or street improvements shall be made or constructed, and the district within which the sewerage or drainage improvements shall be constructed, and the general nature of the improvements to be made, and the principal ingredients of the materials to be used, except as limited or qualified by section 25 of this act: Provided, however, that provisions may be made in such resolution for receiving bids on more than one kind of material, or of different modes of construction. Said resolution may be amended or changed by a two-thirds vote of the city council at any time previous to the publication of the advertisement for bids, and it shall be proper to embody in the same language to the effect that the improvements contemplated will be made only on those portions of the street or streets referred to where good and sufficient improvements of like character do not exist; and in such event the mayor, as the work progresses, shall determine where such existing improvements, if any, are in fact good and sufficient within the meaning and intent of the resolution, and he shall direct the contractor accordingly; and any property owner shall have the privilege of putting down his own sidewalks and curbing in front of any lot owned by him: Provided, the same are completed or in course of construction prior to the leaving of material near the same for that purpose by the contractor employed by the city; and if in course of construction, are completed in a manner satisfactory to the mayor, at such time, to be determined by the mayor, as will not interfere with the work being otherwise done by the contractor. When sewerage or drainage improvements are contemplated said resolution shall refer to the district within which property will be assessed for the payment of the same.

In paragraphs 5 and 6 of section 24:

Liability of Railroads.—Any railroad or street railway company shall be liable for the cost of grading, paving, repairing or repaving or otherwise improving the portion of the street or intersections used or occupied by such railway company, and such cost shall be a lien upon the property and franchises of the company. The portion of a street occupied by any railroad or any street railway company shall be deemed to mean all that portion of the same between the rails of all tracks laid, and extending twelve inches beyond the outer edge of the rails of such road, and including the space between double tracks and between the main track, side tracks or turnouts.

Liability where there are Two Railroads.—Any railroad or street railway company proposing to occupy any street already occupied by any such company shall, besides paying for paving along their tracks as above provided, be required to also pay for paving between the tracks of said two roads to within twelve inches of the track of such other road, and such cost shall be a lien upon the property and franchises of the company. And any person or corporation having an easement in any land not in but abutting on the street, shall be liable for street curbing, sidewalks, drainage or sewerage improvements in same manner as though it or he were the owner of such land, and a lien shall exist on such land, inclusive of such easement right, to secure the cost of such improvement.

That section 25 be amended by substituting the following for the second and third paragraphs of said section:

After the passage of such resolution for the paving, repairing, repaving or otherwise improving any street or streets or parts of streets, it shall then be the duty of the city engineer to make an estimate of the quantities of the various items of work to be done under said resolution, said estimate of quantities to be made by the street or parts of streets, and on which estimate of quantities all bids may be canvassed to determine the gross bid of various bidders on each streets. After said estimate is completed, it shall be the duty of the city engineer to report therewith to the city council detailed plans and specifications for the work embraced in said resolution: Provided, however, that it shall be the duty of said board of public works to examine said specifications and a majority of the members thereof shall endorse their report in reference to the same thereon or affix it thereto before the same are approved by the city council: Provided, further, however, that said city council shall, nevertheless, have the right, after such report shall have been made by the board of public works, to amend or change said specifications without further reference to said board. Specifications for paving shall embrace not less than three standard materials, i. e., stone, brick and asphaltum. The city council may amend or change said specifications before adopting the same, which specifications, when adopted by the city council, shall be opened for public inspection in the office of the city secretary or that of the city engineer; and it shall be proper to provide in the said specifications for such reasonable alterations in the grade, plan, form or dimensions of the work, or additions to the same, as may become apparent or found to be necessary or expedient by the city engineer or board of public works, as the work referred to in the same progresses.

When said specifications have been duly adopted by the city council it shall be the duty of the mayor to advertise for bids by at least four days advertisement in one or more daily newspapers of general circulation published in the city of Houston; and said advertisement shall state the approximate quantities of work to be done, as shown by the city engineer's estimate, the time when such proposals will be opened, and shall show the manner in which the work is to be paid for. All proposals shall be addressed to the city secretary and opened in the presence of the city council at a regular meeting. Bond, to be fixed in amount by the city council and approved by the mayor, shall be required of all contractors. After bids are received by the city council the city engineer and the city secretary shall make a statement in writing to the city council fixing the approximate cost of doing the work with the several materials and under the different bids. It shall then be the duty of the city council to allow property owners liable to be assessed for said improvements fifteen days time to designate by petition to the city council the material to be used, and if the owners of the majority of all the front feet of property liable to be assessed for said improvement shall petition for any particular materials named in resolution, then the materials so designated shall be used and said preference of said majority shall control in the letting of the contract or contracts, and the council shall award the contract for the particular material designated by choice of the majority in front feet of the property owners to the lowest and best bidders, in the discretion of said council. The finding by the city council by resolution that a majority petition was or was not filed within the time specified shall be final and conclusive in any court or other tribunal that said petition was or was not filed: Provided, however, if there is no preference by the owners of the majority of all abutting property within the time specified, then said council may proceed to award the contract or contracts to the lowest and best bidders, in their discretion: Provided, however, it shall be the duty of the board of public works to report their recommendation on all bids as provided by section 31 of this act.

That section 28 shall be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 28. Division and Rate of Interest of Assessments.—The sum assessed against each separate lot or tract of land, when not divided into lots, described in the roll of ownership shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the first day of the month next after the acceptance by the city council of the work embraced in said roll, and shall be divided by the city secretary into annual installments not less than three nor more than ten, as may be provided by the resolution authorizing said assessments, and of as nearly equal amounts, not less than ten dollars each, as he may deem most convenient, and he shall add to each installment the amount of interest to become due on the entire amount of principal unpaid at the maturity of said installment, and the sum so computed shall constitute the total amount due each year respectively on said tract of land: Provided, that when the amount assessed against any particular piece of property is less than thirty dollars and more than twenty dollars, the same may be divided into two installments, and when less than twenty dollars a single certificate may be issued therefor.

Amend section 30 by erasing the entire section and substitute the following as section 30:

Section 30. When the resolution passed as authorized by section 24 of this act shall provide that the proportion of the cost of the improvements to be borne by the property owners and by the city street railway company to be done thereunder shall be paid for in district improvement bonds, or warrants of the city of Houston, of such date and of such form as may be prescribed by the city council, then such bonds or warrants shall bear the name of the street, alley or district improved, and payable to the bearer in a sufficient number of years after date to cover the period of payment as provided in section 28 of this act, but subject to call as hereinafter provided, in convenient denominations of not more than one thousand dollars each. All such bonds and warrants shall be issued to the contractor to cover the proportion of the cost of improvements to be borne by the property owners and the street railway company by the city treasurer, upon estimates and order of the city council, approved by the mayor; and the city treasurer shall preserve a record of the same in a suitable book kept for that purpose. Said bonds and warrants shall be subscribed by the mayor and attested by the city secretary and the seal of the city, and registered by the city treasurer; the same to be payable only out of the moneys collected on account of the assessments made for said improvements respectively; and said bonds shall not be an obligation of said city except out of said fund. And all moneys collected from the assessment roll on the account of the assessments for any improvements shall be applied to the payment of the bonds or warrants, which shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable annually, the interest to be evidenced by coupons to be attested by a fac simile of the signature of the city treasurer.

Whenever considered prudent by the city treasurer he may, and whenever funds be in his hands to the credit of any improvements exceeding six months interest on unpaid principal he shall, by advertisement for five days in some daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city of Houston, call in a suitable number of the bonds or warrants of the same district for payment, and at the expiration of thirty days from the first publication of said notice, interest on the bonds or warrants so called shall cease; and the notice shall specify the bonds or warrants so called by number, and all bonds or warrants shall be called and paid in their numerical order. The holder of any bond or warrant may at any time furnish his postoffice address to the city treasurer, and in such a case a copy of said advertisement shall be mailed by the city treasurer to the holder of the bonds or warrants called at said address, on the first day of said publication.

All special assessments for such improvements shall be collected by the city treasurer, by suit if necessary, directly from the assessment rolls, and shall be noted thereon and receipted for by him as city treasurer; and under no circumstances shall any abatement of principal or interest be made in favor of any person or property liable therefor on said rolls.

Said city council may in its discretion provide by ordinance for the collection of said special assessment by the city treasurer by advertisement and sale in the same manner so far as practicable as in the case of general taxes levied by said city, and in such event all the provisions of said charter relative to the collection of taxes and said proceedings had in reference to tax sales under the same shall be applicable.

That section 36, paragraph 10, shall be amended by adding the following paragraphs to be respectively paragraphs 11, 15, 23 and 25 of said section, defining the general powers of the city council:

To provide for the construction, regulation and inspection of buildings in the limit of the city of Houston for the more effectual prevention of fire, and the better protection of life and property therein, and to prescribe that plans for building be submitted to the superintendent of buildings or other officer designated by the council of the city of Houston, who shall inspect the same, and if not in conformity with the regulations of the city of Houston in regard to the proper construction of buildings so as to prevent and control fires and better protect the life and property of the inhabitants of the city of Houston, to prohibit the construction of said building, and to tear down said building if built without first obtaining permission after first submitting plans; and said superintendent of buildings or other officer designated by the city council shall have the right to inspect buildings to see if they are in conformity with the ordinance of the city of Houston regulating the same; and the city of Houston shall have the right to fine parties, upon conviction before the recorder, who shall refuse or fail to comply with the building ordinances of the city of Houston; and the said city of Houston shall have the right to require parties who own or are having buildings constructed to pay the superintendent of buildings or other officer designated by the city council of the city of Houston a reasonable fee for inspecting the plans and buildings.

To regulate burial grounds and cemeteries, and to prohibit burial within the city limits if deemed advisable, and to condemn and close cemeteries and burial grounds in the thickly settled portions of the city when demanded by the public interest; to remove or cause to be removed all bodies interred in such condemned and closed cemeteries and burial grounds and cause them to be reinterred in a suitable place, and to use such condemned ground for such purposes as may best subserve the interests of the city.

To direct and control the laying and construction of railroad tracks, turnouts and switches, and to regulate the grades of the same where they are below or above the city's grade, and that they be required to be constructed and laid out so as to interfere as little as possible with the ordinary travel and use of the streets.

That sections 48 and 49 shall be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 48. The city council may continue annually to assess, levy and collect the special tax provided by ordinances passed by the city council of said city on the second day of June, A. D. 1888, for the purpose of paying the interest and principal of the various outstanding bonds issued by the city of Houston, and may by ordinance assess, levy and collect annually upon all property, real and personal, in the city of Houston, not exempt from taxation, such additional tax, not exceeding one and one-half per cent ad valorem, as the interest of the city may require for other purposes: Provided, that if the council should fail or neglect to pass a tax ordinance for any one year levying the taxes for that year, that the tax ordinance last passed will be considered in force, and the failure to pass such ordinance shall in nowise invalidate the collection of the tax. It may also determine when taxes shall be paid by corporations or by individual corporators, and levy, assess and collect upon each male citizen of the city over the age of twenty-one years an annual poll tax of one dollar. All taxes upon real estate shall be a lien and charge upon the property, which lien may be foreclosed and the tax collected by suit in any court having jurisdiction. All taxes not paid within the time prescribed by the ordinances shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum.

All real and personal property held, owned or situated in the city of Houston shall be liable for all taxes due by the owners thereof, including taxes on real estate, personal property and poll tax. All personal property may be levied upon, seized and sold by the assessor and collector for any taxes that may be due, without further warrant of authority than the production of his tax roll, which sale when made shall convey a perfect title to the purchaser thereof; or the amount of the tax may be sued for in any court having jurisdiction, and a personal judgment be recovered against the delinquent tax payer, or against any person to whom the personal property on which the city tax is due has been sold, or who owns, holds and claims possession of said personal property.

It shall be the duty of every person owning or holding property in the city of Houston to render to the assessor and collector of taxes at his office in said city annually, within the time prescribed by the ordinances of said city, a full and complete inventory of all property so owned or held by him, whether real or personal, and to take and subscribe an oath as to the correctness of such inventory; which oath may be administered by the assessor and collector in person or by deputy.

All taxes shall be payable at the office of the assessor and collector; and no demand by him be requisite or necessary to enforce the collection thereof by any proceedings herein prescribed, nor for any taxes due before the passage of this act. The assessor and collector shall inventory and assess all property which the owners thereof may fail or refuse, or may have failed or refused, to inventory and assess for previous year, which inventory and assessment when so made by him shall be as valid and effective as if made by the owner thereof.

Section 49. That the license tax shall be collected by the assessor and collector of taxes and shall be paid to that officer in current funds of the United States by each and every person or firm owning [owning] such license, and before engaging in any trade, profession, business, calling, avocation, or occupation subject to such tax, taking his receipt therefor, which receipt shall entitle him, her or them to a corresponding license to be issued by the mayor.

And if any person shall engage in any business, calling, avocation or occupation which by an ordinance of said city is subject to a license tax without first having obtained such license, he, she or they shall be liable to arrest and imprisonment and a fine of ten ($10) for each and every day such violation of said ordinance may continue; and this section shall apply to all persons owing license and failing to pay the same; and the city council may make such further regulations as it deems necessary to enforce the provisions of this section, and punish the violation thereof.

That paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of section 50 shall be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 50. That the city council may and shall have full power to provide by ordinance for the prompt collection of all taxes levied, assessed and due or becoming due to said city, and to that end may and shall deem necessary to the levying, laying, imposing, assessing and collecting of any of said taxes, and to regulate the mode and manner of making out tax lists and inventories, and the appraisement of property thereon, and to prescribe the oath that shall be administered to each person on such rendition of property, and to prescribe how and when property shall thus be rendered, and to fix the duties and define the powers of the assessor and collector of taxes.

All taxes due by property owners, as appears upon the tax rolls of said city, may be collected by suit from delinquents, and foreclosure of the lien thereon in any court having jurisdiction of the same; and any person who shall purchase property encumbered with a lien for taxes shall be deemed as to such taxes a delinquent tax payer, and such purchaser takes the property charged with a lien, and he can not interpose any defense which his vendor might not, had he continued to be the owner.

The city of Houston has the right to maintain a suit to recover a personal judgment for the amount of the tax due it, and the tax may be collected by sale of the particular property on which it is assessed, by enforcing the lien or by the sale of that or other property under a judgment of the court, or by seizure and sale of personal property. The assessment rolls shall be taken as prima facie evidence of the statements made therein and that all the prerequisites required by law pertaining to the levying and assessing of taxes have been complied with, and all questions as to misnomer, proper parties to the suit for taxes, misdescription, and to suits against unknown owners, shall apply in favor of the city of Houston, and no person shall be permitted to question the same until all taxes due upon the property have been paid. No delinquent tax payer shall have the right to plead in any court or in any manner rely upon any statute of limitation by way of defense against the payment of any taxes due from him or her to the city of Houston.

In no case shall the city council, or any member of the city council, or officer of the city, remit, discount or compromise any tax legally due the city. The city shall have equal right to become the purchaser at all sales of property under judgment or otherwise for taxes due it. All taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of July of each and every year, and if not paid by the first day of January thereafter, the same shall bear interest from the said first day of January until paid, at the rate of six per cent per annum. It shall be the duty of all persons from whom such taxes are due to call and pay the same to the city assessor and collector of taxes at his office in the city of Houston, between the said first day of July and the first day of January next thereafter. Immediately after the first day of January in every year it shall be the duty of the assessor and collector of taxes to prepare a roll containing a description of all the property described in the assessment rolls of the next preceding year, that is to say, of the year ending on the next preceding thirty-first day of December, on which the taxes have not been paid. Said roll shall be called the "delinquent roll," and shall consist of a copy from the assessment rolls of so much of the lien on which the tract of land or property on which the tax remain unpaid as will identify the property and show the amount of taxes due on the same.

During the same time that the city assessor and collector shall prepare the "delinquent roll" above described, he shall prepare separate statements of tax accounts due the city, to be furnished the city attorney on which to bring suits, which statement shall contain the description of the property, the year for which the tax is due, the amount of tax due, the rate of taxation, and the person or persons, estate, firm or corporation who assesses the same, or whether the property is rendered, unrendered, or owner is unknown, as appears from the tax rolls: Providing, that where several tracts of land and different kinds of property are assessed by the same person, firm, estate or corporation, that they may be contained in the same statement; which said delinquent roll shall be finished and said statements furnished not later than the thirty-first day of March of each year; said delinquent roll shall be published during the month of April following, once a week for four weeks, in some daily paper published in the city of Houston, and a failure to comply with these provisions by the city assessor and collector of taxes shall be deemed a malfeasance, and be cause for impeachment. Upon receipt of the above tax statements by the city attorney, he shall as soon as possible institute suit in the proper court to enforce the collection of taxes due the city, and shall file suit on all of said statements furnished him by the city assessor and collector of taxes by the next first of October after he has received them, and the failure on the part of the city attorney to file suits on said statements by the first of October shall be deemed a malfeasance and be a cause for impeachment; but a failure on the part of the city assessor and collector of taxes to prepare the "delinquent roll" or furnish tax statements to city attorney, or a failure on the part of the city to file suits within the proper time, shall in nowise affect the liability of the delinquent tax payer, or shall such failure in any manner be relied on by way of defense against the payment of taxes due the city. A board of appraisement shall be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council and shall continue to act as such board until their term of office as aldermen has expired; and all matters pertaining to taxation shall be referred to the said board, from whose final decision there shall be no appeal. The board appointed by the present administration at its commencement in 1894 is hereby constituted the board of appraisement and shall continue to serve as such until their present term as aldermen shall expire.

That section 58 shall be so amended as to read as follows:

Section 58. Public Work to be Done by Contract—Exception.—That all works of improvements and public works for said city, the cost of which will exceed the sum of one thousand dollars, shall be let out to the lowest and best bidder, in the discretion of the council, by sealed proposals; and no contract shall be made or entered into until the plans and specifications for such work or improvements shall have been prepared and submitted to the council and adopted by it, and an advertisement published in at least four issues of some daily paper published in the city inviting bids therefor, providing that owners of abutting property shall have the right to pay cash for all improvements, and providing that bids shall state the price at which the work will be done if paid for in cash, and also the price if district improvement bonds or warrants be issued therefor, and stating the time when such sealed proposals will be opened: Provided, that if no bids be received, or those received be rejected by the city council, the city may, in its discretion, proceed to have such work or improvement done under the direction of a committee from the membership. City printing and all repairing of bridges or other similar work, of which it is manifestly impossible to make specifications, are not embraced in this requirement. No bids shall be considered unless made in accordance with the plans and specifications, and no allowance for extra work shall ever be made or paid for. The sealed proposals shall be addressed to the city secretary, and shall be opened only in the presence of the city council at a regular meeting. Bond and security, to be fixed and approved by the city council, shall be required of all contractors.

That section 59 be amended in the fourth paragraph of said section so that it shall read as follows:

Interest and Sinking Fund to be provided for.—The ordinance authorizing any bonds to be issued shall also provide a fund to pay the interest and create a sinking fund sufficient to pay the bonds at maturity, and said sinking funds shall be invested in bonds of the city or in United States bonds, and neither said interest nor sinking fund shall be diverted to any other purpose whatever.

Sec. 2. That this act shall be deemed a public act, and judicial notice shall be taken thereof in all courts. No general law hereafter passed by the Legislature of the State shall be held to repeal any power herein granted or which is now vested in the corporation of Houston, unless the act conferring such power be specially referred to in such repealing act.

Sec. 3. Whereas, there are no adequate laws in force providing for the paving, improving and repairing of the streets and sidewalks of the city of Houston, there exists an imperative public necessity for suspending the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three sever-days, and an emergency exists which requires this act to take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 3rd day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Tom C. Thornton, Acting Secretary of State.]

Sec. 2. The fact that the water and electric light system provided for in the 46th subdivision of said section 57 is now completed, and the said city of Austin without this act has not sufficient power to enable it to sell or lease the said railroad known as the Austin Dam Railroad, which is of no further use to said city in the construction of the said water and electric light system, and has not the power to sell or lease the surplus water or electric power produced by means of the dam built by said city across the Colorado river, and without the speedy grant of such power the said city is in danger of suffering great loss from delay, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and such rule is therefore so suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is therefore so enacted.

The person receiving the highest number of votes in the whole city for mayor shall be declared elected, and the person in any ward receiving the highest number of votes in the whole city cast for alderman of such ward shall be declared elected. In case the person elected mayor shall refuse to accept the office, the city council, mayor or acting mayor shall order another election; and in case of a vacancy in the office of mayor, by death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, it shall be filled for the remainder of the term by a new election, to be ordered by the city council or acting mayor; and in case of a vacancy of the office of alderman by refusal to accept or qualify, or by death, resignation, removal, or otherwise, the city council, mayor or acting mayor shall order a new election to fill the residue of the unexpired term; and all special elections shall be conducted in the same manner as is herein provided for the biennial election: Provided, that in special elections five days notice thereof shall be sufficient.

All moneys belonging to the city and received by any officer or agent or officer thereof, either from collections, fines or any other source, shall be deposited in the city treasury daily. For all moneys received he shall give duplicate receipts in all cases, one to the party paying, one for the auditor, which shall set out the amount paid and from what it proceeds, and to what account credited, and for taxes and licenses he shall give such receipts as may be provided by ordinance. All persons charged with the collection of money under the charter and ordinances of the city shall promptly pay the same over to the city treasurer under such penalty as may be prescribed by ordinance, and shall forthwith hand the treasurer's receipts to the auditor, who shall countersign the original receipt and retain the duplicate; the party paying shall then hand the original receipt and duplicate to the city auditor, who shall retain the duplicate. He shall render a full and correct statement of his receipts and payments to the city council at their first regular meeting in each month, and whensoever in other times he may be required by them to do so; he shall do and perform such other acts as the city council may require; and for his services he shall receive such salary as shall be fixed by the city council, not exceeding twelve hundred dollars per annum.

Section 29. The city council shall have power to appropriate money to provide for the payment of debts and expenses of the city. In the month of February of each year it shall make a careful estimate of the probable revenues of the city for the ensuing year, not including in such estimate more than thirty-three and one-third per cent of delinquent taxes, and allowing fifteen per cent as uncollectable of the estimated taxes for the ensuing year, and shall provide for the disbursement and expenditures of the same, and shall at the same time fix the salaries of all officers appointed or elected under this charter, except those whose compensation is fixed therein, as follows:

1. It shall set apart and appropriate to the payment of interest upon outstanding bonds such amounts as shall have been prescribed by ordinance for that purpose, and shall also set apart and appropriate to the creation and maintenance of sinking funds for the redemption of said bonds such amounts as shall have been prescribed by ordinance for that purpose, which said sinking fund shall be invested in bonds of said city, in bonds of the State of Texas or in bonds of the United States, as said council may from time to time determine.

2. It shall reserve a fund of twenty-five thousand dollars to be used only in case of extraordinary emergencies, which could not have been foreseen before their occurrence, but in no event to be used for the ordinary expenses of the city. And whenever there shall remain unexpended any portion of such reserve fund the same shall constitute a part of such reserve fund for the next ensuing year.

3. It shall apportion the remainder of the estimated revenue to the several departments of the city government for its general expenses. Any member of the city council who shall knowingly vote for or in any manner aid or promote the passage or adoption of any ordinance, resolution or other act of the city council increasing the appropriation for the expenses of the city beyond the estimate aforesaid, unless the actual revenue shall have exceeded such estimate, and in such event beyond such actual revenue, shall thereby vacate his office, and shall be guilty of malfeasance in office, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished in the manner and to the extent provided in section 31 of this act.

Section 18. It shall be his duty to arrest all violators of the public peace and all persons who shall obstruct or interfere with him in the execution of the duties of his office, or who shall be guilty of disorderly conduct or disturbances whatsoever. To prevent a breach of the peace, or preserve quiet and good order, he shall have authority to close any theater, bar room, ball room, drinking house or any other place or building of public resort; and in the prevention and suppression of crime and arrest of offenders he shall have, possess and execute like power, authority and jurisdiction as a sheriff of a county under the laws of the State. He shall receive a salary of not exceeding two thousand dollars per annum. The chief of police shall give such bond for the faithful performance of his duties, and perform such other duties and possess such other powers, rights and authority in addition to those herein provided as the city council may require and confer upon him, not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of this State and the provisions of this act.

At the first regular meeting of the new city council after such biennial election, or as soon thereafter as may be, the mayor shall select and name from amongst the members thereof the four aldermen who received the highest number of votes at the preceding election, who, together with himself, shall constitute a commission to be known and designated as police and fire commission, of which commission the mayor shall be chairman. The city clerk shall be secretary of said board, and shall keep a record of its proceedings. Any two members of said commission, with the mayor, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but in the absence of the mayor the four other members of the commission shall be necessary to constitute a quorum. No member of the commission shall absent himself from any meeting of said board without good cause, and excuse for non-attendance shall be entered in the minute book of commissioners; and if at any time more than two commissioners be absent from the city or temporarily disabled from acting by sickness or otherwise, the mayor, if he believes it to be necessary, shall have the authority to appoint a new member on said board to act temporarily during the absence or disability of the member so absent. Said board of police and fire commissioners shall carefully examine all applicants for positions in either the police or fire departments as to integrity of character and physical and intellectual capacities of each applicant, and make in writing to the city council recommendations for the appointments of applicants, based on their fitness for the place applied for, and the city council shall, on receiving such recommendations, elect proper persons to fill such positions in the departments respectively as may be by it deemed wise and necessary: Provided, however, that so far as it may be practicable and consistent with good order, discipline and improvement of the public service, it shall be the duty of the board of commissions to prefer, in recommendations to the city council for appointment to the police and fire departments, respectively, those men who have proven themselves capable, good and efficient in the performance of their duties, and the city council shall give due weight to such recommendations. All such persons as may be by the city council elected, shall hold their positions for two years or during good behavior, subject to suspension or dismissal for cause after a hearing by the commission, which is hereby invested with exclusive jurisdiction in the premises: Provided, however, that the chief of police and chief of the fire department shall have the power to temporarily suspend any subordinate officer or member of their departments, respectively, for reasons satisfactory to said chief of police or fire department, as the case may be, and to appoint some person to discharge the duties of such suspended officer or member until the grounds of such suspension can be inquired into by the police and fire commissioners; and it shall be the duty of the chief in whose department such suspension shall occur to report same in writing, within five days, with the reasons therefor, to the commissioners, and to notify the suspended officer or member thereof. No person, except as provided herein, shall be authorize to act as a policeman or fireman until he shall have been duly elected as such by the city council, and has qualified by taking the oath prescribed by the Constitution of the State and given a bond with sureties, to be approved by the mayor, in the sum of five hundred dollars, payable to the city of Galveston, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties: Provided, however, in case of emergency or necessity the mayor may appoint persons supernumeraries who have been previously examined by the board of police and fire commissioners and favorably passed upon by said board, and the persons thus appointed, while on active duty, shall have all the authority of a regularly elected and qualified policeman or fireman. All persons appointed supernumeraries shall, before acting as policeman or fireman, take the prescribed oath and furnish a good and sufficient bond as herein provided for members of the police and fire departments regularly elected by the city council. The board of police and fire commissioners shall be and are hereby invested with exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine any and all charges against any member of the police or fire department for infractions of discipline, disobedience of orders, for incompetency, for corruption, for malfeasance or nonfeasance in office, for violation of any of the rules or regulations prescribed by the city council for the government of said police and fire department, or for any conduct unbecoming an officer or member of the said departments respectively; and every officer and member of the police and fire departments shall obey all lawful rules and regulations prescribed by the city council, on pain of dismissal or such lighter punishment either by suspension, reduction or forfeiture of pay or otherwise, as the board of police and fire commissioners may adjudge: Provided, however, that all charges or complaints against the chief of police or the chief of the fire department shall be heard and determined by the city council, as provided in sections 150, 151, 152, 153 of this charter for the trial of the mayor or any alderman. The commissioners shall have power to administer oaths, to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses before them, and to examine such witnesses upon any matter where it may be necessary to the discharge of their duties, and they shall report to the city council at its first regular meeting in each month the expenses incurred by their departments, and the suspensions and removals therein during the preceding month: And provided, further, that any member of the police or fire department who, after trial by the board of police and fire commissioners, shall be dismissed or removed from his office by the said commissioners, and said act of dismissal or removal shall be approved by the city council, shall not be eligible for appointment to his former or any other position whatever under the city government.

Section 113. The city council shall have power and authority to establish and maintain a fire department; to procure fire engines and other apparatus for the extinguishment of fires, and provide engines houses for keeping and preserving the same; and said fire department shall be composed of a chief of the fire department, assistant chief of the fire department, and such number of firemen as may be necessary. The officers and members of said fire department to be appointed and their compensation and duties to be fixed, defined and regulated as provided for in section 78a of this charter: And provided, that the compensation of the chief of the fire department for his services shall not exceed the sum of two thousand dollars per annum as provided for in sections 78a and 78b of this charter.

Section 132c. The city shall have power to issue bonds to the amount of one million two hundred and forty thousand dollars of the denomination of one hundred dollars or any multiple thereof, payable forty years after date of their issue, and bearing interest payable semi-annually at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum; said bonds to be sold for cash at not less than par, and the proceeds thereof to be used and expended as follows:

Two hundred thousand dollars shall be used in defraying the city's portion of the cost of filling, grading and paving its streets as elsewhere provided in this charter: Provided, that not more than one hundred thousand dollars shall be expended on such work by the city in any one year from this fund, or from the proceeds of the issue of bonds authorized by this section.

Forty thousand dollars shall be used and expended for filling streets, and such property as the city may own, and which the city council may designate to be filled or raised; the expenditures out of this fund not to exceed in any one year twenty thousand dollars.

Fifty thousand dollars shall be employed and expended in the erection of public school houses in said city, under the direction and upon the requisition of its board of school trustees; and the interest and the sinking fund necessary to meet the fifty thousand dollars of the bonds so appropriated shall be provided for as is by this section provided for the other bonds herein authorized to be issued, and the city council are hereby authorized to amend the budget for the year 1895 to conform herewith.

Secondly. So much of the remainder of said sum, if any, as to the council may appear necessary shall be set aside for sewerage and drainage purposes; and Thirdly. The residue, if any, after a water supply and system of sewerage and drainage shall have been provided for as above contemplated, shall be set aside to defray the city's share of the cost of filling, grading and paving its streets.

When the special fund of two hundred thousand dollars aforesaid shall have been expended a fund shall be provided to pay the interest and create a sinking fund to redeem said bonds, which fund shall not be diverted or drawn upon for any other purpose, and the city treasurer shall honor no drafts on said fund except to pay the interest upon or to redeem the bonds for which it was provided. Said bonds shall be signed by the mayor and countersigned by the city clerk, and shall be payable at such place as may be fixed by ordinance of the city council. It shall be the duty of the mayor when such bonds are issued to forward the same to the Comptroller of State, whose duty it shall be to register them in a book kept for that purpose and to endorse on each bond registered his certificate of registration. The indebtedness provided for in this section shall not be limited or governed by the provisions or limitations contained in sections 28, 132, 132a or 132b of this charter.

The city council shall have full power and authority to raise, fill, grade, repair or otherwise improve any avenue, street, alley or sidewalk, or any portion thereof, in the corporate limits of said city, to such extent, and out of such material, and under such regulations, as said council may provide, whenever two-thirds of the aldermen elected vote in favor of such improvement: Provided, that except as hereinafter prescribed the owners of the property fronting or abutting on such avenue or street so improved shall pay two-thirds and the city one-third of the cost thereof, and the owners of property abutting on any alley or sidewalk so improved shall pay the entire cost of such improvement: And provided, also, that when any person, corporation or company owns or operates any street railway, or railway of any kind, on such avenue or street, such person, corporation or company shall pay one-third of the cost of filling, raising, paving, repairing, or otherwise improving that part of the said avenue or street so improved, and the owners of fronting or abutting property the other two-thirds; and the said city shall be relieved of its pro rata so paid by the owners or operators of such roads: And provided, also, that the city shall pay for all street intersections from lot to lot across the streets either way so improved, except when occupied or used by said railways, in which event one-third of the cost thereof must be paid as above provided by the owners or operators of said railways. Property owners shall pay the entire cost of all curbing. The cost of such improvement owing by property owners and the owners and operators of railways, together with the expense of collecting the same, shall be a special tax and lien against the lot or lots or blocks fronting or abutting upon the thoroughfares or ways improved, and against the road bed, ties, rails, fixtures, rights and franchises of such street or other railways that may be operated or located thereon; and they shall be due and payable by said property owners and the owners and operators of railways in five equal annual installments or less, at the option of such property owners and owners and operators of railways, all of which shall draw interest from the date of assessment until paid at the rate of six per cent per annum. The first installment shall be due and payable immediately after the completion of such improvement, and an installment equal thereto shall become due and payable annually thereafter until the entire amount is paid; and a failure to pay any one of the annual installments within sixty days after the same has become due shall cause all the unpaid installments to at once mature. All repairs and temporary improvements of avenue, streets and alleys shall be at the cost of the city; but the word "repairing," as here used, shall apply only to small or ordinary defects in avenues, streets or alleys that have been put to grade and paved or otherwise improved; and the city council are hereby authorized and required to set aside annually out of the general revenues of said city a sum equal to not less than one-twentieth of one per cent on the one hundred dollars valuation of all property within said city not exempt from taxation, which fund to be so set aside in the annual budget shall be used only for such repairs and temporary improvements. Permanent street improvements, within the meaning of this act, shall be only such as are constructed of blocks or granite, blue limestone, trap rock, thoroughly creosoted wood, thoroughly vitrified brick, or of Trinidad asphaltum, or other asphaltum equal to it in quality; but repairs to the same shall not be classed or paid for out of funds provided for such permanent improvement. The city council are hereby empowered and required to set aside in the annual budget a fund to an amount not exceeding one-fourth of one per cent on the one hundred dollars valuation of all property within said city subject to taxation, which shall be used exclusively for the payment of the city's share of the cost of such permanent improvements.

Section 128. The board of public works, before beginning any such improvement, shall, for the purpose of acquiring the most reliable information practicable of the probable cost thereof, cause an estimate to be made of said probable cost by the city engineer or by some other officer of the city, or by a committee of the board; and such officer or committee shall also report a full list of all fronting or abutting lots, with number and size of same and number of block in which situated, and the name of the owners thereof, and such other information as may be required by the city council; and if it be a street or avenue the improvement whereof is contemplated, and any person, corporation or company owns or operates a street railway or railway of any kind thereon, such officer or committee shall also report in said list the name of such person, corporation or company, and if there be any lot or fractional lot the owner whereof is not known the same shall be entered in said list as unknown; and said officer or committee shall enter in said list opposite each lot or fractional lot lying and being on each side of the street, avenue or alley the improvement whereof is contemplated, or if the improvement of a sidewalk is contemplated, then opposite each fronting or abutting lot or fractional lot, such portion or so much of the estimated cost or expense of such work or improvement on said avenue, street, alley or sidewalk as the owner of said lot or fractional lot is required under the provisions of section 127 of this charter to pay, and shall also enter into said list opposite the name of the person, corporation or company owning or operating such railway or railways such portion of the cost or expense of such work as is under section 127 chargeable to said owner or operator. Upon consideration of said report of said officer or committee the council, to whom the same shall be submitted, shall determine whether or not the said work or improvement shall be made, and shall proceed accordingly. When said work or improvement is ordered by the council and shall have been completed the board of public works shall cause an accurate report of the cost thereof to be made by said officer or committee to the city council. As part of said report said officer or committee shall present a list of the lots or fractional lots lying and being on each side of the street, avenue or alley so improved, or in case of a sidewalk then of the lots or fractional lots fronting or abutting thereon, and upon such lists of lots or fractional lots shall be entered opposite each lot or fractional lot such portion or so much of the actual cost and expense of such work or improvements on said avenue, street, alley or sidewalk abutting, fronting, adjoining or opposite such lot or fractional lot as the owner thereof is required under the provisions of section 127 of this charter to pay; and opposite the name of the person, corporation or company owning or operating the railway on the avenue or street or portions thereof so improved the cost and expense chargeable to said person, corporation or company under the provisions of section 127 of this charter; and upon the acceptance and approval of said report and list by the city council, said amount shall be imposed, levied and assessed by the said council on or against said lots or fractional lots, and on or against the road bed, ties, rails, fixtures, rights and franchises of said railways respectively, and shall be collected by the collector as herein provided, and shall be a lien upon the property until paid.

Section 129. That after such action on the part of the city council as above provided for the collector shall give notice of the first installment of said assessment being due, and within what time payable, and shall commence forthwith to collect the same and shall annually thereafter give thirty days notice and then proceed to collect the installments as they fall due. That after the expiration of the period for payment of said assessment or any installment thereof said officer shall levy on so much of any property on said list on which any installments have not been paid as will be sufficient to pay the same, and the same notice of sale as is required in sales for taxes shall be given. And if said assessment or unpaid installments are not paid before the day of sale, said officer shall sell said property in the manner and under the circumstances and to the extent and subject to the same conditions which are or may be provided by ordinance for the sale of real estate in the city of Galveston charged with, the payment of taxes imposed by said corporation; and said officer shall execute a deed to the purchaser at any such sale, and the provisions of this act in reference to the deed drawn by the collector for taxes shall apply to the deed provided for in this section. If suit is brought to recover said assessments or any installments thereof, and to foreclose the lien thereof, then an additional amount of ten per cent of and upon the principal and interest of the amount due shall be collected.

Section 132d. In addition to the power to issue one million two hundred and forty thousand dollars of bonds as provided for in section 132c of the present charter, the said city shall have the power to issue bonds to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars (\$200,000) of the denomination of one hundred dollars or any multiple thereof, payable forty years after the date of their issue, bearing interest at a rate of not to exceed five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and said bonds shall be sold at not less than par, and the net proceeds thereof shall be used exclusively for the cash payment by the city of that part of the cost of permanent street improvements owing by property and railway owners and operators, imposed, levied and assessed under and in accordance with section 127 and 128 of this charter. Said bonds or the proceeds thereof shall be used and expended only for paying the property and railway owners' and operators' share of the cost of permanent street improvements, for which assessments are levied and imposed under and in accordance with said sections 127 and 128, and whatever liens or other assets shall accrue to said city by the expenditure thereof shall also be a security for said bonds, and when said liens are satisfied and assets realized upon, the proceeds thereof shall also be for the benefit and security of said bonds; and the lien thereof shall follow and attach to any property improved by a reinvestment of the proceeds of such liens and assets, which, however, shall be used only as the bonds or proceeds thereof are used, viz.: for the payment of the property and railway owners' and operators' share of the cost of such improvements, it being the intention of this act that said bond shall not only be secured by the general credit of the city of Galveston, but also by an additional security consisting of whatever liens and assets the city may have from time to time as the result of such improvements, so that upon the maturity of said bonds all such liens and assets as are then outstanding shall, if required, be realized upon and applied to the satisfaction of said bond; and a fund shall be and is hereby provided to pay the interest and create a sinking fund to redeem said bonds, which fund is hereby fixed at not less than two and one-half per cent of the amount of the bonds outstanding, and an equivalent amount shall be set aside annually out of the collection of assessments or installments thereof, and shall not be diverted or drawn upon for any other purpose, and the city treasurer shall honor no drafts on said fund except to pay the interest or to redeem said bonds, or to provide for the safe investment of said sinking fund in any bonds of this city or of the United States or State government. In addition to the foregoing the said city shall also have power to issue bonds to the extent of one hundred thousand dollars (\$100,000) of the denomination of one hundred dollars (\$100) or any multiples thereof, payable forty years after the respective dates of their issue, and bearing interest payable semi-annually at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum; said bonds to be sold as needed for cash at not less than par, and the proceeds thereof to be used and expended as follows: In erecting a pumping station at or near the source of the fresh water supply; for the construction of a large storage tank in connection with the fresh water supply; for the extension of the water mains in the city of Galveston for said fresh water supply; all to be expended under the direction of the board of water commissioners of Galveston. In addition to the foregoing the said city shall also have power to issue bonds to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars of the denomination of one hundred dollars or any multiple thereof, payable twenty years after date of their issuance, with the privilege of paying the same at any time on or after ten years from such date, and bearing interest payable semi-annually at a rate not exceeding five per cent (5%) per annum, said two hundred thousand dollars of bonds to be sold for cash at not less than par, and the proceeds thereof to be used for the payment of the present existing floating general indebtedness of the city. In addition to the general taxation to provide for the payment of this issue of two hundred thousand dollars of bonds, sixty-six and two-thirds (66 $\frac{2}{3}$) of all collections from all back taxes past due January first, 1894, and still unpaid, shall be a special fund to be held and applied only to the payment of said two hundred thousand dollars of bonds until same are paid. In addition to the foregoing the said city shall also have the power to issue bonds to the amount of fifty thousand dollars (\$50,000) of the denomination of one hundred dollars (\$100) or any multiple thereof, payable forty years after date of their issuance, and bearing interest payable semi-annually at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum; said bonds to be sold for cash at not less than par, and the proceeds thereof to be used and expended in the erection and equipment of public school houses in said city under the direction and upon the requisition of its board of school trustees. A fund shall be provided from the general and municipal revenue of the city to pay the interest and create a sinking fund to redeem said bonds, which fund shall not be diverted or drawn upon for any other purpose, and the city treasurer shall honor no drafts upon said fund except to pay the interest upon or to redeem the bonds for which it was created. All of said bonds shall be signed by the mayor and countersigned by the city clerk, and shall be payable at such place as may be fixed by ordinance of the city council. It shall be the duty of the mayor when such bonds are issued to forward the same to the Comptroller of State, whose duty it shall be to register them in a book kept for the purpose and to endorse on each bond registered his certificate of registration. The indebtedness provided for in this section shall not be limited or governed by the provisions or limitations contained in sections 28, 132, 132a or 132b of this charter.

Sec. 2. The fact that the next election of officers and aldermen of the city of Galveston takes place before the expiration of the ninety (90) days after the adjournment of this Legislature, at which time according to the Constitution this act would take effect, creates an emergency and public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Whereas, the people of Corpus Christi obtain their water supply from the Nueces river; and

Sec. 2. Whereas, the water at times becomes salt and unfit for use because of the inflow of water from the bay into which the river empties; therefore,

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature and the fact that said dam may be needed at almost any time, creates an urgent public necessity and emergency which authorizes the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and the same is hereby suspended, and this law be and is hereby declared to be in effect from and after its passage.

The taxes assessed in such supplemental rolls for years previous to the approval of such rolls shall be due at once upon the approval of such rolls by the city council, and such taxes shall bear interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from the date on which the same would have been delinquent if levied and assessed at the time other taxes for such previous year were levied and assessed, and if the same shall not be paid by the expiration of thirty days after the date of such approval, the city collector shall proceed to collect the same by the advertisement and sale of such property as soon as practicable. Such advertisement and sale to be made in the same manner and for the same time as in cases of the sale of such property for other city ad valorem taxes as prescribed by the city charter: Provided, that a misnomer of or failure to name the owner in the assessment rolls shall not affect the validity of the assessment of any taxes: And provided, further, that where such taxes have not been attempted to be assessed for such previous year, such taxes shall bear interest only from the date of the approval of such supplemental rolls.

Section 144. No demand for taxes shall be necessary, but it is hereby made the duty of every person or corporation subject to taxation to attend at the office of the collector some time between the second Monday in June and November the first in each year and pay his or her taxes. Section 148. The collector shall, where any real estate has been sold for taxes, make and execute a deed to the purchaser of the property sold, which deed shall be prima facie evidence of the following facts:

Third. That the real estate therein conveyed was advertised according to law.

Fourth. That the property conveyed was regularly and lawfully sold for taxes which were delinquent at the time of the advertisement and sale.

Fifth. When such property shall have been sold to the city of Dallas at such sale, either for general or special taxes, the title acquired by the city shall not be disputed by any person whomsoever, or for any cause whatever, except upon tender to said city of the taxes lawfully due on such property for which such sale was made, together with lawful interest thereon and all accrued penalties and costs, as provided by the city charter of the city of Dallas.

Section 154a. If the city council deem expedient it may by resolution duly passed at the time of ordering street improvements of the character mentioned in section 154 of this charter, provide for the payment of such portion of said improvements as are provided in said section to be paid for by the owners of abutting property and street and other railroads in any number of equal annual installments not exceeding ten. Such resolution shall state the number of installments in which such cost shall be paid, and when the city council shall determine that such cost shall be so paid in installments the advertisement for bids for making the improvement shall state that such cost is to be so paid, and the number of installments in which such payments are divided; and upon the final completion of the work and improvements done under one contract, and the acceptance thereof by the city council, said council shall issue to the contractors for such work certificates showing the amounts due upon each lot or subdivision of land abutting on the street so improved, and the date when such certificate shall become due, and the date of the approval or final passage of the ordinance assessing special taxes for payment of such improvement, and that such certificate is secured by a lien on such lot or subdivision of land, and such certificate shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding eight per cent per annum from the date of their issuance, said interest being payable annually; and the holder of any such certificates shall have a lien on the lots or subdivisions of lands therein mentioned to secure the payment thereof; and if such certificate is not paid when due the entire series of such certificates due for the tax on such respective lot or subdivision of land shall at once become due and payable, and the city collector shall proceed upon the request of the holder of any one of such series of certificates to advertise and sell such lots or subdivisions of land, and the proceeds of such sale, after deducting the cost of advertisement and sale, shall be divided pro rata among the holders of the series of certificates secured by a tax on such respective lot or subdivision of land according to the amount due on each respective certificate, and the remainder thereof, if any, shall be paid to the owner of such land. The ordinance levying such taxes shall specify the number of payments into which such tax is divided, and that the first of such installments shall become due immediately upon the passage of such ordinance and delinquent thirty days thereafter, and each subsequent installment thereof shall become due annually after the passage of such ordinance on the same month and day in each respective year after the passage of such ordinance that such ordinance was passed until all of such installments shall become due, and that if any such installment or the interest thereon shall not be paid when due, the entire series of installments secured by a lien on the respective lot or subdivision of land the installment or interest upon which shall be in default shall at once become due and delinquent. If, however, the city collector shall not at once proceed to collect such special taxes by advertisement and sale as herein provided, the interest on such certificates shall continue to run at the same rate until the payment thereof or the sale of such property, notwithstanding such default: Provided, that the owner of any property so assessed may pay such certificate issued for such assessment at any time after the levy of such special tax, paying only in addition to the principal such interest as shall have accrued at the date of such payment.

Section 154b. The city of Dallas shall not in any event bind itself or become bound to pay any portion of the cost of any street improvement, except as provided in section 154 and section 154a of this charter; but the city council shall pass all lawful ordinances necessary for the levy and collection of a special tax or special taxes to pay the same; and in case of its refusal, any person injured thereby shall be entitled to compel the passage of such ordinance by legal proceedings. In case of the sale of any land or real estate for the payment of special taxes of any character, the owner of such property, or his agent or attorney, shall have the right to redeem the same at any time within two years next after the date of such sale by paying to the purchaser at such sale, or his heirs, assigns or legal representatives, as the case may be, the amount paid by such purchaser, with interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from the date of said sale; or in case the same is bid in by said city, by paying the full amount of such special tax, together with all lawful interest thereon, and two dollars and fifty cents for the cost of advertising and making such sale. At the expiration of said period of two years from the date of said sale, the title to such property shall become absolute in the purchaser, unless the same shall have been redeemed as herein provided.

Section 154c. No injunction shall ever be granted by any court to restrain or enjoin the collection of any special tax levied by the city council for any purpose whatever, except upon the payment by the party seeking such injunction of the full amount of such special tax justly and legally due; and if the court shall find that such tax was irregularly levied or assessed, or that the same is excessive, or was levied or assessed in an improper manner, the court shall have power to correct such irregularity, and to reduce the amount of such levy to conform to the requirements of justice in the case, and to require the payment of such corrected amount as a condition precedent to the issuance of such injunction.

Section 156. The city council shall fix and determine the nature and extent of sidewalk improvements, and decide as to the kind of material to be used. The cost of constructing all sidewalks, including curbing and guttering and the keeping the same in repair, together with the cost of collection, but not including the grading, shall be defrayed entirely by the property owners of the lots or blocks fronting on the sidewalks to be constructed, according to the number of feet frontage owned by each. Whenever the city council, by resolution or otherwise, orders the construction of any sidewalk, it shall specify the kind of sidewalk required to be constructed, and the width of same to be so constructed, and thereupon the city engineer shall issue a notice which shall be served upon the owner of such property if in the city, or if such owner shall be out of the city such notice shall be published in some newspaper published in the city of Dallas five consecutive days. Such notice shall state the place where such sidewalk is required to be constructed, the kind of sidewalk required to be constructed, and the width thereof, and the length of time, which shall not be more than thirty days from the date of the service of such notice, within which such sidewalk is required to be constructed, and that such property owner must proceed to construct the same or appear before the city council at a regular meeting thereof, giving the date of such meeting, and show cause why the same should not be constructed; and if such property owners shall not construct the same within the time required by the city council in the order or resolution of the city council requiring the same to be constructed, or shall not be excused from constructing the same by the city council, the city council shall advertise for bids for the construction of such sidewalk and shall let a contract therefor to the lowest responsible bidder, in the discretion of the council; such contract may be for any length or amount of sidewalk. As soon as practicable after the letting of such contract the city engineer shall furnish the city council a statement showing the names of the owners of the property abutting on the sidewalks so constructed, if known, if not known shall so state, and a description of the property owned by such owners and the cost of the sidewalk immediately in front of the property so improved, and such cost shall be levied and assessed by the city council by ordinance against the property according to such statement of the city engineer, and said tax shall be a lien against such property from the date of the letting of such contract. Such ordinance shall state the amount of such tax against such respective lots or subdivisions of land and the time when the same shall become due and delinquent; and if the same shall not be paid when due, the city collector shall proceed, as soon as practicable, to advertise and sell such property for the payment of such taxes as provided in cases of sale of such property for ad valorem taxes: Provided, that it shall not be necessary that such sale shall take place at the same time as sales of property for ad valorem taxes.

Section 158. The city council shall have the power to appropriate private property for public purposes, whenever the city council of said city shall deem it necessary to take any private property, either within or without the city limits, for any of the following purposes, to-wit: In order to open, extend, change or widen any public street, avenue or alley, or for the construction of water mains or sewers, either within or without the city limits, or for the improvement and enlargement of its waterworks, including riparian rights, watersheds, reservoirs, etc., public schools, parks, squares and pleasure grounds, public wharves and landing places for steamers and other crafts, or for the straightening or improving the channel of any stream, branch or drain, such property may be taken for such purposes by making just compensation to the owner thereof. If the amount of such compensation shall not be agreed upon, it shall be the duty of the city council to cause to be stated in writing the real estate or property sought to be taken, the name of the owner thereof, and his residence, if known, and the purpose for which said property is sought to be taken, and file such statement with the county judge of Dallas county. Upon the filing of such statement it shall be the duty of such judge, in term time or vacation, to appoint three disinterested freeholders and qualified voters of the county of Dallas as special commissioners to assess the damages to accrue to the owner by reason of such condemnation. The commissioners so appointed shall in their proceedings be governed and controlled by the State laws in force in reference to the condemnation of the right of way for railroad companies, and the assessment of damages therefor, the city of Dallas occupying the position of the railroad company. And all laws in reference to the applications for the condemnation of right of way of railroad companies, including the measure of damages, the right of appeal and the like, shall apply to an application by the city of Dallas under this charter for condemnation of property for the aforesaid purposes, the city of Dallas to occupy the position of the railroad company. In estimating the damages to such property the jury shall not only estimate the value of the land so taken, but they shall also estimate the damage done to the remainder of any land from which it is taken by reason of such taking and use.

Section 158a. Provided, however, that in case of the condemnation of land for the opening, extending or widening of any street, or for straightening or improving the channel of any stream, branch or drain within the corporate limits of said city, the council may, by ordinance, provide that the cost of such property shall be paid for by the property owners owning property in the immediate vicinity thereof and benefited thereby. In such cases the city engineer shall, under the direction of the board of commissioners appointed, make a plat of the property which, in the judgment of said commissioners, will be specially benefited and enhanced in value by the making of such improvement, whereupon such commissioners shall issue notices to the owners of such property to appear before them at a time and place to be designated in such notices, to show cause, if any they have, why such property should not be assessed to pay the cost of the property so condemned; such notices may be served by any police officer in the city of Dallas, or any other officer of the State of Texas or county of Dallas authorized by the laws of said State to serve process of the courts of said State; such notices shall be served upon the owners of such property where such owners shall be found in the city or county of Dallas; and in all cases where such owner or owners or any of them are absent from said city and county, upon the agent of said absent owner, if such owner shall have an agent in said city or county, and in case such absent owner shall not have such agent, or in case the owner of such property is unknown, then such notice shall be published for two days consecutively in some daily newspaper published in the city of Dallas; such notice shall be given five full days before the final determination by the board of commissioners of the amount of assessment against the owner of such property for such improvement; said commissioners shall determine the value of the property desired to be taken belonging to the different owners thereof, if there be more than one such owner, and if there be only one such owner the value of the same, and shall also find how much of the cost thereof shall be assessed against the owner of each lot or subdivision of land in the immediate vicinity thereof specially benefited and enhanced in value by the making of such improvement, and shall report all said matters to the city council of the city of Dallas, showing a description of the property taken and condemned and the name of the owner thereof, if known, and if the owner of any such property is unknown shall state said fact, or if there be more than one owner of such property, then the description of the property of each such owner, if known, and if unknown shall state such fact, and the value of the property of each such owner so condemned, and also the description and name of the owner of each lot or subdivision of property, if known, and if unknown shall so state, describing such property so as to identify it, against which special assessment should, in the judgment of said board, be made to pay for such property condemned, such apportionment to be made according to the benefits that will, in the judgment of said board of commissioners be received by or accrue to such lot or subdivision of property by reason of the making of such improvements. Such report shall be signed by said board of commissioners, or a majority of them, and shall be filed with the city secretary for the consideration of the city council. The city council shall, as soon as practicable after the filing of such report, consider the same, and if the same is approved by a majority vote of the members present at the meeting at which it considers the same, the same shall be final and binding upon the city and all parties at interest therein. If the city council shall approve said report it shall levy a special tax against the property shown by said report to be benefited and enhanced in value by such improvement, according to the recommendation made in such report; such taxes shall be a lien on the property against which the same shall be assessed from the date of such levy; shall become due and delinquent at the times provided in the ordinance levying the same, and if not paid as provided in such ordinance, the city collector shall proceed to collect the same as provided in the ordinance levying the same, by the advertisement and sale as provided in the city charter in cases of the sale of such property for delinquent ad valorem taxes: Provided, that it shall not be necessary to make such sales at the same time as provided for in the sale of property for delinquent ad valorem taxes. The board of commissioners appointed under the provisions of this section shall have the same power to issue writs and subpoenas and compel the attendance of witnesses, etc., as commissioners appointed for the condemnation of land, etc., for the right of way for railroads under the general laws of the State of Texas have, shall receive the same compensation for their services, and shall be governed in all respects not herein otherwise provided by said general laws in all matters relating to their procedure. The compensation for the land and property taken or damaged under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the owner of such property so taken or damaged, or secured by a deposit set apart in money in the hands of the city treasurer subject to the order of such owner, before such property is taken or damaged: Provided, the city may make such payments out of the general fund if the council shall deem it advisable, and when the amounts assessed against the property specially benefited as herein provided are collected, may repay to said general fund the amount so advanced, and such payments shall not be a waiver of the city's right to make such collection.

Section 159. The city council shall have power to require the filling up, draining and regulating of any lot or lots, grounds or yards, or other places in the city which shall be unwholesome, or have stagnant water or filth of any kind therein, or growing of wild weeds, or from any other cause be in such a condition as is liable to produce disease or increase the danger to property from fire; also to cause all premises to be inspected and cleansed; also require the making, filling up, altering and repairing of all sinks and privies, and direct the mode and material for constructing them in the future. And said council shall have full power by ordinance to provide for the punishment of all persons failing or refusing to do any of such things, or permitting the premises occupied by them to be in a filthy and unhealthful state. When the city council shall determine that any lot, premises or subdivision of land is in such condition as to render it unhealthful or productive of disease, or liable to cause or spread fire, it shall instruct the city engineer to notify the owner thereof, by written notice, to make such improvements, repairs or alterations or do such cleaning as the council deem necessary and order to be made or done in order to abate such nuisance and render such property cleanly and healthful, and the city engineer or assistant shall, where such owner is known to him and resides in the city of Dallas, and shall not be absent from the city, serve such notice upon such owner; such notice shall state the property to be cleansed or improved and what work or improvement is required to be done upon the same. Where the owner of such property is unknown to the city engineer, and where such owner if known shall be absent from the city of Dallas, or cannot be found after reasonable search, such notice shall be published in some daily newspaper published in the city of Dallas for two consecutive days, and if the owner of such property shall not within fifteen days after the service or publication of such notice perform the requirements of the city council, the council may have such improvements made at the cost of the city, and tax the cost of the same up against the property so improved as a special tax. Such improvement may be made in any manner provided for by the city council. When such work is completed the city engineer shall report in writing to the council the cost of such work and improvement, a description of the property upon which the same was made, so as to identify it, the name of the owner of such property where known to him, and where unknown shall so state. Where the city council shall approve such report or adopt the same, it shall by ordinance levy and assess a special tax against the property upon which such improvement is made, and said tax shall be a lien against such property from the date of the making of such improvement. Said tax shall become due and delinquent as provided in the ordinance levying the same, and if the same shall not be paid within the time provided in such ordinance the city collector shall proceed to collect the same by the advertisement and sale of such property, as provided in the city charter for the sale of real estate for the payment of delinquent ad valorem taxes: Provided, it shall not be necessary to sell the same at the same time as provided in such cases.

Section 159a. The city council shall have the power to provide for the sprinkling of streets and to require the owners of property abutting on the portion of street so sprinkled to pay the cost thereof. Whenever the council shall order, by resolution or otherwise, that any street or portion of street shall be sprinkled, its action designating between what points such street shall be so sprinkled shall be entered on the minutes of the city council, after which the council shall cause bids to be advertised for for sprinkling such street or portion of street for such length of time as the council may determine; such advertisement shall be made in such manner and for such time as the city council may provide; it shall state the street to be sprinkled and the part thereof to be sprinkled, the number of times daily, and the kind of weather during which such sprinkling shall be done. After such advertisement a contract shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, in the discretion of the city council, and the contractor shall give such bond for the faithful performance of the contract as the council may require. Upon the completion of the performance of such contract the city engineer shall report to the city council a list of the property abutting on the portion of street so sprinkled, giving a description of the lots and parcels or sub-divisions of such land, stating the name of the owner thereof, where known, and where such owner is unknown, stating said fact, and showing the amount of such cost due from the owner of each such lot, parcel or sub-division of land apportioned according to the number of front or abutting feet of such property abutting on the portion of street so sprinkled; said cost to be prorated against such property according to such frontage: Provided, that the city shall pay the cost of the sprinkling of all street intersections so sprinkled. Upon the approval of such report by the city council, said council shall by ordinance levy a special tax against said property according to the terms of said report, and such tax shall be a lien on such property from the date of the signing of the contract for such sprinkling. Said ordinance shall provide when such tax shall become due and delinquent, and if the same shall not be paid as stated in such ordinance, the same shall be collected by the city collector by the advertisement and sale of such property, as provided in the city charter in cases of the sale of real estate for the payment of delinquent ad valorem taxes: Provided, that it shall not be necessary to sell such property at the same time as is provided for the sale of property for delinquent ad valorem taxes: Provided, further, that the city of Dallas shall in every event become liable and bound to pay on the first day of each and every month for all of the cost of such street sprinkling so contracted for, and at street intersections and where the city shall own property abutting on the portion of the street so sprinkled: And provided, further, that the city shall collect such taxes and reimburse the city for such money paid out on street sprinkling contracts, and shall pass such legal ordinances for the enforcement of such taxes may be necessary, and that the city may become a purchaser at any sale or sales for such taxes: Provided, further, that no street shall be sprinkled as provided for in this act except upon a petition of a majority of the property owners on said street within the boundaries to be sprinkled.

Section 161. That the city public schools shall be under the management and control of a board of school directors, composed of the mayor and one member from each ward, which said members, with the exception of the mayor, shall be elected at the general elections of the city, and shall hold their office for the term of two years, and serve without compensation: Provided, that this section shall in no way interfere with the term of office of any of the present members of said board, except the members from such wards as may be changed or established prior to the next general election: And provided, that the member of said board who shall be elected from such wards as may be changed or established prior to said election shall, in such manner as said board may determine, as soon after said election as practicable, divide themselves into two classes, one of which said classes shall serve for one and the other for two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The members of said board elected at each annual election shall qualify and enter upon their duties as such members on the first Monday in July next after such election, or as soon thereafter as practicable. Any vacancy on said board shall be filled in conformity with the ordinance regulating special elections. Said board of school directors shall have exclusive control of the public schools of the city of Dallas, and shall have full and ample power to provide necessary school buildings and facilities, and to open and conduct a sufficient number of schools to meet the wants of the scholastic population of the city of Dallas, so far as they can do so by prudent and judicious application of the means made subject to their administration and management. Among the powers hereby conferred on said board of school directors the following are for greater certainty enumerated: To contract for, lease and purchase lots, and to construct buildings for school purposes, and to make all needed repairs and alterations in the same; to furnish said school buildings with all appropriate furniture, fixtures and apparatus; to lay off the city in such school districts as in the judgment of said board shall be proper; to increase or diminish said districts, and to change the boundaries thereof at pleasure; to employ superintendents, teachers, and such other persons as may be necessary and to fix their compensation and prescribe their duties, and establish all regulations and rules deemed necessary by the board to provide and maintain an efficient system of public schools in the city of Dallas. Said board of school directors shall annually, at such time as may be fixed by the city council, file with the mayor and city council of an official statement of the amount of money, or as nearly as can be estimated by said board, which will be needed to pay the cost of maintaining the public schools for the next succeeding scholastic year, exclusive of money, if any, derivable from the State or any other source: Provided, the amount required by said board shall not in any one year exceed one-fourth of one per cent of the taxable values of the city of Dallas. When said statement shall be filed by said board the city council shall, in such sums and at such times as the school board may determine are necessary to meet the requirements of said board for defraying the expenses incurred, appropriate out of the funds of the city, as far as collected, the amount required by said board for school purposes, which said sums, together with all sums received from the State, county, and other school funds, shall be held in the city treasury, subject to the order and disbursement of the school board, and shall be paid out upon warrants issued by order of the school board, and signed by the president, attested by the secretary and countersigned by the mayor. The mayor and city council shall have the right at any time to demand of said school board an account of all sums received, disbursed and expended by them for school purposes, accompanied by vouchers, data and information deemed necessary to enable the city council to ascertain the cost, necessities and expense of said public schools.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the city election of the city of Dallas and the necessity of amending the present municipal law of said city, creates a public necessity and an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Sec. 2. That the city limits of the said city of Sherman shall hereafter be and remain the same as exist at the time of the enactment of this law, and described in the following boundary lines: Beginning at a point 1760 yards due south of the center of the court house square; thence due east 1760 yards; thence due north 3520 yards; thence due west 3520 yards; thence due south 3520 yards; thence due east 1760 yards to the place of beginning.

The wards of said city and their boundaries shall be and remain the same as exist at the time of the enactment of this law: Provided, that the city council shall by a vote of the majority of all the aldermen elected have the power from time to time to divide the said city into as many wards as they may deem expedient, either enlarging or reducing the number of wards, and may prescribe and change the boundaries thereof; and to this end the city council, where it becomes necessary, shall have the power by a vote of two-thirds of all aldermen elected to vacate the office of any alderman of said city by ordinance duly passed by said council, but no such division or change shall be made unless it be done at least six months preceding the general city election next ensuing, at which election the aldermen to be elected under such division or change shall be elected, and such wards so established shall contain as far as practicable an equal number of voters.

Article II.—Officers and Their Elections.

Sec. 4. The municipal government of said city shall consist of the city council, composed of the mayor and ten aldermen, the aldermen to represent the city at large or apportioned to wards as the city council may ordain. A majority of the aldermen shall constitute a quorum of the council for the transaction of business, except at call meetings, or meetings for the imposition of taxes, when two-thirds of the aldermen shall be required. A two-thirds vote of all the aldermen elected shall be required in the levy of all taxes and issuance of bonds in said city.

Sec. 5. The other officers of said corporation shall be a treasurer, an assessor and collector, a secretary, a city attorney, a chief of police, and such other officers and agents as the city may from time to time establish.

Sec. 6. The mayor, aldermen, and all the officers named in the last preceding section shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city, as hereinafter provided, and shall hold their respective offices for two years, and until the election and qualification of their successors.

Sec. 7. An annual election shall be held in each of the wards of said city on the first Tuesday in April, A. D. 1896, and annually thereafter at such places as the city council may designate.

Sec. 8. Said election shall be ordered by the city council, and when same shall be so ordered the council shall cause to be given twenty days notice thereof in one or more newspapers published in said city, which notice shall state the officer or officers to be elected, the place where said election will be held, and the names of the various presiding officers of election. Should the council for any reason fail to order an election or give notice thereof, the mayor shall make such order or give such notice.

Sec. 9. At the first regular meeting in May each year, or earlier, the council shall designate some suitable place in each ward at which during the ensuing year all elections shall be held; and if the council shall neglect or refuse to designate such places, or any of them, or if from any cause the places so designated, or any of them, can not be procured for the purposes herein before specified, then the mayor may at any time before the next ensuing election designate such places and shall at the same time appoint some suitable person in each ward to serve as presiding officer of election in said wards: Provided, that no person shall be appointed presiding officer who is not a qualified voter of the ward for which he is appointed. As soon as practicable after the appointment of presiding officers the city secretary shall notify each person so appointed of the fact. In case a person appointed presiding officer of elections fails to attend on the day of election, or fails or refuses to act, or in case no presiding officer has been appointed, it shall be lawful for the voters of the ward present on that day to select from among their number a presiding officer to act as such at the election, and the person so elected shall have the same power and authority as if he had been appointed by the council; but in this case the managers of the election shall in their returns certify that the presiding officer was appointed from and by the voters at the ward voting place on the day of such election because there was no regular presiding officer in attendance, or because the regular presiding officer failed or refused to act, as the case may be.

Sec. 10. The presiding officer of each ward shall on or before the day of election select from among the qualified voters of the ward three judges and four clerks, such selection to be made from different political parties if demanded, as nearly equal as practicable, and there be present a sufficient number of the party making the demand who are willing and competent to serve in said positions; and said judges and clerks, together with the presiding officer shall be the managers of the election. Managers of election shall receive for each day of twelve hours, or fraction thereof, while engaged in their official duties, such compensation as the city council shall fix.

Sec. 11. tioned among the wards, or elected at large, as the council may provide, there shall be elected by the qualified voters of said city one alderman from each ward, who shall hold his office for two years, and until his successor is elected and qualified. The aldermen to be chosen at said first election shall be to fill the places of those whose successors under the existing order of things are to be chosen, and those officers to be subsequently elected shall be to fill the places as they would have to be filled had not this law passed.

Sec. 12. At all elections held under this law the ballots of each ward shall be taken separately, the polls to be opened for one day only, from eight o'clock a. m. till six o'clock p. m.. Should the polls not be opened promptly at eight o'clock the time shall be extended beyond the hour of six, so as to secure the full period of nine hours for voting purposes, and one hour for noon recess. The managers of the election shall count and cast up the votes for each candidate in accordance with the State laws, and sign and certify to the returns in duplicate, one of which shall be sealed up and retained by the presiding officer for use by the council or by the courts of the country in any legal investigation of the election; the other copy shall be sealed up, with the name of the presiding officer written across the seal, and shall be by one of the managers of the election delivered in open session to the council the next day, or as soon thereafter as practicable. The officer so delivering the same shall make oath before the mayor or one of the aldermen that the returns delivered by him have not been altered or opened since being sealed and signed by him as aforesaid. As received the city council shall immediately open the returns from each ward and estimate the result, causing same to be recorded in tabular form in the minutes of the council. Persons receiving the highest number of votes for the various offices shall be declared elected to the office for which they were respectively voted. The newly elected officers may enter on their duties on the fifth day after election, Sundays excepted: Provided, that any officer elect shall qualify at any time within thirty days, otherwise the office shall be deemed vacant. It shall be the duty of the city secretary to notify all persons elected or appointed to office of their election or appointment, and the city council elect shall convene at the usual place of meeting on the fifth day, Sundays excepted, after their election, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and be installed under the provisions of this law.

Sec. 13. Every person registered as herein after provided and entitled to vote for members of the Legislature of the State, who shall have resided within the limits of the city for six months and in the ward in which he offers to vote for ten days next preceding any city election shall be entitled to vote at such election.

Sec. 14. The managers of elections shall be sworn well and truly to conduct the elections without partiality or prejudice, agreeably to the law and according to the best of their skill and understanding. The oath shall be administered by the presiding officer to the judges and clerks, and one of the judges after being sworn shall administer the same oath to the presiding officer.

SAN ANTONIO—CITY CHARTER.

CHAP. 7.—[S. B. No. 300.] An act to amend sections 43 and 203 of an act incorporating the city of San Antonio, approved August 13, 1870, and of the acts amendatory thereof, passed by the Twenty-second Legislature, being chapter 24 of said acts, and to add sections 203a and 203b thereto.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas as follows: That sections 43 and 203 of an act incorporating the city of San Antonio, approved August 13, 1870, and of the acts amendatory thereof, passed by the Twenty-second Legislature, be and the same are hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 43. To borrow money on the credit of the city and issue bonds therefor for permanent public improvements to an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars for and during any one year, commencing June first, 1895; and every proposition to borrow money as aforesaid shall be submitted to the qualified tax paying voters of the city, and shall distinctly specify the purposes for which the loan is desired and the permanent public improvement to be constructed, and if said proposition be sustained by a majority of said votes cast, such loan shall be lawful. All bonds shall specify for what purpose they were issued, and when sold shall net the city not less than their par value with accrued interest to date of payment of proceeds into the city treasury; and the bonds shall be negotiated in lots as the city council may determine and direct: Provided, that no debts shall be contracted for the payment whereof such bonds or lot thereof are issued until such bonds or lot of bonds shall have been disposed of and the proceeds thereof paid into the city treasury; and no debt shall ever be created by said city unless at the same time provision be made to assess and collect annually a sufficient sum to pay the interest thereon and create a sinking fund of at least two per cent thereon; which fund shall not be diverted or drawn for any other purpose; and the city treasurer shall honor no draft drawn on said fund except to pay the interest, or to redeem the bonds for which it was provided: Provided, the rate of tax shall not exceed one-half of one per cent, and the rate of interest paid shall not exceed six per cent: Provided, also, no loan shall be made for any other purpose or purposes than those connected with the corporation of said city; and no loan shall be made to aid any private enterprise, railroad, or undertaking not under the management or control of the city council: Provided, further, that the sinking fund for the redemption of any loan or debt shall be invested, as fast as the same accumulates, in United States interest bearing bonds, bonds of the State of Texas, or in bonds of said city, and the interest of such bonds shall be reinvested, and such bonds shall be sold when necessary to pay the interest or principal of the bonds issued under the provisions of this section.

Section 203. Whenever in the opinion of the city council it shall become necessary or proper to appropriate private property for the use of the city for streets, alleys, avenues, boulevards, parks, public squares, plazas, sewers, gas works, water works, market houses, school houses, or other public purposes authorized by law, such property may be condemned for such use in the following manner: The city council shall declare by ordinance the necessity or propriety of such appropriation, describing the property sought to be appropriated, and stating the name and residence of the owner, if known, and if unknown, stating that fact, and shall file or cause to be filed with the city clerk a plat of the property proposed to be condemned. The damages to accrue to the owner of such property by reason of such condemnation shall be assessed by three commissioners, who shall be disinterested freeholders of the city, one to be selected by the owner of the property, one to be selected by the mayor, and the third to be selected by the two thus appointed. The city clerk shall issue to such owner a notice calling upon him to appoint the commissioner to be selected by him, and such notice shall be accompanied by a copy of such ordinance and a copy of this section of the charter, which notice and copies shall be delivered to such owner by the city marshal. If such owner shall fail to appoint the commissioner to be selected by him, giving the name of such appointee to the city clerk within ten days after the service of such notice and copies upon him, the mayor shall appoint such commissioner. If the two commissioners so appointed can not agree upon the selection of the third, then the county judge of Bexar county shall, upon application of the mayor, appoint such commissioner. Such commissioners, or any two of them, after being duly sworn to perform the duties of their appointment with fidelity and impartiality, shall fix a time and place for the hearing of the parties upon the matter of such assessment, and shall give not less than ten days notice to both parties of such time and place, which notice may be served by any disinterested person capable of making oath to his return, who shall make his return under oath. When the property sought to be condemned is the property of the estate of a deceased person or of a minor, or a person of unsound mind, and such estate has a legal representative, or such minor or person of unsound mind has a guardian, the notice and copies hereinbefore provided for shall be served upon such legal representative or guardian, who shall make the appointment hereinbefore required to be made by the owner and within the time hereinbefore prescribed; otherwise the same shall be made by the mayor. When the property sought to be condemned is the property of a non-resident of this State, such owner shall have twenty days after service of notice and copies in which to appoint the commissioner to be selected by him, and twenty days' notice of the hearing before the commissioners after service of notice thereof. At the time and place appointed for such hearing, or at any other time and place to which the hearing may be adjourned, the said commissioners or any two of them shall proceed to hear evidence and assess the damages to accrue to the owner of the property by reason of its condemnation. For such purpose the said commissioners shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of testimony and to administer oaths and punish for contempt as fully and in the same manner as is provided by law for the district and county courts. A report of such assessment, signed by the commissioners making the same, shall be filed by them with the city clerk. The city council shall by ordinance accept or reject such report. If such report be accepted by the city council, the damages so assessed shall be paid to the owner of the property or his legal representative or guardian, as the case may be, or deposited with the city treasurer, subject to the order of such owner, legal representative or guardian, after which such property may at any time be taken for the use of the city. If the report be rejected by the city council, proceedings may be taken anew to assess the damages. If no report be made within thirty days after the appointment of the commissioners, proceedings may be taken anew to assess the damages.

Sec. 2. That the following sections be and the same are hereby added to the said act of incorporation, and all acts amendatory thereof:

Section 203a. The method of condemning private property for the use of the city, prescribed in section 203 of its charter, as amended by this act, shall not be exclusive: and private property may also be condemned for the uses of the city for the purposes expressed in said section, by the same proceedings and under the same rules, so far as applicable, as are now provided by the general laws of this State for the condemnation of private property for the use of railroad corporations, or in any other manner or by any other proceedings authorized by the general law of this State for the condemnation of private property for public use.

Section 203b. Said city is hereby authorized to acquire by purchase, gift, devise or condemnation, any private property or any interest therein, whether such property be situated within or without the corporation limits of said city, which may be necessary or proper for the establishment and maintenance of an efficient system of sewers for said city. Said city is hereby given the right to lay, construct and maintain its sewers in, under, and across or along any public street, highway or public grounds within or without the corporation limits of said city; Provided, that due regard shall be had for franchise rights and vested rights in, upon and along said streets, highways and public grounds.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, and the importance of the immediate operation of the provisions of this act create an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring all bills to be read on three several days; and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Section 102. The assessor and collector shall by virtue of his tax rolls have power and authority to seize and levy upon personal property and real estate, and sell the same to satisfy delinquent taxes. When he seizes personal property for such purposes he shall keep the same at the expense of the owner until sale is made, and shall give notice of the time and place of sale of same by posting a written notice upon the bulletin board at the city hall and one at the court house in the city of Fort Worth at least ten days before the day of sale. He shall sell the same to the highest bidder for cash for all taxes, interests, costs and expenses in caring for said property and shall make an entry in the book of sales of the amount realized: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to any personal property which is now exempt under the laws of the State of Texas.

Section 103. The assessor and collector shall, where any real estate has been sold for the payment of taxes, make, execute and deliver a deed for said property to the person purchasing the same, and such deed shall be prima facie evidence in all controversies and suits in relation to the right of the purchaser, his heirs and assigns, to the premises thereby conveyed of the following facts:

1. That the land or lots or portions thereof conveyed was subject to taxation or assessment at the time the same was advertised for sale, and had been listed or assessed in the time or manner required by law.

2. That the taxes or assessments were not paid at any time before the sale.

3. That the land, lot or portion thereof conveyed had not been redeemed from the sale at the date of the deed.

And said deed shall be conclusive evidence of the following facts:

1. That the land, lot or portions thereof sold were advertised for sale in the manner and for the length of time required by law.

2. That the property was sold for taxes or assessment as stated in the deed.

3. That the grantee in the deed was the purchaser.

4. That the sale was conducted in the manner prescribed by law; and in all controversies and suits involving the title to the land claimed and held under and by virtue of such deed the person claiming title adverse to the title conveyed by such deed shall be required to prove, in order to defeat said title, either that the land was not subject to taxation at the date of the sale; that the taxes or assessment had been paid before the sale; that the land had never been listed or assessed for taxation and assessment as required by this charter, or some ordinance of the city, or that the same had been redeemed according to the provisions of this charter, and that such redemption was made for the use and benefit of the person having the right of redemption under the law; but no person shall be permitted to question the title acquired by said deed without first showing that he or the person under whom he claims title had title to the land at the time of the sale, or that the title was obtained after the sale, and that all taxes due upon the lands have been paid by such person or the person under whom he claims title as aforesaid.

Section 105. A board of equalization for the city of Fort Worth, to be composed of three freeholders, shall be appointed as follows: One by the county judge of Tarrant county, one by the mayor of said city, and one by a majority of the city council of said city, all of whom shall be appointed in January, or as vacancies may occur, and who shall hold their offices for two years, except the first board under this act, which shall be appointed as soon as this act goes into effect, and not later than the first day of August, 1895, and shall hold their offices until their successors shall qualify.

Section 105a. The duties and powers of the board of equalization shall be the same as prescribed in the general laws for boards of equalization for cities and towns; said general law to be in all things applicable to said board, excepting in the manner of their appointment and excepting also in the matter of the right of appeal from the final action of said board to the district court as hereinafter provided.

Section 105b. The power and authority of said board of equalization to correct and change assessments and valuations of property at its first session under this act shall apply in the case of all persons whose taxes for the years 1892, 1893 and 1894, or either of said years, have not been paid or collected; and as to all such taxes and costs where the property has heretofore been sold for taxes and bought in by the city, a lien shall exist in favor of the city, and the party applying for relief against taxes heretofore imposed for said years shall be held to admit the existence of said lien on all such property, and said board shall have like power in such cases with reference to errors and excessive valuations for said years as for the current year, and shall certify any action it may take as to the assessments for said years to the assessor and collector of taxes, who shall be governed thereby: Provided, that where, in cases involving assessments for the years 1892, 1893 and 1894, or either of them, the property on which taxes are unpaid has been transferred subsequently to the assessment, the assignee or owner of the property at the time application may be made to the board of equalization in reference thereto shall have the right to make such application for a correction or reduction of the assessment.

Section 105c. The action of the board of equalization shall be final in all cases unless an appeal is taken therefrom to the district court of Tarrant county, which may be done by any person or the agent or attorney of any person aggrieved by the action of the board, by giving notice in writing to said board of such appeal and the grounds thereof within ten days after the final approval of the assessment rolls by said board, and by giving a bond payable to the city, to be approved by the city assessor, for the sum of fifty dollars, conditioned that said appellant will pay all costs of such appeal if the action of the board of equalization should be sustained by the district court, or if the valuation of the property of such appellant shall be raised above the amount at which it stands assessed; a copy of such bond and such notice of appeal, and a description made by the assessor of the property of the appellant involved therein shall be filed in said district court, and said case shall be docketed on the civil docket of said court in the name of the appellant as plaintiff against the board of equalization of the city of Fort Worth, and all such appeals shall be presented to the first term of the district court after the notice of appeal is given, and shall have precedence for trial of all civil cases in said court, and the decision of said district court in such matters shall be final: Provided, however, that if such appeal has not been finally adjudicated by the 31st day of December of the current year it shall be the duty of the appellant to pay all of said taxes assessed by the board of equalization against him, and in case he fails to pay said taxes by said time said appeal shall be dismissed and the action of the board of equalization held to be final. And in event appellant pays all taxes assessed against him by the board of equalization on or before December 31 of the current year, then in event the court shall upon final adjudication place a valuation on appellant's property lower than the valuation placed upon said property by said board of equalization, the amount of taxes paid on the valuation which is in excess of the valuation fixed by the court shall be refunded to him by warrant drawn by the order of the city council. The list of property and the values thereof as settled by the board of equalization, or a copy thereof, or so much thereof as may be pertinent to the question at issue, may be produced in court to be used in such trials. The notice of appeal from the action of the board as to the assessments for 1892, 1893 and 1894 shall be given within ten days after the specific action or order of the board complained of by the party appealing: Provided, that the party appealing from the action of the board of equalization as to the taxes for said years, when the appeal has not been determined prior to December 31, 1895, shall pay his full amount of taxes and costs for said years, or said appeal shall be dismissed and the action of the board of equalization held to be final.

Section 106. Redemption of Land Sold for Taxes.—Whenever any real property is bid off to the city or to any individual for delinquent taxes the owner or his attorney or agent may redeem the same at any time within two years from date of sale by paying double the amount of said taxes and costs.

Section 138. Condemnation of Property for Streets.—Whenever the city council of said city shall deem it necessary to take any private property in order to open, change, alter or widen any public street, avenue or alley, or for the construction of water mains or sewers within or without the limits of the city, for the construction of dams or reservoirs within or without the limits of the city, or any quantity of land for the storage of water, such property may be taken for such purpose by first making just compensation to the owners thereof. If the amount of such compensation can not be agreed upon it shall be the duty of the city council to cause to be stated in writing the real estate or property so sought to be taken, the name of the owner, and his residence if known, and file such statement with the county judge of Tarrant county.

Sec. 2. That the said charter of the city of Fort Worth be and the same is hereby amended by adding thereto sections 35a, 35b, 101a, 101b, 101c, 101d, 101e, 102a, 103a, 104a, 104b, 106a, 106b, as follows:

Section 35a. If the assessor and collector shall discover any real or personal property which was subject to taxation for any previous year, and which for any cause has escaped taxation for that year, he shall assess the same in a supplement to his next assessment roll at the same rate under which such property should have been assessed for such year, stating the year, and the taxes thereon shall be collected in the same manner as other assessments.

Section 35b. The assessor and collector shall assess all property which for any cause has not been rendered, placing such valuation thereon as he may deem just. If the owners of such property are unknown such assessment shall be in the name "unknown."

Section 101a. A lien is hereby created on all property, personal and real, in favor of the city of Fort Worth for all taxes, ad valorem, occupation or otherwise. Said lien shall exist from January in each year until the taxes are paid. Said lien shall be prior to all other claims, and no gift, sale or assignment or transfer of any kind, or judicial writ of any kind, shall ever defeat such lien; but the assessor and collector can pursue such property and whenever found may seize and sell enough thereof to satisfy the taxes due.

Section 101b. If any one against whom personal tax is assessed, and which is due and unpaid, whether the same be delinquent or not, shall have removed out of the city, or shall be about to remove out of the city, or shall have removed or about to remove his personal property out of the city, it shall be the duty of the collector to proceed at once and collect such taxes by seizure and sale of personal property of such person to be found in the city of Fort Worth or anywhere in the State of Texas: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to any personal property which is now exempt under the laws of the State of Texas.

Section 101c. No demand for taxes shall be necessary, but it is hereby made the duty of every person or corporation subject to taxation to attend at the assessor's and collector's office at some time between the second Monday in November and the first Monday in January of the following year and pay his, her or its taxes. If any one fails to pay the taxes due before the first Monday in January the same shall be delinquent: Provided, however, the city council may give an extension of time in which to pay taxes, if the same be deemed advisable.

Section 101d. The city council shall have the power to assess the property and shares of corporations, companies, banks and such other institutions as the same are now assessed or may be assessed by the State law in such cases made and provided, and shall have full power to enforce the collection of such taxes in such manner as by said council may be deemed necessary.

Section 101e. In all cases where a taxpayer makes an assignment of his property for the payment of his debts, or where his property is levied upon by creditors by writs of attachment or otherwise; or where the estate of a decedent is or becomes insolvent, and the taxes assessed against such person or party, or against any of his estate, remains unpaid, in part or in whole, the amount of such unpaid taxes shall be a first lien upon said property: Provided, when taxes are due by the estate of a deceased person the lien herein provided for shall be subject to the allowances to widows and minors, funeral expenses and expenses of last sickness; and such unpaid taxes shall be paid by the assignee when said property has been assigned by the sheriff out of the proceeds of sale, in case said property has been seized under attachment or other writ, and by the administrator or other legal representative of the decedent, and if such taxes shall not be paid all said property may be levied on by the assessor and collector and sold for such taxes in whomsoever's hands it may be found.

Section 102a. Before sales of real estate are made notice of the time and place of such sales, together with a substantial description of the property, shall be given by posting two notices, one upon the bulletin board of the city hall, and the other at the court house in the city of Fort Worth; also by publication in some newspaper in the city once a week for at least three weeks before the day of sale, which notice shall contain a statement of the amount of taxes due on each particular piece of property.

Section 103a. The personal property of all persons owing any taxes to the city of Fort Worth is hereby made liable for all of said taxes, whether the same be due on personal or real property, or upon both: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to any personal property which is now exempt from forced sale under the laws of the State of Texas.

Section 104a. In addition to the foregoing powers granted to the city of Fort Worth for the collection of taxes, it is hereby authorized and empowered to institute suit in any court of competent jurisdiction against any delinquent tax payer to foreclose a lien in favor of said city upon any real estate or personal property owned by such delinquent, and upon the recovery of judgment to have the same sold to satisfy such tax, and the purchaser at such sale shall receive a good and absolute title. Such suit shall be brought in the name of the city of Fort Worth as plaintiff; and it shall not be necessary to bring a separate suit against such delinquent tax payer, but any number of such delinquents may be joined as defendants in one suit, and a foreclosure decreed against each, and the costs of suit shall be in proportion to the amount of taxes of such delinquents so joined. Should any delinquent taxpayer against whom suit is instituted be a non-resident of the State, the clerk of the court where said suit is pending shall, upon application of the plaintiff or his attorney, issue a notice to such defendant, as required by article 1230, Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, except that such notice shall not be accompanied by a certified copy of plaintiff's petition. Should the city attorney or assessor and collector make affidavit before the clerk of the court wherein such suit is pending that the residence of any defendant is unknown to the affiant, or that he is a transient person, or that he is a non-resident, then such defendant shall be cited by publication as provided in article 1235, Revised Statutes of the State of Texas: Provided, that in sale for the satisfaction of such delinquent taxes only sufficient amount of the property shall be sold to satisfy the unpaid taxes; and persons whose property shall be sold shall have two years in which to redeem the same by paying double the amount of such taxes and costs and all costs of suits.

Section 104b. The city of Fort Worth is hereby authorized and empowered to institute suit in any court of competent jurisdiction to collect any back taxes against any delinquent taxpayer and to foreclose the lien for such taxes, and upon recovery of judgment to have the property against which such tax was levied and assessed sold to satisfy the same, and the purchaser at such sale shall receive a good and absolute title to such property. Such suits shall be brought and service had in the manner prescribed in the foregoing section: Provided, that in sales for the satisfaction of such delinquent taxes only a sufficient amount of property shall be sold to satisfy the unpaid taxes: Provided, further, that any person whose property is so sold shall have two years in which to redeem the same by paying double the amount of such taxes and costs and his proportion of all costs of suit.

Section 106a. A sale of personal property for delinquent taxes shall convey with it an absolute title, and the owner shall have no right to redeem the same.

Section 106b. And, finally, the city council shall have full power to do or cause to be done everything whatsoever necessary to enforce a prompt assessment and collection of all taxes and assessments provided for in this charter, and to pass all ordinances and make all rules and regulations necessary for the sale of property for said taxes and assessments.

Sec. 3. Whereas, it is of great importance that the city of Fort Worth shall have the power to secure better government of said city, an emergency exists requiring the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this bill be placed upon its third reading and final passage, therefore an emergency and a great public necessity exists that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the 23d day of April, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

RELIEF OF JNO. A. CAPLEN.

CHAP. 9.—[H. B. No. 230.] An act for the relief of Jno. A. Caplen, and to return to him certain moneys in the State Treasury, being proceeds of sale of land escheated to the State, which was purchased by him.

Section 1. Whereas, heretofore, to-wit: on the 11th day of January, 1890, judgments were rendered by the district court of Harris county, Texas, in two causes pending in said court, one numbered 13210 entitled State of Texas vs. Unknown Heirs of Philo C. Merwin, and the other numbered 13211 entitled State vs. Unknown Heirs of Caroline M. Peck, escheating to the State of Texas two tracts of land, containing two hundred acres each, out of the Ritson Morris survey in said county of Harris, by virtue of which escheat judgments said lands were afterwards sold by the sheriff of said county of Harris, and the same were purchased at said sale by Jno. A. Caplin of the county of Galveston for the sum of and price of one thousand four hundred and twenty dollars; and,

Whereas, the net proceeds of sale, to-wit, the sum of one thousand and sixty-six dollars and forty-five cents remaining after the payment of the costs of said escheat proceedings was by the sheriff of said Harris county paid into the Treasury of the State, which said net proceeds of said sale are still in the Treasury of the State; and whereas, said escheat proceedings have been by the courts of the State declared and adjudged to be void in suits brought against said Caplen by said Caroline M. Peck and parties claiming under said Philo C. Merwin for the recovery of said lands, and the said lands adjudged to the said parties claiming same as against said Caplin, and the deeds therefor made to said Caplin by virtue of his purchase thereof at said escheat sales cancelled and annulled, because said Philo C. Merwin and Caroline M. Peck were not dead at the time said judgments were rendered escheating said land; and, whereas, inasmuch as said judgments escheating said lands have been declared void, and said Caplin by reason thereof has been deprived of said land, it is but just and right that the State should return to said Caplin the money in the State Treasury paid by him for said lands.

Sec. 2. Therefore, be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the aforesaid sum of one thousand and sixty-six dollars and forty-five cents now in the State Treasury, received from the sale of said lands, be returned to the said Jno. A. Caplin, and that the Treasurer of the State be and he is hereby empowered and directed to pay the same to said Caplin.

PATENT TO HEIRS OF S. H. CARTER.

CHAP. 10.—[H. B. No. 688.] An act to authorize the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue to the heirs of S. H. Carter, a patent to the north half and southeast quarter of section No. 2, block No. 1, in Fisher county, Texas, as surveyed by the San Antonio and Mexican Gulf Railway Company, and set apart to the benefit of the common school fund of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Whereas, on, to-wit, the 25th day of September, 1893, the State of Texas through its State land board sold and awarded to S. H. Carter said land at the price of one dollar per acre upon the application and obligation of and the cash payment by said S. H. Carter as required by law; and,

Whereas, the said S. H. Carter, and his heirs subsequent to his death, have made full payment of all the principal and interest due upon said obligation for said land, including patent fees; and,

Whereas, the Commissioner of the General Land Office now refuses to issue a patent thereon for the reason that it appears from the report of the district surveyor that said land has water thereon and should have been valued and sold at two dollars per acre; therefore,

Sec. 2. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Commissioner of the General Land Office be and he is hereby authorized to issue to Jane A. Carter, the surviving widow of said S. H. Carter, and to their heirs and assigns, a patent to said land, without a requirement of further or additional payment thereon.

Sec. 3. Whereas, the near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

GENERAL LAWS OF TEXAS.

FIRST CALLED SESSION

TWENTY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE, 1895.

PRIZE FIGHTING, ETC.—PENALTIES THEREFOR.

CHAP. 1.—[S. B. No. 3.] An act to prohibit prize fighting and pugilism, and fights between men and animals, and to provide penalties therefor, and to repeal all laws in conflict therewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That any person who shall voluntarily engage in a pugilistic encounter between man and man, or a fight between a man and a bull or any other animal, for money or other thing of value, or for any championship, or upon the result of which any money or any thing of value is bet or wagered, or to see which any admission fee is charged, either directly or indirectly, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than five years.

Sec. 2. By the term "pugilistic encounter," as used in this act, is meant any voluntary fight or personal encounter by blows by means of the fists or otherwise, whether with or without gloves, between two or more men, for money or for a prize of any character, or for any other thing of value, or for any championship, or upon the result of which any money or any thing of value is bet or wagered.

Sec. 3. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The fact that there is now no adequate penalty against prize fighting and pugilism, or fights between men and beasts, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this law should take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is hereby so enacted.

Approved October 3, 1895.

APPROPRIATION—MILEAGE AND PER DIEM.

CHAP. 2.—[S. B. No. 1.] An act making an appropriation for mileage and per diem pay of members and per diem pay of officers and employes of the first called session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature of Texas, convened October 1st, 1895, by proclamation of the Governor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of twenty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury of this State, not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of mileage and per diem pay of the members and the payment of the per diem pay of the officers and employes of the first called session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature of Texas, convened October 1st, 1895, by proclamation of the Governor.

Sec. 2. That the certificate of the Secretary of the Senate, approved by the President thereof, or the certificate of the Chief Clerk of the House, approved by the Speaker thereof, shall be sufficient evidence to the Comptroller upon which he shall audit the claims and issue his warrants upon the Treasurer for the respective amounts.

Sec. 3. The public importance of the objects herein contemplated creates an imperative public necessity and emergency fully authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, and said rule is hereby suspended, and that this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved October 3d, 1895.

TAXATION—DELINQUENT TAX PAYERS—STATUTE OF LIMITATION.

CHAP. 3.—[S. B. No. 8.] An act to prevent delinquent tax payers from pleading the statute of limitation by way of defense against the payment of any taxes due from him or her either to the State or any county, city, or town.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That no delinquent tax payer shall have the right to plead in any court or in any manner rely upon any statute of limitation by way of defense against the payment of any taxes due from him or her either to the State or any county, city, or town.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there is now no law in this State to prevent delinquent tax payers from setting up the statute of limitation as a defense against the payment of taxes due from him or her, and to avoid the filing of a multiplicity of suits by the municipal authorities against delinquent tax payers in order to prevent the bar of limitation being set up them, therefore an emergency exists and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring all bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved October 9, 1895.

FURTHER APPROPRIATION FOR SUPPORT OF THE STATE GOVERNMENT.

CHAP. 4.—[S. B. No. 6.] An act making further appropriation for the support of the State government for the years beginning March 1, 1895, to February 28, 1897.

Whereas, in the enrollment of an act entitled "An Act making appropriation for the support of the State government for the years beginning March 1, 1895, to February 28, 1897, and for other purposes," approved May 3, 1895, the following clerical errors were committed, whereby the items under the head of public printing of $2100.00 for each year should have been $21,000.00 for each year, and under the head of Deaf and Dumb Asylum the item of "expert shoemaker, expert binder and teacher" of $720.00 for each year should have been $1440.00 for each year; now therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the following sums of money, or so much thereof as may be necessary, are hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the following purposes, in addition to the sums of money already appropriated in the above entitled act: For first, second and third classes of public printing and binding, and for printing papers for first and second classes of public printing, eighteen thousand nine hundred dollars for the year ending February 28, 1896, and eighteen thousand nine hundred dollars for the year ending February 28, 1897. For salary of expert shoemaker, expert binder and teacher, the sum of seven hundred and twenty dollars for the year ending February 28, 1896, and seven hundred and twenty dollars for the year ending February 28, 1897.

Sec. 2. That the sum of $100.00 to pay expenses of building booths and guard rails to carry out the Australian ballot system be taken from the appropriation for the year 1897 and transferred to the year 1896.

Sec. 3. The fact that the amounts of money appropriated by this act are needed by the State at the present time, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this law should take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is hereby so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on the fifth day of October, A. D. 1895, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State.]

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
Department of State.

I, Allison Mayfield, Secretary of State of the State of Texas, certify that the foregoing laws, passed at the first called session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature, have been carefully examined and compared with the original enrolled bills, now on file in this department, and are true copies of said originals.

I further certify that the first called session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature convened in the city of Austin October 1, A. D. 1895, and adjourned October 7, A. D. 1895.

S. B. No. 11.]

CHAPTER 1.

An act appropriating one hundred and ten thousand dollars to pay members' mileage and per diem, and officers' and employees' per diem, of the Twenty-fifth Legislature.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of one hundred and ten thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the money in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of mileage and per diem pay of members and per diem pay of officers and employees of the Twenty-fifth Legislature.

Sec. 2. The certificate of the Secretary of the Senate, approved by the President thereof, or of the Chief Clerk of the House, approved by the Speaker thereof, shall be sufficient evidence to the Comptroller, upon which he shall audit the claims and issue his warrants upon the Treasurer for the respective amounts.

Sec. 3. And, whereas, the Twenty-fifth Legislature is now in session, and public policy requires their payment; therefore, an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage.

CHAPTER 2.

An act making appropriation to defray the contingent expenses of the Twenty-fifth Legislature.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of twenty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay the contingent expenses of the Twenty-fifth Legislature; that, except in cases of accounts for printing done and stationery furnished, the certificate of the Chairman of the Committee on Contingent Expenses that an account has been examined and approved by said Committee, and countersigned by the President of the Senate, or Speaker of the House, as the case may be, shall be sufficient authority to authorize and require the Comptroller of Public Accounts to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer for the payment of any claims against said fund. The accounts for printing and stationery shall take the course prescribed by the Revised Statutes.

Sec. 2. That the fact that it is important that the expenses of the Legislature be promptly paid, creates an emergency and a public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this act shall take effect from its passage. It is so enacted.

CHAPTER 3.

An act to be entitled an act to amend Article 5043k, of the Revised Statutes of 1895, relating to the Live Stock Sanitary Commission, and the movement of live stock thereunder.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 5043k be and the same is amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Any quarantine line that may be fixed by the Live Stock Sanitary Commission against Texas, or splenic fever, shall be so fixed as to conform to the federal quarantine line established, or that may be established, by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is serious question of the power of the Live Stock Sanitary Commission to establish a quarantine line in conformity with the line established by the United States Department of Agriculture, and unless such line is established the entire State may be quarantined by the United States authorities, and incalculable injury done to the cattle interests of Texas, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring all bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this bill be put on its third reading and final passage, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, January 28, 1897.

An act making an appropriation to pay mileage and per diem of the Presidential Electors of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of fifteen hundred dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay the mileage and per diem of the Presidential Electors. That the certificate of the Secretary of the College, stating the number of days that the College was in session, shall be sufficient authority to the Comptroller to draw his warrant upon the Treasurer for the amount due each elector.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the Electoral College has already met, public policy demands that they should be paid, an emergency exists and necessity demands that the constitutional rule requiring the bill to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect from its passage. It is so enacted.

An act to amend Article 887, of Title 10, of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas, prescribing the form of a recognizance in appeals of cases of misdemeanor, and to repeal all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 887, of Title 10, of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas, prescribing the form of a recognizance in appeals of cases of misdemeanor, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read hereafter as follows, to-wit:

Article 887. In appeal cases of misdemeanor, the following form of recognizance shall be sufficient, and when complied with shall confer jurisdiction upon the Court of Criminal Appeals, of such appeals:

State of Texas,	}	No.
vs.
A.....B.

This day came into open court A.....B., defendant in the above entitled cause, who, together with C.....D., and E.....F., his sureties, acknowledge themselves severally indebted to the State of Texas in the penal sum of dollars; conditioned, that the said A.....B., who has been convicted in this cause of a misdemeanor, and his punishment assessed at, as more fully appears by the judgment of conviction duly entered in this cause, shall appear before this court from day to day and from term to term of the same, and not depart without leave of this court, in order to abide the judgment of the Court of Criminal Appeals of the State of Texas in this case.

The amount of such recognizance shall be fixed by the court in which the judgment was rendered, and the sufficiency of the security thereon shall be tested, and the same proceedings had, in case of forfeiture, as in other cases of recognizance.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved, February 9, 1897.

CHAPTER 6.

An act making an appropriation to pay for publishing the constitutional amendments proposed by the Twenty-fourth Legislature.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of five thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay for publishing the constitutional amendments voted on at the last general election, and for publishing the Governor's proclamation calling the last general election.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the Secretary of State did have the constitutional amendments proposed by the Twenty-fourth Legislature published, as required by law, and there being no appropriation to pay for the same, and public policy requires the immediate payment to the parties entitled to receive the same; therefore, an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 7.

An act to amend Article 386c, Chapter 1, Title 18, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, relating to cities and towns.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 386c, Chapter 1, Title 18, of the Revised Statutes, be amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 386c. That all cities and towns in this State whose corporation may be defective by reason of the failure of such cities and towns to restrict their territorial limits within the time and in the manner required by law, but which have in fact restricted their limits and have recorded the lines of such restricted limits in the minute book of such city and town and in the record book of deeds in the county in which such city or town is situated, and the boundaries of which as now recognized by the ordinances of such cities or towns and as fixed by the lines so recorded do not include more territory than provided for in article 386a, be and such incorporations are hereby in all things validated, the same as if such territorial limits had been duly fixed and restricted within the time and in the manner required by law.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there are many cities and towns in Texas which have heretofore restricted their limits so as not to include more territory than allowed by law, but failed to do so within the time and in the manner required by law; and whereas, the corporate existence of many of such cities and towns is threatened by legal proceedings whereby the public interest would be greatly injured, therefore an emergency and imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, and the same is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 24, nays none; and passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 97, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on Tuesday, the ninth day of February, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Mad-den, Secretary of State.]

CHAPTER 8.

An act to be entitled an act to amend Chapter 1, Title 29, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, adopted at the regular session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature, and to add to said chapter two articles, numbered 1132b and 1132c. respectively, "Providing for the election and qualification of special county judges in case of the absence of the regular county judge or of his inability or refusal to hold court; and providing further, for the election of a judge when said special judge is absent or is unable or refuses to act."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Chapter 1, Title 29, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, adopted at the regular session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature, be amended by adding to said chapter, two articles, immediately after Article 1132a, and numbered 1132b and 1132c, as follows:

Article 1132b. Should any county judge fail to appear at the time appointed for holding the court, or should he during the term be absent, or unable or unwilling to hold the court, a special county judge may be elected in the same manner as is provided for the election of a special judge of the District Court, in Articles 1071 to 1074 inclusive, so far as applicable, and the special county judge so elected shall have all the power and authority of the county judge while in the trial and disposition of all the cases pending in said court during the absence, inability, or such refusal of the county judge elected. And similar elections may be held from time to time during the term to supply the absence, failure or inability of the county judge, or any special judge to perform the duties of the office.

Article 1132c. When a special county judge shall have been so elected, it shall be the duty of the clerk to enter upon the minutes of the court, a record such as is provided for the District Court in Article 1075, and such record shall have the same force and effect provided for the record of the District Court in similar cases in article 1076.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is now no law in this State providing for the election or appointment of a special county judge to act in case of the sickness or other inability of the county judge to hold or carry on the terms of the County Court, causes great inconvenience and delays in the administration of justice, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and an emergency exists that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, February 25, 1897.

CHAPTER 9.

An act for the relief of railway corporations, and belt and suburban railway companies, having charters granted or amended since the first day of January, 1887, and which have failed, or are about to fail, to construct their roads and branches, or any part thereof, within the time required by law.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the time within which any railroad corporation, chartered under the laws of the State of Texas, since the first day of January, 1887, or the charter of which has been amended since that date, is required to begin the construction of its road, and construct, equip, and put in good running order, as provided in Article 4558 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, shall be, and the same hereby is, as to any unfinished portion of such road, extended two years from the taking effect of this act; and any railway company having been chartered since January first, 1887, or the charter to which has been amended since said date, which shall have forfeited its corporate existence or any of its rights and powers, or is about to do so, by reason of failure to comply with said Article 4558, or any part of said article, shall have restored and preserved to its corporate existence, and it shall have and enjoy all of the corporate franchises, property, rights and power held or required by it previous to any cause of forfeiture on account of such failure as aforesaid; provided, that no railroad company which shall be revived or the time extended by virtue of this act shall claim or exercise any right or franchise not allowed, granted or permitted to other railway corporations under the laws as now in force in this State, and such railroad company as may be revived or time extended by this act shall comply with the laws of this State now in force appertaining to railway corporations, and the provisions of this act shall extend to and embrace suburban and belt railroads heretofore chartered under the laws of this State.

Sec. 2. Any railway corporation chartered since the first day of January, A. D. 1887, and which by its original charter, or by amendment thereto filed since said first day of January, A. D. 1887, has provided for the locating, constructing, maintaining, owning and operating of any extension or branch line or lines of railway, and which has failed or is about to fail to complete the same or any part thereof within the time required by law, shall, upon the payment of all its franchise taxes, be, and is hereby restored to and granted all and singular the rights, privileges and franchises acquired by such original charter, or by such amendment to its articles of incorporation as if the same were filed and recorded in the office of the Secretary of State on the day of the taking effect of this act, and such corporation shall, upon the payment of its franchise taxes, be, and is hereby authorized to project, complete, construct, own and operate any such extensions and branch line or lines of railway under and as provided for in its charter, or in any such amendment to its articles of incorporation; provided, that said extensions and branch lines of railway shall be by such corporation completed and put in running order at the rate of at least ten miles within one year from the taking effect of this act, and twenty additional miles for each and every year thereafter until all of said extensions or branch line or lines so provided for are completed.

Sec. 3. The fact that no good can result to the State from the forfeitures provided against in this act, and that the public interest and convenience will be promoted, and citizens in many parts of the State having invested in railway enterprises saved from great loss, unless the relief herein provided for be granted, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and it is so suspended, and demanding that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, February 25, 1897.

CHAPTER 10.

An act to amend Subdivision 18, of Article 22, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, fixing the time for holding courts in the Eighteenth Judicial District.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Subdivision 18 of Article 22 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas be so amended as hereafter to read as follows:

18. The Eighteenth Judicial District shall be composed of the counties of Johnson, Hill and Bosque, and the district courts therein shall be held as follows:

In the county of Bosque, on the third Monday in January and August, and may continue in session six weeks.

In the county of Hill, on the sixth Monday after the third Monday in January, and may continue in session eight weeks, and on the sixth Monday after the third Monday in August, and may continue in session seven weeks.

In the county of Johnson, on the fourteenth Monday after the third Monday in January, and on the thirteenth Monday after the third Monday in August, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of; provided, that said continuation shall not interfere with the terms of the court in the remaining counties of the district as herein above provided for.

Sec. 2. The crowded condition of the District Court dockets of Hill County, and the fact that the next term of the District Court for Hill County will begin on the first Monday in March, 1897, creates an imperative public necessity which authorizes the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended, and the same facts create an emergency requiring that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, February 25, 1897.

CHAPTER 11.

An act to provide for single election polls in cities and towns not having more than four hundred electors, and to repeal all laws and parts of laws in conflict therewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That in all cities and towns in this State in which the number of electors at the last municipal election does not exceed four hundred in number, but one election poll shall be opened at any municipal election, and all officers of such towns and cities to be elected shall be voted for at such poll.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the foregoing section be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that many cities and towns in this State will soon hold elections for municipal offices creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 12.

An act to be entitled an act to amend Article 904, of Title 10, of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas, relating to appeal and writ of error, and to repeal all laws in conflict herewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 904 of Title 10 of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas be and the same is hereby amended so as to read hereafter as follows, to-wit:

Article 904. The Court of Criminal Appeals may affirm the judgment of the court below or may reverse and remand for a new trial, or may reverse and dismiss the case, or may reform and correct the judgment, as the law and the nature of the case may require, but in all cases the court shall presume that the venue was proven in the court below; that the jury was properly empaneled and sworn; that the defendant was arraigned; that he pleaded to the indictment; that the charge of the court was certified by the judge and filed by the clerk of the court before it was read to the jury, unless such matters were made an issue in the court below, and it affirmatively appears to the contrary by a bill of exceptions properly signed and allowed by the judge of the court below or proven up by by-standers, as is now provided by law, and incorporated in the transcript as required by law. In all criminal cases by it decided, the Court of Criminal Appeals shall deliver a written opinion setting forth the reason for such decision.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that the Court of Criminal Appeals is now in session, and many criminal cases now pending will be reversed, because there is no law in force authorizing said court to presume the regularity of the proceedings of the District and County Courts, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, should be suspended, and it is hereby so enacted.

Approved, March 3, 1897.

CHAPTER 17.

An act to validate and confirm an ordinance passed by the City Council of the city of Galveston, ceding to the United States of America certain streets intersecting land purchased, and to be purchased, by the United States of America, for the purpose of erecting fortifications thereon, and to authorize the Commissioners Court of Galveston County to cede to the United States of America such portions of public highways in Galveston County for the purpose of establishing fortifications situated outside the limits of the city of Galveston.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whereas, the City Council of the city of Galveston, on the tenth day of February, A. D. 1897, passed an ordinance ceding to the United States of America any and all streets, alleys, or other public highways which intersect or separate any lots or parcels of land which the United States of America may desire to purchase for the purpose of establishing fortifications for the protection of the city of Galveston and the coast of Texas against the enemies of the United States of America; and whereas, it is doubtful if the said City Council of the city of Galveston was vested with power, under its charter, to make such cession of said portion of said streets, now, therefore, be it enacted that said act of the City Council of the city of Galveston in making such cession be, and the same is hereby, in all things ratified and confirmed, and the United States of America is hereby vested with all the rights, privileges and powers conferred or attempted to be conferred by said ordinance of the City Council of the city of Galveston.

Sec. 2. That the Commissioners Court of Galveston County is hereby authorized and empowered to cede to the United States of America any and all streets, alleys, roads or public highways in the County of Galveston which may pass through, separate or bound any tract or parcel of land which the United States of America may acquire for public purposes not situated within the limits of the city of Galveston: Provided, that any act of cession of such public highways shall be evidenced by a decree duly entered in the records of the Commissioners Court of Galveston County, Texas, and a certified copy of such decree duly recorded in the records of deeds of Galveston County shall convey to the United States of America for public purposes, all right, title and interest which said County of Galveston has or may have in and to such public highways, and shall be full authority to the United States of America to close said public highways to the public use: Provided, however, that nothing in this act shall prevent, or is intended to prevent, the United States of America from condemning any lands as it is now authorized by law to do, the object and intention of this section being to permit the United States of America to acquire the title and use of such streets, alleys, and public highways which may have been dedicated to public use by virtue of maps recorded, showing a subdivision of large tracts of land into city lots and blocks, streets and alleys, and which lands are not embraced within the limits of any incorporated city or town.

Sec. 3. The fact that the United States of America has, at an expense of nearly six millions of dollars, constructed jetties in Galveston harbor, thus creating a deep water port on the coast of Texas, which improvements, as well as the city of Galveston, are without any protection against foreign enemies, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

An act to require every express company to keep a general office in this State, and to furnish such information in relation to its property, indebtedness and business, as may be required by the Railroad Commission of Texas, and to provide a penalty for violation of such requirements.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That every incorporated express company shall keep a general office in this State at some place on the line of its transportation, in which it shall keep its books, accounts, and contracts, relating to express business, or copies thereof, embracing all books, papers, and contracts, or copies thereof, showing the value of its property, of all kinds, and the amount of all its receipts and disbursements on account of the express business done in this State. That the books, papers, and contracts, required to be kept in said general office, shall at all times be subject to inspection and examination by the officers of the State of Texas, and by any member or members of the Railroad Commission of Texas, or by its authorized agent, officer, or employee.

A failure to comply with any of the foregoing provisions of this Section shall subject the offending company, and any officer, agent, or employee, of such company, so offending to a penalty of not less than one hundred, nor more than five hundred dollars. And that a failure to comply with the foregoing provision shall subject the company so offending to forfeit its charter and privileges of doing business as an express company in this State.

The Railroad Commission of Texas shall report to the Attorney-General of the State the name of any company, and the officers, agents, or employees, thereof, violating any of the provisions of this act, and any suits to recover the penalties herein prescribed, or to forfeit the charter of such express company, doing business in this State, shall be instituted and prosecuted in a court having jurisdiction, in the County of Travis, in the State of Texas, by the Attorney-General of the State.

Sec. 2. Any incorporated express company with its principal office in another State, and doing business as such express company in this State, is hereby required to provide and keep in its general office in this State, a copy of its charter, and to make full annual statements of the value of all its property, including a like statement of all its indebtedness, and of all its annual receipts and expenditures as such express company, to the Railroad Commission of Texas, at such time or times as may be prescribed by it; which statement shall be certified to be correct, and shall be sworn to by the President and Secretary, or General Manager in Texas, of such company; and such company shall permit any member or members of the Railroad Commission of Texas, or its authorized agent, to freely examine any and all books, papers, and contracts, in said office; and should any such company, or any person in charge of said office, refuse to permit such examination, this shall be sufficient ground for the withdrawal, by this State, of its privilege of doing business as such express company in this State; and it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the State to institute and conduct suits for that purpose in a court having jurisdiction in Travis county, in the State of Texas.

Sec. 3. Every express company, doing business as such in this State, shall, within 90 days after the passage of this act, establish the general office provided for in this act, at some point on their line of transportation in this State, and shall immediately give notice in writing to the Railroad Commission of Texas, of the place at which such general office is located, and shall, at the same time, give notice in writing to said Commission of the name and official designation of the person or persons, officer or officers, charged with the management of such general office, and shall, from time to time, give like notices in writing of any change of location of such general office, or of the person or persons, officer or officers, charged with the management.

A failure to comply with any of the provisions of this section, shall be sufficient cause for withdrawing from such express company, the privilege of doing business as such, in this State.

CHAPTER 19.

An act to amend Articles 2526, 2531, and 2532, of Title 49, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to forcible entry and detainer.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 2526, 2531, and 2532, of Title 49, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 2526. Either party to the suit shall have the right of trial by jury by making demand for a jury to the Justice of the Peace on or before the day for which the case is set for trial and paying the jury fee of three ($3.00) dollars, and when a jury is demanded the Justice of the Peace shall issue a precept to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding him to summon a jury of six men, qualified jurors of the county, to appear before him on the day set for trying the complaint, to serve as jurors, and shall be returned with the name of the jurors thereon to the said Justice of the Peace on the day assigned for trial.

If no jury be demanded the case shall be tried by the Justice of the Peace without a jury.

Article 2531. On the day named in the citation for trial, or on the day to which the case may be postponed, according to the provisions of the preceding article, if no jury is demanded, the Justice of the Peace shall hear the evidence and render his judgment of guilty or not guilty of the charge as stated in the complaint, and if a jury is demanded by either party, the jury shall be empanelled and sworn as in other cases, and after hearing the evidence they shall return their verdict of guilty or not guilty of the charge as stated in the complaint.

Article 2532. If the Justice of the Peace, if no jury is demanded, or the jury, in case one is demanded, find the defendant guilty, the said Justice of the Peace shall give judgment thereon for the plaintiff to have restitution of the premises and for costs; and he shall award his writ of restitution and may issue execution for the costs, but should the defendant be found not guilty, judgment shall be given in favor of the defendant and against the plaintiff for all costs, and execution may issue therefor.

Sec. 2. The fact that as the law now is, relating to trials in cases of forcible entry and detainer, requires a jury in every case, entails a useless expense to litigants in many cases, and the crowded condition of the calendar, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, March 12, 1897.

Takes effect 90 days after adjournment.

CHAPTER 20.

An act to amend Article 256 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, relating to applications for license to practice law.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 256, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, relating to the application for license to practice law, shall be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 256. During the term of any District Court, upon application of any person desiring to obtain a permanent license to practice as attorney and counsellor at law, in the courts of the State, accompanied with a certificate from the County Commissioners Court of the character specified in the preceding article, the Court shall, as soon as convenient, appoint a committee of three or more practicing attorneys of good standing, and set a day for examination of the applicant, on which day, the committee so appointed shall, in open court, proceed to examine the applicant, and if they, or a majority of them, and the Court, are satisfied of his legal qualifications, a report of that fact shall, within five days, be made by the committee and recorded by the clerk, and thereon, the Court shall order the clerk to make out a license for the applicant, which shall be signed by the Court, and tested by the clerk under seal of the Court; under which, when delivered, the party shall be authorized to practice in any District, County, or inferior court, of the State.

Approved March 12, 1897.

Takes effect 90 days after adjournment.

CHAPTER 21.

An act to amend Article 723, Title VIII, Chapter 5, of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas, relating to the reversal of cases by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 723, as described in the caption of this act, shall read as follows, viz.:

Article 723. Whenever it appears by the record in any criminal action, upon appeal of the defendant, that any of the requirements of the eight preceding articles have been disregarded, the judgment shall not be reversed unless the error appearing from the record was calculated to injure the rights of the defendant, which error shall be excepted to at the time of the trial, or on a motion for a new trial.

Approved, March 12, 1897.

Takes effect 90 days after adjournment.

CHAPTER 22.

An act to amend Article 1036, Chapter 20, Title XXVII, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to payment of costs and returning mandates in the Courts of Civil Appeals.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 1036, Chapter 20, Title XXVII, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 1036. On the rendition of any final judgment or decree in the Court of Civil Appeals, the Clerk of said court shall not issue and deliver the mandate of the Court, nor certify the proceedings of the lower court, until all the costs accruing in the case, in the Court of Civil Appeals, shall have been paid. If neither party shall pay the costs and take out the mandate within thirty days after the time when the same can be issued by law, then it shall be the duty of the Clerk to issue execution for the costs accruing in his court, against whom such costs have been adjudged, and to send such execution by mail to the proper officer for collection, but he shall retain the mandate until the costs have been paid or collected; provided, that if the party against whom the said costs are adjudged shall make affidavit of his inability to pay the same, or give security therefor, he may apply to the Court of Civil Appeals in which said case is pending, for an order to require the Clerk to issue said mandate, or to certify said proceedings, as the case may be, which motion shall be granted by said court, unless the Clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals, or any party to the record, shall controvert the truth of such affidavit and satisfy the court that such motion should not be granted.

Sec. 2. The fact that the operation of the present law works a hardship upon many deserving but destitute litigants, and that many mandates are now held in the Court of Civil Appeals owing to the pecuniary distress and inability of the parties whose duty it is to pay for them, and in order to make effective the principle that pervades our system of law, that all the courts shall be open to litigants for the redress of grievances, to the poor, as well as to the rich, creates an emergency, and a public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this bill be in force and take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, March 12, 1897.

CHAPTER 23.

An act to amend Article Seven Hundred and Twenty-two (722), of Chapter Fourteen (14), of Title Twenty-one (21), of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, as adopted by the Twenty-fourth Legislature of the State of Texas, in the year Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-five (1895), relating to channel and dock operations.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 722, of Chapter 14, of Title 21, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 722. Every such channel corporation shall, in addition to the powers herein conferred, have power:

1. To cause such examination and survey for its proposed channel to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route for such purpose by its officers, agents or servants to enter upon any of the waters of such bays and upon any of the lands of this State, or of any person.

2. To take and hold such voluntary grant of real estate and other property as shall be made to it to aid in the construction and maintenance of its deep water channel and works pertinent thereto.

3. To construct its channel across, along, through, or upon, any of the waters of the bays within the jurisdiction of this State, and so far into the mainland as may be necessary to reach a place for its docks that will afford security from cyclones, storms, swells, and tidal waves, with such depth as may suit its convenience and the wants of navigation, not less than five feet, and a width of not less than forty feet.

4. To furnish to vessels and boats adapted to the purpose facilities for navigating in and along the entire length of its channel, and to charge and collect a toll therefor, to be prescribed and established by its by-laws, not to exceed one cent per barrel bulk of the capacity of each vessel for each mile of the length of its channel used by the vessel going either way.

5. To borrow such sums of money as may be necessary for constructing, finishing, or operating its channel, and to issue and dispose of its bonds for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage its corporate property and franchises to secure the payment of any debt contracted for the purposes aforesaid; provided, that damages for any property appropriated by such corporation shall be assessed and paid for as is provided for in case of railroads.

6. To enter upon and condemn and appropriate any lands of any persons or corporation that may be necessary for the uses and purposes of such channel corporation, the damages for any property thus appropriated to be assessed and paid for in the same manner as provided by law in the case of railroads; provided, that no damages shall be assessed against or paid by it for any portion of the route of the channel embraced within and covered by the waters of any bay or lake on the coast of this State, nor for any portion of any island belonging to the State that may be requisite and necessary to the construction and successful operation of its channel; and provided, further, that its right of way shall not be less than the actual width of its channel, and not more than seven hundred feet in width on each side of its channel; provided, that when the land sought to be condemned under this chapter is arable land, such right of way shall not extend further than six hundred feet on each side of the channel from the edge or boundary of said channel.

7. To construct, own, and operate its channel so far into the waters of the Gulf of Mexico as may be necessary to obtain an adequate depth of water at its gulf entrance to facilitate the ingress and egress of such vessels as may navigate the same in so far as this State may have the power to grant such right, which shall be in subordination to that of the government of the United States in so far as that government has the constitutional power to control the same.

Sec. 2. Whereas, there are now contracts let to build a large ship channel across the bay of Sabine Lake, and in the present condition of the law there is not right-of-way enough given to dump or pile the dirt taken from the bed of the channel, and in consequence the work on the building of said channel is stopped; and, whereas, the crowded condition of the calendar renders it necessary and creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this bill shall take effect on and from its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 26, nays none; and passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 98, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on Monday, the first day of March, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

CHAPTER 24.

An act to create a more efficient road system for Travis County, in the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each member of the Commissioners' Court of Travis County shall be ex officio road commissioner of their respective districts, and under the direction of the Commissioners' Court, shall have charge of all the teams, tools and machinery belonging to the county, and placed in their hands by the said court, and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioners' Court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges.

Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of their office, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge of said county, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law or by the Commissioners' Court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession.

Each of said commissioners shall receive as salary for the services required of them by this act three hundred dollars per annum, payable quarterly, or as the Commissioners' Court may determine.

Sec. 2. Subject to the orders and control of the Commissioners' Court, the road commissioners shall have charge of all such teams, wagons, tools and machinery as the Commissioners' Court shall place in their custody for use on the public roads of said county, and shall execute and deliver to the county clerk of said county his receipt therefor, specifying each item and its value, which shall be filed by the clerk of the county court in his office, and a certified copy thereof shall be admissible in evidence in any suit against said commissioner and his sureties or either of them, on his said bond for the property or the value thereof, the same as the original would be.

Said road commissioner and his sureties shall be responsible on his bond for all such property thus turned over to him until he shall account therefor.

Sec. 3. The road commissioners shall have control of all road overseers in the county, and shall deliver to each all teams, tools, wagons and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of such overseers so far as he has been supplied therewith by the Commissioners' Court, taking the receipt of said road overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer to the liabilities of the road commissioner for all such teams, wagons, tools and machinery. It shall be the duty of the road overseer, when he has finished the work on his road, to return to said road commissioner all teams, wagons, tools and machinery received from him, and to take up the receipt given for the same.

Sec. 4. Each road commissioner and overseer shall, as to all teams, wagons, tools and machinery delivered to him by the Commissioners' Court or road commissioner, be deemed and held to be the bailee of the county, and shall be responsible to the county for the value thereof until accounted for by him.

It shall be sufficient to exempt the road commissioners or any road overseer from liabilities for any property received by him as herein provided to show that he has delivered the same to any person authorized by law or by the orders of the Commissioners' Court of the county to receive the same, or that the same has died, been lost or destroyed without negligence or fault on his part.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the road commissioners of the county, so far as practicable and as soon as possible, to inform themselves of the condition of the public roads of their respective precincts, and under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioners' Court of said county, said road commissioners shall determine what character of work shall be done upon the different roads of their precincts, and when and wherever needed, they shall establish the grade of such roads and direct the manner of draining the same, which directions shall be obeyed and observed by all road overseers unless changed by order of the Commissioners' Court.

Sec. 6. The road commissioners may require each road overseer to call out the hands under his direction in such number as may be sufficient to use the teams, wagons, tools and machinery allotted to such road district and at such times as may be necessary, but no road hand shall be required to serve in any one year exceeding five days, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general law shall be extended beyond that period.

Each road overseer shall have control of all hands within his road district and subject to road duty, and shall see that each such road hand shall perform his duty in working said roads and that each hand when called out shall perform a fair day's work, and if any hand so called out shall refuse to work in a proper manner, or to do his part of any service assigned him, such road overseer shall treat him as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons, and such hand shall be liable to the same penalties as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons.

The Commissioners' Court may allow to each road overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of his duty for more than five days during any one year, a compensation not to exceed $1.50 per day for the time so served over and above five days, and in addition thereto said court may enter an order exempting such road overseer from duty in said county for the next succeeding year, if his services, in the opinion of the court, have been of a kind to merit such exemption.

Sec. 7. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall have full power and authority to adopt such system for working, laying out, and repairing the public roads in such county as to said court may seem best; and from time to time said court may change its plans or system of work in such manner as it may deem advisable. The said Commissioners' Court shall have the power to purchase such teams, wagons, tools and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its public roads, and also all material that may be needed therefor; all of which shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund of said county. The Commissioners' Court of the county may, in its discretion, work the county convicts of said county upon the public roads, and shall pay the officers one-half of the costs so worked out by them.

As a reward for faithful services and good behavior while engaged in any work upon the public roads, the said Commissioners' Court shall have the authority to grant a reasonable commutation of time for which any convict would be compelled to work in order to pay his fine and costs, and such court shall make proper rules and regulations to govern and control in the granting of such commutations.

The said Commissioners' Court shall have authority to employ such labor as may be necessary to work the public roads of the county, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund, and such labor shall be under the control of the road commissioners or such other persons as said court may employ and direct.

Sec. 8. Every owner of a farm or other lands upon which a hedge of any description grows on or near the line of a public road shall be required to keep the same trimmed so that the height of the same shall not exceed five feet above the level of the ground, and any such owner who shall fail or neglect to so trim such hedge shall be notified in writing by the road overseer of that district to trim such hedge as herein required; and in case such owner shall, after receiving such notice, fail or refuse to so trim such hedge within a reasonable time, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not to exceed twenty dollars per week from and after the time that he received said notice, such fine to be paid into the county treasury and to be placed to the credit of the road and bridge fund of said county.

If any owner of any farm shall fail or refuse, after being notified as herein required, to trim his hedge, as required by this act, then the road overseer shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with the provisions of this act, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 9. The Commissioners' Court of said county may make contracts for all supplies and materials to be used in feeding the hands and teams employed on the public roads and in the work of the same, and may make rules and regulations by which the same, and all contracts, shall be paid by the county, and all persons employed by said court shall be governed by such rules and regulations.

The said court may from time to time make all necessary rules and regulations for the government of the road commissioners, and all persons employed by said county on the public roads, which rules and regulations shall be entered upon the minutes of the court and a certified copy to be delivered to each person to be governed thereby.

Said court may require of the road commissioners to make reports at such times and in such manner as may be prescribed by the said court, and any road commissioner refusing to make such reports shall be removed, and shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not to exceed one hundred dollars.

Sec. 10. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any lands, for the purpose of opening, widening, straightening, or draining any road or any part thereof, if the owner of such land and the county can not agree upon the damages to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn lands for rights of way, and the same proceedings shall be had and the same right shall exist as to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall not be required in any case to give bond.

Sec. 11. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as a general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith; but in case of such conflict this act shall control as to the county of Travis.

The term "roads" includes the roadbeds, ditches and drains, the bridges and culverts, and every part of such road. The term "work and working," as used herein, shall include the opening and laying out of new roads, widening roads, constructing and building, repairing and draining, of such roads, and everything that may be done in and about the maintenance of such road.

Sec. 12. The fact that the public travel is in need of good roads creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so suspended, and this act shall be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 338 of the Penal Code of the State of Texas shall hereafter read as follows:

CHAPTER 26.

An act to amend Article 1814, Article 1815, and Article 1816, of Title XXXVII. of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1895 of the State of Texas, relating to the time and manner of making returns to the Secretary of State of elections for electors of President and Vice President, and of estimating the same, and of the meeting of the electors, and to add thereto Article 1815a, providing a method of determining contests for said offices.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 1814, 1815, and 1816, of the Revised Civil Statutes (1895) of the State of Texas, be amended, and a new article to be known as Article 1815a be added thereto, so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 1814. On the Monday next following the day of election, or as soon thereafter as the Commissioners' Court shall have opened the election returns, and estimated the result, in accordance with article 1753, the county judge shall make duplicate returns of the election, one of which he shall immediately transmit to the seat of government in this State, sealed in an envelope, directed to the Secretary of State, and endorsed "Election Returns for County for Presidential Electors," [filling the blank with the name of the county] and the other of such returns shall be deposited in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of the county where such election was held.

Article 1815. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of State, in the presence of the Governor and Attorney General or either of them, on the fourth Monday in November next after said election, to open all the election returns received by him, and correctly add up all the votes cast in the several counties for each of the said electors, and cause the result thereof, with the names of the persons elected, to be forthwith published in some newspaper printed at the seat of government, and shall issue certificates of election to the persons so elected.

Article 1815a. Any person or persons intending to contest the election of any or all of the persons declared elected as provided in Article 1815, as electors of president and vice-president, shall within fifteen days from the said fourth Monday in November, file with the Secretary of State a written statement of the ground on which such contestant relies to sustain such contest, and shall, within such time, notify the contestee thereof in writing, and deliver to him, his agent, or attorney, a copy of said statement. The contestee shall, within ten days after receiving such notice, file with the Secretary of State his reply thereto in writing. The contest shall, as soon thereafter as possible, be tried and determined by the State Board of Canvassers, consisting of the Governor, Attorney General, and Secretary of State, or any two of them, and their decision shall be rendered at least six days before the time fixed by law for the meeting of the electors. Such decision, in which two at least of such board shall join, shall be final, and certificates of election, in accordance therewith, shall at once be issued by the Secretary of State to the proper parties. Where not otherwise herein provided, the provisions of Chapter 7, of Title XXXVI, of the Revised Statutes, relating to contests for the validity of an election for members of the Legislature shall apply to such contests for presidential electors.

Article 1816. The electors, so chosen, shall convene in the Capitol at the seat of government of the State, on the second Monday in January next after their election, and vote for President and Vice President of the United States, and make returns thereof as is or hereafter may be required by the laws of the United States.

Sec. 2. The large number of bills on the calendar, and the impossibility of considering them all within the probably brief limits of this session, creates an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional provision requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on Tuesday, the second day of March, A. [Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval on Monday, the 8th day of March, A. Neither the State of Texas, nor the Railroad Commission of Texas, nor the head of any department of the State of Texas, prosecuting or defending in any action in their official capacity, shall be required to give bond on any appeal or writ of error taken by it, or either of them, in any civil case.

Sec. 2. The fact that the Railroad Commissioners are liable at any time to be called upon to execute appeal or writ of error bonds creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists which requires the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Article 867. An act to create a more efficient road system for Rains County, Texas, making provision for the appointment by the Commissioners' Court of said county of a county road commissioner for said county, prescribing his duties and compensation; providing for the appointment of road overseers, defining their duties and liabilities; providing for the working of county convicts, and delinquent poll tax payers, upon the public roads of said county, and regulating the same; providing for officers' fees and rewards, in convicting convicts and recapturing escaped convicts; for the summoning of teams and tools for road work, and compensation for same, and providing penalties for violations of this act, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act, and providing for County Commissioners to act as road commissioners.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Commissioners' Court of Rains county shall be empowered to appoint a county road commissioner for said county, who shall, under the direction of said court, have charge of all teams, tools, and machinery belonging to the county, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioners' Court may prescribe to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making, changing, and discontinuing of roads and the building and repairing of bridges, drains and culverts; provided, it shall be the duty of the Commissioners' Court to order the complete drainage of all basins, in the roads, so as to prevent the collecting of water thereon, and the filling in and ditching, on the sides of all hills, on said roads, where water is inclined to run down, along or across the road-bed; said county road commissioner shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, enter into a good and sufficient bond, in the sum of two thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the County Judge of said county, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that he will perform all the duties required of him by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, and that he will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into his possession: Provided, it shall be within the discretion of the Commissioners' Court of said county to appoint such county road commissioner, and in case they fail to appoint such commissioner, the Commissioners' Court shall direct the action of the road overseers in said county, and in case of the appointment of said road commissioner he shall receive such compensation for his services as may be provided by the Commissioners' Court, not exceeding one dollar and fifty cents per day, provided, he shall never receive exceeding one hundred and twenty dollars in any one year.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty to adopt such system for working, laying out and draining and repairing the public roads and bridges in said county as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plan or system of working; provided, said system or change of system shall not be in conflict with section one herein.

Said Commissioners' Court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools and machinery as may be necessary for working its roads, when there is money in the county treasury, belonging to the road and bridge fund, of said county, sufficient to pay for same and not otherwise appropriated.

Said court shall have the power to construct, grade or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract when there is sufficient road and bridge fund on hand for the payment of same. In such case, said court or the County Judge may advertise in such manner as said court may determine for bids to do such work; and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond payable to the County Judge of said county, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the County Judge of said county, in such sum as the Commissioners' Court may determine, not less than double the amount of said bid, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract, which contract shall be in writing and signed by the bidder and the County Judge of said county: Provided, that if said County Judge shall knowingly approve any bonds herein provided for, when such bond is insolvent, he shall be liable, for any loss accruing therefrom, on his official bond, to be recovered by suit in the District Court of said county.

At the time of making such contract, the court shall direct the County Treasurer to pass the amount thereof to a particular fund for that purpose, and the Treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, unless such contract shall be forfeited, in which case, it shall revert back to the road and bridge fund from which it shall be appropriated, and same shall not be paid out except upon the order of said court; and the said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads under such regulations, and for such price, as they may deem best, not in conflict with the provisions of this act; and provided further, that no contract as provided herein, shall be made unless there is sufficient money in the treasury, of the road and bridge fund, subject to such order, to meet the same; provided, that the moneys expended under this provision shall be so expended as to inure to the benefit of all portions of the county so far as practicable.

Sec. 3. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall require all county convicts not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads, under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents, on his fine and costs, for each day he may labor, to be applied first to the payment of his fine and then upon the costs. Such Commissioners' Court may provide such reasonable regulations and punishment as may be necessary to compel such convicts to perform good work; and said court may provide a reward, not to exceed twenty-five dollars, to be paid out of any road and bridge fund not otherwise appropriated, for the capture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person, other than the guard or person in charge of such convict at the time of his escape. The Commissioners' Court may grant a reasonable commutation of time, for which a convict is committed, as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-eighth of the whole time; and provided further, in case of such commutation, the losses shall be prorated on the fines and the costs.

Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicines, medical attention, and guards, for the safe and humane keeping of convicts, provided it shall not be deemed necessary to provide additional prisons, while such convicts can be successfully employed in reach of the county jail, and such convict shall be employed as herein provided, until all fines and costs assessed against him shall be fully satisfied, except as herein provided; and provided further, that such convicts be worked as nearly as practicable so that all sections of the county may be equally benefited thereby; and provided further, that guards shall receive as compensation for their services not exceeding one dollar per day, out of which they shall pay their own expenses.

Sec. 4. The county road commissioner when appointed, shall have control of all road overseers in his county, and shall deliver to each of them all teams, tools, and machinery necessary in working the roads in his precinct, so far as he has been supplied therewith by the Commissioners' Court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the Commissioners, and shall fix the liability of the overseer, and any overseer or Commissioner who shall have been entrusted with any such property belonging to said county shall be liable for any damages that may occur to the same while in his possession, caused by his negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes, without the consent of the Commissioners' Court.

It shall be the duty of the road overseer when he has finished work on his roads, for the time for which he has warned his hands, to return to said Commissioner all such property received from him, and take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the road commissioner to inform himself of the condition of the public roads of his county, and he shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining, or otherwise improving the same, not in conflict with the provisions of this act, which directions shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers under the jurisdiction of said Commissioner.

Sec. 6. The road commissioner may require each road overseer to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work then demanded or as such overseer may be able to work to advantage, with such implements and teams as may be accessible to him, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, unless as a penalty for some offense or for a failure to pay his poll taxes, or two and one-half days with a double team, or three and one-half days with a single team, unless the term of service, as prescribed by general law, shall be extended beyond five days in each year, in which case the same proportionate allowance shall be made for teams, and provided that all road hands in any particular precinct shall as far as practicable be worked a uniform time, and provided further, that sickness or any other temporary excuse from working shall not avail as a credit on the time for which such hand is liable, but shall excuse him from any penalty at that time; and provided further, that each road overseer in said county shall keep an account with each hand liable to road service in his precinct, and shall charge each one with the time for which he is liable, and credit him with each day which said hand may work under the direction of his overseer.

Each road overseer, or in case of his absence, any person deputed by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road precinct and shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand when so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalties as if he had failed to appear in obedience to summons. The overseer shall be authorized to pass upon the sufficiency of any team or substitute offered to work upon the public roads in his precinct, and when he rejects the same his decision shall be final. The Commissioners' Court may allow any overseer who shall be necessarily engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year, a compensation not to exceed one dollar and twenty-five cents per day for the time so served.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Rains County liable for road duty, who shall on or before the first day of January of each year, pay to the county Treasurer the sum of three dollars and fifty cents shall be excused from road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of January of that year. The Treasurer shall receive and receipt for all such money so paid him and place it to the credit of the road and bridge fund of the road precinct from which it is so collected. The Treasurer shall on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish to each road overseer a list of all persons in his road precinct who have paid said sum as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on roads, by paying to his overseer at any time before the time appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work on his road, and one dollar for each day he is summoned to furnish a double team for road work, and fifty cents for each day he is summoned to furnish a single team for road work, shall be exempt from working or furnishing his team for each day so paid for, and also exempt from all penalties for failure to work or furnish such team for the time for which he has so paid; and provided further, that if the overseer shall find it not necessary to work any or all of such hands or teams for the full time for which they may have been summoned, he shall credit each hand with the time actually worked, and the time necessary to reach his home, and discharge any or all such hands for the time being.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on a road, shall take with him such implements suitable for working on the road as he may be summoned and directed by the overseer to take with him, or if he has no such implement, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have; provided, the county shall be liable for, and the Commissioners' Court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to such tools as may have resulted from public road work and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer may also summon and require such road hand to bring with him for public road work such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work, provided such hand shall be allowed such time for the use of such team or teams as provided in Section eight herein.

Sec. 10. If any person liable to work upon the public roads after being legally summoned shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, to be passed on by the overseer, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or pay to such overseer the penalties provided for in Section eight herein; or having attended as required shall fail to perform good service or any other duty required of him by law or by the person under whom he may work, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars nor less than ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the Commissioners' Court in November, A. D. 1897, and at the same time in each year thereafter, all road overseers shall make their reports under oath, upon forms to be furnished them by said court, which said reports shall be examined by said court, and all accounts for services or labor performed, for overwork by him, shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable said Commissioners' Court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report, as required by law, or failing and refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duty required of him by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, or by the road commissioner, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than the sum of twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars; provided, it shall be prima facie evidence of his failure to perform his duty, if his road or roads be found in bad condition, and that he has not worked all the hands liable to road duty in his road precinct for the time for which they are liable to road duty in his road precinct for the time for which they are liable in that year; and provided further, that it shall be the duty of each overseer to report to the Commissioners' Court the state of his account with his hands; and provided further, that it shall be lawful for any overseer to deputize some one of his hands, who is fitted for the place, to perform his duties, whose acts shall have the same force and effect as if performed by the overseer himself; but the overseer shall be responsible for the negligence of his said deputy, the same as if he, himself, were guilty of such negligence.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening, or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the Commissioners' Court can not agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had, and the same right shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond, and provided that no public road shall be located within less than one hundred feet of the residence or barn of any land owner across whose land such road may be located without consent of such owner.

Sec. 13. The county road commissioner shall be entitled to one dollar and fifty cents per day for the services actually and necessarily performed, provided said sum to be paid him shall not exceed one hundred and twenty dollars per annum, which shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the same shall have been approved by the Commissioners' Court; and the court shall not approve said account, unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due, and unpaid, and specifying the number of days actually performed by him, showing where each day was spent and how, and that it was necessary to be done; and no county commissioner shall be entitled to pay as county commissioner, for inspecting the public roads in his precinct; and provided further, that no county commissioner shall be required to ride over and inspect the public roads in his precinct, nor receive any compensation for such services, but the road commissioner shall perform the duties imposed on the county commissioners as inspectors of the public roads.

Sec. 14. It shall be lawful for any delinquent poll-tax payer in Rains County, to perform two days service upon the public roads in his road precinct in each and every year, in discharge of his said delinquent poll-tax, unless the rate of poll-tax now provided for by the general laws of Texas shall be changed, in which case a proportionate time of service shall be held to discharge said delinquent for one year's poll-taxes; and provided further, that this act shall not be held to annul any laws upon the general statutes of Texas for the collection of delinquent taxes, but shall be held as cumulative thereto in Rains County; and provided further, that such delinquent taxpayers shall perform such road service, under the direction of the road overseer, under the same regulations herein provided for parties subject to road service under the general laws of the State.

Sec. 15. It shall be the duty of the Commissioners' Court, as far as practicable, to expend the money spent for bridges and improvements in the public roads for the benefit of the sections of the county in proportion to the amounts paid in from the different sections of said county.

Sec. 16. Provided, the County Commissioners' Court deem it best to not appoint a county road commissioner, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to supervise the public roads under the same provisions herein provided for county road commissioners, they to apportion the work among themselves and to enter into bond in the same manner provided for a county road commissioner, except that the bond may be for any sum not less than one thousand dollars each, and said court in such case shall designate and number the districts of each commissioner and he shall qualify as road commissioner for his road district.

Sec. 17. This act shall be taken notice of by all the courts in the same manner as the general laws of this State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges, when not in conflict therewith, but in case of conflict this act shall control as to the County of Rains.

Sec. 18. All laws and part of laws, in conflict herewith, are hereby repealed.

An act to authorize the Commissioner of the General Land Office to forfeit all lands heretofore sold by the State under any of the various acts of the Legislature, for failure to pay any portion of the interest thereon.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That if upon the first day of November of any year any portion of the interest due by any person to the State of Texas for lands heretofore sold by the State of Texas, whether said lands be a part of the public domain or shall have been heretofore set apart for the public schools, university, or any of the other various State institutions, has not been paid, it shall be the duty of the Land Commissioner to endorse on the obligation for said lands, "Lands forfeited," and shall cause an entry to that effect to be made on the account kept with such purchaser, and thereupon said land shall thereby be forfeited to the State, without the necessity of re-entry or judicial ascertainment, and shall revert to the particular fund to which it originally belonged, and be resold under the provisions of the existing law, or any future law; provided, the purchaser of said land shall have the right, at any time within six months after such endorsement of "Lands forfeited," to institute a suit in District Court of Travis County, Texas, against the Commissioner of the General Land Office, for the purpose of contesting such forfeiture and setting aside the same, upon the ground that the facts did not exist, authorizing such forfeiture, but if no such suit has been instituted as above provided, such forfeiture of the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall then become fixed and conclusive; provided, that if any purchaser shall die, or shall have died, his heirs or legal representatives shall have one year in which to make payment after the first day of November next after such death.

This act is cumulative, and is not intended to deny to the State the right to institute any legal proceedings that may be deemed necessary to secure the purchase money or possession of the land so sold. And this act is intended to be applicable to all purchases heretofore made under any or all of the various acts of the Legislature under which land may have been sold by the State.

Sec. 2. The fact that the authority of the Land Commissioner to make forfeitures of land without judicial ascertainment has been questioned, and the fact that there are now more than ten thousand purchases which can be forfeited under the law, for non-payment of the interest due thereon, and the further fact that it is almost impossible and certainly impracticable to institute so many different suits against so many different purchasers, creates an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the rule providing that bills be read on three several days, and the same is hereby suspended.

Approved, March 25, 1897.

Takes effect 90 days after adjournment.

CHAPTER 38.

An act to authorize the Comptroller of Public Accounts and the State Treasurer to transfer the sum of twenty thousand dollars from organized county tax fund account to State revenue account.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Comptroller of Public Accounts and State Treasurer are hereby authorized and it is made their duty to transfer on the books of their respective departments, the sum of twenty thousand dollars from organized county tax account to State revenue account; the said amount having been at various times erroneously deposited to the credit of organized county tax account when it should have been deposited to the credit of State revenue account.

Sec. 2. The fact that the sum of money above named has been lying in the State treasury for a number of years to the credit organized county tax fund account, and thereby the State revenue account is deprived of the use of the same, creates an emergency and a public necessity that the law requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, March 26, 1897.

An act to amend Article 636, Title 20, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to the acknowledgment of married women as to the conveyance of the homestead.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 636, Title 20, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Article 636. The homestead of the family shall not be sold and conveyed by the owner, if a married man, without the consent of the wife. Such consent shall be evidenced by the wife joining in the conveyance and signing her name thereto, and by her separate acknowledgment thereof taken and certified to before the proper officer and in the mode pointed out in Article 4621.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is now no adequate law in the State of Texas, for the acknowledgment of married women in the conveyance of homesteads, creates an imperative public necessity that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, March 26, 1897.

An act to amend Article 635, Title 20, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to the acknowledgments of married women as to the conveyance of their separate property.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 635, Title 20, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Article 635. The husband and wife shall join in the conveyance of real estate, the separate property of the wife; and no such conveyance shall take effect until the same shall have been acknowledged by her privily and apart from her husband before some officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments to deeds for the purpose of being recorded, and certified to in the mode pointed out in Article 4621.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is now no adequate law in the State of Texas for the conveyance of real estate, the separate property of the wife, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That any person who shall wilfully or maliciously throw a stone or other missile, or fire any gun, or pistol, at, against, or into, any engine, tender, coach, passenger car, whether moving or not, or any other car of any moving train on any railway, or any railway depot, or any private residence, school house, church house, court house, store house, hotel, or other public or private building, public or private tent, sail-boat or steam-boat, in this State, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction therefor shall be fined in any sum of not less than five dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars, or be confined in the county jail for any term of not less than ten days nor more than two years. During such term, such convict may be put to hard labor.

CHAPTER 42.

An act to amend Articles 744a and 744b, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas of 1895, relating to corporations for the construction of Union Depots.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 744a and 744b, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas of 1895, be and the same are hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 744a. Corporations may be formed for the purpose of acquiring, owning, maintaining, and operating, union passenger depots in any city or town into which any two or more railroad companies may own or operate a railroad.

Such corporations may be formed in the manner provided in Title 21 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas; and such corporations shall have power and authority to acquire, own or lease, maintain and operate railroad tracks in any city or town for the purpose of enabling railroad companies to run their trains to and from the union depot, such tracks not to extend to a greater distance than three miles from such union depot; and such corporations may also add additional stories to their depot buildings, and rent the same for offices, or other purposes; and may also provide on their property, buildings for express purposes, and rent the same to express companies; provided, that the Railroad Commission of Texas shall have the same supervision and control over said railroads and tariff rates and depots that it has over any other lines of railroad and depot buildings in this State.

Sec. 2. Article 744b. The provisions of Chapter 14, Title XCIV, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, shall govern and control the issuance of stock and bonds of such companies, as far as the same are applicable. Railway companies existing under the laws of this State, whether under general or special law, and railway companies incorporated under any general or special law of the United States, are authorized and empowered to subscribe to the stock and purchase and own stock and bonds of any depot company formed under the authority of this act.

Sec. 3. The fact that there are no adequate provisions of law under which the purposes of this act can be accomplished, and the fact that the construction of union depots, which are now greatly needed, would probably be secured by the prompt passage of this act, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency, justifying a suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and it is so suspended, and that this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 43.

An act to amend Articles 5139 and 5152 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, adopted at the regular session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature, relating to the assessment and collection of taxes on lands in unorganized counties belonging to non-residents, and to add thereto Article 5152a.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 5139 and 5152 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, adopted at the regular session of the Twenty-fourth Legislature, be and the same are hereby amended, and a new article to be known as Article 5152a added, so as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 5139. The Comptroller of the State is authorized, empowered, and required, to assess and collect the State and county taxes on all lands in this State which are situated in unorganized counties thereof and owned by non-residents thereof, in the manner hereinafter provided.

Article 5152. All county taxes, other than taxes to pay pro rata of indebtedness to parent county, due unorganized counties, collected by the Comptroller, shall be kept by him to the credit of such unorganized county until the total sum to the credit of the county shall reach the sum of $5000. Then he shall, upon the demand of the treasurer of the former unorganized county, when the same shall have organized, pay said sum, or whatever amount is held to the credit of said county, over to said Treasurer. And all county taxes collected by the Comptroller after the amount to the credit of such unorganized county shall reach the amount of $5000, shall be paid into the county treasurer of the organized county to which the unorganized county is attached for judicial purposes.

Article 5152a. Where the amount to the credit of any unorganized county now exceeds $5000, the Comptroller shall keep said sum to be paid to the treasurer of such unorganized county when the same shall organize; and all county taxes, other than taxes collected to pay pro rata of indebtedness to parent county, hereafter collected by the Comptroller in such counties, shall be paid into the county treasury of the organized county to which such county is attached for judicial purposes.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed; and there being no law authorizing the collection of county taxes from non-residents of unorganized counties, nor any law to make available such taxes within the time and for the purposes for which they were levied and collected, an emergency and an imperative public necessity exist wherefore the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and this act should take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, (nays not given); and having passed the House, with amendments, by a two-thirds vote, yeas 86, nays none, was returned to the Senate, and the Senate concurred in said amendments (vote not given).]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Thursday, the eighteenth day of March, A. CHAPTER 44.

An act to prescribe the time of holding the terms of the District Court in the 25th Judicial District of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the terms of the District Court of the 25th Judicial District of Texas shall be held on and after July 1, 1897: In Gonzales county, on the first Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session six weeks. In Colorado County, on the first Monday in March and September of each year, and may continue in session four weeks. In Lavaca County, on the first Monday in April and October of each year, and may continue in session four weeks. In Guadalupe County, on the first Monday in May and November of each year, and may continue in session four weeks. In Wilson County, on the first Monday in June and December of each year, and may continue in session four weeks.

Sec. 2. That all process and writs heretofore issued or which may be issued up to the time this act takes effect by or from the District Court of said counties, and made returnable to the terms of said court as now fixed by law, shall be returnable to the next ensuing term of said courts as prescribed by this act, and all such writs and process are hereby legalized and validated as if the same had been made returnable to the term of said courts as fixed by this act.

Sec. 3. The fact that these courts will meet in less than ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 45.

An act to amend Article 616a, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, of 1895, relating to the formation of independent school districts, and prohibiting towns within such districts from assuming control of the schools therein while the independent district exists, and to validate certain independent school districts heretofore organized.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 616a, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, of 1895, be amended so that it shall hereafter read as follows:

Article 616a. Towns and villages authorized to incorporate under this Chapter, or having two hundred inhabitants or over, may form an incorporation for (free) school purposes only, which may include within its bounds a town or village incorporated for municipal purposes, the same not having assumed control of the public schools within its limits; provided, that the territory so incorporated for (free) school purposes shall not exceed an area of twenty-five square miles; and when so desiring, an election may be held under the provisions of this title and chapter, and if, at such election, a majority of the votes cast be in favor of the incorporation, it shall be the duty of the county judge to make return thereof, and cause a record of the result of such election to be made, the same as provided for by Articles 585 and 586 of this chapter; upon which entry being made, such town or village shall be regarded as duly incorporated for the purpose of establishing and maintaining free schools therein, and shall, upon notice to the State board of education by the board of trustees hereinafter provided for, receive such pro rata share of the available school fund as its scholastic population may entitle it to. And provided, also, that all school incorporations hereafter formed under the provisions of this act shall have the right to levy and collect taxes and issue bonds for school purposes, the same as school incorporations heretofore formed.

When a town or a village is included in a corporation for (free) school purposes, and such town or village shall afterwards be incorporated for municipal purposes, it shall not thereby acquire a right to take the control of the schools within its limits out of the hands of the school corporation.

Sec. 2. Independent school districts heretofore organized which have not the required population in the town proper, but have such population in the whole independent district, shall be validated by this act.

Sec. 3. All laws and parts of laws, general or special, in conflict with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The fact that several independent school districts are affected by this act, and as the time for holding elections of trustees is near at hand, creates an imperative necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule providing that bills be read on three several days, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 46.

An act to prevent the payment of any deficiency that may arise in any department of State Government or institutions of this State, unless an estimate of the same shall have been made out, sworn to, and presented to and approved by the Governor, and filed with the Comptroller, at least thirty days before such deficiency occurs.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all Heads of Departments, Managers of State Institutions, or other persons intrusted with the power or duty of contracting for supplies or in any manner pledging the credit of the State for any deficiency that may arise under their management or control, shall, at least thirty days before such deficiency shall occur, make out a sworn estimate of the amount necessary to cover such deficiency until the meeting of the next Legislature. Such estimate shall be filed with the Governor of the State, who shall carefully examine the same and approve the whole or any part thereof, and when approved, shall file the same with the Comptroller, and no claims shall be allowed by the Comptroller, or paid by the Treasurer unless such estimate has been filed and approved as aforesaid: Provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to fees and dues for which the State of Texas may be liable under the general law.

Sec. 2. Provided, further, when any injury or damage shall occur to any public property from flood, storm, or any unavoidable cause, the estimate may be filed at once, but must be approved by the Governor as provided in Section 1 of this bill.

All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed, and this law shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Sec. 3. The fact that there is now no law on the statutes of this State preventing the useless expenditure of public funds in this manner, and the further fact that this session is drawing to a close, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the nineteenth day of March, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the House in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. An act to amend the Collin, Grayson, Williamson, Lamar, and Bell County, road laws, said law passed by the 23rd Legislature, by amending Section 10, in regard to the payment of commissioners when acting as road commissioners.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Section 10, as described in the caption of this act, shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 10. Each county commissioner, when acting as road commissioner and performing the duties imposed upon him by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for the services actually performed; provided, that he shall not receive more than ninety dollars per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the Commissioners' Court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due, and unpaid, and specifying the number of days' work actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner while he is performing the duties of a county commissioner.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Owing to the crowded condition of the calendar and the improbability of reaching the bill before adjournment of the Legislature creates an emergency and imperative necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this bill be placed on its third reading, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Thursday, the eighteenth day of March, A. Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 749c, of Chapter 18, of Title XXI, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be amended so as to read as follows:

Article 749c. All private corporations authorized by the laws of Texas, as provided in Article 642, to do business in this State, whose main purpose is not the acquisition or ownership of lands, as mentioned in the preceding articles, which have, heretofore, or may, hereafter, acquire, by lease, purchase, or otherwise, more land than is necessary to enable them to carry on their business, shall, within fifteen years from the time this law takes effect, or the date said land may be hereafter acquired in good faith, sell and convey in fee simple all lands so acquired, and which are not necessary for the transaction of their business. And no private corporation shall be permitted to purchase any land under the provisions of this and the preceding articles, unless the lands so purchased are necessary to enable such corporation to do business in this State, or except where such land is purchased in due course of business, to secure the payment of debt; provided, however, that nothing in this law shall be construed to prohibit the lease, purchase, sale, or subdivision of real property within incorporated towns, cities, or villages, and their suburbs, not extending more than two miles beyond their corporate limits, by corporations whose charters authorize them to lease, purchase, sell, and subdivide, real estate, within towns, cities, and villages, and their suburbs, whether their suburbs be stated to be measured from the limits, merely, or the corporate limits, of such towns, cities, and villages; and provided, further, that all such corporations now existing, or which may be hereafter created, shall be authorized to lease, sell, or subdivide real property in any unincorporated city, town, or village, or the suburbs thereof, within this State; provided, if there be a court house in such city, town, or village, such lease, sale, or subdivision, may extend two miles in any direction from such court house. If there be a depot or depots, and no court house, then, the two miles shall be measured from the depot nearest the center of such city, town, or village; and in case there be neither court house nor depot, then, the two miles shall be measured from the center of such city, town, or village.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 2979, of Chapter 4, Title 55, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to divorce, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read hereafter as follows, to-wit:

Article 2979. In all suits and proceedings for divorce from the bonds of matrimony, the defendant shall not be compelled to answer upon oath, nor shall the petition be taken as confessed for want of answer, but the decree of the court shall be rendered upon full and satisfactory evidence, upon the verdict of a jury, if a jury shall have been demanded by either party, and if not, upon the judgment of the court affirming the material facts alleged in the petition. In all such suits and proceedings the husband and wife shall be competent witnesses for and against each other, but neither party shall be compelled to testify as to any matter that will criminate himself or herself, and where the husband or wife testifies, the court or jury trying the case shall determine the credibility of such witness, and the weight to be given such testimony; but no divorce shall be granted upon the evidence of either husband or wife, if there be any collusion between them.

An act to enable the Railroad Commission of Texas to make emergency freight rates to prevent the evil effects of inter-state rate wars upon the business and interests of the people and railroads of this State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That in addition to the powers conferred on the Railroad Commission of Texas by Articles 4563 and 4567 of the Revised Statutes of this State, said Commission shall have power, when deemed by it necessary, to stop or prevent inter-state rate wars and injury to the business or interests of the people or railroads of this State, or in case of any other emergency, to be judged of by the Commission; and it shall be its duty, after three days' notice to the roads interested, to alter, amend, or suspend any existing freight rate on any railroad in this State, or to fix freight rates where none exist.

Sec. 2. That said emergency rates, so made by the Commission, shall apply on any one or more of all the railroads in this State, or part of railroads, as may be directed by the Commission.

Sec. 3. That said rates, so made, shall take effect at such time, and remain in force for such length of time as may be prescribed by the Commission.

Sec. 4. Whereas, there is no law of this State by which the evil effects of rate wars on inter-state railroads leading into this State can be prevented, a public necessity and emergency exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, and that this act shall take immediate effect, said constitutional rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved April 5, 1897.

CHAPTER 53.

An act to validate all office forfeitures of lands heretofore made by the Commissioner of the General Land Office for the non-payment of any part of the interest due thereon, which land has been heretofore sold by the State through any of its authorized agencies, and without reference to the date when, or the acts of the Legislature under which said sales were made.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all forfeitures of public land, university land, public school land, or land set apart to any of the various State institutions, which have been heretofore sold under any of the various acts of the Legislature, and the forfeitures made by the Commissioner of the General Land Office for non-payment of any part of the interest due thereon, and without judicial ascertainment, shall be and the same are hereby in all things made valid; provided, that such purchaser shall have the right at any time within six months after the passage of this act, and not afterward, to institute suit in the District Court of Travis County against the Commissioner of the General Land Office to set aside such forfeiture, upon the ground that the facts did not exist authorizing such forfeiture, and such forfeiture shall be a full liquidation of all claims of the State against such purchaser.

Sec. 2. The fact that many tracts of land have been forfeited by the Land Commissioner, and that his authority so to do has been questioned, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays none; and being amended in the House, passed the same by a two-thirds vote, yeas 91, nays 7; and the Senate concurred in said amendments (vote not given).]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Tuesday, the twenty-third day of March, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

An act to amend Article 2601, Chapter 6, Title 51, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to bonds of guardians, and sureties thereon.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 2601, Chapter 6, Title 51, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

CHAPTER 55.

An act to prohibit in certain cases the gathering of pecan nuts, and the cutting, injuring or destroying of pecan trees, and prescribing a penalty therefor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: Any person who shall, hereafter, gather any pecan nuts upon enclosed land not owned leased or controlled by him, unless it be made to appear in defense that it was done by the consent of the owner, lessor, or person in control, or any person who shall cut, destroy, or injure any pecan timber upon lands not his own unless it be made to appear in defense that it was done with the consent of the owner thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than five dollars, and not more than three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 2. The fact that the pecan industry is now seriously suffering from, and its existence jeopardized by wanton and reckless destruction of pecan trees by others than their owners, creates an imperative public necessity that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 56.

An act to create a more efficient road system for Wise County, Texas, and making County Commissioners of said County ex-officio road Commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and defining the duties and powers of such county commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the public roads of said county, and providing officers' fees, and to provide for the payment for teams to work on roads and allowance for time of service for same on public roads in Wise County, and fixing penalty for violation of this act, and repeal all laws in conflict with this act, as to Wise County.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each member of the Commissioners' Court of Wise County shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the Commissioners' Court of said county, shall have charge of all teams, tools, and implements belonging to said county and placed in their hands by said court, and it shall be their duty under such rules and regulations as the Commissioners' Court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of the commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, execute a bond of seven hundred dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the County Judge, or his successor, of said county, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, and that they will account for all property belonging to the county that may come into their possession, that with the consent of the Commissioners' Court, any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute the same bond that is required of commissioners in this section, and such deputy road commissioner shall receive any amount agreed upon by the Commissioners' Court, not to exceed two dollars per day. Provided: that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation as road commissioners, when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be their duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining and repairing the public roads in said county as they may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plans or system of working said roads: Said court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools, and implements as may be necessary for the working of said roads; such court shall have the power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge, by contract; in such case said court, or the County Judge, by the authority of the Commissioners' Court, may advertise in such manner as the court may determine, for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond payable to the County Judge and his successor in office of said county, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract, but the court shall reserve the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making the said contract, the Commissioners' Court shall direct the county treasurer to place the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such fund, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court, and the said court shall have the power to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads in said county under such regulations and for such prices as they may deem it to the best interest of said county, not to exceed two dollars and fifty cents per day of ten hours per day, for a team and driver, and not to exceed one dollar and twenty-five cents per day for day hands; and no road hand when working out his time on the road shall be required to work but eight hours per day, but when hands are hired by the day they shall be required to work ten hours per day.

Sec. 3. The commissioners of said county may require all county convicts of said county not otherwise employed, to labor on the public roads, under such regulations as said court may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents, on his fine first, then on the cost, for each day that he may labor. The commissioners may at a regular term allow to the officers such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convict as it may deem best: provided, that it shall not allow to any officer an amount greater than the following: The County Attorney, five dollars, including commissions: County Clerk and Justice of the Peace, one dollar and seventy cents, sheriffs or Constable, two dollars: which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund on the warrant allowed by the Commissioners' Court, when said fine and cost shall have been worked out as provided for in this section: Provided, that this shall not be construed so as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State. The Commissioners' Court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for good behavior and faithful service: Provided, that such commutation shall in no case exceed one-tenth of the whole time. The Commissioners' Court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention and guards for the safe and humane treatment of convicts.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners, when acting as road commissioners, to inform themselves of the condition of the public roads in their districts, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all overseers of his district.

Sec. 5. The commissioners may require each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such number as may be sufficient to perform the work necessary: Provided, no road hand shall be required to work more than five days in any one year, and Provided, that all road hands in a particular district shall as far as practicable be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and he shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work, and if any hand so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The Commissioners' Court may allow any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year, a compensation not to exceed one dollar per day for the time he may serve over five days.

Sec. 6. Every person liable to work on public roads in Wise County who shall pay to his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work shall be excused from work for each day paid for.

Sec. 7. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, or such tool as he is desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have; and any person furnishing a team to work on the county roads of Wise County shall receive a credit of two days work for each day that said team shall be furnished. The county shall be liable for, and the Commissioners' Court, under such regulations as they prescribe, shall pay for all damage done to tools while being used on said roads for public road work, not caused by the negligence of the party furnishing the same.

Sec. 8. If any person liable to work upon the public roads, after being legally summoned, shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to the overseer such sum as one dollar per day for each day summoned to work, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof he shall be fined in any sum not to exceed ten dollars.

Sec. 9. At the regular term in November of the Commissioners' Court, each year, all road overseers of Wise County shall make their report and forms to be furnished them by the Commissioners' Court; said reports shall state the condition of their roads, number of hands and the name of each hand subject to road work, and the number of days that each hand has worked, amount of all money collected and expended; and if there is a balance on hand, it shall be turned over to his successor in office, to be paid out for work on said road; said report shall be sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oaths; said reports shall be examined by the Commissioners' Court, and if they be found correct, shall be approved by said court, and as soon thereafter as practicable, the same court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or failing to comply with the law in any way concerning his duties as overseer, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 10. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening, or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of said land can not agree with the court as to damages to be paid, the court may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right exist to each party that would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 11. Each county commissioner when acting as road commissioner shall be entitled to two dollars per day for services actually performed: Provided, that he shall not receive more than one hundred and fifty dollars for any one year, said amount to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, when the account shall have been approved by the Commissioners' Court, and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath, that the account is just, due, and unpaid, and said account shall specify the number of days work actually performed by him; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner for the days that he is performing the duties of county commissioner, nor shall he be allowed pay for any other road service, except as herein provided for, neither shall he be required to inspect the roads as heretofore provided by law.

Sec. 12. This act shall be cumulative of all general laws on this subject and be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges, when not in conflict therewith, but in case of conflict, this act shall control as to Wise County, and all laws conflicting herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 13. The fact that a more efficient road law is needed, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 57.

An act to amend Article 22, Title 4, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas (1895), so as to extend the terms of the District Court in Orange and Jefferson Counties.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas. That Article 22, Title 4, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas of 1895, be so amended as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 22. The first judicial district shall be composed of the counties of Jasper, Newton, Orange, Jefferson and Tyler, and the District Court therein shall be held as follows:

In the county of Jasper on the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session for three (3) weeks; in the county of Newton on the third Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session for three (3) weeks; in the county of Orange on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session five (5) weeks; in the county of Jefferson on the eleventh Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session six (6) weeks; in the county of Tyler on the seventeenth Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session until business is disposed of.

Sec. 2. That all process and writs heretofore issued or which may be issued up to the time this act takes effect, by or from the District Court of said counties, and made returnable to the terms of said court as now fixed by law, shall be returnable to the next ensuing term of said courts as prescribed by this act, and all such writs and processes are hereby legalized and validated as if the same had been made returnable to the term of said courts as fixed by this act.

Sec. 3. Whereas, the time now allowed for the terms of the District Court in Orange and Jefferson counties is not sufficient, and by reason thereof the dockets of said court are crowded with work undisposed of, renders it necessary and creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and said rule is hereby suspended, and it is so enacted.

An act to amend Article 1942, Chapter 8, Title 39, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, of 1895, relating to bonds of administrators and executors and sureties thereon.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 1942, Chapter 8, Title 39, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 1942. Before the issuance of letters testamentary or of administration the person to whom letters are granted shall enter into bond with at least two good and sufficient sureties, who shall be bona fide residents of this State, to be approved by and payable to the County Judge of the county, in such penalty as he may direct, not less than double the estimated value of the estate of the testator or intestate, except in the case of temporary administrator, when the bond shall be in such sum as the county judge may direct; provided, that such bond may be made by any corporation or corporations organized or created under the laws of this State, or foreign corporations permitted to do business in this State, for the purpose of issuing surety, guaranty, or indemnity bonds guaranteeing the fidelity of executors, administrators and guardians, and may be accepted by the County Judge.

CHAPTER 59.

An act to validate the incorporation of cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over, incorporated since March 30th, 1895, which have heretofore attempted to be made under certain conditions.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over, incorporated since March 30th, 1895, which have heretofore attempted to accept the provisions of Chapter 1, Title 18, of the Revised Civil Statutes, and which have attempted to be incorporated under the provisions of said general law, but which said attempted incorporation is invalid by reason of the failure of said cities or towns to comply with all the requirements of the law relating to the incorporation of towns or villages, but which said cities or towns have from and after the dates of their several efforts to accept the provisions of law relating to the incorporation of cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over, exercised the functions of cities or towns of the class named, and been recognized as such cities or towns, be and are hereby declared to be cities of one thousand inhabitants or over, and their incorporation as such is hereby in all things validated; Provided, that nothing in this act shall be held to validate the incorporation of cities or towns that had less than one thousand inhabitants at the time of their attempted incorporation as such cities or towns of one thousand inhabitants or over.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the close of the 25th Legislature is near at hand, therefore an emergency and an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and the same is hereby suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 60.

An act to create a more efficient road system for McLennan County, Texas, and making county commissioners of said county ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and defining the powers and duties of such county commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts on the public roads of said county, and providing for officers' fees, and rewards and penalties for said convicts, and rewards for the capture of escaped convicts, and to provide for the manner and training and maintaining hedges along all public roads, and to provide for the summoning of teams for road work, and for an allowance for time of road service for the same, and fixing a penalty for a violation of this act, and to repeal all laws in conflict herewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the members of the Commissioners' Court of McLennan County shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the Commissioners' Court shall have charge of all the teams, tools, and machinery belonging to the county and placed in their hands by said county, and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioners' Court may prescribe, to superintend said laying out of new roads and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, in addition to his regular bond as such county commissioner, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the County Judge of said county for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to adopt such system of working, laying out, draining, and repairing the public roads in said county as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plan or system of working.

Said Commissioners' Court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools, and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its roads. Said court shall have the power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case said court, if they deem it necessary, or the County Judge, may advertise in such manner as the court may determine for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond, payable to the County Judge of said county for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. The said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads, under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best.

Sec. 3. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall require all county convicts, not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine and costs for each day he may so labor. Such Commissioners' Court may provide such reasonable regulations and punishments as may be necessary to require such convicts to perform good work; and may provide a reward not exceeding ten dollars, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, for the recapture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person other than the guard or person in charge of such convict at the time of his escape, which reward shall be taxed against such convict and worked out or paid by him as a part of the cost. The commissioners may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-tenth of the whole time. Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention, and guards, for the safe and humane keeping of convicts. The Commissioners' Court may, at a regular term, allow to the officers such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convict as it may deem best; provided, that it shall not allow to any officer a greater amount than he is now or may hereafter be allowed by general laws; provided, that this shall not be construed as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have control of all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them all tools and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, so far as he has been supplied therewith by the Commissioners' Court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liability of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any teams, tools, or machinery belonging to said county shall be liable for any damage that may occur to the same while in his possession caused by his negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes without the consent of the Commissioners' Court. It shall be the duty of the road overseer when he has finished work on his roads to return to said commissioner all tools and machinery received from him and take up the receipt taken therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the county commissioner when acting as road overseer to inform himself of the condition of the public roads of his district, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining, or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require of each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, or two days with himself and team, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time; and provided, that all road hands in any particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer, or, in case of his absence, any person deputized by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand when so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the road overseer may direct, shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of McLennan county liable for road duty who shall on or before the first day of February of each year pay to the county treasurer the sum of three dollars shall be exempt from all road duty for such year beginning on the first day of February. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all moneys so paid him, and shall place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund. The treasurer shall on the third day of February, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish to each county commissioner a list of all persons in their respective districts that have paid said sum as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on roads, by paying his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar each day that he is summoned to work, and one dollar and fifty cents for each day that he is summoned to furnish his team for road work, shall be exempt for working or furnishing his team for each day paid for, and also be exempt from any penalties for failure to work or furnish such teams for the time for which he has so paid.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, plow, scraper, or such other tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tools as are desired by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have; provided, the county shall be liable for, and the Commissioners' Court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to such tools as may have resulted from public road work and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer may also summon and require such road hand to bring with him for public road work such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work; provided, such hand shall be allowed two and one-half days' time for each day put in by a hand with his team and one and one-half day's time for his team without such hand.

Sec. 10. If any person liable to work upon the public roads, after being legally summoned, shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may have been notified to work on the road, or to pay such overseer the sum of one dollar and fifty cents for each day he may have been notified to furnish his team for road work, or having attended shall fail to perform such good service or any other duty required of him by law or the person under whom he may work, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof fined in any sum not exceeding ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the Commissioners' Court in February of each year, all road overseers shall make their reports under oath, upon forms to be furnished them by said court, which said report shall be examined by said court, and all accounts of moneys had and expended by him shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable said Commissioners' Court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year, and in the event of the death, refusal or inability to act on the part of any road overseer so appointed, the county commissioner of the precinct shall have authority to fill the vacancy and report his action in writing to the county clerk, who shall record the same in the minutes of the Commissioners' Court either in term time or vacation. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duty required of him by law or by the Commissioners' Court, or by the commissioner of his district, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for opening, widening, straightening, or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the Commissioners' Court can not agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the manner that a railroad company may condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to such party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond; provided, that nothing contained in this section shall be held to repeal the provisions of the general law relating to the opening of public roads by juries of view, but this section shall be cumulative thereof, and the Commissioners' Court of McLennan County may act under such general law, or the provisions of this section at their option in such case.

Sec. 13. It shall be the duty of the overseer to keep all hedges on or near the public road trimmed, so that the same shall not obstruct said road and shall not be of greater height than eight feet. The owner of any such hedge who shall refuse to have same trimmed, the overseer upon an order from the county commissioner of his precinct shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Sec. 14. Each county commissioner, when acting as road commissioner and performing the duties imposed upon him by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, shall be entitled to three dollars per day for the services actually performed; provided, that he shall not draw such pay for more than thirty-five days per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund, when the account shall have been approved by the Commissioners' Court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath the account is just, due, and unpaid, and specifying the number of days actually performed by him and that it was necessary to be done; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner while he is performing the duties of county commissioner, nor shall he receive any additional pay than that provided by this section for inspecting or riding over his road or for other service.

Sec. 15. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith, but in case of conflict, this act shall control as to the County of McLennan, except where otherwise provided herein.

Sec. 16. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 61.

An act to amend Article 616, Chapter 11, Title 18, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to abolished town and city corporations.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 616, Chapter 11, Title 18, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 616. When any corporation is abolished as provided in Articles 617b and 617c of the Revised Statutes, or if any de facto corporation shall be declared void by any court of competent jurisdiction, or if the same shall cease to operate and exercise the functions of such de facto corporation, all the property belonging thereto shall be turned over to the county treasurer of the county, and the Commissioners' Court of the county shall provide for the sale and disposition of the same, and for the settlement of the debts due by the corporation, and shall carry out and enforce all legal contracts of such corporation, and for this purpose shall have power to levy and collect a tax from the inhabitants of said town or village in the same manner as the said corporation would be entitled to, under the provisions of this chapter; provided, that when any town or city shall re-incorporate, under Chapter 1 or 11 of Title 18 of the Revised Statutes, upon a majority of the legal voters, tax-paying property holders of said town or city, all property, real and personal, of the old or de facto corporation, shall be vested in the new one; and provided, further, that the new corporation shall assume all the legal indebtedness, contracts and obligations of the old corporation; provided, where cities and towns have re-incorporated under Chapters one or eleven of Title eighteen of the Revised Civil Statutes, upon a majority of the tax-paying property owners of said city or town, all property, real or personal, of the old or de facto corporation shall be vested in the new corporation; provided, further, that the new corporation shall assume all the legal indebtedness, contracts, and obligations of the old corporation.

Sec. 2. There being no provisions by which new corporations can be vested with the property, and assume the indebtedness of the old corporation, and carry out and enforce contracts made by such corporations, an emergency exists, and an important public necessity demands the suspension of the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended; and it is so suspended and declared that this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays —; and passed the House (vote not given).]

CHAPTER 63.

An act to secure a system of drainage along the public roads of the State by excavating ditches and drains on either side thereof, leading into the natural water-ways crossed by or adjacent to such roads, and to provide for the making of lateral drainage ditches to empty into the same, by the owners of lands adjacent to said roads; and to provide for the payment of expense incurred therefor, and for the collection of assessments from adjoining land owners benefitted by such drainage system.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That for the purpose of this act, all public roads and highways that have been heretofore, or that may hereafter be laid out and established agreeable to law, and all roads and highways that have been opened to and used by the public for a period of ten years prior to the passage of this act, and which have not been discontinued or closed to the use of the public agreeable to law, are hereby declared to be public roads.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners' Court of any county in this State, at any regular session thereof, may, in the manner hereinafter provided, and the said court shall have power to cause to be constructed and maintained as hereinafter provided, ditches, drains, and water-courses, on and within the exterior lines of all public roads situated within any of the said counties, sufficient in capacity to carry off and into the natural water-ways of the county, all surface water reasonably adjacent and liable to collect in said ditch, drain, or water-course, from natural causes, or by means of the construction of private lateral ditches as hereinafter provided for, and shall also have power to construct, in connection with such drain or water-course, any side lateral spur or branch ditch or water-course necessary to the accomplishment of the purposes of this act; provided, however, that no ditch, drain, or water-course shall be constructed along any public road without there being constructed, at the same time, a ditch, drain, or water-course, as an outlet to a natural water-way, sufficient in capacity to carry off all water that may collect therein; provided, further, that the word "ditch" in this act, hereafter shall be construed to embrace any ditch, drain, or water-course, that may be constructed under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 3. Before the Commissioners' Court of such county shall have the power to order the construction or establishment of any ditch, drain, or water-course provided for in this act, there shall be filed with the county clerk of the County Court of said county a petition signed by at least one hundred tax-payers and voters of said county, which petition shall set forth the necessity and availability for such drainage system, and the number of miles of public roads within such county, as accurately as the same may be known, and as near as practicable, the width and depth required for the ditches to be constructed along the first-class roads of the county. Said petition shall, also, separately state the name and location of each of the natural water-ways of such county, crossed by each of the first-class public roads of the said county, and the distance of said natural water-ways, one from the other, along said road; said petition shall also state the names and residence, if known, of the owners of the lands adjacent to each of said first-class public roads, and within one mile thereof, and if unknown, the same shall be stated therein.

Sec. 4. Upon the filing of said petition with the clerk of the County Court he shall issue five notices in writing, containing a brief statement of the contents of said petition, commanding all persons interested, to appear at the next regular term of the Commissioners' Court of such county and contest the same. One of said notices shall be posted at the court-house door of such county, and one each at four other public places in such county, no two of which shall be in the same town or city, for twenty days prior to the first day of the next regular term of the Commissioners' Court after the issuance thereof. Said notices shall be posted by the sheriff of the county, who shall make due returns to the clerk of the County Court of such notices, on or before the said first day of the term, and for such services the sheriff shall receive a fee of three dollars, and the clerk shall receive a fee of one dollar and fifty cents.

Sec. 5. At the next regular term after the filing of the petition and issuance of notices, the Commissioners' Court shall hear and determine the same in connection with all protests, remonstrances, or objections thereto, and if they find that the adoption of the drainage system provided for herein is necessary, advisable, or for the public benefit, or for the best interest of the county, the said court shall so order, and the order shall be entered at length upon the minutes of the court, and become a part of the record thereof, and the same shall recite the time, character, and manner of service of notice, and if it appears therefrom that notice has been given as provided for herein, the said order shall be final, and thereafter no question shall be raised as to the power of the court to hear and determine said application.

Sec. 6. At the same or any succeeding term of the Commissioners' Court after the entry of the order adopting the drainage system provided for herein, the Commissioners' Court shall employ a competent surveyor, who shall be an engineer, to run a line of levels along the public roads of the county, and to measure the same from the beginning to the terminus of said road, and to measure the distance of each water-way crossed by said roads from the beginning point, together with the frontage of each tract of land abutting on said road, and also, the distance from said road of any adjacent natural water-way, with a line of levels thereto; provided, that the said survey and the drainage system herein provided for, shall be first applied to the first-class roads of such county, and thereafter to roads of the second and third class; and provided, further, that nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the said court from constructing one or more ditches at the same time, as the financial condition of the county will permit.

Sec. 7. The surveyor shall, as soon as practicable after his employment, proceed to make an accurate survey and system of levels as provided for in Section 6 of this act, and shall cause stakes or monuments to be placed along said line at intervals of 100 feet, together with such intermediate stakes as may be necessary, numbered progressively, and shall establish permanent bench marks along said lines at intervals of one mile or less, as may be necessary, and shall establish by stake or monument of a different character and appearance from all other stakes or monuments the highest point upon said road between each of the natural water-ways crossed by the road; said surveyor shall, also, measure and establish by suitable marks, the frontage of each tract of land abutting on said road, and if there be a natural water-way adjacent to the line of said road and ditch and the same is necessary to be utilized as an outlet for the water at any point on said ditch, the surveyor shall measure the distance to same, and run the line of levels thereto, at the nearest practicable point on said road and ditch. He shall prepare a map showing the location of said ditch or ditches, together with the position of stakes or monuments with numbers corresponding with those on the ground, and the position of bench marks, with their elevations referred to an assumed or previously determined datum. Said map shall also show the lines and boundaries of adjacent land, and the courses and distances of any adjacent water-course, together with a profile of the line of the ditch, which shall show the assumed datum and the grade line of the bottom of the same, and the elevation of each stake, monument, or other important feature along the line, such as top of banks, and bottom of all ditches or water-courses, and surface of water, top of rail, and bottom of tie, foot of embankment, bottom of burrow pits of all railroads. And said map, or the explanation accompanying the same, shall, in tabular form, give the depth of cut, width at bottom and width at top, at the source, outlet, and at each one hundred feet stake or monument to said ditch, drain or water-course. Said map or the explanation accompanying the same, shall show the total number of cubic yards of earth to be excavated and removed from said ditch between each natural water-way into which the water is to be conveyed, and an estimate of the cost of each portion of the said ditch or ditches lying between natural water-ways crossed by said road, together with an estimate of total cost of the whole work.

The surveyor shall, as soon as the survey is completed, prepare and file, together with his report and map as herein provided for, specifications in detail for the execution of the same, and whenever in the opinion of the surveyor it may be advantageous to run said ditch under ground through drainage tiles, he shall so state in said report, map, and specifications, together with the statement of the locality of said underground ditch, and length thereof, and the dimensions or character of tiling or other material required therefor. The survey, report, map, explanation, and estimate, herein provided for, shall be made and filed with the county clerk of the county by the surveyor as soon after his employment as may be practicable, having in view an accurate and complete report upon the physical conditions to be met in the construction of said ditch or ditches.

Sec. 8. At any regular or called session of the Commissioners' Court after the filing of the report, map, explanation, specifications, and estimate, of the surveyor, provided for in Section 7 of this act, the court shall appoint a jury of five free-holders of the county not interested directly in the construction of the proposed work as a land owner adjacent to or abutting on said ditch or ditches, and not of kin to any of the parties so directly interested therein, who shall constitute a jury of viewers who shall meet at a time and place to be specified by the said court in the order appointing them, and it shall be the duty of the county clerk thereupon to issue to the said viewers a certified copy of the petition and order of the court, together with the original report, map, explanation, specifications, and estimate, of the surveyor, and if said jury of viewers shall fail or refuse from any cause to perform the duties required under such appointment, or if their report, from any cause, should not be adopted, the court may at any succeeding term, appoint another jury of viewers, whose appointment and duties shall be the same as required in the first instance. The jury of viewers shall proceed at the time and place specified in the order of the court appointing them, after having given notice to each abutting land owner, and owner of land within one mile of said ditch, as hereinafter provided, and after viewing the line of the proposed ditch, and after hearing all protests, claims and remonstrances offered, they shall take the several partial estimates, and the estimate of the total cost of the work as made by the surveyor as a basis, and they shall set apart and apportion to each parcel of land abutting on said road and ditch or within one mile of the same, and to each person, firm, or corporation owning the same, the proportionate share chargeable to such tract of the one-half of the total cost of the said ditch, drain, and water-course, taking into consideration the relative amount of benefit derived by said land from the construction thereof, and they shall assess the amount of damages or compensation due to each land owner through whose land any spur, branch, or lateral ditch, is, or may be constructed under the order of appointment, which sum shall be paid by the county before the opening of such ditch is begun; provided, that said jury of viewers shall have lines run parallel to the line of said [ditch], at a distance of one mile upon either side of the same, and no lands lying outside of said lines shall be assessed with any portion of the cost of such ditch and drain, but all lands and tracts of land lying within said lines may be assessed their proportionate share of said one-half of the total cost, taking into consideration the amount or value of benefits derived by said lands or tracts of land from the construction of such ditch. The jury of view shall make a report to the Commissioners' Court, under oath, as soon as practicable after their meeting, signed by at least three of said jury, and duly verified under oath, and shall return with their report a description as accurate and complete as may be, of each tract or parcel of land assessed by them, together with the number of acres and the name of the owner or owners thereof, and the amount by them assessed against each tract, and the owner thereof. The jury of viewers shall also return with their report, the map, profile, explanation, and estimates, of the surveyor, together with a copy of the specifications, and the same shall be filed with the clerk, and shall become a public record and be preserved as such, and the court shall act upon said report at the next regular or called term, and approve or reject the same; provided, that the court may appoint separate juries of view for each road and ditch to be constructed, if deemed desirable or of advantage to the public.

Sec. 9. The said jury of viewers, before proceeding to act as such, shall take the following oath before an officer authorized to administer the same, to-wit: "I do solemnly swear that I am not directly interested in the construction of the proposed ditch, either as the owner or otherwise of adjacent land lying within one mile thereof, and that I am not of kin to any person who is so interested. I further swear that I have no bias or prejudice towards any person directly interested in said ditch, and that I will assess the amount of expense due on and by all adjacent lands lying within one mile of said ditch, according to law, without fear, favor, hatred, or hope of reward, to the best of my knowledge and ability. So help me God."

Sec. 10. The said jury of view, as provided for in this act, shall issue a notice in writing to the land owner of each abutting tract along said ditch, and to each land owner, any part of whose land lies within one mile of the line of said ditch, or to his or their agent or attorney, of the time and place when they will assess the one-half of the expense incidental to the construction of the ditch or ditches specified in the order of appointment, which notice shall be served upon such owner, his agent or attorney, at least five days before the day named therein; said notice may be served by any person competent to testify, and a duplicate of said notice, together with the returns of said service, shall be returned and filed with the report of the jury of viewers. If such owner is a non-resident of the county, and has no resident agent or attorney therein, the notice shall be given by publication in a newspaper published in the county, as notices are required to be given to non-resident defendants in actions in the District Courts, and said notice shall be complete after four weeks publication thereof prior to the date named for the meeting of the jury of view, and at any time thereafter the jury of viewers may proceed to assess the proportionate part of such expense against said non-resident land owner, and the land owned by him subject thereto. The cost of such publication shall be paid by the county, on an order of the Commissioners' Court.

Sec. 11. Any person who may be affected by such ditch, drain, or water-course, or any citizen of the county, shall have the right to appear before the Commissioners Court on the hearing of the petition for the establishment of the drainage system, and shall have the right to be heard upon their protest, remonstrances and objections thereto; but the action of the court thereon shall be final; and in case the court shall refuse to adopt the drainage system provided for herein, no application therefor shall be filed or heard by said court for one year thereafter.

Sec. 12. Any person whose land may be affected by such ditch, drain, or water-course, shall have the right to appear before said viewers and freely express their opinions on all matters pertaining to the assessment of expense against them, and the owner of any such lands may at the time stated in such notice or previously thereto, present to the jury a statement in writing of any objections to or dissatisfaction therewith, and any claim for damages which he may have sustained by reason of the making of said ditch or drain, and a failure to make such objection or claim for damages or compensation in writing as herein specified shall be deemed a waiver of all claim or right thereto, all of which said claim or objection shall be returned to the Commissioners Court in connection with the report of the viewers; provided, that any adjacent land owner shall have the right to appear before, and be heard by, the Commissioners Court on his protest or remonstrance or claim against the action of the jury of viewers.

Sec. 13. Any person, firm, or corporation, aggrieved by the assessment of expense for construction of any ditch or ditches by the jury of view, or any person, firm, or corporation, aggrieved by the assessment of damages or compensation allowed by the jury for land taken or applied to the construction of any lateral, spur, or branch ditch, may appeal from the final order of the Commissioners Court approving the report of said jury to any court within the county having jurisdiction of the amount of such assessment, by giving notice of appeal in open court and having the same entered as a part of the judgment of the court, and by filing, within ten days thereafter, a transcript of the proceedings had in the Commissioners Court, with the justice, or clerk of the court to which appeal is taken, together with an appeal bond with at least two good sureties, to be approved by such clerk or justice, in double the amount of the probable costs to accrue, conditioned that the appellant will prosecute his appeal to effect, and pay all costs that may be adjudged against him in said court; and if the appeal is taken from an assessment of expense levied by the jury of viewers against the appellant, the said appeal shall be heard upon the following issue, to-wit: "Whether the assessments made against the appellant for the construction of such ditch are in proportion to the benefits to be derived therefrom." And if the appeal is taken from an assessment of compensation made by the jury of viewers in favor of appellant for land taken and applied to the construction of such ditch, or any portion of the same, the said appeal shall be heard upon the following issue, to-wit: "Whether the assessment of compensation made by the jury is adequate to the injury occasioned and to the value of the land."

Sec. 14. In the trial of all cases so appealed from the order of the Commissioners' Court, the burden of proof shall rest upon the appellant and the court or jury trying the cause shall state the correct amount of expense chargeable to appellant, or the correct amount of compensation due to appellant, as found by them, and the same shall be entered as the judgment of the court thereon, and from such judgment no further appeal shall be allowed to either party, and if the verdict of the jury shall find the appellant chargeable with a less amount of expense, or that the appellant is entitled to a greater amount of compensation as damages, than was found by the jury of viewers, the costs shall be adjudged against the county; otherwise the same shall be adjudged against the appellant. Within five days after the entry of such judgment, the clerk or justice shall issue and return to the Commissioners' Court a certified copy of such judgment, to be filed with the papers pertaining to such ditch, and the same shall be entered by the Commissioners' Court, as the judgment of said court, and thereafter the appellant shall be holden for, or claim, as the case may be, the amount specified in said judgment.

Sec. 15. The Commissioners' Court of such county may at the next term thereof, after the filing of the report of the jury of viewers and the entry of the order approving the same, if the report be approved, make an order setting aside such portion of the road and bridge fund, and such portion of the special road and bridge fund, if any, as may be necessary for the construction of the ditch or ditches described in the report of the jury of viewers, and shall also enter an order to the overseer or overseers of the road adjoining said ditch or ditches, or to the supervisor of the road or to the road commissioner, commanding him to construct such ditch or ditches in accordance with the specifications of the surveyor, which shall be turned over to him for his information, and that the earth taken therefrom shall be used in making a raised road adjoining said ditch or ditches, and the court shall further order that all the road hands apportioned to said road, and that any teams, tools or materials belonging to the county, and necessary to the execution of such work be apportioned to said overseer, supervisor, or commissioner for the completion thereof; and shall authorize such overseer, supervisor, or commissioner to employ such additional labor and teams, and to purchase tools and implements as may be necessary, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund set aside therefor, on the order of the Commissioners' Court, and the said order shall further show the amount of compensation to be allowed to the said overseer, supervisor, or road commissioner for his services.

Sec. 16. The Commissioners' Court may employ some suitable and competent person other than the overseer, road commissioner, or supervisor if to the best interest of the county, and such person shall have the same powers, duties, and responsibilities as provided for overseers, road commissioners, and supervisors, in Section 15 of this act, and the court shall enter an order showing the amount of compensation to be paid him for his services.

Sec. 17. At the same or at any succeeding term after the entry of the order for the construction of the ditches and roadway as provided in Section 15 of this act, the Commissioners' Court shall make and enter upon the minutes of the court, a list, showing the names of the owners, amounts due, the tract of land, original grantees, number of acres covered by each assessment of expense, as made and reported by the jury of viewers, and as approved by the court, and the county clerk shall issue a certificate against each person on said list, showing the amount of such assessment, and for what ditch or road the same was issued, and the tract of land on which said amount was assessed, which certificate shall be signed by the County Judge in open court, and attested under the hand and seal of the said county clerk, which fact shall be noted upon the minutes of said court.

Sec. 18. The County Judge shall deliver the certificate to the County Treasurer, taking his receipt therefor, which shall be filed with the papers and archives concerning such ditch, and the County Treasurer shall collect the sums due on such certificates, and deposit the amount so collected to the credit of the road and bridge fund.

Sec. 19. In case any person against whom any such certificate may be issued shall fail or refuse to pay the same to the County Treasurer on demand therefor, such Treasurer shall turn same over to the county attorney, who shall, at once, file suit thereon, and have the lien on said land, herein provided for, foreclosed, or for a personal judgment, as may be lawful.

Sec. 20. All assessments, sums, and charges, by the said viewers, or order of court, assessed against any lands or land and the owner or owners thereof, shall be a lien thereon unless prohibited by the Constitution of this State, and the same shall be collected in the manner provided in Section 19 of this act; and any damages for compensation awarded by said jury of viewers, to any land owner, on the order of the court, shall be paid out of the county treasury on the order of said court, from the fund set aside for the construction of such ditch or ditches.

Sec. 21. The said jury of viewers shall each receive the sum of three dollars per day as compensation for their services for each day so actually engaged; and said surveyor and engineer shall receive as compensation, such sum as may be allowed by the Commissioners' Court, provided no road overseer or any court shall on petition or otherwise have the power to change the natural course of any branch, creek, or water stream, but such volume of water shall always enter and cross said road at its natural crossing, and overseers shall always, in draining their roads, provide a culvert sufficiently broad and tall to permit said stream to flow at high tide, from its intersection with said road, across to its natural outflow at the opposite natural channel.

Sec. 22. Any owner of lands or tracts of land abutting on said road or ditch, or the owner of any tract of land lying wholly or partially within one mile of such road or ditch may construct lateral drainage ditches and connect the same with such main ditch or ditches as shall be constructed under the provisions of this act, provided the same be done at his own cost.

Sec. 23. The provisions of this act shall be cumulative to all other provisions of law, and shall not be held to repeal any existing law upon the subject of drainage.

Sec. 24. Whereas, the great importance of legislation on the subject matter of this bill to large sections of the State, having insufficient drainage laws, causing great loss, creates an emergency, and the public necessity demands the suspension of the constitutional rule which requires the bill to be read on three several days, therefore the rule is suspended, and this bill shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 25, nays 1; and having passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 102, nays none, the Senate concurred in House amendments (vote not given).]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of March, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. CHAPTER 64.

An act to authorize and permit the Aransas Pass Harbor Company to purchase from the State of Texas, Harbor Island, certain shoal waters and flats in front thereof, and in Red Fish Bay, and to excavate a free channel along and through Turtle Cove between Corpus Christi Bay and the deep water harbor or channel at or near Aransas Pass, on the gulf coast of Texas, in order to encourage the procuring and maintenance of deep water at Aransas Pass, and prescribing certain conditions attaching to and following said purchase.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: The Aransas Pass Harbor Company shall be permitted to purchase from the State of Texas, at two dollars per acre, all or any portion of Harbor Island, situated near Aransas Pass, on the Gulf Coast of Texas, as well as the shoal waters and flats lying in front of said island on its East side out to the present deep water channel, and also, all and any flats and shoal waters in Red Fish Bay, lying in one half mile of any deep water channel navigable for sea-going boats, that may be hereafter constructed by said company through or in said Red Fish Bay connecting the same with Aransas or Corpus Christi Bays, or the Morris and Cummings Channel, and extending to the shore of Red Fish bay at and near the present town site of Aransas Pass; provided, that any channel so constructed in Red Fish Bay shall be, throughout, at least sixty feet wide at the bottom, and five feet deep, and provided, further, that said company shall not be permitted to purchase any flats or shoal waters in Red Fish Bay lying within one-half mile of any private holdings fronting on said Red Fish Bay on the side next to the present town site of Aransas Pass; provided, that all channels excavated or constructed by said Aransas Pass Harbor Company under the authority of this law, shall forever remain open and free to all vessels, without fee or charge; provided, that said company shall not be permitted to purchase the twenty-five acres of Harbor Island heretofore patented to the United States and on which Aransas Lighthouse now stands, nor the shoal waters or flats in front thereof, nor the land on which the State Quarantine Station is now situated on said island, nor the shoal waters or flats [flats] in front thereof, which said land is hereby specially reserved to the State, and which said land, so reserved, is described as follows: Beginning at a point situated at mean low tide mark on the East shore of said Harbor Island, one half mile in a northerly direction from the center of the foot or shore ends of the present Quarantine Wharf; thence, in a southerly direction, along the East shore of said island at mean low tide mark, with its meanders, one mile, to the S. E. corner of this tract of land; thence, in a westerly course, at right angles with the general course of the line above established, one-half mile established corner, for the S. W. corner of this tract; thence, in a northerly direction, parallel with the general course of the East line of this tract, as herein first above provided, one mile established, the N. W. corner of this tract; thence, in an easterly direction, parallel with the South line of this tract, one-half mile, to point of beginning on East Shore of Harbor Island for N. E. corner: Provided, however, that if said described property is abandoned by the State as a quarantine station, and hereafter put upon the market for sale or lease by the State, said Harbor Company shall have the preference right to buy or lease same at the price that may hereafter be put thereon by the State; Provided, however, that such preference shall continue for ninety days only, after the time said property is put on the market by the State for such sale or lease; Provided, further, that said company shall be permitted and authorized to excavate a free channel, one hundred feet wide at the bottom, and navigable throughout to ocean-going vessels along and through the shallow bay or cove, locally known as "Turtle Cove," and situated between Harbor Island on the North and Northwest, and Corpus Christi Bay on the West side, and Mustang Island on the South and Southeast, and Aransas Pass and Aransas Bay on the East and Northeast; Provided, further, that said company shall not purchase or acquire any of the shoal waters or flats adjoining what is known as Shell Bank Island, Talley Island, and the shell reef running towards the main land from said island. Be it further provided that nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to affect or impair the vested rights of any person, firm, association of persons, or corporation.

Sec. 2. To entitle said Aransas Pass Harbor Company to acquire any title to said lands, shoal water, or flats, or any part thereof, under the provisions of this act, the said company shall have constructed a navigable channel twenty feet deep at mean low tide, one hundred and fifty feet wide at the bottom, on and across Aransas Bar, connecting the deep water of the Gulf of Mexico with the deep water of Aransas Bay, by the first day of January, 1899, and shall have maintained said depth of twenty feet continuously for two years, after obtaining same, throughout the length and breadth of said channel. The depth of said channel shall be determined at mean low tide by the engineer in charge of the work and by a competent engineer appointed by the Governor of the State of Texas for that purpose, and who shall be paid for such services by said company, while engaged in said service, whose joint certificate as to the depth of water on said bar, showing full twenty feet of water in said channel throughout its length and breadth, and for the time required by this act, shall be evidence thereof unless legally controverted, sufficient to authorize the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue patents to said company for such lands as the said company shall elect to purchase under this act, provided that said engineers shall make said measurements at least twice annually and at least six months apart, after said twenty feet of water has been obtained, and the certificate of each measurement shall be filed with the Commissioner of the General Land Office, within thirty days after such measurement is made, and each certificate shall show full twenty feet of water, at mean low tide, throughout said channel.

Sec. 3. Said Aransas Pass Harbor Company shall not be entitled to apply for the purchase or for a survey with the view or purpose of purchasing any of said lands, flats, or shoal waters, before said company shall have procured, constructed, or caused to be constructed, a navigable channel, on, across, and through, said bar, having a depth of fifteen feet of water at mean low tide and being one hundred and fifty feet wide at its bottom. The depth of water in said channel shall be determined by the same authority, and in the same manner as is prescribed in the preceding section of this act for determining the depth of the twenty-foot channel. Upon the joint certificates of said engineers, showing that said depth of fifteen feet of water has been obtained, and application for survey of said company being filed with the Commissioner of the General Land Office, said company shall be entitled to have the land, shoal waters, or flats, applied for, surveyed and platted, as in other cases as provided by statute for the sale of unappropriated public domain, which survey, plat, and field notes, shall be made by the county surveyor of the county where such land, shoal waters, or flats, are situated, and after being by him properly recorded as provided in other cases, shall be by him returned to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and there filed, after which said company may make application for the purchase of such lands, shoal waters, or flats, as indicated by such surveys, plats, and field notes, so filed in the General Land Office.

Sec. 4. Upon the application of said Aransas Pass Harbor Company to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, accompanied by one-fifth of the purchase money for said land, shoal waters, or flats, or the part thereof intended to be purchased, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall execute his receipt for the money when paid, and plat the field notes upon the maps of his office, and the remainder of said purchase money may be paid thereafter at any time within five years, the deferred payments to bear interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, payable annually until said purchase money is fully paid. One-half of the proceeds of any such sale shall belong to the permanent school fund and one-half of the general revenue of the State. If the said Aransas Pass Harbor Company shall fail to pay the said annual interest upon any part of the purchase money when said interest shall become due, or shall fail to pay the principal when the same shall become due, then all rights acquired under the purchase, with all payments made thereon, shall be forfeited without judicial ascertainment of such forfeiture, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall endorse upon the contract of purchase, that the same is forfeited, whereby all rights so acquired shall be forfeited and revert to the State; Provided, that no patents shall issue for such land, shoal waters, or flats, until the provisions of Section 2 of this act have been complied with and all of the purchase money and interest paid; Provided, that the application to purchase the lands herein permitted to be purchased, and the first payment of one-fifth of the purchase price thereof, shall be made not later than two years after a depth of twenty feet has been attained, as shown by the certificate of the engineers herein provided for.

Sec. 5. The sale of lands herein authorized and the rights herein granted shall be coupled with the following conditions:

That all navigable channels constructed by said company shall forever remain open and free to all vessels without fee or charge; the tolls and charges for the use of docks and wharves constructed on any portion of said land, shall be equal, just, and uniform, to all vessels, persons, and corporations, without discrimination as to amount charged or delay in handling the same, and all such tolls and charges shall be under the control of the Legislature of the State of Texas; and, until otherwise directed by the Legislature, shall be subject to control and regulation by the Railroad Commission of Texas under the rules prescribed for the regulation of railroads, so far as applicable, and any railroad or other means of transportation which may be constructed between the mainland and said wharves and docks or deep water channels, shall be a public highway, and all rates and charges for the transportation of freights and passengers thereon shall be subject to the control and regulation of the Railroad Commission as a railroad: such railroad or other means of transportation shall receive from each and every ship, boat, and vessel, or from the wharf on which the same is discharged, all freights and passengers, and transfer and deliver them to the consignee or any connecting line of railroad without discrimination as to charge or delay in transportation and delivery, and shall in like manner receive from every person and from every connecting line of railroad all freights and passengers and transport and deliver the same to each and every ship, boat, vessel, person, or corporation, for delivery to such ship, boat, or vessel, on like equal and just terms without discrimination as to charges and delay in transportation or delivery thereof.

Sec. 6. The privileges and rights granted under this act shall not be exercised so as to hinder or interfere with the completion of any terminal or suburban railroad heretofore chartered, so far as any rights which it now has under said charter to build to and upon Harbor Island, nor to hinder or interfere with any such terminal or suburban railroad which now has the right under its charter to acquire and control depot grounds, wharf grounds, and deep water fronts.

Sec. 7. The great importance of continuing the work for deep water at Aransas Pass, and the necessity of securing it at the earliest possible day, and the fact of the vast amount of business before this session of the Legislature, and the length of the session being limited, creates an imperative necessity and an emergency which demands that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read three several days, be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

That all laws in conflict with any of the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate; and passed the House with amendments. The Senate refusing to concur, the bill was referred to a Free Conference Committee, and the report of said committee was adopted by both houses.

Vote on passage of bill, and on adoption of report of Free Conference Committee, not given, in either house.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the twenty-sixth day of March, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the House in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. D. Madden, Secretary of State.]

CHAPTER 65.

An act to create a more efficient road system for Montague, Red River, and Wichita Counties, in the State of Texas, and making County Commissioners of said counties ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and defining the powers and duties of the Commissioners Courts of said counties and fixing a penalty for the violation of this act and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each member of the Commissioners' Courts of Montague, Red River, and Wichita Counties shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the Commissioners' Court shall have charge of all the teams, tools, and machinery belonging to the county, and placed in their hands by said courts: and it shall be their duty under such rules and regulations as the Commissioners' Court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of their office, execute a bond of one thousand dollars ($1000) with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the County Judge of said counties, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law or by the Commissioners' Court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession; provided, that with the consent of a Commissioners' Court, any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute the same bond that is required of commissioners in this section; and such deputy road commissioner shall be entitled to the same compensation that is allowed county commissioners for the same service; provided, that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation as road commissioner when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners' Courts of said counties shall have full power and authority, and it shall be their duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining, and repairing the public roads in such counties as they may deem best, and from time to time said courts may change their plans or system of working. Said Commissioners' Courts shall have power to purchase such teams, tools, and machinery as may be necessary for the working of their roads. Said courts shall have the power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case, said courts or the county judges may advertise in such manner as said courts may determine, for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond payable to the county judges of said counties, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said courts and in such sum as said courts may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract, but said courts shall have the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making any such contract the court shall direct the county treasurer to pass the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said courts; and the said courts shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best.

Sec. 3. The Commissioners' Courts of said counties shall require all county convicts, not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads, under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine, first, and then on the cost, for each day he may labor. The Commissioners' Court may, at a regular term, allow to the officers and witnesses such amount of their costs for the arrest and conviction of said convicts, as it may deem best; provided, that it shall not allow to any officer any amount greater than the following: county judge, $3; county attorney, $5, including commissions; county clerks and justices of the peace, $1.70; sheriffs or constables, $2.00, which amount shall be paid to the officer out of the road and bridge fund, on the warrant of the county judge, when said fine and costs shall have been worked out as provided in this section; provided, that this shall not be so construed as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he will be liable under the general laws of this State. The Commissioners' Court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed, as a reward for faithful services and good behavior; provided, that such commutation shall in no case exceed one-tenth of the whole time. The Commissioners' Court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention, and guards, for the safe and humane keeping of convicts.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have control of all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them all teams, tools, and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, so far as he has been supplied therewith by the Commissioners' Court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer for the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liability of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been intrusted with any team, tools, or machinery belonging to said county, shall be liable to all damages that may occur to the same while in his possession. It shall be the duty of the road overseer, when he has finished work on his road, to return to said commissioner all teams, tools, and machinery received from him, and to take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the county commissioner, when acting as road commissioner, to inform himself of the condition of the public roads in his district, and shall determine what character of work shall be done on said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining, or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time; and provided, that all road hands in a particular district shall as far as practicable be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer shall have full control of all road hands in his road district, and he shall see that each hand, when called out, shall perform a good days work; and if any hand when so called out shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The Commissioners' Court may allow to any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year, a compensation not to exceed one dollar and one half per day for the time so served.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Montague, Red River, or Wichita Counties, liable for road duty, who shall, on or before the first day of January of any year, pay to the County Treasurer the sum of three dollars, shall be exempt from road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of January. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him, and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund, and he shall keep a separate account for each road district from which it is received. The treasurer shall, on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish to each county commissioner a list of all persons in their respective districts that have paid said sums as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the purpose of opening, widening, straightening, or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the county commissioners' court can not agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 9. Each county commissioner when acting as road commissioner and performing the duties imposed upon him by law or by the Commissioners' Court, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for the services actually performed; provided, he shall not receive more than forty-five dollars per quarter, when the road and bridge tax has not been levied according to law, under the amendment of 1889, as adopted in 1890, to the Constitution of the State of Texas, and when said tax shall have been levied he may receive an amount not to exceed ninety dollars per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the Commissioners' Court, and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due, and unpaid, and specifying the number of days [work] actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner while he is performing the duties of county commissioner.

Sec. 10. This act shall be cumulative of all general laws on this subject, and be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith; but in case of conflict this act shall control as to Montague, Red River, and Wichita Counties, and all laws conflicting herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 11. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the County Court of Jefferson County shall hereafter have exclusive original jurisdiction in civil cases wherein the matter in controversy shall exceed in value two hundred dollars, and shall not exceed five hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, and shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court of said county, when the amount in controversy shall exceed five hundred dollars, and not exceed one thousand dollars.

Sec. 2. Said County Court shall have appellate jurisdiction in civil cases over which Justices' Courts have original jurisdiction, when the judgment of the court appealed from or the amount in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, exclusive of interest, and said County Court shall have power to hear and determine cases brought up from Justices' Courts by certiorari, under the provisions of the title of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1895 relating thereto.

Sec. 3. The County Judge of said county shall have authority either in term time or in vacation, to grant writs of injunction, sequestration, mandamus, garnishment, attachment, certiorari, supersedeas, and all other writs necessary to the enforcement of the jurisdiction of said court, and shall also have power to issue writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the Constitution has not exclusively conferred the power on the District Court or judge thereof.

Sec. 5. Said County Court shall have jurisdiction in the forfeiture and judgment of all bonds and recognizances taken in criminal cases of which said court has original or appellate jurisdiction.

Sec. 6. Said County Court shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of all misdemeanors, except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and except misdemeanors in which the highest penalty that may be imposed by the law is a fine without imprisonment that does not exceed two hundred dollars; and said court shall have appellate jurisdiction with trial de novo in criminal cases in which justices of the peace and other inferior tribunals of said county have original jurisdiction.

Sec. 9. The said County Court shall also have the power to hear and determine all motions against sheriffs and other officers of the court, for failure to pay over moneys collected under the process of said court, or other defalcations of duty in connection with such process, and shall have power to punish by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding three days, any person guilty of contempt of said court, and all other powers and jurisdiction conferred on county courts by the Constitution and general laws of this State.

Sec. 10. The terms of said court shall commence on the first Monday in February and on the first Monday in May and on the first Monday in August and on the first Monday in November of each year, and shall continue in session for each term until the business may be disposed of: Provided, that the County Commissioners Court of said county may hereafter change the terms of said court whenever it may be deemed necessary.

Sec. 11. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be, and the same are hereby expressly repealed in so far as they relate to Jefferson County.

Sec. 12. The approaching close of this session of the Legislature, the crowded condition of the calendar of each house, and the importance of the passage of this measure to the people of Jefferson County, alike create an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted

The unorganized county of Garza is hereby attached to the county of Borden for judicial purposes.

Sec. 2. The fact that the time for holding the Spring term of the District Court of Nolan County is approaching, the crowded condition of the dockets of said court, and the fact that the amendment herein offered in no way affects the time heretofore provided by law for holding said court in the several counties composing said 32nd Judicial District, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the constitutional rule that bills shall be read on three several days, be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—Received the necessary two-thirds vote in both Houses, and takes effect from its passage.]

An act to set apart for free school purposes four leagues of land heretofore granted to the territory known as Greer County, and to authorize the Attorney General to institute proceedings for the recovery of said land.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the four leagues of land heretofore patented to what is known as the territory of Greer County for free school purposes, under the provisions of an act entitled, "An act to reserve and set apart three hundred and twenty-five leagues of land heretofore surveyed for the benefit of the unorganized counties of the State, and such organized counties as may have located their four leagues of school land, or any part thereof in conflict with valid prior locations or surveys, or which from any cause fail to get title to the four leagues of land they are entitled to under the law," approved April 7th, 1883, be and the same is hereby set apart and appropriated for the support and maintenance of the Public Free Schools of this State.

Sec. 2. That the Attorney General of the State of Texas is hereby authorized to institute such proceedings as he deems necessary to recover said land against all adverse claims.

Sec. 3. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The near approach of the close of the present session, and the crowded condition of the calendar, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, April 13, 1897.

CHAPTER 73.

An act to create a more efficient road system for Hopkins County, Texas, and making the County Commissioners of said county ex-officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the roads of said county, and providing for officers and witness fees, and rewards for the capture of escaped convicts, and authorizing the working of county convicts partly upon the county convict farm, as well as upon the public roads, or partly upon both, in the discretion of the Commissioners' Court, and making provisions of act applicable, as far as practicable, to convicts when worked on county farm, and to provide for the manner of training hedges along public roads, and to provide for the summoning of teams for road work, and for an allowance of time for road service for same, and fixing a penalty for a violation of this act, and repeal all laws in conflict with this act as to Hopkins County, and providing for the working of delinquent poll-tax payers, and prescribing a penalty for failure to work public roads in payment of poll-tax by said delinquent poll-tax payers.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the members of the commissioners' court of Hopkins county shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the commissioners' court shall have charge of all the teams, tools, and machinery belonging to the county, and placed in their hands by said county, and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the commissioners' court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, in addition to his regular bond as such county commissioner, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge of said county for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law, or by the commissioners' court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession; provided, that with the consent of the commissioners' court any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute same bond that is required of commissioners in this section, and such deputy road commissioner shall be entitled to the same compensation that is allowed county commissioners for same service; provided, that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The commissioners' court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining, and repairing the public roads in said county as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plans or system of working. Said commissioners' court shall have full power to purchase such teams, tools, and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its roads. Said court shall have power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case said court, or county judge of said county, may advertise in such manner as said court may determine for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond, payable to the county judge of said county, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making such contract, the court shall direct the county treasurer to pass the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best.

Sec. 3. The commissioners' court of said county shall require all county convicts, not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents, on his fine first, and then on the cost, for each day he may labor. The commissioners' court may provide such reasonable regulations and punishments as may be necessary to require such convicts to perform good work; and may provide a reward not to exceed ten dollars, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, for the recapture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person, other than the guard or person in charge of such convict at the time of his escape. The commissioners' court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-tenth of the time. Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, and medical attention, and guards for the safe and humane keeping of convicts. The commissioners' court may at a regular meeting allow to the officers and witnesses such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convict, as now provided by law, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund, upon the order of said court, when said fine and costs have been worked out, as provided in this section; provided, that this act shall not be construed so as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State. Nothing in this section shall be construed so as to deprive the commissioners' court of the right to have convicts to work a part of all of their time on the county convict farm; but authority is herein expressly given to said court to require convicts to labor, in payment of fine and cost, either upon the county convict farm, or upon the public roads, or partly upon both, as to the said court it may seem best, and the provisions of this section shall apply, as far as practicable, in all cases where convicts labor upon the county convict farm.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have control of all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them, so far as he has been supplied by the commissioners' court, all teams, tools, and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liabilities of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any teams, tools or machinery belonging to said county, shall be liable for any damage that may occur to the same while in his possession caused by negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes without the consent of the commissioners' court. It shall be the duty of the road overseer when he has finished work on his road to return to said commissioners all teams, tools, and machinery received from them by him and take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the commissioners, when acting as road commissioners, to inform themselves of the condition of the public roads in their districts, and they shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require each overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, or two days with himself and team, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time; provided, that all road hands in any particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer, or in case of his absence, any person deputized by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and shall see that each hand when called out shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand, when so called out, shall fail or refuse to do a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The commissioners' court may allow any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year a compensation not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents per day for the time so served.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Hopkins county who is subject to road duty, who shall, on or before the first day of January of any year, pay to the county treasurer of said county, the sum of three dollars, shall be exempt from road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of January. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund, to be used in the road precinct to which the hand making such payment belongs. The treasurer shall, on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish the commissioners' court with a list of all parties who have paid said sums as provided in this section, and said court shall immediately have overseers in district wherein said sums have been paid notified of the payment of the same, and by whom paid.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on the public roads in Hopkins county, who shall pay to his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work, shall be exempt from work for each day paid for.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on the road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, shovel, plow, scraper or such other tools as may be desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tools as are desired and directed by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tools as he may have; provided, the county shall be liable for, and the commissioners' court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to tools as may have resulted from public road work, and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer may also summon and require such road hand to bring with him for road work such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work; provided, such hand shall be allowed two and one-half days time for each day put in by a hand and his team, and one and one-half days for his team without such hand.

Sec. 10. If any person liable to work the public road, after being legally summoned, shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by an able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to the overseer such sum as one dollar per day for each day summoned to work, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not to exceed ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the commissioners' court of each year all road overseers shall make their report under oath, upon the forms to be furnished them by the said court, which said report shall be examined by said court, and all accounts for services or labor performed for overwork by such overseer during the past year, and of moneys had and expended by him, shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable said commissioners' court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duty required of him by law or by the commissioners' court, or by the commissioner of his district, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening, changing or draining any road or any part thereof, if the owner of said land cannot agree with the court as to damages to be paid, the court may proceed to condemn the same, in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for a right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to each party that would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 13. Each county commissioner, when acting as road commissioner, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for services actually performed; provided, that he shall not receive more than ninety dollars per quarter; said per diem to be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the commissioners' court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall make oath that the account is just, due, and unpaid; and said account shall specify the number of days work actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done under the circumstances; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner, either for himself or his deputy, while performing the duties of county commissioner, nor shall he receive any additional pay than that provided by this section for inspecting or riding over his road, or for other road service.

Sec. 14. Every owner of a farm or other lands upon which a hedge of any description grows on or near the public road, shall be required to keep the same trimmed so that the same shall not obstruct said road; and any such owners who shall fail or neglect to trim such hedge shall be notified in writing by the road overseer of that district to trim such hedge as herein required, and in such case that such owner shall after receiving such notice, fail or refuse to trim such hedge within a reasonable time, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty dollars per week from and after the time that he received such notice, such fine to be paid into the county treasury and to be placed to the credit of the road and bridge fund of said county. If any owner of any farm shall fail or refuse, after being notified as herein required, to trim his hedge as required by this act, then the road overseer shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with the provisions of this act, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 15. In all cases where the cost of material and labor exceeds two hundred dollars, it shall be the duty of said court to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract, the same to be advertised for as provided by said commissioners' court.

Sec. 16. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith; but in case of conflict, this act shall control as to the county of Hopkins.

Sec. 17. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 74.

An act to restore to and confer upon the County Court of Orange County the criminal jurisdiction heretofore belonging to it under the constitution and general statutes of the State of Texas, to conform the jurisdiction of the District Court to such change, and to repeal all laws in conflict with the provisions of this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the County Court of Orange County shall hereafter have exclusive original jurisdiction of all misdemeanors except misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and except cases in which the highest penalty of fine that may be imposed under the law, may not exceed two hundred dollars; and shall also have appellate jurisdiction in criminal cases of which justices of the peace, and other inferior tribunals of said county, have original jurisdiction.

Sec. 2. Said County Court shall have jurisdiction in the forfeiture and judgment of all bonds and recognizances taken in all criminal cases, of which criminal cases said court has jurisdiction.

Sec. 3. The County Judge of said county shall have authority, either in term time or vacation, to issue all writs necessary to the enforcement to [of] the jurisdiction of said court, and to issue writs of habeas corpus in all cases in which the Constitution has not conferred power on the District Court or judge thereof.

Sec. 4. The District Court of said Orange County shall no longer have jurisdiction of which the County Court of Orange County, by the provisions of this act, has exclusive original or appellate jurisdiction; and it shall be the duty of the District Clerk of said county, within thirty days after the passage of this act, to make a full and complete transcript of all orders on the dockets in cases now pending before the District Court, of which cases, by the terms of this act, exclusive original or appellate jurisdiction is given to the County Court, and said District and County Clerk shall enter said orders on the proper dockets of said County Court and docket the cases for trial by said County Court.

Sec. 5. The County Court of said county shall hereafter hold its regular term for criminal business as provided in the Constitution and general laws of the State of Texas for civil and criminal terms of the county courts, and all process heretofore issued from the District Court of said county in cases to be transferred under this act to the County Court shall be returnable to the first term of the said County Court thereafter.

Sec. 6. All laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 7. The crowded condition of the docket of the District Court of Orange County creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 75.

An act to authorize the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company to purchase the Texas, Louisiana & Eastern railroad, and to operate the same under the charter of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company, as a part of its own line, with the right to extend the same and to construct branches therefrom, by amendment of its charter, under the general laws of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: The Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company is hereby authorized and empowered to purchase the Texas, Louisiana & Eastern railroad, extending from Conroe, in Montgomery County, Texas, to a point on the Trinity river, in Liberty county, Texas, in the John Cherry survey; the same now being constructed and in operation to a point about seven miles from the Trinity river and about thirty-one miles from Conroe; together with all the property, real, personal, and mixed, incident or pertaining to the said railroad; and the owner or owners of the said Texas, Louisiana & Eastern railroad, and of such property incident or pertaining thereto, are authorized and empowered to sell, transfer and convey the same to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company; and when the said property is purchased by the said Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company, it, the said Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company, shall, and it is hereby authorized to, own and operate the same under its charter as a part of its own line, and shall have the right, by amendment of its charter under the general laws of the State, to extend and construct branches of the said road or the extension thereof.

Sec. 2. The said Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company shall not pay more for the said property than the valuation fixed on the same by the Railroad Commission of Texas; and if the said Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company shall issue any stock or bonds to make payment for the same, the said stock and bonds shall not be so used at less than their par value; and all stock and bonds to be issued by the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company in payment for or on the said property, or on any extension or branch thereof, or on any branch of such extension, shall be issued subject to and under the provisions of chapter 14 of title XCIV of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, which regulates the issuance of stock and bonds.

Sec. 3. The fact that the public interest will be promoted by the purchase of the said property by the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company, and the extension thereof, and the great number of bills now pending before the legislature, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and the same is so suspended, and that this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Subdivision 15, of Article 22, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, passed by the Twenty-fourth Legislature in the year 1895, be and the same is hereby amended so that hereafter it shall provide as follows:

15. The Fifteenth Judicial District of the State of Texas, shall be composed of the County of Grayson, and the District Courts shall be held therein as follows:

A term beginning on the third Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session until, and including, the last Saturday in December.

A term beginning on the first Monday in January of each year, and may continue until, and including, the last Saturday in March of each year; provided, there shall be no grand juries elected and impanelled for said January terms of court.

A term beginning on the first Monday in April of each year, and may continue until the business is disposed of.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. CHAPTER 77.

An act to provide for the construction and maintenance of drains, ditches and water courses, and for the improvement and enlargement of natural drainage of the several counties within the State of Texas, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the commissioners' court of any county in this State, at any regular or called session thereof, may, in the maner hereinafter provided, and shall have power, whenever the same shall be conducive to the public health, convenience, or welfare, or where and whenever the same will be of public benefit or utility, to cause to be straightened, widened, altered, deepened, any creek, bayou, or other stream or water course, and shall cause to be constructed and maintained, as hereinafter provided, any ditch, drain, or water course within any of the said counties, and shall have power to make the said improvement, if necessary, by removing from any adjacent lands or any stream or water course, any timber, bush, tree or other substance liable to or causing the obstruction thereof, and shall also have power to construct in connection with any such ditch or drain, any side, lateral, spur, or branch ditch or water course necessary to the accomplishment of this act; provided, however, that no ditch, drain, outlet, or water course shall be deepened, widened, constructed, or maintained without a sufficient outlet being provided for all water that may collect therein; provided, further, that the word "ditch," in this act, hereafter shall be construed to embrace any ditch, drain, or water course that may be constructed under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 2. That before the commissioners' court of such county shall establish any ditch, drain, or water course, there shall be filed with the clerk of the county court of said county, a petition signed by at least five persons who are land owners and whose land will be liable to be affected by or assessed for the expense of the construction of the same, setting forth the necessity thereof, with a general description of the proposed starting point, route, and terminus of the said ditch; and said petitioners shall give a bond, not to exceed one hundred dollars, with good and sufficient sureties, payable to the said county, to be approved by the clerk of the said court, conditioned to pay all expenses in case the commissioners' court shall fail to establish said proposed ditch, drain, or water course. As soon as said petition is filed said court shall, if in regular session, or at their next regular session, appoint a jury of three freeholders and householders of the county, not interested in the construction of the proposed work, and not of kin to any of the parties interested therein, who shall constitute a jury of viewers, who shall meet at a time and place specified by the said court in the order of making said appointment preparatory to commencing their duties as hereinafter specified, and it shall be the duty of the said clerk of the said county court thereupon to issue to the said viewers a certified copy of the petition and order of said court, who shall proceed at the time set in said order, with a surveyor who shall be a civil engineer and surveyor, to make an accurate survey of the line of said ditch, drain, or water course, from its source to its outlet; and they shall cause stakes or monuments to be set along said line at intervals of one hundred feet, together with such intermediate stakes as may be necessary, and numbered progressively at each one hundred feet; and they shall establish permanent bench marks along said line, at intervals of one mile or less, as may be necessary; and they shall prepare a map showing the location of said ditch, drain, or water course, together with the position of stakes or monuments, with numbers corresponding with those on the ground, and the position of bench marks, with their elevation referred to on assumed or previously determined datum. The map should also show the lines and boundaries of adjacent property, and the position of county roads and railroads which may be affected by said ditch or drain, and such information should be obtained as will lead to the determination of the benefits or damages which will accrue from the construction of the same; and they shall prepare a profile of the line of said ditch, drain, or water course, which shall show the assumed datum and the grade line of the bottom of the same, and the elevation of each stake or monument and other important features along the line, such as top of bank and bottom of all ditches or water course and surface of water, top of rail and bottom of tie, foot of embankment, bottom of burrow pits, of all railroads, and center of road and bottom and top of ditches of highways. And they shall, in tabular form, give the depth of cut, width at bottom, and width at top at the source, outlet, and at each one hundred feet stake or monument of said ditch, drain, or water course; and they shall make a computation of the total number of cubic yards of earth to be excavated and removed from said ditch, drain, or water course and an estimate of the total cost of construction of the whole work, and they shall prepare specifications in detail for the execution of the same; and they shall have power when they find it necessary, to provide for running said ditch under ground through drain tiles or other materials as they may deem best, by specifying size of tile or other kind of material to be used in such underground work, and shall include the cost of same in the estimate of the total cost of the work; and they shall set apart and apportion to each parcel of land and to each corporation, road or railroad, and to the county when public highways are benefited, a share of said work in proportion to the benefits which will result to each from such improvement and the cost of the construction of each share or allotment separately. And they shall describe each parcel of land to be assessed in the construction of said ditch, giving the number of acres in each tract assessed and an estimate of the number of acres benefited, the amount that each tract will be benefited by the construction of said work, and the amount of each tract as assessed therefor; and they shall also ascertain and give the names of the owners of the lands that are assessed in the construction of said ditch, drain, or water course, as far as they may be able to ascertain by reasonable inquiry and search of the public records, and report whether or not the proposed ditch or drain will be of public utility; and they shall submit with their report a copy of the map and profile of the line of said ditch, drain, or water course, and a copy of the specifications for the construction of the same, which, together with the report, shall become a public record, and shall be placed in the custody of the county clerk, to be presented [preserved] as such.

Sec. 3. Whenever a public ditch, drain, or water course is located wholly or in part of the bed of a private ditch, already or partially constructed, the viewers shall make an estimate of the number of cubic yards of earth already excavated, and the cost of the same on each tract of land, and deduct the same from the assessment thereon.

Sec. 4. All lands benefited by public ditch, drain, or water course shall be assessed in proportion to the benefit to the said lands by the construction thereof, whether it passed through said lands or not; and the reviewers in estimating the benefit to the lands in controversy by said ditch, shall not consider what benefit such lands will receive after some other ditch or ditches shall be constructed, but only the benefits that may be received by reason of the construction of the public ditch as it affords an outlet for the drainage of such lands; and in the making of the said assessment should the viewers find that the construction of said ditch or drain would, to any extent, construct or constitute a public road of utility to the county in that section, or be a material benefit in the drainage of any public road then constructed, they will assess as against the county such sum as will represent the benefit so accruing to the public; provided, that all assessments for benefits accruing to counties or county roads, shall be approved by the commissioners' courts of such counties.

Sec. 5. The said jury of viewers, as provided for in this act, shall issue a notice in writing to the land owner through whose lands such proposed ditch or drain may run, or to his or their agent or attorney, of the time when they shall proceed to lay out such ditch, or when they will assess the damage incidental to the construction of same, which notice shall be served upon such owner, his agent or attorney, at least five days before the day named therein; if such owner is a non-resident of the county, the notice shall be given by publication in a newspaper published in the county as notices are required to be given to non-resident defendants as to actions in the district or county court, and such ditch or drain may be constructed four weeks after such publication, the cost of publishing the same to be paid as directed by the commissioners' court.

Sec. 6. That all persons whose land may be affected by such ditch, drain, or water course, shall have the right to appear before said viewers and freely express their opinions on all matters pertaining thereto, and the owner of any such lands may, at the time stated in said notice, or previously thereto, present to the jury a statement in writing of any objections or dissatisfaction therewith, and any claim for damages which he may have by reason of the making of the said ditch or drain; and a failure to make such claim in writing, as herein specified, for damages or compensation, shall be deemed and held a waiver for all right thereto, all of which said claim or objection shall be returned to the commissioners' court, in connection with the report of the said viewers.

Sec. 7. The commissioners' court at the time set for the hearing of said petition shall hear and determine the same in connection with all remonstrances or objections thereto, and if they find that the said viewers' report is made in accordance with the provisions of this act, and it be in favor of the proposed work, and if they find the proposed ditch or drain to be of public utility, or conducive to public health, or of public benefit or convenience, they shall enter an order on the minutes establishing the same, as specified in the said report, and order the same to be constructed according to the said report, and shall then or thereafter take such further action and make such other and further orders and decrees in the premises as may be proper or necessary to secure the execution of said work. But should said viewers report adversely to the said work, the board shall dismiss the petition and tax the costs as against the said petitioners.

Sec. 8. The said viewers, before proceeding to act as such, shall take the following oath, before any officer authorized to administer oaths, to-wit: "I do solemnly swear that I will lay out the ditch or drain now directed to be laid out by the order to us directed in the commissioners' court, according to law, without favor or affection, malice or hatred, to the best of my ability, skill, and knowledge, so, help me God."

Sec. 9. Any person or corporation aggrieved thereby may appeal from the final order of the commissioners' court made in said proceedings and entered upon their record to the county court of that county within ten days thereafter, by filing within ten days thereafter a transcript of said proceedings in said county court, and also filing within the said ten days, with the clerk of the said court, an appeal bond, with at least two good sureties, to be approved by the said county clerk, conditioned that he will prosecute such appeal to effect and pay all costs that may be adjudged against him in said court; and the said appeal shall be heard and determined upon the following issues, to-wit:

1. Whether said ditch shall be conducive to the public health, convenience, or welfare.

2. Whether the route thereof is practicable.

3. Whether the assessments made for the construction of such ditch are in proportion to the benefits to be derived therefrom.

4. The amount of damages, if any, to be allowed to any person or persons, or corporation; and if more than one person appeal, the judge of the said court shall order the said cases to be consolidated and tried together, and the rights of each party shall be separately determined by the said court and jury, if any, in its verdict and final determination, and the cause so appealed and conducted in said county court shall have precedence over all other causes on the docket of a different nature, and shall be tried and determined as other civil cases in said court. Either party to such action may appeal to such appellate court as has jurisdiction of said cause, and said action shall be returnable at once to said appellate court at either of its terms, and said action so filed shall have precedence in said appellate court of all cases of a different character therein pending.

Sec. 10. In the trial of all cases so appealed from the order of the commissioners' court the burden of proof shall rest upon the complainant.

Sec. 11. Every person or corporation through whose lands any public ditch is constructed shall be required to keep the same open, free and clear from all obstructions upon his or its premises, by him or it placed therein, and in case of failure to do so, shall be liable to pay all reasonable and necessary expenses of removing such obstructions.

Sec. 12. Whenever the route of the proposed ditch, drain, or water course extends into two or more counties, then a petition shall be signed by at least five freeholders, one or more of whom are land owners in the county other than that of the filing of the petition, and whose lands will be liable to be assessed for the construction of such ditch, and file the same with the clerk of the commissioners' court, the said petition to be filed in the county containing the head or source of the proposed ditch, at least ten days before any regular meeting of the commissioners' court of that county, and thereupon the clerk of such court shall transmit to the clerk of the court of such other county or counties interested therein, a certified copy of such petition; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners' court of each county interested in the proposed work, at their first regular session after such petition is filed, to appoint three disinterested free holders and house holders of their respective counties as viewers, in like manner as is provided for the appointment of viewers on a ditch in but one county, to meet and act jointly at such time and place as the board of commissioners of the county where the petition is filed may designate, and such joint viewers shall have the same power and perform the same duties as is provided in this act for the viewers on a ditch in one county; and they shall file a report of their proceedings with the clerk of each of said counties so interested at least two weeks before the next regular session of the board of commissioners, whereupon the clerk of each county shall give notice in the manner provided for as to ditches in one county, and the time for the hearing thereof shall be set by the respective courts of each county; provided, further, that in an action of a joint board of viewers the approval and report a majority of the whole board shall be necessary to constitute a valid report of said board.

Sec. 13. The joint board of viewers, as herein provided for of the counties interested in said joint ditch, shall proceed to establish the same in the manner specified in ditches in but one county, and all matters pertaining to such joint ditch, the board of commissioners shall act in the same manner, so far as is practicable, as is required by this act for ditches in but one county, and they shall act jointly, and the same shall be determined by the respective orders of the said respective commissioners' courts, and such further proceedings had thereon, as herein provided for in but one county.

Sec. 14. When any ditch established under this act drains either in whole or in part any public road or railroad, or benefits any such road or railroad, so that the roadbed or travel or track of any such road will be made better by the construction of any such ditch, then the jury of viewers shall apportion to any such county, if the same be a public road, or to such railroad, if the same be a railroad, such portion of the costs and expenses thereof as herein provided for to private individuals.

Sec. 15. If any person shall willfully obstruct any public ditch, or shall willfully divert the water from its proper channel, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not less than five nor more than five hundred dollars, and shall also be liable for any and all damages accruing to any person or persons or corporation or county for any such act.

Sec. 16. That in all reports made by any jury of viewers, the same shall be sufficient if signed by a majority of said viewers.

Sec. 17. The said jury of viewers shall each receive the sum of $3.00 per day as compensation for said work for each day so actually engaged. The said surveyor and engineer shall receive such compensation as shall be fixed by the commissioners' court.

Sec. 18. That when any drain or ditch shall have been established by order of the commissioners' court, under this act, all assessments, sums, and charges by the said viewers under the order of the said court assessed against any land, or lands, chargeable for this drain or ditch, shall be a lien thereon, and a separate roll of the said assessments made of the lands assessed for each ditch, shall be made by the State and county collector for the said county; and the same shall at all times be open to the inspection of the public, and the assessments and taxes for each particular drain shall be a lien upon each particular tract of land connected therewith, and the same shall be collected by the tax collector of each county, under the provisions of the general laws for the collection of taxes for the State of Texas. That the funds arising from the assessment of each drain or ditch, shall be a special fund for the construction of said drain or ditch, and by order of the commissioners' court, set apart for the same, and placed in the county treasury as such special fund, for such purpose, to be paid to the contractor or contractors, upon the order of the commissioners' court as hereinafter provided. That any damages, if any, that the said jury of viewers or commissioners' court shall assess in favor of any individual or corporation, shall be paid out of the county treasury upon the order of the said court; and any sums assessed against any county, on account of any public drain, shall be paid by the said county, under an order of the commissioners' court.

Sec. 19. That the engineer employed by the said county to superintend the construction of the said drains and ditches, shall, upon the completion of each and every two hundred feet of any ditch, give to the contractor or contractors his certificate as such engineer, the said certificate showing the amount of work done and an estimate of the amount due for the construction of the same, less ten per cent thereof, which said certificate shall be delivered to the said contractor as an evidence of the amount of work constructed, and of the amount due therefor.

Sec. 20. That when the commissioners' court of any county shall have, by proper order, established any drain or ditch, the construction of the same shall be let by the said commissioners' court to the lowest responsible bidder, after suitable advertising, as a whole, or in such sections or subdivisions as the board may deem most advantageous. Such work to be done under the direction and supervision of the said engineer who shall report the same to the commissioners' court for their final action. That the said contractor or contractors shall be required to give a good and sufficient bond, with two or more good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the said commissioners' court in an amount to be fixed by the said court, as in their judgment may be best for the faithful construction of the said work. Provided, however, that any persons through whose lands the proposed work shall pass, upon application to the commissioners' court, before the contract is let, shall be entitled to do so much of the proposed work as is upon, or passes through his lands. Provided, such application shall be made twenty days before the advertisement for the said contract; and provided he shall undertake to do such work upon equally favorable terms with those offered by any one else. And provided, further, that he shall execute such a bond as required by the said contractor. And if such person should fail to construct such work as hereinbefore provided by the said contractor, within the time required by the commissioners' court, then all right to construct the same shall be forfeited and cease and determine; and the commissioners' court shall let the construction of the same as in this act provided.

Sec. 21. The commissioners' court shall pay the said contractor or contractors, or persons constructing the said drain, out of any funds in the county treasury not otherwise appropriated, and belonging to the road and bridge fund of the said county, upon the report of the said engineer, by said court approved, from time to time as the said contract progresses, and according to such terms as they may agree upon with such contractor. The said money so drawn from the road and bridge fund of the said county, to be returned from the assessment collected upon the said drain when the same shall be put into the county treasury. Said reimbursement to be made to the said fund by order of the commissioners' court.

Sec. 22. That all liens, remedies, and modes of procedure by the laws of the State of Texas, now provided for the collection of ad valorem taxes and taxes upon real estate, shall obtain and be in force and apply for the collection for the assessments herein provided, for the construction of the said drains.

Sec. 23. Corporations may be formed and chartered under the provisions of this act, and under the general corporation laws of the State of Texas, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining, and operating canals, drains, and ditches outside of the corporate limits of cities and towns in any county in the State of Texas; and such corporation shall have full power and authority to make contracts for permanent drainage of any tract of land, and the charges therefor; and the rights therein shall be secured by a lien herein expressly given upon the lands benefited by the said drain or canal. All drains and canals so constructed by such corporation to be reported to the commissioners' court of the said county and approved by the same.

Sec. 24. Any corporation so organized under the provisions of the general laws of the State of Texas, or the provisions of this act, for the purpose of drainage, shall have the power to acquire lands by voluntary donations or by purchase, or in payment of stock or drainage rights; and to hold and dispose of the said lands and other property; and to borrow money for the construction, maintenance and operation of its ditches and canals and laterals, and may issue bonds and mortgage its corporate and other property and franchises, to secure the payment of any debts contracted for the same. Provided, all lands acquired by the said corporations, except such as are used for the construction, maintenance and operation of the said canals, drains, and ditches and laterals, shall be alienated within twenty years from the date of acquiring the same, or be subject to judicial forfeiture.

Sec. 25. All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 26. Whereas, there is now no law upon the subject, and an imperative public necessity and emergency exists that this bill should become a law and take effect at once; therefore, be it resolved, that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, be suspended, and that this bill be placed on its third reading, become a law, and take effect immediately after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 81.

An Act to provide the mode of furnishing certain supplies to the asylums and to repeal Chapter 3, Title IX., of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, adopted April 29th, 1895.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the superintendents of the several asylums, shall, on the first day of May of each year, and quarterly thereafter, advertise for sealed proposals for furnishing to the superintendents of their respective asylums, certain supplies as hereinafter named, for two weeks, in such daily newspapers, not exceeding three in number, in Texas, as they may select for that purpose; provided, if a daily newspaper be published at or near the town or city where either of said asylums are situated, one paper shall be selected from said town or city; provided, said paper charges the same price for advertising said bids as are charged by other papers selected prior to the day of opening said bids. Such advertisements shall state the articles for which said bids shall be received; they shall also state that preference shall be given to articles manufactured within the State of Texas, and when any brands of goods are specified, it is understood that any article of equal good quality, made within this State, shall be entitled to the preference, prices being equal, and bids shall be made separately as hereinafter named.

Sec. 2. Each bid shall be secured with such bond as the superintendents of the respective asylums may require, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the State, conditioned that the party to whom any contract may be awarded shall faithfully carry out the terms of the contract, and shall be liable to the State for any default of the same.

Sec. 3. On the day for opening said bids, the board of trustees of the respective asylums, or such of them as may be present, shall open said bids, and shall award to the lowest responsible bidder, the contract or contracts for which he may have bid; provided, that the board of trustees may reject any and all bids if in their judgment the interest of the State demands it.

Sec. 4. All bids shall be made for the term of three months, beginning June first of each year, and quarterly thereafter.

Sec. 5. All supplies shall be furnished in accordance with contract, beginning June first and quarterly thereafter; and it shall be the duty of the superintendents of the several asylums, on the first day of May, August, November, and February of each year, to make out detailed estimates of such supplies as they will require for the ensuing three months, beginning on the first day of the following month, and to submit the same in duplicate to the board of trustees of their respective asylums.

It is hereby made the duty of said board to immediately examine said estimates, and to approve the same, or any part thereof, as they may think necessary, and to give preference to articles manufactured or produced within the State of Texas, whenever such article can be purchased with advantage to the State.

Sec. 6. Bids shall be made for the articles hereinafter named, separately, to-wit: Bids for fresh beef; bids for bacon and lard; bids for flour; bids for rice, peas, beans, grits, and hominy; bids for soap, coarse and fine salt, vinegar, starch, soda, pepper and baking powders; bids for coffee and tea; bids for white and brown sugar; bids for molasses; bids for mackerel, prunes and dried apples, kraut, brooms, candles and oil, canned goods, alcoholic stimulants and tobacco; bids for dry goods, hats, hose, shoes and undershirts; bids for coal and wood; provided, that the party to whom may be awarded the contract for wood may deliver the amount required for a year, under such regulations as the board of trustees may direct.

Sec. 8. The superintendents of the several asylums shall furnish to the board of trustees of their respective asylums a copy of the estimates that they may require for the ensuing three months, which shall be carefully preserved by said board for the inspection of the public. Said estimates shall be itemized, stating the quantity and quality of articles needed.

Sec. 9. The superintendents of the several asylums, in advertising for bids, shall specify the quality of articles required. Sec. 3. Sec. 8. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all patents issued by the State upon locations or surveys of land made by virtue of any certificate issued under the provisions of an act of the Legislature of the State of Texas entitled "An act granting to persons who have been permanently disabled by reason of wounds received while in the service of this State or of the Confederate States, a land certificate for twelve hundred and eighty acres of land," approved April 9th, 1881, be and are hereby validated, and the fact that the school and individual sections, or surveys made by virtue of any such certificate, may not have been made contiguous or adjacent to each other shall not be held to invalidate the patent issued on such survey, nor to invalidate the right of the public free school fund to the land located or surveyed for the benefit thereof by virtue of any such certificate.

Sec. 2. That all locations and surveys of land made by virtue of land certificates under said act of April 9th, 1881, entitled "An act granting to persons who have been permanently disabled by reason of wounds received while in the service of this State or of the Confederate States, a land certificate for twelve hundred and eighty acres of land," for which surveys the field notes and certificates have been returned to the Land Office within the time required by law and located upon lands subject to location by certificates, are hereby validated, and where patents have been withheld for no other reason than that the school land required by said act to be located is not located adjacent to the individual land, the Commissioner of the General Land Office is hereby authorized and required to issue patents to the persons to whom said certificates were issued, or to his or her assignee; provided, that said Commissioner shall not be authorized or required to issue to any person to whom such certificate may have been issued, or to his or her assignee, a patent for any greater amount of land than may have been surveyed by virtue of such certificate for the benefit of the public free school fund.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the unorganized counties of Buchel and Foley be and the same are hereby abolished.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate, and having passed the House with amendments, was referred to a free conference committee, and the report of said committee was adopted by both houses.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the County Commissioners' Courts of Gregg, Harrison, and Upshur Counties, Texas, may cause all persons who may be convicted of any misdemeanor in any court in said counties for violation of State laws, and who may be committed to the jail of the county in default of the payment of the fine and the costs adjudged against such person or persons, to be worked upon the public roads of such county for such length of time as may be necessary to discharge and liquidate such fine and costs at the sum of fifty cents per day for each and every day such convict may work on such roads; provided, that no convicts shall be required to perform any work upon such roads on Sunday, but they shall be given the same credit as if they had labored on that day.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners' Court shall appoint an overseer for the purpose of working the convicts and defaulting poll tax payers mentioned in Section one of this act, who shall hold his office for the term of two years, and such overseer shall receive such compensation for his services as may be prescribed and fixed by the Commissioners' Court, not, however, to be less than one dollar per day for the time actually served by such overseer.

Sec. 3. The overseer herein provided for may be removed from office by the court appointing him, for good cause, to be determined by such court, and the vacancy thus occasioned may be filled by said court for the unexpired term of any overseer removed for cause.

Sec. 4. Every insolvent poll tax payer of Gregg, Harrison, and Upshur Counties, who shall fail or refuse to pay his poll tax, and from whom such tax can not be otherwise collected by law, shall be permitted to pay such tax by working on the public county roads of said counties, at the rate of one dollar per day. In order to enforce the provisions of this section, the tax collector of the county shall furnish to the several road overseers of the county the names of all defaulting poll tax payers of the county on or before the first day of March of each and every year, giving the place of residence of such defaulting tax payer, together with the amount due and unpaid by him. For such services such road overseer shall be exempt from road service. It shall be the duty of road overseers herein provided for, whenever any defaulting poll tax payer shall have discharged and paid the same as herein provided, to report the same back to the tax collector, who shall credit the party on the tax roll for the amount thus paid; said overseer shall, also, report the same in his regular report to the Commissioners' Court; provided, that no fine or any penalty shall be recovered of any defaulting insolvent poll tax payers for failure to work out their poll tax indebtedness under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 5. This act shall be cumulative of all general laws of this State on the subject of roads and bridges, and the employment of county convicts, not in conflict herewith; and, when not otherwise provided herein, such general law shall apply; but in case of conflict with general laws, this act shall govern; and the courts of the State shall have and take judicial knowledge of this act in the same manner and to the same extent as they are required to know and notice the general laws of the State.

Sec. 6. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature and the vast amount of important business now pending, and the fact that the public roads of Gregg, Harrison and Upshur counties are now in a deplorable condition, for the want of a more efficient road system, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

D. 1885, or which may hereafter be returned delinquent or reported sold to the State or to any city or town, shall be subject to the provisions of this act, and said taxes shall remain a lien upon the said land, although the owner be unknown or though it be listed in the name of a person not the actual owner, and though the ownership be changed, the land may be sold under the judgment of the court for all taxes, interest, penalty and costs shown to be due by such assessment, for any preceding year.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the Commissioners' Court of each county in this State immediately upon the taking effect of this act to cause to be prepared by the tax collector, at the expense of the county (the compensation for making out the delinquent tax record to be fixed by the Commissioners' Court), a list of all lands, lots, or parts of lots sold to the State for taxes since the first day of January, 1885, and which have not been redeemed, in their respective counties, and unorganized counties attached thereto, and to have such lists recorded in books to be called the "Delinquent Tax Record," showing when the lands or lots were reported delinquent or sold to the State for taxes, also the name of the owner at the time of such sale or delinquency, if known, the numbers of acres, the amount of taxes due when first sold, and the amount of all taxes assessed against the owner thereof and returned delinquent for each year as shown by the records of the tax collector's office; and in making up the list or lists contemplated by this act, corrections and omissions in the description of any real estate embraced in such list or lists shall be made, so that when the corrections are made and the omissions supplied, the description will be such as is given in the abstracts of all the titled and patented lands in the State of Texas, or as required in section 12 of this act, such as may be furnished by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and it shall be required in bulk assessments, to apportion to each tract or lot of land separately, its pro rata share of the entire tax, penalty and cost. The list for each county, when certified to by the county judge, and assessment rolls and books on file in the tax collector's office, shall be prima facie evidence that all the requirements of the law have been complied with by the officers charged with any duty thereunder, as to the regularity of listing, assessing, levying of all the taxes therein mentioned, and reporting as delinquent or sold to the State any real estate whatsoever, and that the amount alleged against said real estate is a true and correct charge; and in cases in which the description of the property in said list or assessment rolls or books, is not sufficient to properly identify the same, and of which property there is a sufficient description in the inventories in the assessor's office, then said inventories shall be admissible as evidence of the description of said property. This Delinquent Tax Record for each county shall be delivered to and preserved by the county clerk in his office, and the Commissioners' Court shall cause a duplicate of same to be sent to the Comptroller; provided, that where the records are incomplete in any county, it shall be the duty of the Comptroller to furnish such county with a certified copy of the delinquent list for any year or years.

Sec. 4. On receipt of such Delinquent Tax Record containing a complete list of the lands or lots that have been reported delinquent or sold to the State for taxes for any year or number of years since January 1, 1885, and containing, also, the data and information mentioned in Section 3 of this act, it shall be the duty of the county clerk of each of the counties of this State, respectively, to certify the same to the Commissioners' Court for examination and correction, and shall thereafter cause the same to be recorded in a book, which book shall be labelled the "Delinquent Tax Record of County." The Delinquent Tax Record shall be arranged numerically as to abstract numbers, and shall be accompanied by an index showing the names of delinquents in alphabetical order.

Sec. 5. Upon the completion of said Delinquent Tax Record by any county in this State, it shall be the duty of the Commissioners' Court to cause the same to be published in some newspaper published in the county, for three consecutive weeks; but if no newspaper is published in the county, such list may be published in a newspaper outside of the county to be designated by the Commissioners' Court by contract duly entered into, and a publishers' fee of twenty-five cents shall be taxed against such tract or parcel of land so advertised, which fee, when collected, shall be paid into the county treasury, and the Commissioners' Court of said county shall not allow for said publication a greater amount than twenty-five cents for each tract of land so advertised, and said publication, and other publications in a newspaper provided for in this act, may be proved by the affidavit of the printer of the newspaper in which the publication was made, his foreman, or principal clerk, annexed to a copy of the publication, specifying the times when and the paper in which the publication was made; provided, that all corrections made in said record, under this section, be noted in the minutes of the Commissioners' Court, and shall be certified by the county clerk to the Comptroller, who shall note the same upon his Delinquent Tax Record; provided, that in the event such Delinquent Tax Record be not published correctly in accordance with the copy furnished such newspaper, then no compensation shall be allowed for such publication.

Sec. 6. Twenty days after the publication of such notice, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the Commissioners' Court, or the county judge acting for said court, shall file a list of all lands so advertised for taxes due for any year or numbers of years, the tax on which remains unpaid, with the county clerk of the county in which such lands are located, or if unorganized, then with the county clerk of the county to which said unorganized county may be attached for judicial purposes, and are to be sold under the provisions of this act, for all the taxes, interest, penalty, and costs, and shall cause suit to be filed in the name of the State of Texas, in the District Court of said county, or if unorganized, then, in the District Court of the county to which said unorganized county is attached for judicial purposes, stating therein by apt reference to lists or schedules annexed thereto, a description of all lands or lots in such county upon which taxes and penalty have remained unpaid for any year or number of years since the first day of January, 1885, and the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for the sale thereof at the rate of six per cent per annum, and shall pray for judgment for the payment of the several amounts so specified therein, and in default thereof, that such lands be sold to satisfy said judgment for all taxes, interest, penalty, and costs, and for such other relief to which the State may be entitled under the law and facts. All suits to enforce the collection of taxes, as provided in this act, shall take precedence and have priority over all other suits pending in the District Court. The petition in such suits shall be signed by the attorney bringing the suit, and shall be verified by the affidavit of said attorney, or the county judge, to the effect that the averments contained in said petition are true to the best knowledge and belief of affiant, and the pleadings of the defendant, except those of law, shall be verified by like affidavit of the defendant, his agent or attorney. The County Collector, County Clerk and County Assessor shall furnish all affidavits, certified copies of the records of their respective offices, and such other evidence as may be in their possession by virtue of such office, as may be applied for by the County Attorney.

Sec. 7. The proper persons shall be made parties defendant in such suits and shall be served with process, and other proceedings had therein as provided by law for suits of like character in the District Courts of this State; and in case of foreclosure, an order of sale shall issue, and the land sold thereunder as in other cases of foreclosure; but if the defendant or his attorney, shall at any time before the sale, file with the sheriff or other officer in whose hands any such order of sale shall be placed, a written request that the property described therein shall be divided and sold in less tracts than the whole, together with a description of such subdivisions, then, such officer shall sell the lands in said subdivisions as the defendant may request, and in such case shall only sell as many subdivisions, as near as may be, to satisfy the judgment, interest, penalties, and costs, and after the payment of the taxes, interest, penalties, and costs, adjudged against it, the remainder of the purchase price, if any, shall be paid by the sheriff to the clerk of the court out of which said execution or other final process issued to be retained by him, subject to the order of the court for the period of two years, after which time the court may order the same to be paid to the State Treasurer, who shall hold same in trust to be paid to the owner against whom said taxes were assessed; provided, any one claiming the same shall make proof of his claim to the satisfaction of the State Treasurer, within ten years after the sale of said lands or lots, after which the same shall be governed by the law regulating escheats; provided, that no suit shall be brought to enforce such lien upon any land that a sufficient description to identify the same can not first be had; and provided, further, that if there shall be no bidder for such land that the county attorney shall bid said property off to the State for the amount of all taxes, penalties, interest, and costs adjudged against said property, and in the absence of the county attorney the sheriff is authorized to bid to the State, when there are no bidders; and it shall be the duty of the District Clerk to immediately make report of such sale in duplicate, one to the Comptroller of Public Accounts, and one to the Commissioners' Court, on blanks to be prescribed and furnished by the Comptroller. And in all such cases where the property is bid off to the State, it shall be the duty of the sheriff to make and execute deeds to the State, using forms to be prescribed and furnished by the Comptroller, showing, in each case, the amount of taxes, interest, penalty, and costs for which sold, and the clerk's fee for recording deeds as hereinafter provided. He shall cause such deeds to be recorded in the records of deeds, by the county clerk of his county, and when so recorded shall forward the same to the Comptroller; and the county clerk shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for recording each such deed to the State, to be taxed as other costs. And when lands thus sold to the State shall be redeemed, it shall be the duty of the collector of taxes, when any such redemption is made, to make the proper distribution of the moneys received by him in such redemption, paying to each officer the amount of costs found to be due, and to the State and county the taxes, interest, and penalties due each, respectively.

Sec. 8. In all cases in which lands have been sold, or may be sold for default in the payment of taxes, it shall be lawful for the sheriff selling the same, or any of his successors in office, to make a deed or deeds to the purchaser or to any other person to whom the purchaser may direct the deed to be made, and any such deed shall be held in any court of law or equity in this State to vest a good and perfect title in the purchaser thereof, subject to be impeached only for actual fraud.

Sec. 9. The county attorney, or district attorney in counties where there is no county attorney, shall represent the State and county in all suits against delinquent tax payers that are provided for in this act, and all sums collected shall be paid immediately to the county collector.

In no case shall the compensation for said county attorney be greater than three dollars for the first tract in one suit, and one dollar for each additional tract, if more than one tract is embraced in same suit to recover taxes, interest, penalty, and costs; provided, that those county attorneys who may have heretofore or may hereafter institute said suits shall be entitled to an equal division with their successor in office of the fees allowed herein on all suits instituted by them, where the judgment has not been obtained prior to the vacation of their office. The collector of taxes, for preparing the delinquent list and separating the property previously sold to the State from that reported to be sold as delinquent for the preceding year, and certifying the same to the Commissioners' Court, shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for each correct assessment of the land to be sold, said fee to be taxed as costs against the delinquent. The sheriff shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for selling and making deed thereto to each purchaser of land that he sells under judgment for taxes, which fee shall be taxed as costs of suit, and the District Clerk shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar and fifty cents in each case, to be taxed as costs of suit. And the County Clerk, for making out and recording the data of each delinquent assessment, and for certifying the same to the Commissioners' Court for correction, and for noting the same in the minutes of the Commissioners' Court, and for certifying the same, with corrections, to the Comptroller, and noting the same on his delinquent tax record, shall receive the sum of one dollar, to be taxed as costs against the land in each suit; provided, that in no case shall the State or county be liable for such fees, but in each case they shall be taxed as costs against the land to be sold under judgment for taxes and paid out of the proceeds of sale of same after the taxes, penalty, and interest due thereon to the State are paid; provided, that where two or more unimproved city or town lots belonging to the same person and situated in the same city or town shall all be included in the same suit and costs, except those of advertising, which shall be twenty-five cents for every ten lots, or any number less than ten, taxed against them collectively just as if they were one tract or lot; and, provided, further, that where suits have been brought by the State against delinquents to recover tax due by them to the State and county, the said delinquent may pay the amount of the tax, interest, penalties, and all accrued costs to the county collector during the pendency of such suit, and the county attorney shall receive as compensation therefor two dollars for the first tract and one dollar for each additional tract embraced in said suit, and the District Clerk shall receive only one dollar, and the sheriff only one dollar in each case; but these fees shall be in lieu of the fees provided for such officers where suits are brought as hereinbefore provided.

Sec. 10. If any person shall fail or refuse to pay the taxes imposed upon him or his property by law until the 31st day of January next succeeding the return of the assessment rolls of the county to the Comptroller, a penalty of ten per cent on the entire amount of such taxes shall accrue, which penalty, when collected, shall be paid proportionately to the State and county, and the collector of taxes shall, by virtue of his tax rolls, seize and levy upon and sell so much personal property belonging to such person as may be sufficient to pay his taxes, together with the penalty above provided, interest, and all costs accruing thereon. If no personal property be found for seizure and sale, as above provided, the collector shall, on the 31st day of March of each year for which the State and county taxes, for the preceding year only, remain unpaid, make up a list of the lands and lots on which the taxes for such preceding year are delinquent, charging against the same all taxes and penalties assessed against the owner thereof.

Said list shall be made in triplicate and shall be presented to the Commissioners' Court for examination and corrections of any errors that may appear, and when so examined and corrected by the Commissioners' Court, such lists in triplicate shall be approved by said court, and one copy thereof shall be filed with the county clerk, and one copy retained and preserved by the collector, and one copy forwarded to the Comptroller with his annual settlement reports.

When such list of lands and lots, delinquent for the preceding year only, is corrected, as provided for in this section, then such list shall be immediately advertised, as provided for in section 5 of this act, and, after such advertisement, suit shall be instituted against delinquents for all taxes and penalties due, in the District Court, as above provided, and such list, as furnished by the tax collector, and corrected by the Commissioners' Court, and the assessment rolls or books on file in the collector's office, or either said list or assessment rolls or books shall be prima facie evidence that all the requirements of the law have been complied with by the officers or courts charged with any duty thereunder as to the regularity of listing, assessing, levying all taxes therein mentioned, and reporting as delinquent any real estate whatsoever, and that the amount alleged against said real estate is a true and correct charge; and in cases in which the description of the real estate in said list or assessment rolls or books is not sufficient to identify the same, and of which property there is a sufficient description in the inventories of the assessor's office, then said inventories shall be admissible as evidence of the description of said property.

In the counties where the Delinquent Tax Record for former years has not been furnished, as provided for in Section 3 of this act, the collector of taxes shall, also, at the same time, make, in triplicate, a list of all lands and lots that have been previously sold to the State for taxes of former years, which have not been redeemed and on which the taxes are delinquent for the preceding year, and shall present the same to the Commissioners' Court for examination and correction of any error that may appear, and when so examined and corrected by the Commissioners' Court, such lists, in triplicate, shall be approved by said court, and one copy thereof shall be filed with the county clerk, one retained and preserved by the collector, and one copy forwarded to the Comptroller, with his annual settlement reports.

Sec. 11. Any incorporated city or town or school district shall have the right to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes due it under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 12. Real estate which may have been rendered for taxes and paid under erroneous description given in assessment rolls, or lands that may have been doubly assessed and taxes paid on one assessment, or lands which may have been assessed and taxes paid thereon in a county other than the one in which they are located, or lands which may have been sold to the State and upon which taxes have been paid and through error not credited in the assessment rolls, shall not be deemed subject to the provisions of this act.

When called upon, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall furnish the County Judge of any county compiling its own delinquent tax record, officially, with such information as may be necessary to enable him to determine the validity or locality of such surveys and grants as have not been shown by the printed abstracts of the Land Office.

Sec. 13. Any delinquent tax payer whose lands have been returned delinquent or reported sold to the State for taxes due thereon, or any one having an interest therein, may redeem the same at any time before his lands are sold under the provisions of this act by paying to the collector the taxes due thereon since January first, 1885, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum and all costs and the penalty of ten per cent, as provided for in Section 10 of this act; provided, such penalty has accrued under the provisions and since the passage and taking effect of this act.

Sec. 14. Where lands are sold under the provisions of this act, the owner or any one having an interest therein, shall have the right to redeem said land, or his interest therein, within two years from the date of said sale upon the payment of double the amount paid for the land.

Sec. 15. Wherever the owner or owners of any lands or lots returned delinquent or reported sold to the State, or that may hereafter be reported sold or returned delinquent for the taxes due thereon for any year or number of years, are non-residents of the State, or the name of the owner or owners of said land or lots be unknown, then upon affidavit setting out that the owner or owners are non-residents or that the owner or owners are unknown to the attorney for the State and after enquiry can not be ascertained, said parties shall be cited and made parties defendant by notice in "The name of the State and county directed to all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in the following described land delinquent to the State of Texas and county of ———, for taxes, to-wit: (here set out description of the land as contained on the assessment roll and such further description obtainable in the petition), which said land is delinquent for taxes for the following amounts. $—— for State taxes, and $—— for county taxes, and you are hereby notified that suit has been brought by the State for the collection of said taxes, and you are commanded to appear and defend such suit at the ——— term of the District Court of ——— county, and State of Texas, and show cause why judgment shall not be rendered condemning said land (or lot), and ordering sale and foreclosure thereof for said taxes and costs of suit," which notice shall be signed by the clerk and shall be published in some newspaper published in said county one time a week for three consecutive weeks. If there is no newspaper published in the county then notice may be given by publication in a paper in an adjoining county. A maximum fee of 2½ cents per line (seven words to count a line) for each insertion may be attached for publishing the citation as above provided for. If the publication of such citation can not be had for the compensation provided for in this section then publication of the citation herein provided may be made by posting a copy at three different places in the county, one of which shall be at the court house door. It shall be lawful in all cases to set forth in the petition the name of all parties interested as far as ascertained, and make them parties, and also to join and make defendants all persons having or claiming any legal or equitable interest in the land described in the petition, and such suit after such publication shall be proceeded with as in other cases, and whether any party or parties make defense or not on the trial of said case the State and county shall be entitled to prove the amount of taxes due and shall have a decree for the sale of said land or lot as in those cases where defendant owners have been personally served and defend suit, and a sale of said land or lot shall be had and be as binding as where defendants were personally served with process. In all suits for taxes due the defendant shall be entitled to credits he can show due him for any year or number of years for which he may be able to produce receipts, but the State shall have judgment and foreclosure of tax lien for any year or years sued for where the defendant can not offer receipt or other positive proof showing the payment of the claim for the taxes.

Sec. 16. In any incorporated city or town in which any lots or blocks of land situated within the corporate limits of said city or town have been returned delinquent or reported sold to said city or town for the taxes due thereon, the City Council may prepare lists of delinquents in the same manner as is provided for in Section 3 of this act, and when such lists shall be certified to as correct by the Mayor of said city or town, the City Council may direct the City Attorney to file suit in the district court of the county in which said city or town is situated, for the recovery of the taxes due on said property together with penalty, interest, and costs of suit, which suits may be brought in the same manner as is provided in Section 5 of this Act for the bringing of suits by the County Attorney.

Sec. 17. That in counties in which the subdivisions of surveys are not regularly numbered, and in cities or towns in which the blocks or subdivisions are not numbered, or are so irregularly numbered as to make it difficult or impossible for the Assessor to list the same, the Commissioners' Court of such counties may have all the blocks and subdivisions of surveys platted and numbered so as to identify each lot or tract, and to furnish the Assessor with maps showing such numbering; and an assessment of any property by such numbering on said maps shall be sufficient description thereof for all purposes, and such maps, or a certified copy of same or any part thereof, shall be admissible as evidence in all courts; provided, that the cost of making said survey and plats shall be defrayed by the county in which said property is situated and of which the said Commissioners' Court ordered the said surveys and plats made; provided, that the cost of any map of a town or city shall be paid by such town or city when ordered by the town or city.

Sec. 18. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 19. The fact that the passage of this law will facilitate the collection of taxes, and provide the method of reporting the same to the Comptroller, supplying needed omissions in existing laws, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

H. B. No. 518.

CHAPTER 104.

An Act to amend Articles 5243e, 5243i, 5243j, and 5243k, of Chapter 9, Title 104, of the Revised Civil Statutes relating to the taxation of Insurance, Telephone, Sleeping and Dining Car and other corporations, and to provide for forfeiting the charters of domestic corporations and permits of foreign corporations to do business in this State for failure to pay the franchise tax levied by this act, and to define and prescribe the notice to be given to said corporations previous to such forfeiture, and to provide adequate penalties for the violation of this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 5243e, 5243i, 5243j, and 5243k, of Chapter 9, Title 104, of the Revised Civil Statutes be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 5243e. Every Life, Fire, Marine, Accident or other Insurance Company at the time of its filing its annual statement shall report to the Commissioner of Insurance the gross amount of premiums received in this State during the preceding year, and each life insurance company and life and accident insurance company shall pay an annual tax of 2 per cent on such gross premium receipts; and each fire insurance company shall pay an annual tax of one-half of one per cent, and each marine, health, live stock, guarantee or accident insurance company shall pay an annual tax of one per cent on such premium receipts; and the gross premium receipts are understood to be the premium receipts reported to the Commissioner of Insurance by the insurance companies on sworn statements. Upon receipt by him of sworn statements showing the gross premium receipts by such companies, the Commissioner shall certify to the State Treasurer the amount of tax due by each company, which tax shall be paid to the State Treasurer for the use of the State on or before the first day of March following, whose receipt shall be evidence of payment of such taxes, and no insurance company shall receive a permit to do business in this State until such taxes are paid; provided, that no occupation tax shall be levied on any insurance company by any county, city, or town, but this article shall not be construed to prohibit the levy of such county, State, and municipal taxes upon the real and personal property of such companies.

Article 5243i. Each and every private domestic corporation hertofore chartered under the laws of this State, shall pay to the Secretary of State an annual franchise tax of ten dollars, to be paid on or before the first day of May of each year, and every such corporation which shall be hereafter chartered under the laws of this State, shall also pay to the Secretary of State an annual franchise tax of ten dollars, the tax for the first year to be paid at the time such charter is filed, and the Secretary of State shall not be required or permitted to file such charter until said tax is paid; and each succeeding tax shall be paid on or before the first day of May of each year thereafter; provided, that any such corporation having a capital stock of over $50,000.00 and less than $100,000.00 shall pay an annual franchise tax of $20.00; and having a capital stock of over $100,000.00 and less than $200,000.00, shall pay an annual franchise tax of $30.00; and having a capital stock of over $200,000.00 shall pay an annual franchise tax of $50.00. And each and every foreign corporation having an authorized capital stock of one hundred thousand dollars or less which has heretofore received a permit to do business in this State, under the laws of this State, shall pay to the Secretary of State an annual franchise tax as follows: Each and every foreign corporation having a capital stock of $25,000 or less, an annual franchise tax of $25.00; each and every foreign corporation having a capital stock of more than $25,000.00, and not exceeding $100,000.00, an annual franchise tax of $100.00, to be paid on or before the first day of May of each year; and every such corporation which shall hereafter receive such permit shall also pay to the Secretary of State an annual franchise tax of fifty dollars, the tax for the first year to be paid at the time such permit is issued, and the Secretary of State shall not be required or permitted to issue said permit until said tax is paid, and each succeeding tax shall be paid on or before the first day of May of each year thereafter. And any such corporation having an authorized capital stock of more than one hundred thousand dollars shall in addition to the franchise tax of fifty dollars, as above provided, also pay a franchise tax of one dollar for every ten thousand dollars of their capital stock over and above one hundred thousand dollars. And any corporation which shall fail to pay the tax provided for in this article, at the time specified herein, shall, because of such failure, forfeit its right to do business in this State, which forfeiture shall be consummated without judicial ascertainment by the Secretary of State entering upon the margin of the ledger kept in his office relating to such corporations, the word "Forfeited." giving the date of such forfeiture; and any corporation whose charter may be thus forfeited shall be denied the right to sue; provided, in any suit against such corporation, on a cause of action arising before such forfeiture, no affirmative relief may be granted to such defendant corporation, unless its charter is revived, as provided in Article 5243j. All transportation companies now paying an annual income tax on their gross receipts in this State shall be exempted from the provisions of this act.

Article 5243j. The Secretary of State shall, on or before the first day of March of each year, notify all private domestic and foreign corporations subject to a franchise tax by any law of this State, by mailing to the postoffice named as the principal place of business of such corporation in its articles of incorporation, or to any other place of business of such corporation, addressed in its corporate name, a written or printed notice that such tax will be due at a date named therein, a record of the date of which mailing must be kept by said officer, and which mailing of such notice and the said record thereof shall constitute legal and sufficient notice for all the purposes of this article; and in thirty days after the first day of May of each year, said officer shall publish for ten consecutive days, in some daily newspaper published in this State, a list of the corporations whose rights to do business in this State have been forfeited for non-compliance with this chapter; provided, that any corporation which shall, within six months after such publication, pay the tax and five dollars additional thereto, for each month or fractional part of a month, which shall elapse after such forfeiture, shall be relieved from the forfeiture of its charter by reason of such failure, and when such tax and the said penalty are fully paid to the Secretary of State, it shall be the duty of said officer to revive and reinstate said forfeited charter by erasing or cancelling the word "Forfeited" from his ledger, and substituting therefor the word "Revived," giving the date of such revival. Provided, further, that this chapter shall not be construed to repeal any law prescribing fees to be collected by the Secretary of State.

Article 5243k. Corporations organized for the purpose of religious worship, or for holding places of burial, not for private profit, or corporations organized for the purpose of holding agricultural fairs, and encouraging agricultural pursuits, or for strictly educational purposes, or for purely public charity, are exempted from the tax imposed by this act.

Every person, firm, corporation or association owning, controlling, managing or operating any dining or sleeping cars within this State for the use of the public, and for which use any fare is charged, shall pay a tax of ten cents for every one hundred miles over which each of said cars may be operated on any line of railroad wholly or in part within this State. Said tax herein provided for shall be paid to the State Treasurer, quarterly, for the use of the State, and every such company, association, person or corporation so owning, controlling or managing any such dining or sleeping car, shall, quarterly, report to the Comptroller of the State of Texas, the number of miles each and every such car has been transported over any line of railway situated wholly or in part within this State during the preceding quarter, and it is hereby made the duty of every conductor, agent or employe controlling, or operating any such dining or sleeping car herein mentioned to make said report and to see that same is done at the end of each quarter as herein provided. Should any person, association of persons, or corporation, or employes or agents of any such person, association, or corporation herein named, fail to make the report provided in this act, for 30 days after the termination of any quarter of the year, then he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than $50, nor more than $100, and each day after the said 30 days has expired, shall be deemed a separate offense.

It is not intended by this act to repeal any law now in force in this State taxing sleeping and dining car companies, associations or persons owning same.

Sec. 2. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act shall be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that the close of this session is rapidly approaching, and the further fact that the State is greatly in need of revenue, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, April 30, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 88, nays 4; and having passed the Senate with amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays 1, the House concurred in the Senate amendments by a vote of yeas 73, nays 16.]

CHAPTER 105.

An Act authorizing certified copies of instruments conveying land in Archer county, recorded in Jack county from the 10th day of August, 1866, to the 10th day of August, 1870, to be admitted in evidence in all suits where secondary evidence is necessary.

Whereas, from the 10th day of August, 1866, to the 10th day of August, 1870, inclusive, the unorganized county of Archer was attached to the organized county of Jack for registration purposes, and whereas, the record containing conveyances of land situated in Archer county, recorded in Jack county from the 10th day of August, 1866, to the 10th day of August, 1870, has been moved from Jack county to the county of Shackelford, and said record is now in the archives of the office of the clerk of the county court of Shackelford county: Therefore, Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That certified copies of deeds, mortgages, trust deeds, and all other instruments in any manner affecting titles to lands in Archer county which were recorded in Jack county from the 10th day of August, 1866, to the 10th day of August, 1870, said certified copies made under the hand and seal of the clerk of the county court of Shackelford county, be admitted in evidence in all suits where secondary evidence is admissible.

Sec. 2. Whereas, There is great uncertainty and difficulty for legal and equitable owners of lands situated in Archer county, to make proof of their title, by reason of the removal of said record from Jack county to Shackelford county, and in order to provide a rule of evidence that proof can be made of titles to land in Archer county, and to prevent litigation, an emergency exists, and public necessity requires that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 95, nays none; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays 1.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the twenty-third day of April, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. CHAPTER 106.

An Act for the establishment of a public park on the site of the battle field of San Jacinto, and providing for the purchase and condemnation of a sufficient amount of land upon which to establish said park, and making an appropriation therefor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That it is necessary for the public use that the State of Texas own two hundred and fifty acres of land on the site of the battle field of San Jacinto, in Harris county, Texas, in addition to what it already owns, for the use of the State for public purposes as a public park, and that the sum of ten thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purchase by agreement or condemnation by the State of Texas of any tract or tracts of land constituting and composing a part of said battle field, and enclosing the same, which may be selected by the commissioners hereinafter provided for, not exceeding two hundred and fifty acres, situated on the site of the said battle field, for the use of the State, as a public park; and said commissioners may purchase or condemn for the State, such portion of the site of said battle field as they may in their discretion deem proper, within the restrictions and limitations hereinafter imposed.

Sec. 2. That the Governor shall, upon the taking effect of this act, or as soon thereafter as practicable, appoint three commissioners, who shall enter into a bond payable to the Governor of Texas or successors in office, in the sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned that they will well and truly discharge their duties as such commissioners, and faithfully expend said money and make due report to the Governor of their action; and who shall have the powers and duties mentioned in the sections following, and who shall serve without compensation; provided, that a majority of said commissioners may act, and a decision of the majority shall be sufficient on all matters coming before them.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the said commissioners to purchase the land necessary for said park, or so much thereof as they may be able to acquire within the limitations and restrictions of this act, and they shall have full powers in the selection of said land, and to select the same, and to arrange and carry through the terms of sale and purchase.

Sec. 4. The commissioners provided herein are authorized to pay for the land they may designate and select for said park, whatever they may consider the fair and reasonable market value of the same; provided, the price to be agreed upon therefor does not exceed twenty-five dollars per acre; but should said commissioners, for any reason, fail or be unable to agree with any owner or owners of any of said land, as to the price to be paid therefor, then they shall take steps to condemn the same, in the name of the State of Texas, and in order to effect this purpose, it shall be the duty of said commissioners to cause to be stated in writing, the real estate or property sought to be taken, the name of the owner or owners thereof and the residence of such owner, of known, and file such statement with the county judge of Harris county. Upon the filing of the statement provided for in this section, it shall be the duty of said county judge in term time or vacation to appoint three disinterested freeholders and qualified voters of Harris county as special commissioners to assess the damages to accrue to the property by reason of such condemnation. The special commissioners so appointed to assess such damage shall in their proceedings be governed and controlled by the laws in force in reference to the condemnation of the right of way for railroad companies and the assessment of damage therefor, and the proceedings shall be in accordance with such law, the State of Texas occupying the position of the railroad company, and all laws in reference to the applications for the condemnation for right of way of railroad companies, including the measure of damages, the service, actual or constructive, on the property owner, the right of appeal, and the like, not inconsistent with other provisions of this act, shall apply to the application by the State, in these proceedings, but it is specially provided that in the event of condemnation proceedings the damages assessed for the taking of any tract or parcel of land shall in the discretion of the commissioners herein provided for be deemed excessive and greater than a reasonable and adequate compensation therefor, or exceed the average twenty-five dollars per acre for the entire number of acres acquired under such condemnation, said commissioners shall decline and refuse to pay the same, and in such event the State of Texas shall pay the court costs of such proceedings, and no further action thereunder shall be taken.

Sec. 5. Before any purchase or condemnation of any land shall be consummated under this act, a proper and complete abstract of the title thereto shall be by said commissioners presented to the attorney general and shall be examined and approved by him, showing, in his opinion, in whom the legal title thereto is vested, and upon such approval of the title by the attorney general, then, in the event either of purchase by agreement or by condemnation, the commissioners hereby appointed shall make an application in writing, and under oath, addressed to the treasurer of the State of Texas, stating the amount of land to be acquired, from whom acquired, how acquired, and the price to be paid therefor, and when such application has been approved by the governor, it shall be a sufficient warrant, and the treasurer is hereby required to pay the same, and each of them so made within the provisions and limitations of this act. and the appropriation hereby made, and said commissioners shall then take proper conveyances or evidences of title placing the title to said land in the State of Texas and pay the owner or owners therefor.

Sec. 6. Such reasonable and necessary expenses as may be incurred by the commissioners, personally, and in the employment of engineers and surveyors as may be necessary in carrying out the provisions of this act, shall be presented in writing and under oath to the governor, and if approved by him as reasonable and correct, shall be audited as other claims and paid out of the appropriation herein made. Said commissioners shall on the completion of their services herein provided for, and not later than the first day of January, 1899, make a full report to the Governor with an itemized statement of all expenditures and all acts done and performed under this act.

Sec. 7. The great number of bills now pending before both houses of the legislature, and the near approach of the end of the session, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 108.

An Act to amend Article 2313, Chapter 4, Title 40, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, 1895, relating to the introduction of certain abstracts of titles as evidence.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 2313, Chapter 4, Title 40, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, 1895, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 2313. All abstracts of land titles, or land abstract books to land in this State, compiled from the records of any county in this State prior to the year 1877, which said records were partially or wholly destroyed or lost from any cause during the months of May, 1874, and

March, 1876, shall hereafter be competent prima facie evidence of the truth of the data or memoranda therein contained and compiled prior to the year 1877, and shall be admissible in evidence in the courts of this State; provided, that the compiler of such abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books shall have made heretofore, or before offered in evidence, affidavit before some officer authorized at the time of making such affidavit to take acknowledgments to deeds in this State, and to the effect that said abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books were compiled by him from the records of the county prior to their destruction or loss, and that they contain a true and correct statement of the matters and things to which they relate; and provided, also, that it shall be admissible to offer in evidence any testimony tending to discredit or substantiate the reliability of such abstract of land titles or land title abstract books, or tending to show the compiler thereof to have been incompetent or unreliable, or competent and reliable; and provided, further, that a copy of such abstract shall be filed in the papers of the cause in which it is sought to be used, and notice given to the opposite party at least five days before the trial, and the same defenses may be made as if copies of the original record had been filed; provided, further, that the party offering such abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books in evidence shall himself or by his agent or attorney have made affidavit that the original instrument to which the said data or memoranda relates is not then on record; that he has made diligent search and inquiry for the same in places and from persons where and in whose possession it would most probably be found, and has been unable to find the same; that to his best knowledge and belief the same is lost or destroyed; and provided, further, that the owner of said abstracts of land titles or of land title abstract books shall have filed with the county commissioners' court his application in writing (which may be granted, or refused, in the discretion of said court, and if refused, this article shall not become of force as to said application so refused) for an order of said court admitting to record in said court the contract of the said owner in writing wherein the said owner shall bind himself, his heirs and assigns, as follows: That said owner, his heirs or assigns, will, whenever requested in writing, setting forth the data required by any party to any suit interested in introducing said abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books, produce the same without charge on the day demanded for introducing in evidence, and upon the trial of any cause in this State; provided, that if said owner, his heirs or assigns, are required to produce said abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books in courts of any other county than that to the lands of which said abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books pertain, they shall be, by the party at whose instance such production is required, reasonably compensated in advance for the time and expenses of the said owner, his heirs or assigns.

And the said owner in said contract shall bind himself, his heirs and assigns, to answer in full damages to any party damaged by the failure or default of the said owner, his heirs or assigns, without good cause, to produce said abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books, data or memoranda, when demanded, as herein provided.

And said contract shall further stipulate that no charge shall ever be made by said owner, his heirs or assigns, in excess of one dollar for each instrument or remove in any title in the compilation of a complete ab-abstract or title to the lands in the county to which said abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books pertain, and that said owner, his heirs and assigns, will, upon request and payment of the fees therefor by any person, either make, compile, and certify, or cause to be made, compiled or certified, within a reasonable time, a complete abstract of title to any lands to which said abstracts of land titles or land title abstract books pertain; provided, that nothing herein contained shall ever be construed to any way affect or apply to any suit or suits pending in any of the courts of this State on the twelfth day of July, 1891; provided, further, that the provisions of this article shall not apply, if it can be shown by competent evidence that any such deeds were improperly recorded.

Sec. 2. Whereas, the enacting at this session of the present Legislature of the legislation contemplated by this bill is imperiled by the great number of bills pending before that body, therefore an emergency exists creating an imperative public necessity justifying the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and it is therefore suspended, and that this act take effect and go into force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 109.

An Act to provide for the survey of lands to be set apart as a permanent endowment fund for the Branch University for colored people of this State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Governor and Commissioner of the General Land Office be and they are hereby authorized to contract with and appoint a competent surveyor to survey and return to the General Land Office plats and field notes of one hundred thousand acres of land, to be surveyed out of any of the vacant public and unsurveyed lands of this State in the manner herein-after provided. They shall contract with such competent surveyor at the lowest price consistent with competency and efficiency in discharging the duties of surveyor. If they deem it necessary they may advertise for bids from surveyors. The surveyor so appointed shall enter into a good and sufficient bond in a sum of not less than double the contract price of the surveys, conditioned that he will faithfully comply with the requirements of this act, which bond shall be payable to the governor of the State, and be approved by him.

Sec. 2. The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall furnish the surveyor appointed under authority of this act with sketches showing connections with any existing and established corners from which he may begin the surveys. He shall survey the lands into sections of 640 acres and in blocks after the manner of the railway surveys now existing in this State, and shall make plats of each block and survey, numbering the blocks in numerical order, beginning with number one, and shall also number each section in each block in the same manner, beginning with number one in each block. In all cases he shall mark and establish two corners on the ground for each survey, and the lines between which, if in timber, shall be distinctly marked. Said corners shall be made with at least two bearings, if in timber, and if in prairie, by earth mounds six feet in diameter and three feet high, or with a pile of rocks not less than two feet high. He shall actually survey each section on the ground and sign the field notes, himself, of each survey separately and have his chain carriers to attest the field notes of each survey by their own signatures. The surveyor shall then certify that he actually surveyed the land embraced in the field notes, on the ground, and that the field notes correctly describe the land. He shall have the field notes of each survey and plat recorded in the surveyor's record of the county or counties in which the lands surveyed are situated or in the county to which such county may be attached for surveying purposes in the manner now required by law. He shall, however, first forward the field notes of all surveys made in any county to the commissioner of the land office for examination both as to correctness and as to conflicts with older valid surveys, and upon their return to the surveyor, after being approved by the commissioner, they shall be recorded as above required. After the field notes are recorded the said surveyor shall make a plat of each block of surveys according to the field notes so made by him, and return same, together with the original field notes, recorded, to the general land office. All the lands surveyed as required by this act shall thereafter be mapped in the land office and shall be known and designated as the Branch University surveys for the colored people.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the commissioner to have the sections carefully numbered on the map in accordance with the field notes of the surveys and blocks so returned by the surveyor. The odd numbered surveys shall thereafter be set apart and constitute a permanent endowment for a branch University for the colored people, and the even numbered sections shall thereafter be set apart and constitute a permanent endowment for the public free schools of the State. None of the odd numbered lands surveyed, as required by this act, shall be put on the market and disposed of by the commissioner of the land office, but shall be under the control of the Board of Regents for the University of Texas, and held by the board in trust for the benefit of the said branch University for the colored people. All the funds received by said board for leases or sale of said lands shall be held sacred for the benefits and uses herein designated. The commissioners shall not sell the even numbered sections set apart herein for the public free school fund, but may lease the same to such persons only as may lease from the board of regents the odd numbers. Whenever the board may desire to sell said lands, they may contract for its sale, and the purchaser, upon exhibiting to the commissioner of the land office such contract and depositing with him a duplicate copy of the same, the commissioner may also sell the school sections corresponding with such odd numbers on the same terms and at the same price per acre as that embraced in the contract; provided, it shall not be sold for less than one dollar per acre: The proceeds to be paid into the treasury of the State, as now provided by law.

Sec. 4. Any of the vacant and unsurveyed public domain situated in any of the counties embraced in Chapter XXXIII, approved March 11, 1881, may be surveyed for the purposes set out in this act, notwithstanding any reservation therein or elsewhere.

Sec. 5. If any sale shall be made of the school lands herein as provided in Section 4 of this act, and any payment of principal or interest shall not be made according to the contract of sale, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of the general land office to forfeit the contract without judicial ascertainment, as now provided by law, and the contract shall contain a stipulation authorizing such forfeiture which shall be signed by the purchaser.

Sec. 6. The surveyor shall be paid by a warrant of the comptroller drawn on the treasurer of the State out of the general revenue upon the presentation to the comptroller of the certificate of the commissioner of the general land office certifying that the lands have been surveyed and field notes and plats have been properly returned to the land office. He shall also reimburse in the same manner the contractor for any sum of money for fees which he may have paid to the county surveyor for recording field notes and plats, not in excess of the fees now provided by law for such recording.

Sec. 7. The near approach of the end of this session of the Legislature creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that the bill be put upon its third reading and final passage.

Approved, May 7, 1897.

CHAPTER 110.

An Act to create a more efficient road system for Ellis County, Texas, and making County Commissioners of said county ex officio Road Commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as Road Commissioners, and providing for the appointment of Deputy Road Commissioners, and defining the powers and duties of such County Commissioners, and providing for the appointment of Road Overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the public roads of said county, and providing for officers' fees, and rewards for the capture of escaped convicts, and to provide for the manner of training hedges along any public road, and to provide for the summoning of teams for road work, and for an allowance of time of road service for same, and fixing a penalty for a violation of this act, and repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That each of the duly elected and qualified County Commissioners of Ellis County, Texas, shall be ex officio Road Commissioners and general road supervisors of their respective districts, and under the direction of the Commissioners' Court of his county shall have charge of all teams, tools and machinery belonging to the county and placed in his hands by said court, and it shall be his duty, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioners' Court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, in addition to his regular bond as such County Commissioner, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge and his successors in office, of said county, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that he will perform all the duties required of him by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, and that he will account for all moneys or property that may come into his possession, belonging to the county; provided, that with the consent of the Commissioners' Court, any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as Deputy Road Commissioner, who shall be required to execute the same bond that is required of commissioners in this section; and such Deputy Road Commissioner shall be entitled to the same compensation that is allowed County Commissioners for same service; provided, that County Road Commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation as Road Commissioners when a Deputy Road Commissioner [has] been appointed.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to adopt such system for working, laying out, draining and repairing the public roads in said county as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plan or system of working. Said Commissioners' Court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its roads. Said court shall have the power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case, said court, or the County Judge, by the authority of the Commissioners' Court, may advertise in such manner as said court may determine for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond payable to the County Judge of said county and his successors in office, for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making such contract, the court shall direct the County Treasurer to pass the amount to a particular fund for that purpose, and the Treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds, and the same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said Commissioners' Court shall have the power to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads of said county, under such regulations, and for such price as it may deem proper.

Sec. 3. The Commissioners' Court of said county shall require all county convicts not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads, under such regulations as said court may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine, first, and then on the costs, for each day he may labor. Such Commissioners' Court may provide such reasonable regulations and punishments as may be necessary to require such convicts to perform good work, and provide a reward, not exceeding ten dollars, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, for the recapture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person other than the guard or person in charge of such [convict] at the time of his escape, which reward shall be taxed against such convict, and worked out or paid by him as a part of the costs. The Commissioners' Court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed, as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-tenth of the whole time. Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisoners' clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention and guards for the safe and humane keeping of convicts. The officers and witnesses shall receive such amount of their costs for the arrest and conviction of said convicts as is now allowed, or may hereafter be allowed by general law, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund on the warrant of the County Judge, as is provided by law, when said fine and costs have been worked out, as provided for in this section; provided, that this shall not be construed so as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each County Commissioner shall have control of all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them all teams, tools and machinery necessary in working the road in the district of said overseer, so far as has been supplied therewith by the Commissioners' Court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item, and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liability of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any teams, tools or machinery belonging to said county, shall be liable for any damages that may occur to the same while in his possession, caused by his negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes without the consent of the Commissioners' Court. It shall be the duty of the road overseer, when he has finished work on his roads, to return to said commissioners all teams, tools and machinery received from him, and take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the County Commissioners when acting as Road Commissioner, to inform himself of the condition of the public roads of his district, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The road commissioners may require each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, or two and one-half days with himself and team, unless the term of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time. And provided, that all road hands in any particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer, or in case of his absence, any person deputized by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and shall see that each hand, when called out, shall perform a good day's work; if any hand, when so called out, shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The Commissioners' Court may allow any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year, a compensation not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents per day for the time so served; provided, no road overseer shall receive pay for extra time, unless labor performed by him be done upon the written order of his road commissioner.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Ellis County liable for road duty, who shall, on or before the first day of January of each year, pay to the County Treasurer the sum of three dollars, shall be exempt from road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of January. The Treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund, and keep a separate account for each road district for which it is received. The Treasurer shall, on the third day of January, or as soon thereafter as practical, furnish to each county commissioner a list of all persons in their respective districts that have paid said sum as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on roads, by paying to his overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day he is summoned to work, and one dollar for each day he is summoned to furnish his team for road work, shall be exempt from working or furnishing his team for each day paid for, and also exempt from any penalties for failure to work or furnish such teams for the time for which he had so paid.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, plow, scraper, or such other tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tools as are desired and directed by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have; provided, the county shall be liable for, and the Commissioners' Court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to such tools as may have resulted from public road work, and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer may also summons and require such road hand to bring with him for public road work, such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work. Provided, such hand shall be allowed two days' time for each day put in by a hand with his team, and one day's time for his team without such hand.

Sec. 10. If any person, liable to work upon the public roads, after being legally summoned, shall fail or refuse to attend either in person or by able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may have been notified to work on the road, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may have been notified to furnish his team for road work, or having attended, shall fail to perform good service, or any other duty required of him by law, or the person under whom he may work, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof fined in any sum not exceeding ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the Commissioners' Court in February of each year, all road overseers shall make their reports under oath, upon forms to be furnished by said court, which said report shall be examined by said court, and all accounts for services or labor performed for overwork by such overseer during the past year, and of moneys had and expended by him, shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable, said Commissioners' Court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform his duties of overseer, when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duties required of him by law, or by the Commissioners' Court, or by the Commissioner of his district, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of said land and the Commissioners' Court can not agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for right-of-way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to each party as would exist if proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 13. Every owner of a farm or other lands upon which a hedge of any description grows on or near the public road, shall be required to keep same trimmed so that the same shall never be higher than eight feet, and shall not obstruct said road; and any such owner who shall fail or neglect to so trim such hedge shall be notified in writing by the road commissioner of his district to trim such hedge, as herein required, and in such case, if such owner shall, after receiving such notice, fail or refuse to trim such hedge, within thirty days after notice, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty dollars per week, and each week he shall so fail or refuse shall constitute a separate offense, from and after the expiration of thirty days from the time that he received such notice; such fines to be paid into the county treasury and to be placed to the credit of the road and bridge fund of said county. If any owner of any farm shall fail or refuse, after being notified as herein required, to trim his hedge, as required by this act, then the road commissioner shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with this act, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 14. Each County Commissioner when acting as road commissioner, and performing the duties imposed upon him by law, or by the Commissioners' Court shall be entitled to two and one half dollars per day for the services actually performed; provided, said sum to be paid him shall not exceed fifty dollars per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the Commissioners' Court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath that the account is just, due and unpaid, and specifying the number of days [work] actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done; and that no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner, either for himself or for his deputy, while he is performing the duties of county commissioner; nor shall he receive any additional pay other than provided by this section, for inspecting or riding over his road, or for other road services.

Sec. 15. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as the general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith, but in case of conflict, this act shall control as to the County of Ellis.

Sec. 16. The crowded condition of the calendar, and the urgent need for a better road system in Ellis County, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 111.

An Act to diminish the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the county court of King and Stonewall counties; to conform the jurisdiction of the district court thereto, and to repeal all laws in conflict herewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county court of King and Stonewall counties shall have and exercise the general jurisdiction of a probate court; shall probate wills, appoint guardians of minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis, and common drunkards; grant letters testamentary and of administration, settle accounts of executors, administrators and guardians, transact all business appertaining to the estates of deceased persons, minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis, and common drunkards, including the partition, settlement, and distribution of estates of deceased persons, and to apprentice minors, as provided by law, and to issue all writs necessary for the enforcement of its own jurisdiction; to punish contempt, under such provisions as are or may be provided by general law governing county courts throughout the State, but the said county court of King and Stonewall counties shall have no other jurisdiction, civil or criminal, whatsoever.

Sec. 2. That the district court of King and Stonewall counties shall have and exercise jurisdiction in all civil and criminal matters and causes over which, by the laws of this State, the county courts of said counties would have jurisdiction, except as provided in Section 1 of this act; all causes other than probate matters, and such as are provided by Section 1 of this act, be and the same are hereby transferred to the district courts of King and Stonewall counties, and all writs and processes relating to any civil or criminal matters not included in the subject matters of jurisdiction prescribed in Section 1 of this act, issued by or out of said county courts of King and Stonewall counties, be and the same are hereby made returnable to the next term of the district courts of said counties after this act takes effect.

Sec. 3. That the county clerks of King and Stonewall counties be, and are hereby required, within thirty days after this act takes effect, to make a full and complete transcript of all entries upon their civil and criminal dockets heretofore made in cases which, by Section 2 of this act, are required to be transferred to the district courts of said counties, together with all the papers to such causes pertaining, and a certified bill of costs in each case, and all such causes shall be immediately docketed by said district clerks; and such civil cases so transferred shall stand on the dockets of said courts as appearance cases for the next succeeding terms, and all criminal cases shall be docketed and disposed of in the same manner as if the same had been originally triable in said district courts, and all process now issued and returnable to said county courts shall be returnable to said district courts.

Sec. 4. That this act shall not be construed to in any manner affect judgments heretofore rendered by said county courts of King and Stonewall counties pertaining to matters and causes which, by Section 2 of this act, are transferred to the district courts of said counties, but the county clerks of said counties shall issue all executions and orders of sale, and proceedings thereunder shall be as valid and binding, to all intents and purposes, as though the change had not been made as by Section 2 therein contemplated.

Sec. 5. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 6. Owing to the great inconvenience caused the people of King and Stonewall counties, and the almost unanimous demand by the citizens of said counties that said jurisdiction be diminished, an emergency is created and an imperative public necessity requires the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days; said rule is therefore suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 22, nays none; and passed the House, vote not given.]

CHAPTER 112.

An Act to provide a penalty for the failure or refusal of any president, vice-president or cashier of a national bank to furnish the tax assessor or deputy tax assessor a correct statement of the assets and liabilities of the national bank of which such person is president, vice-president or cashier.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That if any president, vice president, or cashier of any national bank shall fail or refuse to furnish the tax assessor or deputy tax assessor, when called upon to do so by such tax assessor or deputy tax assessor, a sworn statement, showing:

1. A list of the names of all the shareholders of the stock of such national bank.

2. The number and amount of the shares owned and held by each shareholder of stock in such national bank.

3. The place of residence of each stockholder in such bank, if known. (If not known, that fact shall be so stated.)

4. The amount or amounts of notes issued by such national bank and circulating as money, or that is intended to circulate as money; (stating such amounts in dollars.)

5. The amount of money on hand or in transit, or in the hands of other banks, bankers, brokers or others, subject to draft, whether the same be in or out of the State.

6. The amount of indebtedness of such bank and how such indebtedness is evidenced.

7. The amount of paper evidencing indebtedness owned by such bank, which was acquired by such bank either at par or at a discount.

Any such president, vice-president, or cashier of a "national bank" so failing or refusing to furnish such statement, as above required, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars, and by confinement in jail not less than ten days, nor more than thirty days.

Sec. 2. By the term money and notes, mentioned in the preceding article, is meant all money owned and on hand by such bank, whether on deposit or otherwise.

Sec. 3. The fact that a large portion of the assets of national banks is not being rendered for taxation creates an emergency and an imperative necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills of be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

An Act to validate the incorporation and to declare valid the acts of towns and villages heretofore regularly incorporated for free school purposes, having within their limits towns incorporated for municipal purposes, which latter had ceased to exercise their functions as such, or which had not assumed control of the public schools within their limits, and to provide that such towns and villages incorporated for free school purposes shall have exclusive control of the public free schools within their limits, and to repeal all laws in conflict.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: All towns and villages within the State heretofore regularly incorporated for free school purposes, and which embrace within their incorporated territory towns heretofore incorporated for municipal purposes, which latter had ceased to exercise the functions of a municipal corporation, or which had not assumed control of the public schools within their limits when the former was incorporated, are hereby declared valid and lawful incorporations for free school purposes from the date of their incorporation, and all acts of any such town or village incorporated for free school purposes, heretofore done or hereafter to be done, shall have the same force and effect as the acts of a valid and lawful incorporation for such purpose.

Sec. 2. All such towns and villages shall have exclusive control of the public free schools within their limits.

Sec. 3. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The near approach of the close of the session, and the fact that many incorporations for free school purposes are being questioned and endangered, to the injury of our free school system, create an imperative public necessity, demanding that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted, and also, such facts create an emergency requiring that the bill take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 114.

An Act to amend Article 397, Chapter 2, Title 18, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to cities and towns, and the election of its officers.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 397, Chapter 2, Title 18, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 397. Whenever a vacancy occurs by resignation or otherwise in the municipal offices of any incorporated town or city in this State so that the vacancy can not be filled under the charter of said town or city or under the laws of this State now in force, then and in that event it shall be the duty of the commissioners' court of said county in which said town or city is situated, upon a petition of not less than 20 tax paying voters living in said city, to order an election to be held to fill such vacancy, giving notice of not less than ten days in the usual manner provided for such elections; provided, where such town or city has been chartered by special act of the legislature and such town or city contains more than 200 and less than 5000 inhabitants and the offices of such town or city have been vacant for a period of ten years or more, such charter of said town or city shall become void and forfeited, and no election of officers in such town or city shall be had; but the inhabitants of such town or city may reincorporate under the general laws of this State relating to towns and cities in the manner as now or may hereafter be prescribed by the laws of this State.

Sec. 2. The great amount of business before the legislature rendering it impossible that this bill can be read on three several days, and the near approach of the close of the session, and that there now exist in the State several towns and cities chartered by special acts of the legislature that have become dormant by reason of a failure to elect officers, and their special charters having been lost and copies thereof can not be had, there exists an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring that the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days in each house be suspended and that this bill be passed and take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to validate certain illegal sales of Public School, University and Asylum lands, sold under Section 22, Chapter 99, of the Acts of 1887, and the amendments thereto, sold as isolated and detached lands, which were not in fact isolated and detached.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all sales of Public School, University, and the several asylum lands which were sold as isolated and detached lands under Section 22, Chapter 99 of the acts of the Legislature of the State of Texas, of 1887, and amendments thereto, which were in fact not isolated and detached, as construed by the Supreme Court, where the original sales have not been cancelled and the lands resold, be and the same are in all things hereby legalized and made valid in all cases where such sales would have been valid if the lands so sold had in fact been isolated and detached; provided, that when applications have been made for the purchase of any such lands, in advance of placing of the same on the market again, it shall not have the effect of a sale of such lands, nor of requiring the Commissioner of the General Land Office to award such lands to such applicants.

Sec. 2. The fact that a large number of sections of land, referred to in this act, have been sold, and the purchasers thereof are greatly embarrassed by reason of the illegality in such sales, and the State is suffering a loss of revenue thereby, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and said rule is hereby suspended, and it is so enacted.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Section 2 of the first above recited act, as amended by the second above recited act, be so further amended that the same shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 2. The Fortieth Judicial District shall be composed of the counties of Collin, Ellis, Kaufman and Rockwall, and the terms of the District Courts within and for said counties shall be held each year as follows:

Beginning in Kaufman County on the first Monday in September and lasting five weeks.

Beginning in Collin County on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in September and lasting six weeks.

Beginning in Rockwall County on the fourth Monday in November and lasting two weeks.

Beginning in Ellis County on the second Monday in December and lasting until the first Monday in February following, if the business requires.

Beginning in Collin County on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in February and lasting six weeks.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That all laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the end of this session of the Legislature and the fact that the time now fixed and limited by law for holding courts in some of the counties of the Fortieth Judicial District is insufficient for the transaction of the business of the courts in the counties affected by this act, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so suspended, and that this act go into effect from and after its passage and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 118.

An Act to create a more efficient road system for Milam County, Texas, and making county commissioners of said county ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and defining the powers and duties of such county commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts on the public roads of said county, and providing for officers' fees, and rewards and penalties for said convicts, and rewards for the capture of escaped convicts, and to provide for the manner and training and maintaining hedges along all public roads, and to provide for the summoning of teams for road work, and for an allowance for time of road service for the same, and fixing a penalty for a violation of this act, and to repeal all laws in conflict herewith.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the members of the commissioners' court of Milam county shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the commissioners' court shall have charge of all teams, tools, and machinery belonging to the county and placed in their hands by said county, and it shall be their duty under such rules and regulations as the commissioners' court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, in addition to his regular bond as such county commissioner, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge of said county for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund, conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law, or by the commissioners' court and that they will account for all the money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession.

Sec. 2. The commissioners' court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty to adopt such system of working, laying out, draining and repairing the public roads in said county as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plan or system of working. Said commissioners' court shall have power to purchase such teams, tools and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its roads. Said court shall have power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge, by contract. In such case said court, if they deem it necessary, or the county judge, may advertise in such manner as the court may determine, for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond, payable to the county judge of said county for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sum as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract; but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. The said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads, under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best.

Sec. 3. The commissioners' court of said county shall require all county convicts not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads, under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents on his fine and cost for each day he may so labor. Such commissioners' court may provide such reasonable regulations and punishments as may be necessary to require such convicts to perform good work, and may provide a reward, not exceeding ten dollars, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, for the recapture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person other than the guard or person in charge of such convict at the time of his escape, (which reward shall be taxed against such convict and worked out or paid by him as a part of the cost.) The commissioners may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-tenth of the whole time. Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention, and guards for the safe and humane keeping of convicts. The commissioners' court may at a regular term allow to the officers such amount of their costs for the arrest and conviction of said convict as it may deem best; provided, that it shall not allow to any officer a greater amount than he is now or may hereafter be allowed by general laws; provided, that this shall not be construed as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have control of all road overseers in his district, and shall deliver to each of them all tools and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, so far as he has been supplied therewith by the commissioners' court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item, and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner, and shall fix the liability of the overseer; and any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any teams, tools or machinery belonging to said county shall be liable for any damage that may occur to the same while in his possession caused by his negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes without the consent of the commissioners' court. It shall be the duty of the road overseer when he has finished work on his roads, to return to said commissioner all tools and machinery received from him and take up the receipt taken therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the county commissioner when acting as road overseer to inform himself of the condition of the public roads of his district, and shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads, and shall direct the manner of grading, draining, or otherwise improving the same, which direction shall be observed and obeyed by all road overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require of each road overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, or two days with himself and team, unless the term of service, as prescribed by the general laws, shall be extended beyond that time; and provided, that all road hands in any particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer, or in case of his absence, any person deputized by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and shall see that each hand, when called out, shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand, when so called out, shall fail or refuse to perform a good day's work, or to work in the manner the road overseer may direct, shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Milam county liable for road duty who shall, on or before the first day of February of each year, pay to the county treasurer the sum of three dollars, shall be exempt from all road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of February. The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him, and shall place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund. The treasurer shall, on the third day of February, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish to each county commissioner a list of all persons in their respective districts that have paid said sum as provided in this section.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on roads, by paying his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road the sum of one dollar for each day he is summoned to work and one dollar and fifty cents for each day that he is summoned to furnish his team for road work shall be exempt from working or furnishing his team for each day paid for, and also be exempt from any penalties for failure to work or furnish such team for the time for which he has so paid.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on a road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, spade, plow, scraper, or such other tool as may be desired and directed by the overseer, or if he has no such tools as are desired by the overseer to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tool as he may have; provided, the county shall be liable for, and the commissioners' court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to such tools as may have resulted from public road work, and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer may also summon and require such road hand to bring with him for public road work such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work; provided, such hand shall be allowed two and one-half days' time for each day put in by a hand with his team, and one and one-half days' time for his team without such hand.

Sec. 10. If any person liable to work upon the public roads, after being legally summoned, shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend, either in person or by an able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to such overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may have been notified to work on the road, or to pay such overseer the sum of one dollar and fifty cents for each day he may have been notified to furnish his team for road work, or, having attended, shall fail to perform such good service or any other duty required of him by law or the person under whom he may work, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, fined in any sum not exceeding ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the commissioners' court in February of each year, all road overseers shall make their reports under oath, upon forms to be furnished them by said court, which said report shall be examined by said court, and all accounts of moneys had and expended by him shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable, said commissioners' court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year; and in the event of the death, refusal or inability to act on the part of any road overseer so appointed, the county commissioner of the precinct shall have authority to fill the vacancy, and report his action in writing to the county clerk, who shall record the same in the minutes of the commissioners' court, either in term time or in vacation. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to make his report as required by law, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duty required of him by law, or by the commissioners' court, or by the commissioner of his district, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for opening, widening, straightening, or draining any road or part thereof, if the owner of such land and the commissioners' court can not agree upon the damage to be paid, the county may proceed to condemn the same in the manner that a railroad company may condemn land for right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to such party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond; provided, that nothing contained in this section shall be held to repeal the provisions of the general law relating to the opening of public roads by juries of view, but this section shall be cumulative thereof, and the commissioners' court of Milam county may act under such general law, or the provisions of this section, at their option in such case.

Sec. 13. Every owner of a farm or other land upon which a hedge of any description grows on or near the public road, shall be required to keep the same trimmed so that the same shall not obstruct said road and shall not be of greater height than eight feet, and any such owner who shall fail or neglect to trim such hedge, shall be notified in writing by the road overseer of that district to trim such hedge as herein required; and in such case if such owner shall, after receiving such notice, fail or refuse to trim such hedge within a reasonable time, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty dollars per week from and after the time that he receives such notice, such fine to be paid into the county treasury and be placed to the credit of the road and bridge fund of said county. If any owner of any farm shall fail or refuse, after being notified as herein required, to trim his hedge, as required by this act, then the road overseer, upon an order from the county commissioner of his precinct, shall cause the same to be trimmed in accordance with the provisions of this act, to be paid for out of the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 14. Each county commissioner when acting as road commissioner and performing the duties imposed upon him by law or by the commissioners' court, shall be entitled to three dollars per day for the services actually performed; provided, that he shall not draw such pay for more than thirty-five days per quarter, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the commissioners' court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall sign an oath the account is just, due and unpaid, and specifying the number of [days' work] actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done; and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner while he is performing the duties of county commissioner, nor shall he receive any additional pay than that provided by this section for inspecting or riding over his road, or for other road service.

Sec. 15. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts, in the same manner as the general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith, but in case of conflict this act shall control as to the county of Milam, except where otherwise provided herein.

Sec. 16. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 120.

An Act to amend Articles 5243i, 5243j, and 5243k, of an act entitled, "An act to amend Articles 5243e, 5243i, 5342j and 5342k, of Chapter 9, Title 104, of the Revised Civil Statutes, relating to the taxation of insurance, telephone, sleeping and dining car and other corporations, and to provide for forfeiting the charters of domestic corporations and permits of foreign corporations to do business in this State for failure to pay the franchise tax levied by this act, and to define and prescribe the notice to be given to said corporations previous to such forfeiture, and to provide adequate penalties for a violation of this act," passed at the present session and approved April 30th, 1897.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 5243i, 5243j, and 5243k, of an act entitled, "An act to amend Articles 5243e, 5243i, 5243j, and 5243k, of Chapter 9, Title 104, of the Revised Civil Statutes, relating to the taxation of insurance, telephone, sleeping and dining car and other corporations, and to provide for forfeiting the charters of domestic corporations and permits of foreign corporations to do business in this State for failure to pay the franchise tax levied by this act, and to define and describe the notice to be given to said corporations previous to such forfeiture, and to provide adequate penalties for a violation of this act," passed at the present session and approved April 30th, 1897, be and the same is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 5243i. Each and every private domestic corporation heretofore chartered under the laws of this State shall pay to the Secretary of State an annual franchise tax of ten dollars on or before the first day of May of each year; and every such corporation which shall be hereafter chartered under the laws of this State shall also pay to the Secretary of State an annual franchise tax of ten dollars, the tax for the first year to be paid at the time such charter is filed and the Secretary of State shall not be required or permitted to file such charter until such tax is paid, and each succeeding tax shall be paid on or before the first day of May of each year thereafter; provided, that any such corporation having an authorized capital stock of over fifty thousand dollars and less than a hundred thousand dollars, shall pay an annual franchise tax of twenty dollars; and every such corporation having an authorized capital stock of one hundred thousand dollars and less than two hundred thousand dollars, shall pay an annual franchise tax of thirty dollars; and every such corporation having an authorized capital stock of two hundred thousand dollars or more shall pay an annual franchise tax of fifty dollars. Each and every foreign corporation heretofore authorized to do business in this State under the laws of this State shall, on or before the first day of May of each year, and each and every such corporation which shall hereafter be so authorized to do business in this State, shall, at the time so authorized, and on or before the first day of May of each year thereafter, pay to the Secretary of State the following franchise tax:

Every such corporation having an authorized capital stock of twenty-five thousand dollars or less, an annual franchise tax of twenty-five dollars; every such corporation having an authorized capital stock of more than twenty-five thousand dollars and not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, an annual franchise tax of one hundred dollars; every such corporation having an authorized capital stock of over one hundred thousand dollars, an annual franchise tax of one hundred dollars, and in addition thereto an annual franchise tax of one dollar for every ten thousand dollars of authorized capital stock over and above one hundred thousand dollars and not exceeding one million dollars; and if such authorized capital stock exceeds one million dollars, then such corporation shall pay a still further additional tax of one dollar for every one hundred thousand dollars over and above one million dollars. Any corporation, either domestic or foreign, which shall fail to pay the tax provided for in this article at the time specified herein, shall, because of such failure, forfeit its right to do business in this State, which forfeiture shall be consummated without judicial ascertainment, by the Secretary of State entering upon the margin of the ledger kept in his office relating to such corporations, the word, "Forfeited," giving the date of such forfeiture, and any corporation whose right to do business may be thus forfeited shall be denied the right to sue or defend in any of the courts of this State, and in any suit against such corporation on a cause of action arising before such forfeiture, no affirmative relief may be granted to such defendant corporation, unless its right to do business is revived as provided in Article 5243j of this act. All transportation companies now paying an annual income tax on their gross receipts in this State shall be exempted from the franchise tax above imposed.

Article 5243j. The Secretary of State shall on or before the 1st day of March of each year, notify all private domestic and foreign corporations subject to a franchise tax by any law of this State, by mailing to the postoffice named as the principal place of business of such corporation in its articles of incorporation, or to any other place of business of such corporation, addressed in its corporate name, a written or printed notice that such tax will be due at a date named therein, a record of the date of which mailing must be kept by said officer, and which mailing of such notice and the said record thereof shall constitute legal and sufficient notice for all the purposes of this act; and in thirty days after the 1st day of May of each year, said officer shall publish for ten consecutive days in some daily newspaper published in this State, a list of the corporations whose right to do business in this State has been forfeited for non-compliance with this act; provided, that any corporation which shall within six months after such publication pay the tax and ($5) five dollars additional thereto, for each month or fractional part of a month which shall elapse after such forfeiture, shall be relieved from the forfeiture of its right to do business by reason of such failure, and when such tax and the said penalty are fully paid to the Secretary of State, it shall be the duty of said officer to revive and reinstate said right to do business by erasing or cancelling the word "Forfeited" from his ledger, and substituting therefor the word "Revived," giving the date of such revival; provided, further, that this chapter shall not be construed to repeal any law prescribing fees to be collected by the Secretary of State.

Article 5243k. Corporations organized for the purpose of religious worship, or for providing places of burial, not for private profit, or corporations organized for the purpose of holding agricultural fairs and encouraging agricultural pursuits, or for strictly educational purposes, or for purely public charity, are exempted from the tax imposed by this act.

Every sleeping car company, palace car company, dining car company, doing business in this State, and every corporation, person, or association of persons, leasing or renting, owning, controlling or managing any dining or sleeping cars within this State for the use of the public, and for which use any fare is charged, shall pay a tax of two and one-half per cent of their gross receipts, from all of their passenger travel originating in and ending in this State: this tax to be in addition to that now levied by law; but no occupation tax shall be levied on said companies by any county, city or town. Said tax herein provided for shall be paid to the State Treasurer, quarterly, for the use of the State; and every such company, association, person or corporation so owning, controlling or managing any such dining or sleeping car, shall quarterly report to the Comptroller of the State of Texas, under oath of the President, Treasurer, Superintendent, or some other officer of said corporation, or some agent thereof duly authorized, the amount received by them for the transportation of passengers between points in this State. Should any person, association of persons, the officers or agents of any such persons, association of persons, or corporation, herein named, fail to make the report provided in this act for thirty days after the termination of any quarter of the year, then he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than sixty dollars ($60.00), nor more than one hundred dollars ($100.00); and each day after said thirty days have expired shall be deemed a separate offense; and in addition thereto, in the event of the failure of the officers or agents of any such company or corporation to make such report herein required, and pay said tax, for thirty days after the termination of any quarter of the year, each and every such company or corporation so failing, shall forfeit and pay to the State of Texas twenty-five dollars for each day said report and payment is delayed, which forfeiture shall be sued for by the Attorney General in the name of the State. For the purpose of suits and prosecutions provided for herein, venue and jurisdiction are hereby conferred upon the courts of Travis County.

Nothing in this article shall be construed to repeal or in any way affect the provisions of Article 5243g of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas.

Sec. 2. The fact that the close of this session is rapidly approaching, and the further fact that the State is greatly in need of revenue, and in order to remove any doubt of the proper construction of the articles hereby amended, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved May 15, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 88, nays none; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 26, nays none.]

CHAPTER 122.

An Act to establish a more efficient road system for Marion County.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That at the first annual meeting of the Commissioners' Court in February, the court of Marion County shall appoint from among the citizens of the county, a county road superintendent of public roads, who shall possess a practical knowledge of draining, leveling, grading, sufficient to be able to lay out all necessary work to be done by the overseers of the roads, to the end that good public roads may be established in said county.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of said county superintendent, twenty days before the regular periods of working the public roads (as hereinafter provided) of the county, to go over each road precinct of his county and carefully inspect the same, armed with such necessary implements, tools, levels, etc., as will enable him to properly lay out any and all work to be done, viz.: grading, draining, leveling, direction, length, depth and fall of drainage, elevation, and grading road bed. He shall provide himself with a blank book in which he shall record in a plain hand a description of all work necessary to be done, numbering the road precinct and plainly designating the places or points in said roads where the work is to be done, and said county road superintendent shall deliver to each road overseer a plainly written copy of the record of his memoranda of the work to be done, three days before the regular times of working the roads (Sundays excluded).

Sec. 3. And it shall be the duty of the overseers of the public roads of the county to faithfully execute the work set forth and described in the copy of memoranda delivered to him by said county superintendent; and on failure upon the part of the overseer to execute the instructions so delivered to him, without reasonable cause shown, he shall be fined not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars for each offense, upon complaint of the county road superintendent or any citizen using the road on which said neglect or disregard of duty may occur, before the nearest justice of the peace to the road precinct where such failure to comply with said instructions may occur.

Sec. 4. The county road superintendent herein provided for shall at any and all times keep a strict supervision over all the public roads of his county, and shall have authority to call out the overseers or overseer by a three days notice at any time to build or repair any road or section of road that may need work or repairs; provided that he shall not compel the overseers to work more than ten days in one year. And the said county road superintendent shall receive for his services as herein provided annually the sum now paid to the commissioners as road reviewers, and in addition such sum as the Commissioners' Court of the county may deem just, out of the road and bridge fund, not to exceed two hundred dollars, to be paid quarterly as other county officers are paid their ex officio, and he shall be required to give a bond with approved security to the county judge and his successors in office as the County Commissioners' Court may deem just and right for faithful discharge of duty.

Sec. 5. There shall be three road working periods in the year, of three days each, except the first, which shall be four days, beginning on the first Mondays of November, March and July, of each year, or as soon thereafter as possible; provided, it shall be optionary with the overseer, with the consent of the superintendent as to the number of days that may be expended upon the road at any one of the above mentioned periods; the superintendent being responsible to the county for the conditions of the roads.

Sec. 6. It shall be the duty of the overseers of the public roads of the county in warning his hands, which shall be three days before the day designated to begin the work (Sundays excluded), to definitely designate the character and conditions of the tool or tools that each hand is required to bring upon the road, and if said hand shall disregard the requirement or order of the overseer or his lawful agent and shall bring upon the road another or inferior tool, one that he can not do a fair day's work with, the overseer shall not receive or accept such hand on the road, but shall proceed against him as the law directs as though said hand had not appeared upon the road at all, before the nearest justice of the peace; provided, the overseer may give to said hand one hour to comply with the order of the overseer when summoned to work the road. Overseers shall receive no substitute for able bodied men who are not able to do a full and satisfactory day's work, and a majority of the hands, by vote, may reject a substitute for cause or disability.

Sec. 7. The county shall furnish all teams, plows, and scrapers; provided, the overseers may make such deal with any of the hands as will be to the advantage of the county.

Sec. 8. It shall also be the duty of the county road superintendent as provided in this act to inspect all bridges in his county and report the condition of said bridges to the commissioners at any call or regular meeting of same, and in said report he shall state the condition of the bridge or bridges with a statement of the work necessary to be done on the bridge or bridges and the probable cost of the same.

Sec. 9. And it is herein further provided, that at the first regular meeting of the County Commissioners' Court, after this act shall take effect and become a law, said court shall appoint the county road superintendent as provided for by this act, who shall hold his office and perform all duties made incumbent upon him by this act until the first regular meeting of said court in February, A. D. 1898, at which meeting of the court a regular road superintendent, as herein provided, shall be appointed. This act to take effect and become a law ninety days after its passage, and all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the seventh day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the House in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

Takes effect 90 days after adjournment.

CHAPTER 123.

An Act to create a more efficient road system for the County of Calhoun, State of Texas, and making County Commissioners of said county ex officio Road Commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as said Road Commissioners, and defining the powers and duties of said Commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the roads of said county, and providing for officers' and witnesses' fees, and providing for the working of delinquent poll tax payers.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Commissioners' Court of Calhoun County may appoint a road overseer for each commissioner's precinct in the county, or for each justice's precinct, who shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are qualified.

Sec. 2. The overseers so appointed shall perform all duties required of overseers under the general laws of this State, and such other duties as may be required of them by the Commissioners' Court of said county, and shall receive such compensation as the Commissioners' Court may prescribe, not to exceed two dollars per day for the time actually engaged.

Sec. 3. Each overseer shall within twenty days after his appointment take the constitutional oath, and enter into a bond payable to the County Judge, in such sum as may be fixed by the Commissioners' Court, to be approved by the County Judge, conditioned that he will well and faithfully discharge all the duties incumbent upon him as such overseer; that he will promptly make all reports required of him by this act or by the Commissioners' Court, and that he will correctly disburse and account for all the funds that may come into his hands according to law and orders of the Commissioners' Court, which bond shall not be void for want of form or void on the first recovery but may be sued upon until fully exhausted.

Sec. 4. The Commissioners' Court may for good cause, to be determined by themselves, at any time remove an overseer, and in case of vacancy for any cause, may fill the same for the unexpired term.

Sec. 5. Each overseer shall take charge of all the tools, implements and supplies of any kind placed under his control by the Commissioners' Court and execute his receipt therefor, which shall be filed with the county clerk, and he shall be responsible for all such teams, tools, implements and supplies, and for the proper expenditure of all public moneys coming into his hands, and shall be liable for the loss, injury or destruction of all such tools, teams, implements and supplies if the result of his negligence, or for the wrongful or unauthorized expenditure of such money; and upon the expiration of his term or in case of his resignation or removal, he shall deliver all such money and property to his successor or to such person as the Commissioners' Court may direct.

Sec. 6. The overseer of each precinct shall subdivide his precinct into as many sections as may be necessary for convenience and shall require each person subject to road duty in his precinct, to work upon the roads in the particular section in which he resides, and in order to have all road work more promptly and vigorously prosecuted, the overseer may appoint sub-overseers in the several sections of his precinct, but the overseer himself shall exercise at all times a supervision over the different sections and sub-overseers, and shall plan and direct all work to be done, and may require the sub-overseer to warn all the road hands subject to duty of the time and place of working as is required by existing laws.

Sec. 7. The Commissioners' Court shall require all able bodied county convicts, not otherwise more profitably employed, to labor upon the public roads of the county under such regulations as it may prescribe, and each convict so employed shall receive credit, first, upon the fine, and, then, upon the costs, of fifty cents per day for each day he shall labor; provided, that no convict shall be required to labor on Sunday, but shall nevertheless have the same credit as if he had labored on that day.

Sec. 8. The Commissioners' Court may at any regular term, allow to the officers and witnesses in a convict case, where the convict has worked upon the roads, such portion of their lawful cost as it may determine, not to exceed in any case the following: County Judge, $2.50; County Attorney, $5.00, including commissions; County Clerk and Justice of the Peace, $2.00; Sheriff and Constable, $2.50; witnesses, twenty-five per cent of their legal fees; which allowances shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund, on the warrants of the County Judge, when the said fine and costs shall have been worked out by the convict as provided in this act. The Commissioners' Court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, food, clothing, bedding, medicines, medical attention and guards necessary for the safe keeping and humane treatment of such convicts, and may grant a reasonable commutation of time to a convict in consideration of faithful service and good behavior, such commutation in no case to exceed one-tenth of the entire time.

Sec. 9. The overseer may contract with any person subject to road duty in his precinct for the use of wagons and teams, and permit such person to discharge his road service in the hire of such wagon and team; provided, he shall not allow more than two dollars per day for any wagon and team, or more than three dollars per day for wagon and team and driver.

Sec. 10. It shall be the duty of each overseer to see that all roads, bridges and culverts, and drains in his precinct are kept in good repair; to see that every person subject to road duty in his precinct performs the service for which he is liable under the law or that such service is in some way excused or commuted as provided by law; to see that all mile posts and guide boards at the forks of roads are kept continuously up and in order, and when the same are removed or defaced to immediately repair or replace them. He shall act as supervisor of roads in his precinct and perform all the duties as supervisor heretofore devolving upon the County Commissioners, and the County Commissioners of said county are hereby relieved from the duties prescribed by Article 4390a of the Revised Civil Statutes.

Sec. 11. Every able bodied male person between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years resident in the county, except such persons as are exempt from road duty under the general laws of this State, shall be liable to labor on the public roads; provided, that any one so liable may discharge such liability, (1) by furnishing a substitute who is acceptable to the overseer. (2) By paying to the overseer the sum of one dollar for each day he may be summoned to work, or by paying four dollars at any time shall be discharged from all liability for the entire year, to end on December 31st of each year. (3) By presenting to the overseer the certificate of a reputable physician certifying that the party is permanently or temporarily incapacitated for such physical labor as is necessary for road service. (4) By substituting wagons and teams suitable and satisfactory to the road overseer as provided in Section 8 of this act.

Sec. 12. Every insolvent tax payer being a resident of the county who shall be indebted to the county on any unpaid county poll tax, and from whom the said poll tax can not be otherwise collected by law, shall be permitted to discharge the amount of such unpaid county poll tax, in labor upon the public roads of his precinct at the rate of one dollar per day. In order to enforce the provisions of this section the collector of taxes for the county shall be required on or before the second Monday in February of every year to furnish to the several overseers of the county the names of all the defaulting poll tax payers together with the amount of the county poll tax due and unpaid by each, for which ex officio service the collector shall be exempt from road duty; and it shall be the duty of the overseer whenever any such person shall have discharged his county poll tax as herein provided, to report the same to the tax collector, who shall credit the party on the tax roll, and report the same in his regular report to the Commissioners' Court; provided, that no fines and penalties shall be recovered of insolvent poll tax payers for the failure to work out their poll tax under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 13. Each road overseer shall make his report under oath to the Commissioners' Court every six months, giving an itemized statement of all moneys belonging to the road fund which he has received, from whom received, and for what, and what disposition he has made of the same, the condition of all roads, bridges, culverts and drains, the number and character of all mile posts and guide boards erected and where the same are located and such other information as the Commissioners' Court may require, and may accompany said report with such suggestions as may seem to him pertinent in regard to the public roads and the duties of that office.

Sec. 14. Any road overseer who shall wilfully or negligently fail or refuse to comply with any provision of this act, or to perform any lawful and reasonable order of the Commissioners' Court, or to discharge any duty imposed upon him by this act or by any other existing law of the State, not in conflict herewith, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, in a court of competent jurisdiction, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, such fine, when collected, to go into the road and bridge fund.

Sec. 15. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any private lands for the purpose of opening, widening, straightening, or draining any public road or any part thereof, if the owner of such land and the Commissioners' Court can not agree upon the amount of damage to be paid, the court may proceed to condemn the same in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for a right of way, and the same proceedings may be had, and the same rights shall exist to each party as would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company; except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond either for cost or on appeal.

Sec. 16. This act shall be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges and employment of county convicts not in conflict herewith and not otherwise provided herein, such general laws shall apply, but in case of conflict with general laws this act shall govern, and the courts of the State shall take judicial cognizance of this act in the same manner and to the same extent as they are required to know and notice the general laws of the State.

Sec. 17. The fact that there is no efficient road law in force in this State, creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House, vote not given; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 22, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the seventh day of May, A. CHAPTER 124.

An Act to amend Sec. 3 of Chapter 132 of the acts of the 24th Legislature establishing a special road law for the counties of Dallas and Lamar, prescribing the same fees in county convict cases for the officers in said counties as those allowed officers in similar cases under the general law of the State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Section 3 of Chapter 132 of the Acts of the 24th Legislature establishing a special road law for the counties of Dallas and Lamar, be and the same is hereby so amended as to read hereafter as follows:

Sec. 2. The commissioners of said counties shall require all county convicts of said counties, not otherwise employed, to labor on the public roads under such regulations as said court may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents, on his fine, first, and, then, on the cost, for each day he may labor. The commissioners may at a regular term allow to the officers such amount of their costs for the arrest and conviction of said convicts as is provided in Article 3742, Revised Civil Statutes of 1895, which amount shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund on the warrant of the commissioners, when said fine and costs shall have been worked out, as provided in this section; provided, that this shall not be construed so as to relieve any convict from the payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of the State. The Commissioners' Court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed as a reward for good behavior and faithful service; provided, that such commutation shall in no case exceed one-tenth of the whole time. The Commissioners' Court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicine, medical attention, and guards, for the safe and humane treatment of convicts.

Sec. 3. That Section 14 of Chapter 132 of the Acts of said 24th Legislature be repealed.

Sec. 4. The importance of this bill to the two several counties, creates an emergency and public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days be suspended, and said rule is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House, vote not given; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the seventh day of May, A. CHAPTER 125.

An Act to prevent the introduction of scab disease among sheep in the State of Texas, and to prevent the spread of and secure the eradication of same, and providing a manner of examining such animals, together with the manner of taxing and collecting costs therefor, and making it a misdemeanor to violate the provisions of this act, and prescribing penalties for such violation.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That from and after the passage of this act, it shall be unlawful to import into this State, or to move from one county to another, or to move from their accustomed range on to lands owned or leased by any person, without permission of such person, any flock of sheep in which one or more such animals are infected with scab, and any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not more than two hundred dollars for each such offense.

Sec. 2. Any person having knowledge or notice of the existence of scab on any sheep owned or in charge of such person, who shall fail or refuse to dip in some preparation known to be effectual in curing scab, all flocks of sheep in which one or more such animals are so infected, within twenty days after such knowledge or notice has been received, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred nor more than two hundred dollars; Provided, that every successive twenty days of failure or refusal to dip such sheep, under the provisions of this section, shall be considered a separate offense.

Sec. 3. For the purpose of determining the existence of scab, under the provisions of this act, and to serve notice on persons as provided in Section 2, the justice of the peace having jurisdiction, upon complaint of any person owning or having charge of sheep, supported by affidavit, as to his belief that a flock of sheep within such jurisdiction are infected with scab, shall forthwith issue order to a constable or some peace officer of his county, directing such officer to summon to his aid two persons having knowledge of scab, and to proceed with such persons and examine the sheep so designated, and to notify in writing the owner or person in charge of said sheep, of the result of such examination, and to return to the court of issue such order, showing how he has executed the same.

Sec. 4. Any person refusing to permit the examination provided for in Section 3 of this act or to place the sheep in pens for such purpose, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than two hundred dollars.

Sec. 5. Upon return of the order provided for in Section 3 of this act, the Justice of the Peace shall, if it states said sheep are not infected, or that they have been dipped, within ten days next preceding such examination, dismiss such cause. But if such order states said sheep are infected with scab and have not been dipped within the ten preceding days, said Justice of the Peace shall issue warrant of arrest forthwith, against the owner or person having said sheep in charge, and proceed as in other misdemeanor cases; provided, should defendant show, by competent testimony, that such infected sheep were held only on his own or accustomed range, and that he had dipped all flocks so infected, as provided in this act, within twenty days after receiving notice, or within ten days next preceding the serving of such notice, he shall upon payment of all accrued costs be discharged.

Sec. 6. The constable or other peace officer and the person summoned to assist, shall receive as compensation for services performed under the provisions of this act, and for attendance at court as witnesses in such cases, the sum of two dollars and fifty cents per day for each day actually and necessarily so engaged, and such fees shall be taxed as costs against the owner of such sheep; and execution shall be issued; provided, in all cases where it is found such sheep are not infected or have been dipped within the ten days next preceding the examination so made, the costs and fees shall be taxed against the person who made the complaint, and execution shall so issue.

Sec. 7. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 8. The fact that there is now no adequate law upon this subject creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule that requires bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

CHAPTER 128.

An Act to amend Article 802, of Chapter 3, of Title XVII, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 802, of chapter 3, of title XVII, of the Penal Code of this State be so amended as to hereafter read as follows, viz.:

Article 802. If any person shall herd any drove of horses, mules, cattle, sheep, goats or hogs, numbering more than five head, upon any land not his own, and within one-half mile of the residence of any citizen of this State, whenever the owner, lessee or legal representative of such land shall forbid such herding, and shall fail, neglect or refuse to remove such drove at once upon the request of such owner, lessee or legal representative; or whenever any person shall herd any such drove of horses, mules, cattle, sheep, goats or hogs upon the enclosed lands or pasture of another, or cause the same to be so herded without the consent of such owner, lessee or legal representative, he shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars; "provided, that this article shall not apply to droves which are driven through pastures, by the usual route of travel through such pastures, in the most direct and practicable route to any named point of destination, traveling at the greatest practicable speed," and where there is no public road leading to the point of destination; and provided, further, that no person shall be authorized, under the provisions of this act, to drive any drove or herd of stock of any kind into any inclosure belonging to another for the purpose of grazing or holding such drove or herd of stock for any length of time whatever, without the consent of the owner, lessee, or person in charge of such inclosure. This act shall not apply to herds or droves of stock while being held for shipment; provided, that the owner or agent of such stock shall pay the owner of the premises so herded upon, reasonable pasturage and all damages done by said stock.

Sec. 2. The fact that no law exists in this State giving adequate protection to pasture owners against the depredations of vagrant herds, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency why the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the seventh day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the House in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

CHAPTER 129.

An Act to repeal Articles 4218d and 4218i, Chapter 12a, Title 87, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, and to add to said chapter Articles 4218ff and 4218ff f, and to amend Articles 4218e, 4218f, 4218h, 4218s, and 4218y of said chapter and title, relating to the sale and lease of public free school and asylum lands.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 4218d and 4218i, Chapter 12a, Title 87, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that Articles 4218ff and 4218ff f be added thereto, and Articles 4218e, 4218f, 4218h, 4218s, and 4218y of said chapter and title be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 4218e. The commissioner of the general land office may, from time to time, as the public interest may require, classify any or all of the lands belonging to the several funds mentioned in this chapter that have not been heretofore classified, upon such facts as may be satisfactory to him, designating the same as agricultural, grazing or timbered land, according to the fact in the particular case; and he may prescribe such regulations in relation thereto as he may deem necessary to secure a correct classification. He may also reclassify any lands heretofore erroneously classified, upon the official certificate of the commissioners' court of the county in which said land is situated, or of the county to which such county is attached for judicial purposes, certifying what the proper classification should be, said certificate to be signed by the entire commissioners' court, including the county judge, or upon such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the commissioner.

Article 4218f. When any portion of said land has been classified to the satisfaction of the commissioner of the general land office, under the provisions of this chapter or former laws, such lands shall be subject to sale, but to actual settlers only, except where otherwise provided by law, and in quantities of not less than eighty acres or multiples thereof, nor more than four sections containing six hundred and forty acres, more or less; provided, that the purchaser shall not include in his purchase more than two sections of agricultural land; and provided, that where there is a fraction less than eighty acres of any section left unsold, such fraction may be sold. Any bona fide purchaser who has heretofore purchased or who may hereafter purchase any lands as provided herein shall have the right to purchase other lands in addition thereto; provided, that the total of his purchases shall not exceed four sections, and that it shall not include more than two sections of agricultural land, upon his making oath that he is not acting in collusion with others for the purpose of buying the land for any other person or corporation, and that no other person or corporation is interested in the purchase thereof. And if he or his vendor has already resided upon his home section for three years, or when he or his vendor, or both together, shall have resided upon it for three years, the additional lands purchased may be patented at any time. In all cases where a settler purchases more than one section the lands in excess of one section so purchased must be situated within a radius of five miles of the land occupied by him. Where any of the lands referred to in this act have been sold prior to July 30th, 1895, in quantities greater or less than forty acres or multiples thereof, and are in good standing as to interest payments, they may be patented in such quantities. In any cases where lands have been forfeited to the State for the non-payment of interest, the purchasers or their vendees may have their claims reinstated on their written request, by paying into the treasury the full amount of interest due on such claim up to the date of reinstatement; provided, that no rights of third persons may have intervened. In all such cases the original obligations and penalties shall thereby become as binding as if no forfeiture had ever occurred.

Article 4218ff. When any purchaser buys and settles upon a section or part of a section of school lands, and buys, either at the same time or subsequently, other lands in addition thereto, a forfeiture for any legal cause of the part on which he resides, at any time before the three years residence thereon has been completed, shall work a forfeiture of the entire purchase, except such part thereof as he may have previously sold to another. But after the three years residence has been completed, a forfeiture of the home tract shall not of itself work a forfeiture of the other tract or tracts. In case of sale of any of said tracts before the three years residence has been completed, the vendee must reside thereon until he has completed the three years occupancy from the date of the original purchase, and a failure to do so shall subject his land to forfeiture; but in case of sale of any of said tracts after the completion of the three years residence, the vendee shall be exempt from the condition of settlement and occupancy.

Article 4218fff. Any actual, bona fide owner of and resident upon any other lands contiguous to said lands, or within a radius of five miles thereof, may also buy any of the aforesaid lands, but in such case a failure to reside upon either his other lands or upon a part of the additional lands so purchased by him, so as to make his ownership and occupancy thereof continuous for three years, shall work a forfeiture of such additional lands so bought from the State, unless he shall have sold his land to another who may and does complete a three years continuous ownership and occupancy of and residence upon his said lands as above stated and as is herein required of actual settlers.

Article 4218h. All agricultural lands belonging to the public free schools and the several asylum funds shall be sold at not less than one dollar and fifty cents per acre; and all grazing lands shall be sold at not less than one dollar per acre; and all timbered lands shall be sold at not less than five dollars per acre. By timbered lands is meant lands valuable chiefly for the timber thereon. Provided, that the owner of land which is in fact agricultural, purchased under former laws, and which land is not subject to forfeiture at the time this law goes into effect, shall not be permitted, in case said land is forfeited, to purchase said forfeited land from the State for a less price per acre than the contract price under the former sale.

Article 4218s. Any person desiring to lease any portion of the lands belonging to any of the funds mentioned in this chapter, shall make application in writing to the commissioner of the general land office, specifying and describing the particular lands he desires to lease, and thereupon, the commissioner, if satisfied that the lands applied for are not in immediate demand for purposes of actual settlement, shall notify the applicant in writing that his proposition to lease is accepted, and thereupon he shall execute to the lessee in the name and by the authority of the State of Texas a lease of said land for such time as may be agreed upon, and when satisfied that the lessee has paid to the treasurer of the State the rent for one year in advance, shall deliver said lease to the clerk of the county court of the county in which the land is situated or of the county to which said county is attached for judicial purposes, and it shall be the duty of the clerk to record in a well bound book, to be kept in his office, open to public inspection, a memorandum or abstract of said lease, showing the number of the survey or surveys leased, the name of the original grantee, the amount leased, the name of the lessee, the date of the lease, and the number of years it has to run; and foreentering said memorandum the clerk shall be entitled to a fee of twenty-five cents. Upon the payment of said fee, the clerk shall deliver the lease to the lessee; and no other record of leases hereafter made shall be required except said memorandum.

All lease contracts heretofore made and not recorded, shall be filed for record with the clerk of the proper county, within three months after this act takes effect, and if any lessee shall fail to have his unrecorded lease so filed for record within said time, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall disregard said lease, and award the land to any other applicant accompanying his application with the certificate of the clerk that no lease of said land is of record in his office. When any of such leases are filed for record, the clerk shall make the memorandum or abstract above provided for. All lands which may be leased shall be subject to sale at any time except where otherwise provided herein. This provision in regard to the sale of leased lands shall apply to leases heretofore made, as well as to those hereafter to be made. Any section or part of a section which may be leased, shall not be sold, nor shall the lessee be disturbed in his possession thereof during the term of his lease, in the following cases:

1. When the lessee has actually settled upon such section, or part of a section, and erected thereon his residence and substantial improvements for permanent settlement.
2. When he has placed on such section or part of a section improvements of the value of two hundred dollars.
3. When the aggregate of the land owned by a settler and leased by him does not exceed one section.

Any lands which may be leased south and west of the line herein designated shall not be sold during the term of the lease until otherwise provided by law; provided, the sections leased by any one party are not so selected as to detach sections which are thereby left unleased. Said line begins at the northwest corner of Yoakum County; thence East, to the northeast corner of Kent County; thence South, to the north line of Fisher County; thence West, to the northeast corner of Scurry County; thence south, to the north line of Coke County; thence East, to the northwest corner of Runnels County; thence South, to the southwest corner of Runnels County; thence East, to the northwest corner of Concho County; thence South, to the southwest corner of Concho County; thence East, to the southeast corner of Concho County; thence South, to the southwest corner of McCulloch County; thence East, to the southeast corner of McCulloch County; thence South, to the southwest corner of San Saba County; thence East, to the northwest corner of Llano County; thence South, to the southeast corner of Mason County; thence West, to the northwest corner of Gillespie County; thence South, to the southwest corner of Gillespie County; thence East, to the northeast corner of Kerr county; thence South, to the southeast corner of Bandera County; thence West, to the northeast corner of Uvalde County; thence South, to the southwest corner of Medina County; thence East, to the northeast corner of Frio County; thence South, to the northeast corner of La Salle County; thence East, to the northeast corner of McMullen County; thence South, to the southeast corner of McMullen County; thence East, to the Nueces river; thence down said stream to its mouth: Except in that portion of the State South and West of the above delineated line, any actual settler shall have the right to lease within a radius of five miles of the land occupied by him, not exceeding three sections of the land held by a lease holder who is leasing more than ten sections from the State, but shall not be allowed thereby to reduce the large leasehold to less than ten sections. In all cases where the lease is terminated under any of the provisions of this act before the expiration of the term of lease, the lessee shall have a pro rata credit upon his next year's rent, or the money refunded to him by the treasurer, as he may elect. On the expiration of his lease, or its termination under any provision of law, the lessee shall have the right for the period of sixty days to remove any or all improvements he shall have placed upon the leased premises. No purchaser or other person than the lessee shall be permitted to turn loose within such lessee's inclosure more than one head of horses, mules or cattle, or in lieu thereof four head of sheep or goats, for every ten acres of land so purchased, owned or controlled by him and uninclosed. Each violation of the provisions of this act, which restrict the number of stock which may be turned loose in such inclosure, shall be an offense, and the offender, on conviction, shall be punished by a fine of one dollar for each head of stock he may so turn loose, and each thirty days' violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offense.

Article 4218y. The Commissioner of the General Land Office may withhold from lease any agricultural lands necessary for the purpose of settlement, and no agricultural lands shall be leased, if, in the judgment of the Commissioner, they may be in immediate demand for settlement, but such lands shall be held for settlement, and sold to actual settlers only, under the provisions of this chapter; and all sections and fractions of sections, in all counties organized prior to the first day of January, 1875, except El Paso, Presidio and Pecos Counties, which sections are isolated and detached from other public lands, may be sold to any purchaser, except to a corporation, without actual settlement, at one dollar per acre, upon the same terms as other public lands are sold under the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 2. The fact that the existing law makes no provision for a re-classification of lands which have been erroneously classified, thus working great injustice in many cases, and that the opinion has been given out from the attorney general's office that no lands are subject to sale during the term of the lease, thus preventing settlement, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a vote of yeas 17, nays 6; passed the House with amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 104, nays none, and being referred to a free conference committee, the report of said committee was adopted, vote by number of yeas and nays not given in either house.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the seventh day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. CHAPTER 131.

An Act to amend Articles 579, 580, 586 and 615, Title XVIII, Chapter 2, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Articles 579, 580, 586 and 615, Title XVIII, Chapter 2, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as hereafter to read as follows: .

Article 579. When a town or village may contain more than 500 and less than 10,000 inhabitants, it may be incorporated as a town or village in the manner prescribed in this chapter.

Article 580. If the inhabitants of such town or village desire to be so incorporated, at least twenty residents thereof, who would be qualified voters under the provisions of this chapter, shall file an application for that purpose in the office of the judge of the county court of the county in which the town or village is situated, stating the boundaries of the proposed town or village, and the name by which it is to be known if it be incorporated, and accompany the same with a plat of the proposed town or village, and including therein no territory except that which is intended to be used for strictly town purposes; provided, that if any town or village be situated on both sides of a line dividing two counties, application may be made to the judge of the county court of either county in which a portion of said town or village is located, in manner and form as is hereinbefore provided; provided, further, that in towns and villages that may be incorporated on territory in two counties, in the trial of the offense before the mayor or recorder for a violation of the laws of the State or the ordinances of the corporation, an appeal shall be to the county court of the county in which the offense may have been committed, and in cases which said mayor or recorder have not final jurisdiction, but when sitting as an examining court, parties brought before them on such examining court charged with an offense against the laws of the State, shall be bound over by them to the county court of the county in which said offense is alleged to have been committed, or the district court, as the case may be, and provided, that a new election shall not be ordered in less than one year.

Article 586. The county judge shall, within twenty days after the receipt of the returns, make an entry upon the records of the commissioner's court, that the inhabitants of the town or village are incorporated within the boundaries thereof, which shall also be designated in the entry, and a certified copy of such entry, together with the plat of the town or village, shall thereupon be recorded in the proper record of deeds of such county.

Article 615. When twenty-five of the qualified voters of any incorporated town or village shall desire the abolishment of such corporation, they may petition the county judge to that effect, who shall thereupon order an election to be held in such town or village, as in the case of its incorporation, and if there be a majority of the voters of said corporation, voting at such election in favor of abolishing such corporation, the county judge shall declare the corporation abolished, and enter an order to that effect upon the minutes of the commissioners' court; and from and after the date of such order the said corporation shall cease to exist; provided, nothing in this act shall be so construed as to repeal or otherwise affect any laws now upon the statutes of this State providing for the incorporation of towns and villages for school purposes; said towns and villages having not less than 200 inhabitants.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the present session of the legislature and the fact that there is now no law in Texas providing for the abolition of town and village corporations by a majority of the voters therein, creates an imperative public necessity that the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. CHAPTER 132.

An Act to amend Article 4908, Title CI, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 4908, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 4908. There shall be elected, at each general election, by the qualified voters of each justice's precinct, a constable for such precinct, who shall hold his office for the term of two years, and until his successor is elected and qualified; provided, that when in any such justice's precinct there may be a city of eight thousand or more inhabitants, such constable may appoint no more than two deputies, who shall qualify as required of deputy sheriffs.

more than one deputy, who^l shall qualify in such manner as is required by law.

Sec. 3. That the near approach of the close of this session, and large amount of business remains to be disposed of before the final adjournment, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency which authorize the suspension of the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days; and such rule is hereby suspended, and the same take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 86, nays none; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays none.]

CHAPTER 133.

An Act to appropriate the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the per diem of members, officers and employees of the Twenty-fifth Legislature of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the payment of the per diem pay of the members, officers and employees of the Twenty-fifth Legislature of the State of Texas.

Sec. 2. Sec. 3. The fact that the sum heretofore appropriated for this purpose has now been completely exhausted, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, May 20, 1897.

CHAPTER 134.

An Act to amend Article 2640, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to loaning money of wards by their guardians.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 2640 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 2640. When the guardian loans the money he shall take the note of the borrower, the same to be secured by mortgage with power of sale on unincumbered real estate situated in this State, worth at least double the amount of such note and interest, or on collateral notes secured by vendors' lien notes, as collateral, or may purchase vendors' lien notes; provided, that at least one-half has been paid on the land for which said notes are given; and he shall not deliver such money until such note and security have been taken and approved by the county judge of the county in which the guardianship is pending, which approval shall be by an order of such judge entered upon the minutes of his court, either in term time or vacation; provided, nothing herein contained shall relieve the county judge from responsibility on his bond as now provided by law.

Sec. 2. The importance of the legislation proposed in this bill, and crowded condition of the calendar, and the near approach of the close of the session, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read upon three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 24, nays 1; and having passed the House, with amendments, vote not given, the Senate concurred in the House amendments, vote not given.]

CHAPTER 135.

An Act making it unlawful for any fire, or fire marine, or marine insurance company, which is legally licensed to transact the business of fire and marine insurance in this State, to place or cause to be placed, to write or cause to be written, any contract or policy of insurance against loss by fire or the perils of the sea on any property in this State, except through legally authorized and licensed agents resident in the State, and prescribing penalties for violation of same, and to further prescribe conditions to be complied with by any fire, or fire and marine, or marine insurance company, before it shall be licensed or relicensed by the Commissioner to do business in this State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all fire, or fire and marine, or marine insurance companies which are legally authorized to do business in this State through legally commissioned and licensed agents, resident in this State, shall not make contracts of fire or marine insurance on property within the borders of this State, or sign or countersign or deliver any policy of insurance, save through regularly commissioned and licensed local agents of such companies in Texas; provided, however, that this act shall not apply to property owned by railroad companies or other common carriers; and provided, further, that upon oath made in writing by any person that he can not procure insurance on property through such local agents in Texas, it shall be lawful for any insurance company not having an agent in Texas to insure property of any person upon application of said person upon his filing said oath with the county clerk of the county in which such person resides.

Sec. 2. That before a certificate or license to any fire, or fire and marine, or marine insurance company is issued, authorizing it to transact the business of fire or marine insurance in this State, the insurance commissioner shall require, in every case, in addition to the other requirements already made and provided for by law, that each and every such fire, or fire and marine, or marine insurance company shall file with him an affidavit that it has not violated any of the provisions of this act.

Sec. 3. That whenever the insurance commissioner in his judgment has good reason to believe any fire, or fire and marine, or marine insurance company has violated any of the provisions of this act, he is authorized, and it is hereby made his duty, at the expense of such company, to examine at the head office, located within the United States of America, all books, records and papers of such company, and also any officers thereof, under oath, as to such violation or violations.

Sec. 4. That any fire, or fire and marine, or marine insurance company violating any provision of this act shall forfeit the right to do business in this State for the unexpired term for which it was originally licensed, and for twelve months next following thereafter; and the insurance commissioner shall immediately revoke the license already issued to any such company to do business in this State, and publish notice of such revocation as required by law.

Sec. 5. The fact that the practice of some companies in writing business through other channels than through the medium of their duly appointed local agents in this State not only deprives the local agents of the commissions but withholds the tax required by law to be paid on the gross premium receipts to the State, creates a public necessity and an emergency which requires this act to take effect immediately, and the rules requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and are hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Sec. 6. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act be and they are hereby repealed.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays none; and having passed the House with amendments, vote not given, the Senate concurred in the House amendments, vote not given.]

Article 1706. In each city having more than ten thousand inhabitants according to the last preceding census of the United States, each ward shall constitute an election precinct; provided, that the commissioners' courts of the several counties may and it shall be their duty to divide any such ward into as many election precincts as they may deem proper; and provided, further, that cities, towns, and villages having ten thousand inhabitants or less, shall not necessarily constitute a separate election precinct, except in elections pertaining solely to the affairs of said city, town or village.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the present session creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Monday, the tenth day of May, A. CHAPTER 137.

An Act to prescribe the time of holding the terms of the District Court in the 24th Judicial District of Texas.

In the county of Bee, on the second Monday in February and the first Monday in September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Karnes, on the third Monday after the second Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Goliad, on the sixth Monday after the second Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Refugio, on the ninth Monday after the second Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, and may continue in session one week.

In the county of Calhoun, on the tenth Monday after the second Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, and may continue in session one week.

In the county of Victoria, on the eleventh Monday after the second Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the county of De Witt, on the fifteenth Monday after the second Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of.

Sec. 2. That all process and writs issued or served before this act goes into effect, returnable to the district courts in said judicial district, shall be considered returnable to said courts in accordance with the terms as prescribed by this act, and all such process is hereby legalized; and all grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws in any of the counties of said judicial district shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the next terms of the district court held in said counties, respectively, after this act takes effect, and all such process is hereby legalized and validated.

Sec. 3. The importance of the passage of this act to the people of the various counties of the said judicial district, the crowded condition of the calendars of each house, and the near approach of the close of the present session of the legislature, create an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring that the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and the said rule is therefore suspended, and this bill is put upon its third reading and final passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 138.

An Act to amend Article 976, Chapter 8, Title 27, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to payment of costs and returning mandates in the supreme court.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 976, Chapter 8, Title 27, of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Article 976. The judgment of said court shall be final at the expiration of fifteen days from the rendition thereof, when no motion for rehearing has been filed, and upon the rendition of final judgment the clerk of the supreme court upon payment of costs shall issue the mandate in the case; provided, that if the party against whom the said costs are adjudged shall make affidavit of his inability to pay the same or give security therefor, he may apply to the supreme court for an order to require the clerk of said court to issue the said mandate, which motion shall be sustained unless the clerk of the court or any party to the record shall controvert the truth of said affidavit and satisfy the court that said motion should not be granted.

If for any cause the said court should set aside its judgment after the mandate has been issued, the clerk of the supreme court shall at once notify the party to whom the mandate was directed to return it at once. All mandates to the said court shall issue to the court in which the original judgment was rendered.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is no provision under the existing law for the issuance of mandates from the supreme court except upon the payment of costs, works a great hardship upon many deserving but destitute litigants, and many mandates are now held in the supreme court owing to the pecuniary distress and inability of the parties who are required to pay for them before they can issue, and in order to make effective the principle that pervades our system of law, that the courts shall be, at all times, open to the redress of grievances, to the poor as well as to the rich, create an emergency, and a public necessity exists, that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be, and the same is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved, May 22, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays none; and passed the House by a vote of yeas 78, nays 8.]

CHAPTER 143.

An Act to provide for the disorganization of the county of Loving, in the State of Texas, and to attach said county to the county of Reeves for judicial and other purposes, and to provide for the assessment and collection of taxes in said county, and for the payment of the outstanding indebtedness of said county.

Whereas, the county of Loving as it now exists is in a disorganized condition, having no county officials resident within the limit of said county, and no taxes have been assessed and collected in said county for the years of 1895 and 1896, and a portion of the taxes assessed for the years of 1893 and 1894 remain uncollected, therefore

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That said county of Loving be and the same is hereby disorganized, and said county is hereby attached to the county of Reeves for judicial and other purposes, until such time as the said [county] shall resume an organized state.

Sec. 2. The County Commissioners' Court of Reeves County shall hereafter levy a sufficient annual tax, general and special, upon all property subject to taxation, situated in the County of Loving, to liquidate the indebtedness now existing against said county, which taxes shall be assessed and collected in the manner now provided by law for the assessment and collection of taxes in the unorganized counties of this State; provided, also, that all taxes due the State of Texas and such as may be levied for county purposes as herein provided, upon all property situated in said county, for the present year, and for all previous years during which such taxes have not been paid, shall be assessed and collected by the officers charged by law with such duty, to the same effect as though Loving County had at all times been an [un]organized county attached to the said County of Reeves.

Sec. 3. The Assessor and Collector of Taxes, and the County Treasurer of said County of Reeves are each hereby required to execute bonds in addition to those now given by them, in the sum of five thousand dollars each, for the faithful discharge of their respective duties under this act, which bonds shall be payable to the County Judge of Reeves County and be approved by the Commissioners' Court thereof, and shall be conditioned as required by law for like bonds to said Reeves County, reciting therein that the same are given for the use of Loving County; provided, that until bonds are given and approved, as herein required, said officers shall not assume to discharge the duties or be entitled to compensation for services rendered under this act; and provided, further, that all remedies upon and penalties for the breach or failure to give similar bonds under the laws of this State shall apply to said officers respectively.

Sec. 4. After giving bond as herein required, the said Assessor, Collector and Treasurer shall be held to the discharge of their duties under the law, and be entitled to receive compensation for their services by way of commissions, to the same effect and subject to the same limitations provided by law, as though said officers were acting for Loving County alone, and said officers shall make separate reports and settlements with the State, and with said Commissioners' Court, on account of Loving County, to the same effect as now required by law of each of them in the discharge of their duties as officers of Reeves County, and shall be liable to all penalties provided by law for failure to make such reports and settlements; provided, however, that the Treasurer of said Reeves County shall not be the custodian of moneys collected to pay the interest and sinking fund upon the bonded indebtedness of said Loving County, but shall be entitled to his lawful commissions thereon, nor shall he be required to give bond under this act, after all other debts known to exist against said county have been paid; and should any funds remain in his hands after payment of all known indebtedness against said county, he shall pay the same over to the State Treasurer, to be used in liquidating the bonded indebtedness of said county; and provided, further, that after all known debts against Loving County have been paid, outside of its bonded indebtedness, the amount of the additional bonds, to be given by the assessor, and collector of taxes, shall be fixed by the Commissioners' Court of said Reeves County, in any sum not less than double the amount of taxes to be collected upon said bonded indebtedness during the term of such official bonds.

Sec. 5. All moneys collected by the collector of taxes of Reeves County to pay interest and provide the sinking fund upon the bonded indebtedness of Loving County, shall be reported, accounted for, and paid to the Treasurer of the State of Texas in the same manner required by law upon taxes due the State, and such moneys shall be received and paid out by the State Treasurer upon such bonded indebtedness, according to the terms thereof; provided, that the option retained to Loving County to pay said bonds before the maturity thereof may be exercised by the Commissioners' Court of Reeves County, and, with the consent of the holder or holders of any of said bonds, the same may be paid at any time, and provisions made therefor by the levy and collection of the full amount of special tax authorized by law for such purposes.

Sec. 6. That immediately upon the taking effect of this act, the funds now in the State Treasury to the credit of said Loving County, held by the State and apportioned or belonging to said Loving County, shall be paid over to the treasurer of Reeves County, to be held by him for the payment of Loving County's indebtedness as herein provided.

Sec. 7. That the several officers of Reeves County who are the proper custodians of the several books, papers, accounts, or other property of Reeves County, shall likewise be the proper custodians of such books, papers, accounts, or other property of Loving County, and the commissioners of Reeves County are hereby authorized and empowered to take the proper steps for the removal of such valuable property to the county seat of Reeves County to be delivered to the proper custodians thereof, and shall take all necessary steps by suit in the name of Loving County to recover back to said county all lands and other property properly belonging to it, which may have been wrongfully converted or disposed of by any person assuming to act for said county or otherwise; and the expenses thereof to be paid out of the first general revenue funds collected from the territory embraced by Loving County; and certified copies of all such books, documents, papers, or other matter, including certified copies of deeds, mortgages, deeds of trust, or other muniments of title to real estate or to personal property, given under the hand and seal of the proper officer of Reeves County shall have all the force and effect, and be admissible in evidence, in the same manner, and as fully as if the same had been given by the proper officer of Loving County.

Sec. 8. That the county judge of Reeves County shall, immediately after this act goes into effect, publish in some newspaper, published in Reeves County, if one be there published, and if not, then in some newspaper published in some adjoining county to Reeves County, a notice to all persons holding any claim or indebtedness against Loving County to present the same to the commissioners of Reeves County for approval or rejection, on or before the first day of December, 1897.

Sec. 9. That all parties now having any claims against or warrant or bond or indebtedness of Loving County shall on or before the first day of December, 1897, present the claim or indebtedness to the commissioners' court of Reeves County for rejection or approval; and the commissioners' court of Reeves County shall pass on all such claims, warrants, bonds, and indebtedness in the same manner and order as if they were the commissioners of Loving County, approving or rejecting the same in all respects as claims and debentures are now required to be presented for approval or rejection to commissioners' court.

Sec. 10. That whenever any claim or indebtedness above named shall have been rejected by the commissioners of Reeves County, the owners thereof may have all legal remedies in Reeves County, as fully as if the claim or indebtedness were against Reeves County, the judgment, order or decree, to be against the assets of Loving County only, and to be paid by the proper funds realized upon the property of Loving County.

Sec. 11. That all existing indebtedness or claims against Loving County which have not been barred for more than two years after this act shall take effect, may be presented to the commissioners' court of Reeves County, on or before the first day of December, 1897, for a rejection or approval, and shall be passed upon by said commissioners' court in all respects as if presented at any time not earlier than two years prior to the time of presentation.

Sec. 12. That the commissioners' court of Reeves County, after the aforesaid claims have been filed with and approved by them as above provided, shall classify them as provided by law, and they shall levy a sufficient general and special tax as hereinbefore named, not to exceed the limit allowed by law, for each year, to pay all the indebtedness of each class so registered and approved by them, including the expenses authorized by this act; and where legal bonds have been issued to create a sinking fund, keeping each class and the funds belonging to it separate and distinct from every other fund, and out of each fund to pay the claims against such fund only. Where claims filed with and approved by the commissioners' court of Loving County are also filed with and approved by the commissioners' court of Reeves County, they shall be paid in the order registered by and approved in Loving County; provided, they are filed on or before December the 1st, 1897; otherwise, they shall be paid in the order registered by and approved by the Reeves County commissioners.

Sec. 13. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 14. The fact that there can be no taxes assessed or collected, and no court either criminal or civil held in Loving County under the existing condition of affairs, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 86, nays 1; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Wednesday, the twelfth day of May, A. An Act to amend Article 3328, Chapter 4, Title 66, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, and Article 4651, Chapter 3, Title 96, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, by providing for the place of record of certain written contracts for the conditional sale, lease or hire of railroad equipment and rolling stock.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That article 3328, chapter 4, title 66, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, and article 4651, chapter 3, title 96, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, be and the same are hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Article 3328. Every chattel mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument of writing, intended to operate as a mortgage of or lien upon personal property, which shall not be accompanied by an immediate delivery and be followed by and actual and continued change of possession of the property mortgaged or pledged by such instrument, shall be absolutely void as against the creditors of the mortgagor or person making same, and as against subsequent purchasers and mortgagees or lien-holders in good faith, unless such instrument or a true copy thereof shall be forthwith deposited with and filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where the property shall then be situated, or if the mortgagor or person making the same be a resident of this State, then, of the county of which he shall at that time be a resident; provided, that written contracts for the conditional sale, lease or hire of railroad equipments and rolling stock, by which the purchase money is therein agreed to be paid at any time or times after the date of such contract, with a reservation of title or lien in the vendor, lessor or bailor until the same has been fully paid, shall be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, in a book of records to be kept by him for that purpose; and on payment in full of the purchase money and the performance of the terms and conditions stipulated in any such contract, a declaration in writing to that effect may be made by the vendor, lessor or bailor, or his or its assignee, which declaration may be made on the margin of the record of the contract, duly attested, or it may be made by a separate instrument to be acknowledged by the lessor, vendor or bailor, or his or its assignee, and recorded as aforesaid, and for such services the Secretary of State shall be entitled to a fee of five dollars for recording each of said contracts and each of said declarations, and a fee of one dollar for entering such declaration on the margin of the record.

Article 4651. Every deed, mortgage, or other writing respecting the title of personal property hereafter executed, which by law, ought to be recorded, shall be recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of that county in which the property shall remain; and if afterwards the person claiming title under such deed, mortgage or other writing shall permit any other person in whose possession such property may be to remove with the same or any part thereof out of the county in which the same shall be recorded, and shall not, within four months after such removal, cause the same to be recorded in the county to which such property shall be removed, such deed, mortgage, or other writing, for so long as it shall not be recorded in such last mentioned county, and for so much of the property aforesaid as shall have been removed, shall be void as to all creditors and purchasers thereof for valuable consideration without notice; provided, that written contracts for the conditional sale, lease, or hire of railroad rolling stock and equipments by which the purchase money is therein agreed to be paid at any time or times after the date of such contract, with a reservation of title or lien in the vendor, lessor or bailor until the same has been fully paid shall be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State in a book of records to be kept by him for that purpose, and on payment in full of the purchase money and the performance of the terms and conditions stipulated in any such contract a declaration in writing to that effect may be made by the vendor, lessor or bailor, or his or its assignee, which declaration may be made on the margin of the record of the contract, duly attested, or it may be made by a separate instrument to be acknowledged by the lessor, vendor, or bailor, or his or its assignee, and recorded as aforesaid, and for such services the Secretary of State shall be entitled to a fee of five dollars for recording each of said contracts, and each of said declarations, and a fee of one dollar for entering such declaration on the margin of the record.

Sec. 2. The fact that the existing chattel mortgage law in such cases is a great public inconvenience, that the close of the present session of the Legislature is drawing near, and that the crowded condition of the calendar in both houses renders it impossible that this bill can be reached in the regular order, create an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists requiring that the constitutional rule that all bills should be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and it is so suspended.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Tuesday, the eleventh day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Jno. tices' courts in their counties, and shall establish places in such precincts where elections shall be held; also, shall establish justices' precincts and justices' courts for unorganized counties, as provided by law.

2. To establish public ferries whenever the public interest may require.

3. To lay out and establish, change, and discontinue public roads and highways.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the present session and the crowded condition of the calendar create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 146.

An Act to amend Chapter 14, Title 86, of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1895, by adding after Article 3993b, a new article to be numbered 3993c, providing for the organization of school districts in community counties, and validating such districts heretofore organized.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Chapter 14, of Title 86, of the Revised Statutes of 1895, be amended by adding after Article 3993b, a new article to be numbered 3993c, which shall read as follows:

Article 3993c. The citizens in any community or section of territory embraced in any community county may organize a school district in said community or section of territory, in the following manner: A petition asking for the organization of said district and giving the metes and bounds of the proposed district, shall be presented to the commissioners' court, and signed by a majority of the qualified voters of the proposed district, it shall adopt and enter on its record an order organizing said district, upon which said district shall acquire all the rights and become entitled to the privileges of districts in district counties, and the schools shall be conducted in the same manner; the intention of this article being to permit subdivisions of community counties to adopt the district system when the whole county does not wish to adopt it; provided, however, that no district shall be organized under this article containing exceeding thirty-six square miles of territory.

Sec. 2. Whereas, this section of the school law was inadvertently omitted from the Revised Statutes adopted by the 24th Legislature, and whereas, there are in existence numerous districts in community counties organized prior to and since the adoption of the Revised Statutes, be it enacted that districts heretofore organized in community counties are hereby in all respects validated.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the session and the crowded condition of the calendar, and the fact that the districts mentioned in section 2 of this act are without legal protection, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days in each house be suspended, and that this bill take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is hereby so enacted.

An Act to amend Chapter Two, Title XXXII, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, by adding thereto an additional article to be entitled "Article 1547d."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Chapter Two, Title XXXII, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be amended by adding thereto an additional article to be entitled "Article 1547d," and to read as follows:

Article 1547d. That it shall be the duty of the commissioners' courts of counties owning bridges, situated within the corporate limits of cities and towns, to keep the same in repair in the same manner as they are required by law to keep such bridges as are not so situated within the limits of a city or town; provided, that this act shall not be held to affect or diminish the liability of town and city corporations for injuries caused by the defective condition of such bridges situated within the city limits.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is no law requiring commissioners' courts to keep in repair bridges owned by counties within cities and towns, and the near approach of the close of the session, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed both houses of the Legislature, but the vote is not given by number of yeas and nays in either house.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the twenty-first day of May, A. Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That from and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful for any person to catch, or attempt to catch, any fish, green turtle, loggerhead, terrapin, or shrimp, in any of the bays or navigable waters of this State, within the limits or within one mile of the limits of any city or town in this State, with seines, drag nets, fykes, set nets, trammel nets, traps, dams, or weirs.

Sec. 2. Any one violating any of the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than twenty-five nor more than two hundred dollars.

Sec. 3. In all prosecutions under the provisions of this act, the identification of the boat from which such violation or violations occur shall be prima facie evidence against the owner, lessee, person or persons in charge, or master of such boat.

Sec. 4. The near approach of the end of the present session, the crowded condition of the calendar, and the fact that there is no law now in force in this State preventing the taking of fish by the means set out in this act within the limits of cities and towns within this State, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended.

Sec. 3. The netting of quail or partridges at any season of the year is hereby prohibited; and any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 4. It shall be unlawful to destroy any wild geese or wild ducks by any means otherwise than by an ordinary gun, capable of being held to and shot from the shoulder, and whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 5. It shall be unlawful for any person to kill, take or destroy any wild Mongolian or English pheasants, or antelope, for the space of five years next after this act takes effect, and any person violating the provisions hereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 6. It shall be unlawful for any person to kill, ensnare, or trap, or in any way destroy any wild deer in the period of time embraced between the first day of January and the first day of September in each year, or any wild turkeys in the period of time embraced between the first day of April and the first day of September in each year, or any prairie chickens (pinnated grouse) in the period of time embraced between the first day of February and the first day of August in each year, or any quail or partridge within the period of time embraced between the fifteenth day of March and the first day of October in each year; and it shall be unlawful for any person, at any time, to hunt deer or other game by aid of what is commonly known as a hunting lamp or lantern, or any other light used for the purpose of hunting at night; and after the space of five years next after this act takes effect, it shall be unlawful for any person to kill, ensnare, or trap, or in any way destroy any wild antelope in the period of time embraced between the first day of January and the first day of September in each year, or any Mongolian or English pheasants in the period of time embraced between the first day of February and the first day of August in each year, and the violation of any provision of this section shall be considered a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the person offending shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars.

Sec. 9. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 10. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, the crowded condition of the calendar, and the importance of protecting the wild game, birds and wild fowl of the State, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, May 27, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House, vote not given; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, noes 5.]

CHAPTER 150.

An Act to prevent the selling or trading of animals of the horse and mule species, known or suspected to be affected with glanders.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: If any person or persons shall trade or sell, or offer to trade or sell, any animal of the horse or ass species known or suspected to be affected with glanders, he shall be fined in any sum not less than five nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than ten days nor more than ninety days.

Sec. 2. The fact that many cases of glanders are now prevalent throughout the State, and the further fact that horse dealers are carrying such diseased animals from county to county, spreading this and kindred diseases throughout the State, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a vote of yeas 74, nays 26; and passed the Senate, vote not given.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Jno. H. Cullom, Acting Secretary of State.]

CHAPTER 151.

An Act to authorize towns and villages incorporated under the provisions of Chapter eleven, Title eighteen, of the Revised Civil Statutes, or by special charter, to condemn the right of way over and across the roadbed and right of way of any railway company within the limits of such town or village, when deemed necessary by such town or village for the purpose of opening, widening or extending the public streets of such towns or villages; to define the duties of railroad companies when their roadbeds and rights of way are condemned for street purposes by such towns and villages, and to prescribe a penalty for violations thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That any town or village in this State, incorporated under Chapter eleven Title eighteen, of the Revised Civil Statutes, or by special charter, shall have the right and they are hereby empowered to condemn the right of way and roadbed of any railway company whose roadbed runs within the corporate limits of such towns or villages, when deemed necessary and so declared, by a majority vote of the board of aldermen, for the purpose of opening, widening or extending the streets of such town or village; provided, there is less than four railroad tracks.

Sec. 2. Whenever the board of aldermen of any town or village, incorporated as aforesaid, shall have passed an ordinance or resolution to open, widen or extend a street to any point within its corporate limits, and such street is to be opened, widened or extended over or across any railroad bed and right of way, if such town or village, and the company over whose roadbed and right of way such street is to be opened, widened or extended, can not agree as to the damages to be paid said railway company for the right of way over and across their roadbed and right of way, it shall be the duty of the mayor of such town or village to state in writing the point on said railroad right of way where said street is desired to be opened, widened, or extended, giving the width and length of that portion of the right of way of the railroad sought to be condemned, and describing it so that it can be clearly identified, the object for which it is sought to be condemned, the name and style of the railway company, and file the same with the county judge of the county in which such town or village is situated. Upon the filing of such written statement with the county judge the same proceedings shall be had for the purpose of condemning the right of way for the street that are now required by law for the condemnation of right of way for the benefit of railroad companies.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of every railroad company in this State to place and keep that portion of its roadbed and right of way over or across which any public street of any incorporated town or village may run in proper condition for the use of the traveling public, and in case of its failure to do so for thirty days after written notice given to the section boss of the section where such work or repairs are needed, by the town marshal of such town or village, it shall be liable to a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each and every week such railroad may fail or neglect to comply with the requirements of this act, recoverable in any court having jurisdiction of the amount involved, in a suit in the name of such town or village.

Sec. 3e. County Commissioners shall have the right, upon petition of twenty freeholders of any community or unincorporated town or city, to condemn roadbed of railroads for same purpose.

Sec. 4. There being no law of this State authorizing towns and villages incorporated under Chapter eleven, Title eighteen, of the Revised Civil Statutes, to condemn the right of way for street purposes, and obstructions to public streets in such towns and villages by railroads being insurmountable, thereby causing much inconvenience to the public, an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is, therefore, so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays 1; and passed the House, vote not given.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas

for his approval, on Monday, the seventeenth day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—Jno. CHAPTER 152.

An Act to protect accountants, bookkeepers, artisans, craftsmen, factory operatives, mill operatives, servants, mechanics, quarrymen, common laborers, and farm hands; to provide a lien, and prescribe the time of payments, and in lawful money of the United States; and prescribing the rights of the assignees of such persons, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever any clerk, accountant, bookkeeper, artisan, craftsman, factory operative, mill operative, servant, mechanic, quarryman, or common laborer, farm hand, male or female, may labor or perform any service in any office, store, saloon, hotel, shop, mine, quarry, manufactory, or mill of any character, or on any farm, under or by virtue of any contract or agreement, written or verbal, with any person, employer, firm, corporation, or his, her or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees, in order to secure the payment of the amount due by such contract or agreement, written or verbal, the hereinbefore mentioned employes shall have a first lien upon all products, machinery, tools, fixtures, appurtenances, goods, wares, merchandise, chattels, or thing or things of value of whatsoever character that may be created in whole or in part by the labor of such persons or necessarily connected with the performance of such labor or service, which may be owned by or in the possession of the aforesaid employer, person, firm, corporation, or his, her or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees; provided, that the lien herein given to a farm hand shall be subordinate to the landlord's lien now provided by law.

Sec. 2. Whenever any person, employer, firm, corporation, his, her or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees, shall fail or refuse to make payments as hereinafter prescribed in this act, the said clerk, accountant, bookkeeper, farm hand, artisan, craftsman, operative, servant, mechanic, quarryman, or laborer, who shall have performed service of any character, shall make or have made duplicate accounts of such service, with amount due him or her for the same, and present or have presented, to aforesaid employer, person, firm or corporation, his, her or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees, one of the aforesaid duplicate accounts within thirty days after the said indebtedness shall have accrued. The other of the said duplicate accounts shall, within the time hereinbefore prescribed, be filed with the county clerk of the county in which said service was rendered, and shall be recorded by the county clerk in a book kept for that purpose. The party or parties presenting the aforesaid account shall make affidavit as to the correctness of the same. A compliance with the foregoing requirements in this section shall be necessary to fix and preserve the lien given under this act; and the liens of different persons shall take precedence in the order in which they are filed; provided, that all persons claiming the benefit of this act shall have six months within which to bring suit to foreclose the aforesaid lien; and provided, further, that a substantial compliance with the provisions of this section shall be deemed sufficient diligence to fix and secure the lien hereinbefore given; provided, that any purchaser of such products from the owner thereof shall acquire a good title thereto, unless he has at the time of the purchase actual or constructive notice of the claim of such lien holder upon such products, said constructive notice to be given by record of such claim, as provided for in this act, or by suit filed.

Sec. 3. Under the operations of this act, all wages, if service is by agreement performed by the day or week, shall be due and payable weekly, or if by the month, shall be due and payable monthly. All payments to be made in lawful money of the United States.

Sec. 4. Any of the parties named in Section 1 of this act, may transfer or assign their rights hereunder, and their assignee or assignees shall have the same rights and privileges as are conferred upon such persons enumerated in Section 1.

Sec. 5. The lien created by this act shall cease to be operative after six months after the same is fixed, unless suit is brought within said time to enforce such lien.

Sec. 6. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed; provided, that this act shall not be so construed as to repeal Chapter 2, of Title LXVI, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to liens of mechanics, contractors, builders, and material men.

Sec. 8 [7]. It being important that the benefits of this act be realized at once, because the parties to be benefited by this act have no adequate protection under existing laws, creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended.

Approved, May 27, 1897.

Takes effect 90 days after adjournment.

Article 808a. Notwithstanding the preceding articles of this chapter, any county in this State may bring suit against any adjoining county or counties for the purpose of establishing the boundary line between them. And said court shall try said cause as other causes and shall have full and complete jurisdiction to determine where such boundary line is located, and if necessary shall order the same to be remarked and resurveyed. And if in the trial of any such cause it shall be found that the boundary line between the counties involved has never been established and marked, or if marked has become indefinite and undefined, said court shall have power to re-establish the same and order it marked. And any boundary line so established by such judgment shall thereafter be regarded as the true boundary line between the counties in question; provided, that if it shall be found in any such cause that the boundary line in question has been heretofore established under the law then in force, the same shall be declared to be the true line and shall be resurveyed and established as such; and provided, further, that it shall be unlawful for the commissioner of the general land office to mark, fix or place on any of the maps in said office any contested county line at any definite point thereon until a certified copy of the final judgment of the court, herein provided, is filed in the general land office together with a certified copy of the field notes of the line so established by such judgment.

All taxes herein levied or which may be levied by a county, city or town, shall be paid in advance, and upon the payment of same and full compliance herewith, the county clerk of the county shall issue to the person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, a license as provided for in Article 5060d of this chapter, which said license and licenses or receipts for the tax or revenues issued by the United States shall be posted by licensee in a conspicuous place in his or their place of business, and on failure to so post such license or receipt, he or they so failing shall be considered as having no license and subject to all the pains and penalties as if no such license had issued.

Article 5060j. Every person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, before engaging in the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication, in any county, subdivision of a county, justice precinct, town or city, in which local option is in force, shall enter into bond in the sum of $2,500, with at least two good and sufficient sureties, payable to the State of Texas, to be approved by the county judge of the county in which such sales are to be made, conditioned that said person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, so selling spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication, shall not sell in any quantity, except on the prescription of a regular practicing physician, addressed to such person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, written with ink on white paper in the handwriting of such physician, dated, numbeed, and signed by such physician, giving his and applicant's place of residence, and certifying on his honor, that he has in person carefully examined the applicant or patient, and that he finds him or her actually sick, giving the malady or disease with which he or she is suffering, as near as he can ascertain, and that he or she is in immediate need of an alcoholic stimulant, such as prescribed; and there shall not be sold more than one quart on any one prescription, which shall be sold at one time and in one package, and delivered to the purchaser at time of sale; and that he or they shall not permit the same to be drunk on the premises where sold, nor on any other premises owned or controlled by him or them; and that he or they shall not sell more than once on the same prescription, and shall not sell on any prescription bearing the same number of another prescription given by the same physician and dated during the same year; and that he or they shall not sell on a prescription bearing date more than three days prior to the date of its presentation nor upon the prescription of a physician not known to him or them to be a regular practicing physician, authorized under the laws of Texas to practice his profession, nor permit a minor to remain on his premises or his place of business, except the house or place of business of a regular pharmacist; and that he or they shall not permit any games prohibited by the laws of this State to be played, dealt, or exhibited in or about such house or place of business; and that he or they shall not rent or let any part of the house or place of business or premises in which or on which they are selling such liquors or medicated bitters, to any one, for the purpose of carrying on any business in violation of the local option laws or the penal laws of the State; and that he or they shall not adulterate the liquors or medicated bitters sold by him or them, nor knowingly sell or give away such adulterated liquors; and that he or they shall keep an open, orderly house, and shall not use any screen or other device for the purpose of or which shall obstruct the view through the door or doors opening out on the street or alley; which said bond shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where such business is carried on, and recorded by him in a book to be kept for that purpose; and for recording same he shall receive a fee of 75 cents. For every breach or violation of any of the provisions of said bond, the person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, and the sureties on said bond, shall be liable in damages to any person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, injured thereby. In addition to the proceedings by parties sustaining damages by the violation, it shall be the duty of the county and district attorneys to institute suit in the name of the State of Texas for each and every infraction or violation thereof, for the use and benefit of the county, and the sum of $250 shall be recovered for each infraction, against the principal and sureties on said bond, as liquidated damages, which said sum shall be paid into the county treasury and become a part of the road fund of said county. Said bond shall not be void on the first recovery, but may be sued upon for each infraction thereof until the full penal sum named therein shall be exhausted. If said bond shall be exhausted or become in danger of being exhausted by suits, said person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, shall be required to execute another bond; notice of such requirement shall be given by the county judge of the county, and such parties shall have ten days after notice to comply, and upon failure to do so shall be subject to all the pains and penalties from the time such notice was given as if no bond had been given in the first instance. Provided, that in case the county judge shall fail to give the notice herein required, then any citizen of the county, over the age of twenty-one years, may do so, and in case of failure to execute another bond within the time required, as above set forth, said person may bring suit in the district court of the county to require such person, firm, corporation, or association of persons, to execute a new bond. Provided, further, that in case the sureties on such bond shall become insolvent, or found to be insolvent after the execution of such bond, it shall be the duty of the county judge of the county to require of them a new bond, the same as above set forth, and in case of his failure to do so, any citizen, as above set forth, may proceed in the district court aforesaid to compel them to execute such bond, and in case the insolvency of said sureties or either of them is established, which shall be done under the rules of evidence governing other like cases, or in case it is shown that said bond is exhausted or in danger of being exhausted by suit, said court shall enter up its judgment requiring said parties to enter into a new bond within ten days from the date of the judgment, and adjudge the cost against defendants, and assess a reasonable attorney's fee against them as cost. In case of an appeal from such judgment the bond shall be in an amount sufficient to cover all costs and damages, to be fixed by the judge trying the cause; and in addition to the conditions now required in appeal bonds, be conditioned further to pay all damages occasioned by the breach or violation of the local option and penal laws of the State from the date of the institution of the suit until the final termination of such suit. In case appellants are cast in the suit and the same is finally determined against him or them, said appeal bond may be sued upon and recoveries had the same as provided in this chapter and article for suits and recovery on the original bond. Provided, further, that when suit is instituted hereunder by a citizen, the suit shall be prosecuted without bond for cost on [or] appeal bond.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the present session of the legislature, and the crowded condition of the calendar, and the importance of raising additional revenue for the State, and the justness of dealing with all liquor dealers alike, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House, vote not given; and passed the Senate by a vote of yeas 18, nays 3.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Thursday, the twentieth day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. CHAPTER 159.

An Act to create a more efficient road system for Parker County, Texas, and making the county commissioners of said county ex officio road commissioners, and prescribing their duties as such, and providing for their compensation as road commissioners, and providing for the appointment of road overseers, and defining their duties, and for the working of county convicts upon the roads of said county, and providing for officers' fees, and rewards for the capture of escaped convicts, and authorizing the working of county convicts partly upon the county convict farm, as well as upon the public roads, or partly upon both, in the discretion of the Commissioners Court, and making provisions of act applicable as far as practicable to convicts when worked on county farms, and to provide for the summoning of teams for road work and for an allowance of time of road service for same, and fixing a penalty for a violation of this act, and to repeal all laws in conflict with this act, as to Parker County, and to authorize the Commissioners Court of Parker County to create the office of superintendent of public roads and highways for Parker County, and to provide for the election of said superintendent, and defining his duties, and providing for compensation for said superintendent when elected, and prescribing bond to be given by said officer.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the members of the Commissioners' Court of Parker County shall be ex officio road commissioners of their respective districts, and under the direction of the Commissioners Court shall have charge of all the teams, tools and machinery belonging to the county and placed in their hands by said county, and it shall be their duty, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioners Court may prescribe, to superintend the laying out of new roads, the making or changing of roads, and the building of bridges. Each of said commissioners shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, in addition to his regular bond as such County Commissioner, execute a bond of one thousand dollars, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, payable to the county judge of said county, for the use and benefit of the road and bridge fund; conditioned that they will perform all the duties required of them by law or by the Commissioners Court, and that they will account for all money or property belonging to the county that may come into their possession; provided, that with the consent of the Commissioners Court any one of said commissioners shall be allowed to appoint any competent person as deputy road commissioner, who shall be required to execute same bond that is required of commissioners in this section, and such deputy road commissioner shall be entitled to the same compensation that is allowed county commissioners for the same service; provided, that county commissioners shall not be allowed any compensation when a deputy road commissioner has been appointed.

Sec. 2. The Commissioners Court of said county shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to adopt such a system for working, laying out, draining, and repairing the public roads in said county as it may deem best, and from time to time said court may change its plan or system of working. Said Commissioners Court shall have full power to purchase such teams, tools and machinery as may be necessary for the working of its roads. Said court shall have power to construct, grade, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract. In such case said court or county judge of said county, may advertise in such manner as said court may determine, for bids to do such work, and the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall enter into bond, payable to the county judge of said county for the use of the road and bridge fund, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, and in such sums as said court may determine, for the faithful compliance with the terms of said contract, but said court shall have the right to reject any and all bids. At the time of making such contract, the court shall direct the county treasurer to pass the amounts to a particular fund for that purpose, and the treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds; same shall not be used for any other purpose, and can only be paid out on the order of said court; and the said court shall have authority to employ any hands or teams to work on the roads, under such regulations and for such price as they may deem best, not to exceed two dollars and fifty cents per day, of ten hours per day, for a team and driver, and not to exceed one dollar and twenty-five cents per day for day hands; and no road hand when working out his time on the road shall be required to work but eight hours per day; but when hands are hired by the day, they shall be required to work ten hours per day.

Sec. 3. The Commissioners Court of said county shall require all county convicts not otherwise employed, to labor upon the public roads under such regulations as they may prescribe, and each convict so worked shall receive a credit of fifty cents, on his fine first, and then on the cost, for each day he may labor. The Commissioners Court may provide such reasonable regulations, as punishments, as may be necessary to require such convicts to perform good work; and may provide a reward, not to exceed ten dollars, to be paid out of the road and bridge fund, for the recapture and delivery of any escaped convict, to be paid to any person other than the guard or person in charge of such convict at the time of his escape. The Commissioners Court may grant a reasonable commutation of time for which a convict is committed, as a reward for faithful services and good behavior, in no case to exceed one-tenth of the time.

Said court may provide the necessary houses, prisons, clothing, bedding, food, medicines, and medical attention, and guards, for the safe and humane keeping of convicts.

The Commissioners Court may at a regular meeting allow to the officers such amount of their cost for the arrest and conviction of said convict as now provided by law; provided, that said court shall not allow to any officer an amount greater than the following: County attorney, five dollars, including commissions; county clerk and justice of the peace, one dollar and seventy cents; sheriffs or constables two dollars. The aforesaid amounts shall be paid out of the road and bridge fund, upon the order of said court, when said fine and costs have been worked out as provided in this section; provided, that this act shall not be construed so as to relieve any convict from payment of all costs for which he would be liable under the general laws of this State.

Nothing in this section shall be construed so as to deprive the Commissioners Court of the right to have convicts to work a part or all of their time on the county convict farm; but authority is herein expressly given said court to require convicts to labor, in payment of fines and costs, either upon the county convict farm or upon the public roads, or partly upon both, as to said court it may seem best, and the provisions of this section shall apply as far as practicable, in all cases where convicts labor upon the county convict farm.

Sec. 4. Each county commissioner shall have charge of all road overseers in his district and shall deliver to each of them, all teams, tools and machinery necessary in working the roads in the district of said overseer, so far as he has been supplied therewith by the Commissioners Court, taking receipt of said overseer therefor, specifying each item and giving its value, which receipt shall be a full answer of the liability of the commissioner and shall fix the liability of the overseer. And any commissioner or overseer who shall have been entrusted with any teams, tools or machinery belonging to said county, shall be liable for any damages that may occur to the same while in his possession caused by negligence or want of due care of same, and shall not use or permit the same to be used for private purposes without the consent of the Commissioners Court. It shall be the duty of the road overseer, when he has finished work on his roads, to return to said commissioners all teams, tools and machinery received from them by him and take up the receipt given therefor.

Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of the commissioners, when acting as road commissioners, to inform themselves of the condition of the public roads in their districts, and they shall determine what character of work shall be done upon said roads and shall direct the manner of grading, draining, or otherwise improving the same, which directions shall be observed and obeyed by all overseers of his district.

Sec. 6. The commissioners may require each overseer in his district to call out the hands in such numbers as may be sufficient to perform the work, but no road hand shall be required to work exceeding five days in any one year, or two days with himself and team, unless the terms of service as prescribed by the general laws shall be extended beyond that time; and provided, that all road hands in any particular district shall, as far as practicable, be worked a uniform time. Each road overseer, or in case of his absence, any person deputized by him, shall have full control of all road hands within his road district, and shall see that each hand, when called out, shall perform a good day's work; and if any hand when so called out shall fail or refuse to do a good day's work, or to work in the manner the overseer may direct, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had failed to appear in obedience to the summons. The Commissioners Court may allow any overseer who shall be engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office for more than five days during any one year a compensation not to exceed one dollar per day for each day served over five days during any one year.

Sec. 7. Any citizen of Parker County who is subject to road duty, who shall on or before the first day of January of any year, pay to the county treasurer of said county the sum of three dollars and seventy-five cents, shall be exempt from road duty for such year, beginning on the first day of January.

The treasurer shall receive and receipt for all money so paid him and place the same to the credit of the road and bridge fund. The treasurer shall on the third day of January of each year, or as soon thereafter as practicable, furnish the Commissioners Court with a list of all persons who have paid said sums, as provided in this section, and said court shall immediately have overseers, in districts wherein said sums have been paid, notified of the payment of the same, and by whom paid.

Sec. 8. Every person liable to work on the public roads in Parker County, who shall pay to his road overseer at any time before the day appointed to work on his road, the sum of one dollar for each day that he is summoned to work, shall be exempt from work for each day paid for.

Sec. 9. Each person summoned to work on the road shall take with him an axe, hoe, pick, shovel, plow, scraper, or such other tools as may be desired and directed by the overseer; or if he has no such tools as are desired and directed by the overseer, to take with him, he shall take such other suitable tools as he may have; provided, the county shall be liable for, and the Commissioners Court, under such regulations as they may prescribe, shall pay for all such breakage or damage to tools as may have resulted from public road work, and not caused by the negligence of the person furnishing the same. Such overseer shall also summon and require such road hand to bring with him for road work, such team or teams as he may have on hand suitable for road work; provided, such hand shall be allowed two and one-half days time for each day put in by a hand and his team, and one and one-half days time for his team without such hand; provided, it shall be unlawful for any road overseer, superintendent of public roads and highways, or county commissioner, when acting in the capacity of ex officio road commissioner, to work or use any team or teams of which he is the owner upon the public county roads at an expense to the county, and the Commissioners Court shall not allow any compensation for such service so rendered.

Sec. 10. If any person liable to work on the public roads, after being legally summoned, shall intentionally fail or refuse to attend either in person or by an able and competent substitute, or fail or refuse to furnish his team or tools at the time and place designated by the person summoning him, or to pay to the overseer such sum as one dollar per day for each day summoned to work, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof he shall be fined in any sum not to exceed ten dollars.

Sec. 11. At the regular term of the Commissioners Court of each year all road overseers shall make their report under oath, upon the form to be furnished them by the said court, which said report shall be examined by said court, and all accounts for services or labor performed, for overwork by such overseer during the past year, and of moneys had and expended by him, shall be audited and settled; and as soon thereafter as practicable, said Commissioners Court shall appoint and commission road overseers for the succeeding year. Any overseer intentionally failing to perform his duties as such overseer, or failing or refusing to serve and perform the duties of overseer when appointed by said court, or to perform any other duty required of him by law or by the Commissioners Court, or by the commissioner of his district, or county superintendent of public roads and highways, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 12. Whenever it shall be necessary to occupy any land for the opening, widening, straightening, changing or draining any road or any part thereof, if the owner of said land can not agree with the court as to damages to be paid, the court may proceed to condemn the same, in the same manner that a railroad company can condemn land for a right of way, and the same proceedings may be had and the same right shall exist to each party that would exist if the proceedings were by a railroad company, except that the county shall in no case be required to give bond.

Sec. 13. When to the overseer it may appear expedient to make causeways and build bridges or to gravel any public road, the timber, gravel, earth, stone, or other necessary material most convenient therefor may be used; but in such case the owner of such timber or gravel, earth, stone, or other necessary material, shall be paid out of the county treasury a fair compensation for the same, to be determined by the Commissioners Court upon the application of such owner.

Sec. 14. Each County Commissioner, when acting as road commissioner, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for services actually performed; provided, that he shall not receive more than ~~sixty~~ ^{sixty} dollars per quarter; said per diem to be paid out of the road and bridge fund when the account shall have been approved by the Commissioners Court; and the court shall not approve said account unless the commissioner presenting it shall make oath that the account is just, due and unpaid; and said account shall specify the number of days work actually performed by him, and that it was necessary to be done under the circumstances, and no commissioner shall be entitled to pay as road commissioner, either for himself or his deputy, while he is performing the duties of county commissioner, nor shall he receive any additional pay than that provided by this section for inspecting or riding over his road or for other road service.

Sec. 15. In all cases where the cost of material and labor exceeds two hundred dollars, it shall be the duty of said court to construct, grade, or gravel, or otherwise improve any road or bridge by contract, the same to be advertised for as provided by said Commissioners Court.

Sec. 16. The office of county superintendent of public roads and highways is hereby created, and the Commissioners Court of Parker County may, when in their judgment it may be advisable, provide for the election of a county superintendent of public roads and highways, at each general election, who shall be a person of good moral character and executive ability, a qualified voter of said county, who shall hold his office for the term of two years, and until his successor is elected and qualified; and said Commissioners Court when they so provide for the election of a county superintendent, shall appoint a county superintendent of public roads and highways, with the qualifications above provided, who shall perform the duties of such office until a county superintendent shall have been elected as hereinbefore provided, and shall have qualified. Such superintendent, when elected or appointed, shall perform the duties of his office from time to time, under such direction or regulations as in the judgment of the Commissioners Court may seem best; and said superintendent shall at all times be subject to the direction or immediate control of the Commissioners Court. Such county superintendent of public roads and highways, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, shall take the oath of office prescribed by law, and shall enter into bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the County Commissioners Court, and to be filed with the county clerk of Parker County, and said bond shall be made payable to the County Commissioners Court of Parker County and their successors in office, in trust for the road and bridge fund of Parker County, and be conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office. In case said bond is forfeited and collected, the sum so collected shall become a part of the road and bridge fund of Parker County. Such superintendent, while actually engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office, shall receive from the road and bridge fund of Parker County, as compensation for his services, a salary not exceeding six hundred dollars per year; and the County Commissioners' Court of Parker County shall have the power and authority, when in their judgment they may deem it advisable, to abolish the office of county superintendent of public roads and highways, by an order entered on the minutes of their court at a regular term thereof. Whenever such office is abolished, the County Superintendent shall serve out the term for which he was elected, and at the expiration of his term he shall turn over all books, papers, records, tools, machinery, and other property in his possession belonging to the county or pertaining to his office, to the county judge, who shall issue a receipt therefor.

Sec. 17. This act shall be taken notice of by all courts in the same manner as a general law of the State, and it shall be construed to be cumulative of all general laws of the State on the subject of roads and bridges when not in conflict therewith; but in case of conflict, this act shall control as to the County of Parker; and all local or special laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 18. The fact that there is now no sufficient general road law in force in this State, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

An Act to amend Section 1 of an act entitled an act to authorize and permit the Aransas Pass Harbor Company to purchase from the State of Texas, Harbor Island, certain shoal waters and flats in front thereof, and in Red Fish Bay, and to excavate a free channel along and through Turtle Cove, between Corpus Christi Bay and the deep water harbor or channel at or near Aransas Pass, in order to encourage the procuring and maintenance of deep water at Aransas Pass, and prescribing certain conditions attaching to and following with such purchase, passed at the present session, and which became a law without the Governor's approval, April 8th, A. D. 1897.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Section 1 of an act entitled An act to authorize and permit the Aransas Pass Harbor Company to purchase from the State of Texas, Harbor Island, certain shoal waters and flats in front thereof, and in Red Fish Bay, and to excavate a free channel along and through Turtle Cove, between Corpus Christi Bay and the deep water harbor or channel at or near Aransas Pass, in order to encourage the procuring and maintenance of deep water at Aransas Pass, and prescribing certain conditions attaching to and following such purchase, passed at the present session, and which became a law without the Governor's approval, April 8th, A. D. 1897, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. The Aransas Pass Harbor Company shall be permitted to purchase from the State of Texas, at two dollars per acre, all or any portion of Harbor Island, situated near Aransas Pass, on the Gulf coast of Texas, as well as the shoal waters and flats lying in front of said island on its east side out to the present deep [water] channel; and also all and any flats and shoal waters in Red Fish Bay, lying in one-half mile of any deep water channel, navigable for sea-going boats, that may be hereafter constructed by said company through or in said Red Fish Bay connecting the same with Aransas or Corpus Christi Bays, or the Morris and Cummins channel, and extending to the shore of Red Fish Bay at and near the present town site of Aransas Pass; and provided, further, that any channel so constructed in Red Fish Bay, shall be sixty feet wide at the bottom and five feet deep throughout; and provided, further, that said company shall not be permitted to purchase any flats or shoal waters in Red Fish Bay lying within one-half mile of any private holdings on said Red Fish Bay on the side next to the present town site of Aransas Pass; and provided, further, that all channels excavated or constructed by said Aransas Pass Harbor Company, under the authority of this law, shall forever remain open and free to all vessels without fee or charge; provided, that said company shall not be permitted to purchase the twenty-five acres of Harbor Island heretofore patented to the United States, and on which Aransas lighthouse now stands, nor the shoal waters or flats in front thereof, nor the land on which the State quarantine station is now situated on said island, nor the shoal waters or flats in front thereof, which said land is hereby specially reserved to the State, and which said land so reserved is described as follows: Beginning at a point situated at mean low tide mark on the east shore of said Harbor Island, one-half mile in a northerly direction from the center of the foot or shore end of the quarantine wharf; thence in a southerly direction along the east shore of said island at mean low tide mark, with its meanders, one mile to the southeast corner of this tract of land; thence in a westerly course in right angles with the general course of the line above established, one-half mile establish corner for southwest corner of this tract; thence in a northerly direction parallel with the general course of the east line of this tract, as herein first above provided; one mile establish the northwest corner of this tract; thence in an easterly direction parallel with the south line of this tract, one-half mile to point of beginning on east shore of Harbor Island for northeast corner; provided, however, that if said described property is abandoned by the State as a quarantine station and hereafter put upon the market for sale or lease by the State, said harbor company shall have the preference right to buy or lease same at the price that may hereafter be put thereon by the State; provided, however, that such preference shall continue for ninety days only after the time said property is put on the market by the State for such sale or lease; provided, further, that said company shall not be permitted to purchase or acquire under this act the shallow bay or cove locally known as Turtle Cove, and situated between Harbor Island on the north and northwest and Corpus Christi Bay on the west side, and Mustang Island on the south and southeast, and Aransas Pass and Aransas Bay on the east and northeast; provided, further, that said company shall not purchase or acquire any of the shoal waters or flats adjoining what is known as Shell Bank Island, Talley Island, and the shell reef running towards the main land from said island. Be it further provided, that nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to affect or impair the vested rights of any person, firm, association of persons, or corporations.

Sec. 2. The great importance of continuing the work for deep water at Aransas Pass, and the necessity of securing it at the earliest possible day, and the fact of the vast amount of business before this session of the Legislature, and the length of the session being limited, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency which demands that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Sec. 3. That all laws in conflict with any of the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House, vote not given; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 26, nays 1.]

An Act to amend Article 3384, Title LXIX, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, relating to local option.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 3384, Title LXIX, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be and the same is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

Article 3384. The commissioners' court of each county in the State, whenever they deem it expedient, may order an election, to be held by the qualified voters of said county, or of any commissioner's or justice's precinct, or school district, or any two or more of any such political subdivisions of a county, as may be designated by the commissioners' court of said county, to determine whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited in such county, or commissioner's or justice's precinct, or school district, or any two or more of any such political subdivisions of such county, or in any town or city; provided, it shall be the duty of said commissioners' court to order the election as aforesaid whenever petitioned so to do by as many as two hundred and fifty voters in any county, or fifty voters in any other political subdivision of the county or school district, as shall be designated by said court, or in any city or town, as the case may be; provided, that if the precinct or precincts designated embrace within the limits an incorporated town or city, then such election shall only be ordered when the petition for the same is signed by qualified voters, not less than one-tenth in number of the total vote cast for governor at the next preceding general election in such incorporated town or city; and in case an election is asked for a

An Act to require cities to provide for a board of plumbers to be known as the examining and supervising board of plumbers; to regulate the duties of said board, and to provide penalties for violation hereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That every city in this State having underground sewers or cesspools, shall pass ordinances regulating the tapping of said sewers and cesspools; regulating house drainage and plumbing, creating a board for the examination of plumbers, to be known as the examining and supervising board of plumbers; to provide for an inspection of plumbing. Said board shall consist of the following five persons: a member of the local board of health, the city engineer, the chief plumbing inspector, a master plumber of not less than ten years active in continuous business experience, and a journeyman plumber of not less than five years active continuous practical experience. The mayor and the local board of health shall make said appointment, and shall regulate the length of term each member shall serve; they shall fill all vacancies occurring in the examining and supervising board of plumbers; appointments to said vacancies to be for the unexpired term of the member whose place is filled.

Sec. 2. The examining and supervising board of plumbers herein created shall examine and pass upon all persons now engaged in the business of plumbing, whether as a master plumber, employing plumber, or journeyman plumber, in their respective cities, and all persons who may hereafter wish to engage in the business of plumbing as master plumber, employing plumber, or journeyman plumber, within their respective jurisdictions, and also all persons who may apply for the office of plumbing inspector. They shall issue a license to such persons only as shall successfully pass a required examination. They shall also register in a book to be kept for that purpose, the names and places of business of all persons to whom a plumber's license is issued. They shall not issue license for more than one year, but the same shall be renewed from year to year, upon proper application.

Sec. 3. Each applicant for examination for plumber's license shall pay to such person as the examining and supervising board of plumbers may designate to receive the same, the sum of three ($3.00) dollars for each master plumber examined, and the sum of two ($2.00) dollars for each journeyman plumber examined, which fees may be used by said board to defray any of its legitimate expenses, the residue, if any, to be paid over to the treasurer of the city in which said board shall operate. Members of the examining and supervising board of plumbers shall receive no compensation for their services on said board. Said license shall be non-transferable, and said examination and examination fee shall not be required of the same person more than once.

Sec. 4. In selecting the first or chief inspector of plumbing, herein provided for, the mayor shall act with the other four members of said board above specified. After said inspector of plumbing shall have been chosen, he shall become the fifth member of the examining and supervising board of plumbers in place of the mayor.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted: That license shall not be issued to any person or firm to carry on or work at the business of plumbing, or to act as inspector of plumbing, until he or they shall have appeared before the examining and supervising board for examination and registration, and shall have successfully passed the required examination. Every firm carrying on the business of plumbing shall have at least one member who is a practical plumber.

Sec. 6. Any person, whether as master plumber, employing, or journeyman plumber, engaged in, working at, or conducting the business of plumbing without license as provided in this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall pay a fine of not less than twenty nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars.

Sec. 7. All laws or parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 8. The near approach of the close of the present session of the legislature and the large number of bills now upon the calendar of each house create an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists, that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the twenty-first day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. CHAPTER 164.

An Act to create a State Text-Book Board and to procure for use in the public free schools of the State of Texas a series of uniform text books; defining the duties of certain officers therein named with reference thereto; making appropriation therefor; defining certain misdemeanors; providing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act, and declaring an emergency.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the State Board of Education, together with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the President of the Sam Houston Normal Institute and the Attorney General shall constitute a State text-book board for the purpose of adopting a uniform system of text-books for the use of the public free schools of this State, and for the further purpose of executing the provisions of this act. Said board is hereby authorized to select and adopt a uniform system of text-books for the purpose above indicated, and the text-books so selected shall be used in the public free schools of this State for a period of not less than five years from the date of their said adoption. Said series to include the following branches of study, to-wit: Spelling, reading, English language lessons and grammar, geography, arithmetic, the elements of physiology and hygiene, history of the United States, history of the State of Texas, a graded system of writing books; provided that any of said text-books shall not contain anything of a partisan or sectarian character; and provided further, that the State text-book board shall appoint a commission consisting of five persons engaged in the school business as teachers or city or county superintendents; provided, that not more than one of such commissioners shall be appointed from any congressional district of this State, who shall examine in executive session all books sent to the State text-book board as samples upon which bids are to be based, and shall report upon the merits of the books, irrespective of price, taking into consideration chiefly the internal merits or subject matter of the books, but having proper regard, also, to the material and mechanical qualities of the books, and shall report a classified list of said books to the State text-book board at a date fixed by said board, arranging the books of each class and subclass or division in said report in the order in which they are recommended; that is, the first reader to which the commission gives its first recommendation shall be the first on the list of first readers; the first reader to which the board may give its second recommendation shall be placed second on the list, and so on until all books examined by the said commission have been properly listed. This report shall be delivered to the text-book board under seal and shall not be opened till the board meets to open and consider the bids of publishers or others desiring to have books adopted by the said board. The members of said commission shall, before entering upon their duties, each take and subscribe to an oath, and shall file the same with the secretary of the text-book board, to examine all books referred to said commission faithfully and carefully and make true report thereon as herein prescribed and directed. The State text-book board in adopting books shall consider the said report, together with the bids made by publishers, and adopt books to which the commission gives its first recommendation, unless other books on the same subject coming later on the said lists are offered at lower prices, taking into consideration subject matter, material, style, binding and mechanical excellence, in which case the text-book board will exercise its discretion and shall be authorized to make an adoption in view of all the circumstances. If the text-book commission consider different books of the same class or divisions to be of approximately equal merit, all things being considered, they shall so report; and if they consider that any of the books offered are of such general character as to make them inferior and not worthy of adoption by the State text-book board, they shall in their report so designate such books. The compensation of this commission shall be fixed by the State text-book board and shall be paid, with their expenses, from the special appropriation authorized in this act; provided, that the compensation shall not exceed $5 per day for each day that such members may serve. Books furnished shall be in all respects equal to the samples furnished the text-book board at the time of filing bids and fully equal in both internal and external material qualities to the books in general use in the State on the respective subjects; Provided, nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent the teaching of German, Bohemian, Spanish, Latin, French or Greek in any of our public schools, in conjunction with the English course prescribed by this act, when the trustees of any such school shall recommend the teaching of German, Bohemian, Spanish, Latin, French or Greek; but the teaching of such languages shall not be allowed to supersede the use of the text-books prescribed under the provisions of this act; provided, that said board in selecting said books, shall give preference to the text-books of Texas authors or publishers, the price and merit of same being equal to other text-books offered.

Sec. 2. Said board shall immediately upon the taking effect of this act advertise for such time in such manner as they deem best to obtain the desired information that at a time and place to be fixed by said notice and not later than two months after the first publication thereof said board will received sealed proposals as follows: "From the publishers of school text-books for furnishing books to the schools of the State through agencies established by said publishers in the several counties of the State as may be provided for in such regulations as said board may adopt." No bid from any publisher shall be entertained by said board made for a longer period than five years. Said bid or bids shall state specifically at what price each book will be furnished and shall be accompanied with specimen copies of each and all books proposed to be furnished, and it shall be required of the bidders, and each of them, to deposit with the Treasurer of the State such sum of money as the board may require, not less than five hundred dollars nor more than twenty-five hundred dollars, according to the number of books each bidder may propose to supply. Such deposits shall be forfeited to the State absolutely if such bidder so depositing any sum shall fail to make and execute such contract and bond as herein required within such time as the board may require, which time shall be stated in the notice advertised. All bids shall be deposited sealed with the Comptroller of the State, to be by him delivered to the board when they are in session for the purpose of considering the same, when they shall be opened in the presence of the board. When any person has been awarded a contract and filed his bond and contract with the board the said board shall make an order on the Treasurer of the State, reciting such fact, whereupon the Treasurer shall return the deposits of such successful bidder; but if any such successful bidder shall fail to make and execute the contract and bond as hereinbefore required the Treasurer shall place such special deposit in the State Treasury to the credit of the available school fund and the board shall readvertise, if they conclude to do so, for other bids to supply such books, which the successful bidder may have failed to supply. All unsuccessful bidders shall have their deposits returned to them as soon as the board has decided not to accept their bids. All books selected and adopted by the board shall be printed or written in English. The board shall stipulate in contract for supplying books, as herein provided, that the contractor or contractors shall exchange the contract books for all books actually in use, and for which purpose the value of the books in use shall be deducted from the contract price of the new books; provide, the successful bidder to supply any books, who may have awarded to him or to them any contract, shall, within the time fixed by the board, enter into contract and shall make and execute a good and sufficient bond, payable to the State of Texas, and in the sum of not less than ten thousand dollars, signed by not less than three solvent sureties, who shall be residents of the State of Texas, to be approved by the Governor, which said bond may be put in suit at any time upon suggestion of the board. Such bond shall be conditioned that the contractor or contractors shall faithfully and honestly perform the conditions of the contract. Said contract and bond shall be prepared by the Attorney General and be made to conform to the requirements of this act. Said bond shall not be exhausted by a single recovery, but may be sued upon from time to time till the full amount thereof is recovered, and the board may at any time after twenty days' notice require a new bond to be given.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of said board to meet at the time and place mentioned in such notice and open and examine all sealed proposals received pursuant to the notice provided for in section 2 of this act; and it shall be the further duty of said board to make a full, complete, and thorough investigation of all such bids, and to ascertain under which of said bids the school books could be furnished to the people of this State for common school use at the lowest price, taking into consideration the size and quality as to matter, material, style of binding and mechanical execution of such books; said text-book board shall then proceed without delay to adopt for use in the public schools of this State text-books upon the branches hereinbefore mentioned, and notify publishers to whom contracts are awarded, and as each contract duly signed by the publishing house, or its authorized officers or agents, is presented to the board, if it is found to be in accordance with the award and the provisions of this act, and the bond herein required is presented, duly approved, the board shall approve said contract, and order it to be signed on behalf of the State by the Governor, who shall be ex officio chairman of the text-book board, in his capacity as chairman, and by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who shall be ex officio secretary of the text-book board, in his capacity as said secretary; thereupon the Governor and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall sign said contract in said respective capacities; and all contracts shall be made in duplicate—one copy to remain in the possession of the secretary and to be copied in full in the minutes of the meetings of said board, to be kept in the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction in a well bound book, and the other copy to be delivered to the company or its agent. And in case of failure to comply with said contract, the board may cancel the contract so broken; provided, that the board and the contractor agreeing to furnish the books may, by agreement, make such changes of the books to be furnished as the board may deem proper and to the interest of the State. The contract price of each book shall be plainly printed on the back of each book by the publisher or the parties furnishing the same; provided, always, that such board shall not in any case contract with any publisher or publishers for the furnishing of any book or books which shall be sold to patrons for use in the public schools of this State at a price above or in excess of the lowest price at which said publisher or publishers furnish under contract the said book or books to any State, county, or school district in the United States.

Sec. 4. It shall be part of the terms and conditions of every contract made in pursuance of this act that the State of Texas shall not be liable to any contractor hereunder for any sum whatever, but all such contractors shall receive their pay in compensation solely and exclusively from the proceeds of the sale of books as provided for in this act, and it is hereby provided that the State shall have the right to terminate said contract whenever the law is repealed or amended, altered or qualified as to make necessary or expedient that such contract should be revoked, and the contract shall contain a stipulation to that effect.

Sec. 5. As soon as such board shall have entered into contract for the furnishing of books for use in the public free schools of this State, pursuant to the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the Governor to issue his proclamation announcing such fact to the people of the State; and it is further provided, that the State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall carefully label and file away all sample copies of the books so furnished as hereinbefore provided, and for which a contract shall have been entered into as herein specified, which shall be securely kept as the standard of quality and excellence to be maintained in such books during the continuance of such contract.

Sec. 6. The party with whom such contract has been made shall establish and maintain in some city in this State a depository to be designated by the board, where a stock of their books sufficient to supply all immediate demands shall be kept. It shall also establish and maintain one or more agencies in every county in the State having an enrollment of five hundred pupils or more in the public schools, as shown by the last report of the County Superintendent of the county on file in the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and any person in a county not having an agency for any of the adopted books, may order from the central agency, and the books so ordered shall be sent to him at any post-office in the county at the retail contract price; provided, that the price of the books so ordered shall be paid in advance; one of which agencies shall be at the county seat. At such agencies books shall be sold at the retail contract price, together with the following notice: "The price fixed hereon is fixed by State contract, and any deviation shall be reported to the State Superintendent at Austin." And it is provided that upon the failure of the party contracting to furnish the books for the public free schools of this State, as provided for in this act, the county judge may, in the name of the State of Texas, sue in the District Court of his county and recover on the bond given by the contractor under this act for the full value of the books so failed to be furnished for the use and benefit of the schools of his county, and the amount so recovered shall be placed to the credit of the available school fund in the county so recovering; and it is further provided, that unorganized counties shall be furnished books through the same agency as the county to which said unorganized county is attached for judicial purposes, in the same manner as the said organized county obtained the books used therein.

Sec. 7. As soon as practicable after the adoption provided for in this act, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall address a circular letter to the county superintendents and the presidents of school boards in independent school districts, which letter shall contain a list of the books adopted, the prices, method of distribution, and such other information as he may deem necessary.

Sec. 8. The board may from time to time make necessary regulations not contrary to the provisions of this act to secure the prompt distribution of the books herein provided for.

Sec. 9. If upon the examination of the proposals referred to in Section 3 of this act, it shall be the opinion of said board that first-class, suitable books on any branch herein named can not be secured by adopting any of the offers submitted in compliance with the provisions of this act, and that such books on such branch can be secured at rates not exceeding those fixed by this act by procuring, and causing to be published manuscript of books on such branch, it shall be their duty to procure such manuscripts and to advertise for sealed proposals for publishing the same in like manner as hereinbefore provided and under the same conditions and restrictions, and such contract may be let for the publication of all such books, or for any one or more of such books separately; and it shall be the further duty of said board to provide in the contract for the publication of any such manuscript for the payment by the publisher of the compensation agreed between said board and the author or owner of any such manuscript, together with the cost or expense of copyrighting the same.

Sec. 10. After September 1, 1898, or as soon thereafter, as the board may deem practicable, the books adopted by the board as a uniform system of text-books for this State shall be introduced and used as text-books to the exclusion of all others in the public free schools; provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the use of supplementary books, but such supplementary books, shall not be used to the exclusion of the books to be prescribed under the provisions of this act, nor shall such supplementary books be so used in the public free schools of this State in such way as to compel the purchase of such supplementary books by the patrons of the schools.

Sec. 11. Any teacher or trustee who shall violate the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten, nor more than fifty dollars for each offense, and every day of such violation shall be considered a separate offense.

Sec. 12. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent or prohibit the patrons of the public schools throughout the State from procuring books in the usual way, in case no contract should be made, or the contractor fails or refuses to furnish the books provided for in this act at the time required for their use in the respective schools.

Sec. 13. The sum of two thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the purpose of paying the cost and expense of putting into effect the provisions of this act.

Sec. 14. Any county, city or town which has assumed control of its schools, and which has, prior to April 1, 1897, adopted a uniform system of text-books shall not be required to comply with the provisions of this act prior to the first day of September, 1899, or until contracts heretofore entered into shall have expired; provided, that this act shall not apply to cities of 10,000 inhabitants or over, unless such city or cities shall by their city council or school board adopt the provisions of this act.

Sec. 15. The board shall prepare and submit to the Governor before the Twenty-sixth Legislature shall convene, a report wherein they shall discuss the feasibility of State publication of common school text-books, and submit estimates of the probable cost to the State of such publication.

Sec. 16. The fact that many publishers of school text-books have entered into conspiracies and combinations against competition, rendering it impossible to procure school books at fair and reasonable prices, and the further fact that the people of this State are being put to great and unnecessary expense by constant changes of the text-books to an extent that is rapidly destroying the efficiency of our public school system together with the near approach of the close of the session, and the large number of bills now on the calendar, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved June 10, 1897.

Takes effect 90 days after adjournment.

CHAPTER 165.

An Act to authorize corporations to engage in the business of becoming surety on bonds, undertakings, recognizances and other obligations required or permitted by law or the charter, ordinances, rules or regulations of any municipality, board, body, organization, court, judge or other public officer, to be made, given, tendered, or filed, with surety or sureties, and guaranteeing the refraining from or performance by another of any act, duty, or obligation, and to regulate such business, and to repeal Chapter XVI, Title 21, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever any bond, undertaking, recognizance, or other obligation is by law or the charter, ordinances, rules or regulations of a municipality, board, body, organization, court, judge, or public officer, required or permitted to be made, given, tendered or filed, with the surety or sureties, and whenever the performance of any act, duty or obligation, or the refraining from any act is required or permitted to be guaranteed, such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guaranty may be executed by a surety company, qualified as hereinafter provided; and such execution by such company of such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guaranty shall be in all respects a full and complete compliance with every requirement of every law, charter, rule or regulation that such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guaranty shall be executed by one surety or by one or more sureties, or that such sureties shall be residents or householders or freeholders, or either or both, or possess any other qualification; provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to permit any corporation to become a surety upon the official bond of any State or County official in this State; and all courts, judges, heads of departments, boards, bodies, municipalities and public officers of every character, shall accept and treat such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guaranty when so executed by such company as conforming to and fully and completely complying with every requirement of every such law, charter, ordinance, rule or regulation.

Sec. 2. That such company to be so qualified to so act as surety or guarantor, must comply with the requirements of every law of this State applicable to such company doing business therein; must be authorized under the laws of the State where incorporated, and under its charter to become surety upon such bond, undertaking, obligation, recognizance or guaranty; must have a fully paid up and safely invested and unimpaired capital of at least $100,000; must have good available assets exceeding its liabilities, which liabilities for the purpose of this act shall be taken to be its capital stock, its outstanding debts and a premium reserve at the rate of fifty per centum of the current annual premiums on each outstanding bond, undertaking, recognizance and obligation of like character in force; must file with the commissioner of insurance, statistics, history and agriculture, a certified copy of its certificate of incorporation, a written application to be authorized to do business under this act, and also, with such application, and in each year thereafter a statement verified under oath made up to December 31st, preceding, stating the amount of its paid up cash capital, particularizing each item of investment, the amount of premiums upon existing bonds, undertakings, recognizances and obligations of like character in force upon which it is surety; the amount of liability for unearned portion thereof estimated at the rate of fifty per centum of the current annual premiums on each such bond, undertaking, recognizance and obligation in force, stating also, the amount of its outstanding debts of all kinds, and such further facts as may be by the laws of this State required of such company in transacting business therein; and if such company be organized under the laws of any other State than this State it must also have on deposit with a State officer of one of the States of the United States, not less than $100,000 in good securities, deposited with and held by such officer for the benefit of the holders of its obligations; must also appoint an attorney in this State upon whom process of law can be served, which appointment shall continue until revoked or another attorney substituted, and must file with the commissioner of insurance, statistics and history and agriculture written evidence of such appointment, which shall state the residence and office of such attorney; and such service of process may also be made upon the commissioner of insurance of this State, by virtue of his office, and shall be as effective as if made upon said attorney; and must also have on deposit with the treasurer of this State at least $50,000 in good securities, worth at par and market value at least that sum, of the value of which securities the commissioner of insurance shall judge, held for the benefit of the holders of the obligations of such company; said securities so deposited with said treasurer to remain with him in trust to answer any default of said company as surety upon any such bond, undertaking, recognizance or other obligation, established by final judgment upon which execution may lawfully be issued against said company; said treasurer and his successors in office being hereby directed to so receive and hereafter retain such deposit under this act, in trust, for the purposes hereof; such company, however, at all times to have the right to collect the interest, dividends and profits upon such securities, and from time to time to withdraw such securities or portions thereof, substituting therefor others of equally good character and value, to the satisfaction of said treasurer, and such securities and substitutes therefor shall be at all times exempt from and not subject to levy under writ or process of attachment; and, further, shall not be sold under any process against such company until after thirty days notice to said company, specifying the time, place and manner of such sale, and the process under which and purposes for which it is to be made, accompanied by a copy of such process; provided, however, that whenever any such company, domestic or foreign, has been engaged in this State in the business contemplated by this act, has made deposit in this State, in trust or otherwise, of securities, to answer any default of such company upon any such bond, undertaking, recognizance, guaranty, or stipulation, such securities so deposited shall be by the trustee or custodian thereof transferred and delivered to said treasurer of this State in trust for the same purposes under and subject to all the rights and equities of all parties interested, and to the terms and provisions of this act, and thereupon such deposit shall remain in trust under and subject to the terms and provisions of this act, and whenever such deposit has been made with a trustee by order of any court or other authority, it shall be the duty of the court or other authority, by order or otherwise, to direct such transfer to said treasurer; and in case such deposit is less than the sum of $50,000, then said company must deposit with said treasurer securities sufficient to increase said deposit to said sum of $50,000, as required by this act; provided, domestic corporations chartered for the purpose of doing business under this act within this State alone shall be required to deposit securities as hereinbefore provided for to the amount of $25,000.

Sec. 3. That the commissioner of insurance, statistics, history and agriculture, upon due proof by any such company of its possessing the qualifications in this act specified, shall issue to such company a certificate setting forth that such company has qualified, and is authorized for the ensuing year to do business under this act, which said certificate shall be evidence of such qualification of such company, and of its authorization to become and to be accepted as sole surety on all bonds, undertakings, recognizances and obligations required or permitted by law or the charter, ordinances, rules or regulations of any municipality, board, body, organization or public officer, and the solvency or credit of such company for all purposes, and its sufficiency as such surety.

Sec. 4. That any such company, domestic or foreign, may, at any time surrender to the commissioner of insurance, statistics, history and agriculture its said certificate of qualification, and shall thereupon cease to engage in said business of suretyship; and such company shall thereupon be entitled to the release and return of its said deposit as aforesaid, in manner following: Said company shall file with said commissioner of insurance, statistics, history, and agriculture, a statement in writing, under oath, giving the date, name and amount of all its then existing obligations of suretyship in this State, briefly stating the facts of each case to said commissioner of insurance, statistics, history, and agriculture, who, after examination of the facts, shall require said company to file with the treasurer of this State a bond, payable to the State, in a sum equal to the whole amount of its liability in this State, under its contracts, conditioned for the faithful performance and fulfillment of all its outstanding obligations, or it may at its option, reinsure its risks in some surety company authorized to do business in this State, or cancel all bonds on which it is liable, and return a pro rata of the premium received thereon, whenever such cancellation and return can be done without impairing its obligation to third parties.

Sec. 5. Any surety company may withdraw from the bond of any trustee, guardian, assignee, receiver, executor, administrator or other fiduciary, in like manner and by like proceeding as is now provided by law in the case of individual sureties.

Sec. 6. If any suit shall be instituted upon any bond or obligation of any surety company, the proper court of the county wherein said bond is filed shall have jurisdiction of said cause, and service therein shall be made either upon the attorney for said company, by this act required to be appointed, or upon the commissioner of insurance, and such service shall be to all intents valid and effectual as service upon said company. And such guaranty, fidelity, and surety companies shall be deemed resident of the counties wherever they may do business, and the doing or performing any business in any county shall be deemed an acceptance of the provisions of this act.

Sec. 7. Should any company of the character named or enumerated in this act, fail or refuse to pay any loss by it incurred in this State within sixty days after its liability thereupon shall have been by suit finally determined, upon satisfactory proof, to the treasurer of this State, of such liability and of its non-payment, said treasurer shall, out of the deposits so made with him, as by this act provided, pay said loss, and when he shall have done so, he shall, at once, certify to the commissioner of insurance the fact of such default on the part of said company, whereupon said commissioner shall forthwith cancel and annul the certificate of authority of such company to do business in this State; provided, that such payment shall not operate to release the company from payment of any balance which it still may owe after such payment by the treasurer of this State has been made.

Sec. 8. Any person who solicits business for or on behalf of such corporation, or makes or transmits for any person other than himself, any application for guaranty or security, or who advertises or otherwise gives notice that he will receive or transmit same, or who shall receive or transmit same, or who shall receive or deliver a contract of guaranty or security, or who shall examine or investigate the character of any applicant for guaranty or security than himself, or who shall refer any applicant for guaranty or security to such corporation, whether any of said acts shall be done at the instance and request, or by the employment of such corporation, or other corporation or person, or any person who shall issue indemnifying bonds or contracts, whose solvency and compliance with his said bonds or obligations is guaranteed directly or indirectly by any corporation, shall be held to be the agent of such corporation so far as relates to all the liabilities and penalties prescribed by this act.

Sec. 9. Any person, association of persons or corporations, who shall accept any corporation created for the purposes, or either of them, mentioned in Section 1 of this act, without such corporation having previously complied with the provisions and requirements of this act, and having received from the commissioner of agriculture, insurance, statistics and history the certificate of authority provided for in this act, shall forfeit as a penalty the sum of five hundred dollars, to be recovered by suit in the name of the State in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Sec. 10. When any corporation shall cancel a bond of guaranty or indemnity, or shall notify the employer of the person whose fidelity is guaranteed, that said corporation will no longer guarantee or be security for the fidelity of said person, or when said corporation has once guaranteed the fidelity of any person, or acted as security therefor, and on application refuses to do so again, it shall furnish to such person a full statement in writing of the facts on which the action of the corporation is based, and if such action be based in whole or in part on information, all such information; and any such corporation failing or refusing to furnish any such written statement within thirty days after a request therefor, shall be liable to such person injured in the sum of five hundred dollars, in addition to all other damages caused thereby, which may be sued for and recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Sec. 11. If any such corporation shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, the commissioner of agriculture, insurance, statistics and history shall revoke the certificate of authority issued said corporation.

Sec. 12. Corporations created for the purposes mentioned in Section 1 of this act are hereby declared to be charged with a public use.

Sec. 13. That Chapter 16, of Title 21, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, and all other laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 14. Whereas, the conflict and uncertainty of the law relating to guaranty and fidelity companies, operates a great inconvenience to a large number of the citizens of the State who desire to give bonds by means of such companies, thereby relieving individuals from the necessity of such bonds, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency which authorizes the suspending of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days; therefore said rule is suspended, and this bill shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 10, 1897.

An Act to authorize the Texas Central Railroad Company to purchase, own and operate the railway extending from the town of Bremond, in Robertson county, to the town of Ross, in McLennan county, commonly known as the Waco & Northwestern division of the Houston & Texas Central Railway, with its appurtenances, or any part thereof, and to authorize a corresponding increase in the authorized aggregate of the bonds and stock of said Texas Central Railroad Company.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Texas Central Railroad Company be and it is hereby authorized to purchase, own and operate the railway from the town of Bremond, in Robertson County, to the town of Ross, in McLennan County, commonly known as the Waco & Northwestern division of the Houston & Texas Central Railway, with its appurtenances, or any part thereof, and, in case the same, or any part thereof, shall be so purchased, the aggregate amount of bonds and stocks which may be issued by said Texas Central Railroad Company shall be increased by the value of such railway and its appurtenances so purchased, or of the portion thereof purchased by said railroad company, as such value has been or shall be ascertained and determined by the railroad commission of the State of Texas under the provisions of the act of the legislature of the State of Texas, entitled "An act to define franchises; to make public the value of railroads; to make effective Section 6, Article 12, of the Constitution of the State of Texas; to declare the effect of judicial and other sales of railroads; to limit the amount of stocks and bonds and other indebtedness that may be issued by railroad companies, and to regulate the manner of issuing, registering and securing the same; to prescribe penalties for violating the provisions of this act, and to prescribe the duties of the railroad commission and the attorney general in relation thereto," approved April 8, 1893, and any amendments made or which may be made thereto. It is provided, however, that the Texas Central Railroad Company shall be liable for all the outstanding indebtedness of the Waco and Northwestern. of every kind whatsoever.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, that any such purchase shall be valid and binding only when approved by the assent of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding capital stock of said Texas Central Railroad Company, given in writing or at a meeting of the stockholders of said railroad company, and upon the filing with the railroad commission and with the Secretary of State of such assent in writing or a certified copy of the record of the proceedings of such corporate meeting, together with a certificate from the secretary of said railroad company that such assent in writing has been executed or the approval of such purchase at such meeting was assented to by the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding capital stock of said railroad company.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the session and the crowded condition of the calendar create an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the constitutional rule to be suspended which requires bills to be read on three several days in each house, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 167.

An Act to authorize the Galveston, La Porte & Houston Railway Company to acquire by purchase, lease or otherwise, all the rights, privileges, franchises and property of the Galveston & Western Railway Company, and to operate, maintain and use the same.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Galveston, La Porte & Houston Railway Company shall have the right to acquire by purchase, lease or otherwise, all the rights, privileges, franchises and property of the Galveston & Western Railway Company, and to operate, maintain and use the same; and the right is hereby conferred upon the Galveston & Western Railway Company to sell, lease or otherwise transfer all its rights, privileges, franchises and property to the Galveston, La Porte & Houston Railway Company.

Sec. 2. That each of said railway companies shall have all powers necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act, including the right of the Galveston, La Porte & Houston Railway Company to issue its bonds in exchange for a [or] payment of the stock of the Galveston & Western Railway Company at such price, and upon such terms as may be agreed upon by said companies, and the bonds so issued may also be secured by a first lien upon the rights, privileges, franchises and property so transferred by the Galveston & Western Railway Company.

Sec. 3. No sale, lease, or other agreement made between said railway companies shall be binding until the same shall be sanctioned by a vote of the holders of three-fourths of the stock of each of the contracting companies and approved by the railroad commission of Texas. The agreement, when thus sanctioned and approved, shall be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Texas.

Sec. 4. The near approach of the close of the present session of the Legislature, the crowded condition of the calendar of both the Senate and the House, and the fact that the passage of this bill will tend to cheapen the transportation of passengers and freight, creates an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

CHAPTER 168.

An Act to authorize the Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company to purchase, own and operate the railway extending from a point in or near the town of Bremond, in Robertson county, to a point in or near the town of Ross, in McLennan county, with its franchises and appurtenances, and the railway extending from a point in or near said town of Ross to a point in or near the town of Albany, in Shackelford county, with its franchises and appurtenances, or either of such railways with its franchises and appurtenances, or any part or parts thereof, and to authorize the owners thereof to sell the same, and to authorize a corresponding increase in the authorized aggregate of the bonds and stock of said Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company, and to regulate reports of such properties and the operations thereof.

Whereas, the Waco Tap Railroad Company was incorporated by special act of the legislature of the State of Texas, approved November 5th, 1866, entitled "An act to incorporate the Waco Tap Railroad Company," and was authorized by said act, among other things, "to locate, construct, own and maintain a railway commencing at a convenient point on the Houston & Texas Central railroad, within or below the county of Falls, and running thence northwardly by the most eligible route to or near the town of Waco, crossing and recrossing the Brazos river wherever the company may deem it necessary"; and

Whereas, by another special act of the legislature of the State of Texas, approved August 6th, 1870, entitled "An act to amend section 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 12, 13, 15, 19 and 20, of an act to incorporate the Waco Tap Railroad Company," the name of said Waco Tap Railroad Company was changed to "The Waco & Northwestern Railroad Company," and said company was, among other things, thereby invested with the right "to locate, construct, own, operate and maintain a railway and telegraph line commencing at a convenient point on the Houston & Texas Central railroad, within or below the county of Falls, and running thence in a northwesterly direction by the most eligible route to or near the town of Waco, crossing or recrossing the Brazos river whenever the company deem it necessary; and thence up the general course of the Brazos river northwestwardly to the vicinity of the copper and coal mining regions of the Brazos river, and thence to the north line of the State of Texas on Red River," and the said company was by said act further granted "the right to cross the line of any other railroad on its line, and to form a junction with any other railroad company running in the same general direction, with full power to unite and consolidate with the same upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the said company, with the power and right to change the name thereof upon such consolidation"; and

Whereas, by another special act of the legislature of the State of Texas, approved May 24th, 1873, entitled "An act to provide for the merger of the Waco & Northwestern Railroad Company, with its properties, rights, privileges and franchises, in the Houston & Texas Central Railway Company," the said Waco & Northwestern Railroad Company was merged into the Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company, and as declared in said act, made, to all intents and for every purpose in law, a part of the Houston & Texas Central railway; and the said Houston & Texas Central Railway Company was thereby authorized and empowered to operate, manage and control the same in the same manner as every other part of said Houston & Texas Central railway, and was given the right to continue the construction of said railroad from the city of Waco in a northwesterly direction in accordance with the terms of the charter of said Waco & Northwestern Railroad Company; and

Whereas, the said Waco & Northwestern railroad was from and after the passage of the last mentioned act, an integral part of the lines of the Houston & Texas Central Railway Company and was so operated and controlled, and the said Houston & Texas Central Railway Company thereafter extended said railroad to the town of Ross, in McLennan county, and thereafter the said railroad was extended by the Texas Central Railway Company from the said town of Ross to the town of Albany or vicinity thereof, in Shackelford county; and the whole of said railroad to the town of Albany or its vicinity was operated by or in connection with the Houston & Texas Central Railway Company; and

Whereas, subsequently, through and by reason of the foreclosure in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Texas, at Galveston, and the Northern District of Texas, at Waco, of separate mortgages upon the different portions of said railroad line, and sales to different purchasers of said properties under such decrees, the said properties became separated and divided, and have since so continued; and

Whereas, it is deemed expedient that such lines should be reunited so far as the owners thereof may agree upon terms for such reuniting thereof; but only upon the terms and conditions hereinafter provided; now, therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company be, and it is hereby authorized to purchase, own and operate the railroad commonly known as the Waco & Northwestern division of the Houston & Texas Central railway, extending from a point in or near the town of Bremond, in Robertson county, via Marlin and Waco, to a point in or near the town of Ross, in McLennan county, with its franchises and appurtenances, and the railway now known as the Texas Central Railroad, extending from a point in or near the said town of Ross, to a point in or near the town of Albany, in Shackelford county, with its franchises and appurtenances, or either of such railways, with its franchises or appurtenances, or any part or parts thereof, and the owners of each of the said railways and their franchises and appurtenances, are hereby authorized and empowered to sell the same or any part or parts thereof, to said Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company.

Sec. 2. That in case the said railways with their franchises and appurtenances, or either thereof, or any part or parts thereof, shall be purchased by the said Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company, the aggregate amount of bonds which may be issued by said Houston & Texas Central Railroad Company shall be increased by the value of such railways and franchises and appurtenances so purchased, or the part or parts thereof purchased by said railroad company, as such value has been or shall be ascertained and determined by the railroad commission of the State of Texas under the provisions of the act of the Legislature of the State of Texas entitled "An act to define franchises; to make public the value of railroads; to make effective Section 6, Article 12, of the Constitution of the State of Texas; to declare the effect of judicial and other sales of railroads; to limit the amount of stocks and bonds and other indebtedness that may be issued by railroad companies, and to regulate the manner of issuing, registering and securing the same; to prescribe penalties for violating the provisions of this act, and to prescribe the duties of the railroad commission and the attorney-general in relation thereto," approved April 8th, 1893, and any amendments made or which may be made thereto, but not otherwise.

Sec. 3. That this act shall not become binding, nor shall any such purchase or purchases be valid until the agreement in writing evidencing such purchase or purchases shall have been filed in the office of the secretary of state, which agreement, when so filed, shall be deemed and taken as conclusive evidence of the acceptance of the terms, provisions, and conditions of this act by the corporations and persons executing the same.

Sec. 4. That all and singular the railways and their franchises and appurtenances so sold shall be bound and liable upon and after any such sale to the same extent that each is now bound or liable, and no debt or claim against the owners of any of the properties, franchises and appurtenances so sold, or said properties, whether arising upon contract or from tort or otherwise, shall be in a [any] way affected or impaired by such sale, and any claim, suit or action of any character whatsoever by or against either of the owners of said properties so sold before such sale thereof, shall or may be prosecuted after any such sale in the same manner and to the same effect, and enforced in the same way, as if no such sale had been effected.

Sec. 5. That after any such purchase the said Houston & Texas Central railroad company shall embrace such properties purchased by it and the operations thereof in the reports required to be made to the railroad commission of Texas or to any other officer or department of the government of that State by railroad companies and persons operating railroads, and the former owners of such properties so sold shall not be required to make reports in respect thereof.

Sec. 6. That the near approach of the close of this session and the large amount of business remaining to be disposed of before final adjournment, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency which authorizes the suspension of the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and such rule is hereby suspended.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the fourteenth day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. An Act to transfer to the general revenue account the unexpended balance of the United States direct tax fund remaining in the State Treasury on the second day of March, 1897; the same to be used in the payment of the current expenses of the State government.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the unexpended balance in the State treasury on the second day of March, 1897, to the credit of the United States direct tax fund, except so much thereof as may be necessary to pay any outstanding warrants against said fund unrepresented on the said 2nd day of March, 1897, and also excepting any and all valid claims against said fund, legal proofs of which said claims are on said 2nd day of March, 1897, on file in the comptroller's office, be and the same is hereby transferred to the general revenue account, to be used in payment of the current expenses of the State government; provided, that the comptroller be required to issue his warrant against the direct tax fund for all valid claims for penalty, interest and costs, heretofore filed, or that may have been filed and approved by him on or before March 2nd, 1897.

Sec. 2. That the comptroller of public accounts shall, on the said 2nd day of March, 1897, make such entries on the books of his department as will show the transfer directed in section 1 of this act and shall notify the State treasurer of said transfer.

Sec. 3. Whereas, the provisions of this act will place in the State treasury to the credit of the general revenue account additional funds necessary for the current expenses of the State government; therefore, an emergency exists that the constitutional rule requiring this bill to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 112, nays 1; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays none, and Senate amendment concurred in, vote not given.]

CHAPTER 170.

An Act to create a Judicial District in Harris County additional to the Eleventh Judicial District existing therein, to be the Fifty-fifth Judicial District; to establish a Court and provide for a Judge and Clerk of such new district; and to regulate the venue of the Courts of said respective districts and the disposition of business therein, and define the jurisdictional boundaries and terms thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the county of Harris shall compose, in addition to the Eleventh Judicial District now existing by law and continued in force, the Fifty-fifth Judicial District as well; and the jurisdiction of the district courts in and for said Eleventh and said Fifty-fifth Judicial Districts shall be concurrent and co-extensive with the limits of said Harris county.

Sec. 2. That the terms of the district court of said Eleventh Judicial District shall be begun and holden as now provided by law, to-wit, in said Harris county on the first Monday in February, April, June, October and December of each and every year, and may continue in session until the business of the court is disposed of.

Sec. 3. The terms of the district court of said Fifty-fifth Judicial District shall be begun and holden in said county of Harris on the first Monday in January, March, May, September, and November of each and every year, and may continue in session until the business of the court is disposed of.

Sec. 4. The judges of each and both of said courts shall be elected at the times and in the manner provided by law, by the qualified voters of Harris county; but the judge of the district court of the Eleventh Judicial District shall continue as judge thereof, holding his office as provided by law with the tenure thereof unaffected by this act; and immediately after this act shall become law, the governor shall appoint a judge of the Fifty-fifth Judicial District, having the necessary qualifications, who shall hold his office under such appointment until the next general election, and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified.

Sec. 5. Immediately upon the taking effect of this act, the cases upon the docket of the said Eleventh Judicial District shall be divided between that court and the court of the Fifty-fifth Judicial District, as equally as may be, by transferring every alternate case to the court of the Fifty-fifth Judicial District, leaving the first undisposed of case oldest in number in the court of the Eleventh Judicial District; and thereafter, in subsequent suits or actions or proceedings, it shall be sufficient in every instance for the address or designation to be merely the district court of Harris county, and the clerk of said courts shall file and docket the even numbers thereof in the court of the Eleventh Judicial District, and the odd numbers thereof in the court of the Fifty-fifth Judicial District; but any case pending in said courts may, in the discretion of the respective judges thereof, be transferred from one of said district courts to the other, and so from time to time; and in case of the disqualification of the judge of either of said courts in any case, such case, on his suggestion of disqualification, shall stand transferred to the other of said courts, and be docketed by the clerk accordingly.

Sec. 6. In order to expedite the dispatch of business, a term of the court of the said Fifty-fifth Judicial District may be begun and holden on the first Monday after the appointment and qualification of the judge thereof, at which term juries may be drawn for the ensuing regular term, non-jury cases tried by consent of the parties, and all necessary preliminary proceedings and interlocutory orders had and made, conducive to the prompt dispatch of business at the ensuing regular terms.

Sec. 7. The clerk of the district court of the Eleventh Judicial District shall perform the duties of clerk of the district court of the Fifty-fifth Judicial District; and in case of vacancy in said office of clerk, the same shall be filled by appointment of the judge of the Eleventh Judicial District.

Sec. 8. All writs and process heretofore issued or that may hereafter be issued up to the time this act shall take effect, which are made returnable to the district court of the Eleventh Judicial District, shall be returnable to the court in which the cause may remain or to which it may be transferred, in like manner as if originally made returnable to said court, and all such writs and process are hereby legalized and validated.

Sec. 9. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 10. That the crowded condition of the docket of the district court of the Eleventh Judicial District, whereby great delay, hardship and expense are entailed upon the litigants and taxpayers of Harris county, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the constitutional rule for bills to be read on three several days to be suspended, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the fourteenth day of May, A. JOINT RESOLUTION.

To Amend Article 8 of the Constitution of Texas, so as to permit the formation of irrigation districts in West Texas.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto Section 20, as follows:

Section 20. In addition to the powers of taxation granted in the foregoing sections, it shall be lawful for the land owners of certain portions of Texas, as hereinafter provided, to organize within that section of Texas which lies west, northwest and southwest of the following counties, viz: Montague, Wise, Parker, Hood, Somervell, Bosque, Coryell, Bell, Williamson, Travis, Blanco, Gillespie, Comal, Caldwell, Gonzales, De Witt, Goliad, Victoria and Calhoun, irrigation districts without regard to county lines. In making provision for the cost of construction of irrigation works within said territory it shall be lawful to create an indebtedness of not exceeding fifteen dollars per acre to rest as a charge on and be secured by a lien on the irrigable land for the use and benefit of which said irrigation works have been or may be constructed. Within the term, cost of construction, shall be included the cost of riparian rights, dam sites and reservoirs, rights of way for canal and laterals, and other appurtenant expenses of the construction of irrigation plants. In case of destruction of the works, or any part thereof, the repair or rebuilding of the same shall be construed to be within the meaning of construction. To cover the cost of construction as above defined, bonds may be issued by such irrigation districts to run in time for forty years or less, and to bear interest at the rate of not more than six per cent per annum, interest payable annually, which bonds shall be sold at not less than par. The bonds shall be liquidated by the levy and collection of a tax upon the irrigable lands within such irrigation districts susceptible of irrigation from and by the system of irrigation works proposed. Such land shall be taxed in proportion to acreage and not in proportion to its value. An annual tax shall be levied and collected on such irrigable lands sufficient to pay the interest of said bonds and to create a sinking fund sufficient to liquidate the bonds above authorized. In addition to the tax above provided for, there shall be annually levied and collected a sufficient tax from the lands actually receiving the water for irrigation of a sufficient amount to cover the ordinary cost of the maintenance of the irrigation works, the distribution of the water and appurtenant charges and the collection of said tax. This charge shall be upon a basis of the amount of water contracted for; provided that this shall not interfere with the right of any land owner to demand his proportionate part of the water on the basis of acreage. The taxes above provided for shall when assessed, be secured by lien on the land as now provided by the general law for the security of State taxes, and when delinquent, shall be enforced as now provided by general law for the collection of delinquent State taxes, but the lien securing the same shall be subordinate to the lien securing the payment of State, county and municipal taxes.

None of the foregoing provisions of this amendment shall ever be construed to give authority to create a lien on or tax in any manner any lands so long as they shall belong to the State; nor after sale thereof shall any charge ever be created thereon which shall take precedence over the liens securing the balance of the purchase money due the State.

The indebtedness for the construction of irrigation works authorized under the provisions of this amendment shall be created only upon a vote of a majority of the land owners resident in the district proposed to be organized and whose lands are susceptible of irrigation from and by the system of irrigation works proposed; only qualified voters under the existing laws of Texas, being such owners of rural lands, within such districts, shall have the right to vote as aforesaid.

Any natural or artificial person having an interest in any of the irrigable lands in any such irrigation district shall have the right at any time within ninety days after the vote authorized has been declared, and not thereafter, to file a proceeding in any court having jurisdiction to test the validity of the formation of said district, the classification of the land as irrigable lands, or other details thereof. Such proceedings shall have precedence through all the courts as now provided by law in quo warranto suits.

Irrigation districts organized under the provisions of this amendment are hereby declared to be bodies corporate, and in the name of the districts they shall have the right to sue and be sued, and may acquire by purchase or condemnation proceedings as now authorized by law in the case of irrigation corporations all the property necessary for its organization, operation and existence, and may buy in under foreclosure of its taxes any property, but the property bought in at tax sales shall be held and disposed of as hereafter provided by law.

All bonds issued under the provisions of this amendment shall be passed upon and certified to by the Attorney General of the State of Texas, as now required by law in the case of county and city bonds. When approved by the Attorney General said bonds shall be registered by the Comptroller of the State, as now required by law in the case of county and city bonds, and when so registered shall be entitled to all the faith and confidence now prescribed by law in the case of county and city bonds.

To the end that this amendment may be put into immediate operation upon its adoption by the people, it is provided that until otherwise provided by law the Governor of the State, the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and the Attorney General of the State, are hereby created a board and vested with complete power and authority to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary to put into immediate practical operation this amendment to the Constitution and that may be necessary to enable irrigation districts to organize and operate under the provisions of this amendment. And to that end, until otherwise provided by law, said board shall have the power and authority in making said rules as complete as the Legislature of the State of Texas now have to enact laws. The rules, when adopted by said board, shall be filed with the Secretary of State, and when so filed shall remain in full force and effect until changed or modified by some other rule made by the said board on file in the office of the Secretary of State, or until the same are changed by general law. Said rules shall be printed under the direction of the Secretary of State, and a certified copy thereof shall be fur-

S. C. R. No. 15.] CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Tendering thanks of the people of Texas to the Honorable Swante Palm for donation of his library to the State University.

Whereas, The Honorable Swante Palm, a distinguished citizen of Austin, and the consular representative of His Majesty, the King of Sweden, at the Texas capital, has manifested his patriotic and generous interest in the intellectual development of the youth of the State, by making to the Texas State University, a free donation of his magnificent library, consisting of rare volumes, valuable manuscripts, and costly works of art; and,

Whereas, it is appropriate that, as an inadequate, but sincere recognition of this splendid gift, the Legislature of this State, representing the whole people, should give formal expression of the people's gratitude to the Honorable Swante Palm; therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate of the State of Texas, the House concurring: That the people of the State of Texas, without regard to political sentiment, and each constituency speaking through its Senator, and member or members of the House of Representatives, hereby tender to the Honorable Swante Palm, their profound thanks for his splendid gift.

Resolved, that an enrolled copy of this Concurrent Resolution, signed in autograph by the President and Secretary of the Senate, and the Speaker and Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, and countersigned by the Governor and Secretary of State, and bearing the impress of the seal of the State, be presented to the Honorable Swante Palm, by a joint committee of two Senators, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and three Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

H. C. R. No. 7.] CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Empowering the Governor of Texas to call a Cotton Growers' Convention, and inviting delegates from all Cotton growing States.

Whereas, the cotton industry of the South is a most important agricultural product of the United States, and in volume more than sixty-five per cent of the world's product of cotton; and the condition of this great industry, being now depressed by speculators who control and reduce the price, in their own interest, by the following methods, among others:

By offering for sale fictitious cotton called, "futures," at prices uniformly less than the current spot cotton market, which sales or fictitious cotton or contracts to deliver cotton at a future time at lower prices than the actual spot cotton prices, and in which speculators do not intend, and are not compelled to deliver actual cotton, but uniformly pay or receive the monetary difference in the price of futures and spot cotton at the expiration of the contract of delivery; these contracts being cheaper, induce mill men and consumers of the raw material, who heretofore competed in the spot cotton sales, to withdraw from the market, thus fostering a condition which takes from the cotton market the actual purchaser, destroys legitimate market demand and competition, and leaves the cotton product at the mercy of dictated prices. By flooding the market reports of actual sales of spot cotton with five to ten times the volume of fictitious sales at lower figures, thus producing a constant decrease in the price of real cotton. By operating a gambling enterprise known as the "New York Future Board," in which fictitious cotton is offered for sale in the market at prices sufficiently reduced below spot cotton prices to invite investment, and wherein the said investments are virtually confiscated by arbitrary changes in said quotations, whereby the country is drained of enormous sums of money, and the cotton market fluctuated for gambling purposes, to the great detriment of legitimate trade; thus producing the decline in the price of cotton as observed in our markets since the organization of the New York Cotton Exchange and its "Futures Board;" and

Whereas, The price of labor necessary to raise and market a given quantity of cotton, in comparison with the price of labor necessary to manufacture and market the same quantity of cotton is of the ratio of two to three, and under legitimate conditions of trade, and estimates most favorable to manufactures, raw cotton should sell for not less than fifty per cent of the manufactured articles, yet the situation is such that the price of cotton has been so depressed by speculation and market gambling until manufactured goods sell for prices from four hundred to fourteen hundred per cent more than the material that composes such goods, and a vast wealth that should be distributed among its producers is annually confiscated by the unbridled greed of speculators; and

Whereas, The history of cotton production shows that the world's demand has increased at a greater ratio than the world's supply, and as measured by the surplus on hand at the end of each cotton season, the surplus has grown less for more than twenty years, proving the falsity of the cry of over-production, as proclaimed by speculators, and revealing facts that under proper conditions would have made prices steady, and improved during that time; and

Whereas, These and other conditions make it necessary that legislation be contrived and enacted to relieve cotton producers from these oppressive, unjust and ruinous conditions:

Therefore, be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That Governor C. A. Culberson be, and he is hereby empowered to call a legislative convention of the cotton growing States, to meet at Galveston, on the 2nd day of August, 1897, for the purpose of devising and recommending concurrent legislation in the cotton growing States, to the end that this important industry may be relieved from the speculative and gambling influence that oppresses it, and that unlawful interference with the cotton trade be suppressed.

Be it further resolved, That the Governor of Texas appoint from each congressional district in Texas, a representative to said convention, who is versed in the industrial conditions of our State, and two from the State at large, and that his excellency forward copies of this resolution to the respective governors of our cotton growing States, with the request that such governor appoint delegates from the congressional districts of their States to said convention.

Approved, March 20, 1897.

Whereas, a board of engineers, appointed under an act of Congress, have reported that the opening of a harbor at the mouth of the Brazos River is feasible, and that there are valid commercial reasons that justify the general government in undertaking the work, therefore:

Favoring national aid to the Afro-American Fair and Inter-State Exposition Co.

Whereas, there has been projected and permanently organized and incorporated the worthy institution known as the "Afro-American Fair and Inter-State Exposition Co.," the object of which is the encouragement of the education, the advancement in the arts, sciences and general husbandry of the Afro-Americans residing in the United States, and,

Whereas, the same being of national importance, looking toward the elevation and improvement of said race, now, therefore,

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Texas, the Senate concurring, That the said Afro-American Fair and Inter-State Exposition is worthy of the aid and support of the citizens of the State of Texas and of the United States, and that the same should be encouraged to that extent as will guarantee the permanent and successful operation of the same. That the same being in its character of great national importance should be aided by national legislation and appropriation to such a degree as will assure its success and permanency.

Be it further resolved, That while the organic law of our State forbids appropriations to individuals or corporations for the purposes for which the Afro-American Fair and Inter-State Exposition is organized, yet we recognize its great usefulness, and commend to the people of the State and nation this worthy undertaking.

Whereas, two spaces in the Hall of Statuary in the national capitol at Washington have been allotted to each State in the Union by act of Congress, for the purpose of doing honor to the illustrious dead of each State; and

Whereas, both of the spaces so allotted to the State of Texas are yet unoccupied; and

Whereas, at a previous day of the present session of the Legislature, House Joint Resolution No. 7, being entitled "A Joint Resolution ratifying and confirming the action of the attorneys representing the State of Texas is compromising its claim to its University lands in McLennan County, Texas," was introduced and passed both the House of Representatives and the Senate, and has received the signature of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and has been presented to the Governor for his signature, and whereas, by mistake the said resolution was not presented to the President of the Senate for his signature and was not signed by him as required by the Constitution of Texas:

Whereas, in signing of enrolled House Bills, No. 381, and No. 443, the name of the Speaker was accidentally omitted from one and the name of the Chief Clerk from the other, which omissions were not discovered until after said bills had been delivered to the Governor:

Therefore, be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That the Governor be and [is] hereby respectively [respectfully] requested to return said bills to the House that the omitted signatures may be placed thereon as the law requires.

H. J. R. No. 7.] JOINT RESOLUTION.

Ratifying and confirming the action of the attorneys representing the State of Texas in compromising its claim to its University lands in McLennan County, Texas.

Whereas, the 16th Legislature of the State of Texas, at its regular session in 1879, passed a joint resolution authorizing and directing the Attorney General to institute and prosecute such legal proceedings as might be necessary to establish the title of the State to its University lands in McLennan and Hill counties, and to remove all clouds upon said title; and

Whereas, The Seventeenth Legislature, at its regular session in 1881, passed an act to provide for the protection of the State to the University lands in McLennan and Hill counties, and authorized the Governor and Attorney General to employ competent counsel to defend the title of the State to said lands; and

Whereas, In pursuance of said resolution and act, the Governor and Attorney General employed counsel who instituted suit in the Nineteenth Judicial District Court of McLennan County, Texas, to recover of Jennie Lewis and a number of others, defendants therein named, fourteen thousand acres of land lying in McLennan County, Texas; and

Whereas, The State's said attorneys compromised said suit with said defendants, whereby the State reclaimed 6533 acres of the said lands for its entire interest in the same, entered by decree of the court in said cause, and the said defendants were given 7022 acres by the terms of the same decree; and

Whereas, The Appellate Courts of our State have held that the State's said attorneys exceeded their authority in making said compromise, and that the same did not affect the title of the State to its said lands; therefore,

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the said compromise made by the said attorneys for the State in said cause, be, and the same is hereby in all things ratified and confirmed.

Sec. 2. That the litigation now being instituted and threatened to be instituted by parties claiming an interest in said lands, causing the people on said lands unnecessary costs and useless expense, creates a public necessity requiring the constitutional rule for bills to be read on three several days to be suspended, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

S. C. R. No. 20.] CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Relating to deep water, good harbors, and an open sea, etc.

The fact that deep water, good harbors, and an open sea, now exists at several places on the coast of Texas, and the great difference in distance as compared from our seacoast to that from the far off Atlantic coast to the States mentioned in the said concurrent resolution of the Kansas legislature, making it a forced and unnatural proceeding to carry the immense surplus of agricultural, mineral and manufactured products fifteen hundred miles further to find ships' bottoms, that they may be transmitted to the other countries of the world, thus denying an outlet to large quantities of such products, the cost of transporting being more than their market value; therefore, be it

Resolved, first, by the Senate of the State of Texas, the House of Representatives concurring therein: That we heartily endorse the resolutions of the Kansas legislature in so far as they may lead to the conference mentioned of delegates from the several States, and we would recommend that an invitation be extended to other States west of the Mississippi river to participate in the conference by sending representatives thereto.

Resolved, second: That his excellency, Gov. Culberson, when he is informed of the appointment of delegates from the other States and Territories mentioned to such a conference, to appoint an equal number of our citizens to meet such delegates, who are hereby empowered to present such a report to the next legislature as may enable that body to intelligently deal with the subject of a low rate of freights from all the territory of this vast western region to our seaboard.

To amend Section 3 (three), of Article XI (11), of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to authorize certain counties to give aid in the construction of railways.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Section 3, of Article XI, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended so that the same shall hereafter read as follows:

Section 3. No county, city or other municipal corporation shall hereafter become a subscriber to the capital of any corporation or association, or make any appropriation or donation to the same, or in any wise loan its credit, except as hereinafter provided.

It shall be lawful for any county in this State lying south of the counties of Jeff Davis, Reeves, Ward, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Sterling, Coke and Runnels, and south and west of the Colorado river; also, all those counties west of Hardeman, Knox and Haskell, and north of Fisher, Scurry, Borden, Dawson and Gaines; also, the counties of Matagorda and Brazoria, to give aid, by and through its commissioners' court, by the issue of bonds of such county, or other evidences of indebtedness, in the construction of a standard guage railway or railways into, through or across any such county, when, by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters of any such county, voting at an election held for that purpose, such aid authorized.

Provided, however, that no such aid as is hereinbefore authorized and provided for shall ever be given or paid to any railroad company, or in aid of any such railway construction, except in proportion to and for such railway or part thereof as shall have been completely constructed and equipped within any such county. And special authority and power is hereby given the commissioners' court of any county within the territory herein prescribed, wherein such aid may be authorized, to levy and collect an annual tax, in addition to any other tax authorized by this Constitution, upon all property in such county subject to taxation, to pay interest on and to create a sinking fund to meet said bonds or other indebtedness created for such purpose; provided, that the aggregate of such tax, in any county, shall never in any one year exceed two per centum upon the assessed valuation of the property in such county.

Full power is hereby given to said commissioners' court of any such county, and it is hereby made its duty, at once, upon the petition thereto of not less than one hundred (100) qualified voters of any such county to at any time order and in all things provide for and regulate such election, and the holding, returns, and determination of the same, and prescribe the form of the ballot to be used.

All bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, issued by any such county under the provisions of this section, shall, before being delivered, negotiated or floated, be approved by the Attorney General of this State, and thereupon the Comptroller of this State shall register the same and endorse the fact of such registry upon said bonds or evidences of indebtedness.

Sec. 2. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for submitting this amendment to the qualified voters of Texas on the first Tuesday in August, 1897; at which election all voters favoring the amendment shall have written or printed on their tickets, "For the Amendment to Section 3, of Article XI, of the Constitution of Texas, authorizing all counties in this State lying south of the counties of Jeff Davis, Reeves, Ward, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Sterling, Coke and Runnels, and south and west of the Colorado river; also, all those counties west of Hardeman, Knox and Haskell, and north of Fisher, Scurry, Borden, Dawson and Gaines; also the counties of Matagorda and Brazoria, to give aid in the construction of railroads by the issuance of bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, when authorized thereto by a majority vote of any such county;" and those opposed to said amendment shall have written or printed on their tickets, "Against the Amendment to Section 3, of Article XI, of the Constitution of Texas, authorizing all counties in this State lying south of the counties of Jeff Davis, Reeves, Ward, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Sterling, Coke and Runnels, and south and west of the Colorado river; also, all those counties west of Hardeman, Knox and Haskell, and north of Fisher, Scurry, Borden, Dawson and Gaines; also, the counties of Matagorda and Brazoria, to give aid in the construction of railroads, by the issuance of bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, when authorized thereto by a majority vote of any such county."

The certificate of the Chief Clerk of the House does not give the vote on passage of this joint resolution, or on adoption or the free conference report.]

[Note.—The foregoing joint resolution was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Tuesday, the sixth day of April, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated, with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. JOINT RESOLUTION.

To amend Article XI, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, by adding thereto Section 11.

Whereas, the laws of the State of Texas authorize the several counties in this State, through their commissioners' court, to issue bonds for the erection of court houses and jails, and the construction and purchase of bridges; and

Whereas, the statutes of the State of Texas authorize the board of education of said State to invest the permanent school fund thereof in bonds issued for the purposes aforesaid by the said counties; and

Whereas, the board of education of this State, in pursuance of said statutory authority, has purchased as an investment for the permanent school fund of the State of Texas, bonds approximating three million dollars; and

Whereas, the Constitution of the State of Texas provides that no debt for any purpose shall ever be incurred in any manner for any city or county unless provision is made at the time of its creation for the levying and collecting of a sufficient tax to pay the interest thereon, and provide at least two per cent. as a sinking fund; and

Whereas, it is believed that some of the bonds so purchased by the State board of education as an investment for the permanent school fund were not issued in conformity with that provision of the Constitution, and it is doubtful whether proper provision was made at the time of the attempted creation of said debt, evidenced by said bonds, for the levy of a tax to secure the payment of interest and the creation of a sinking fund, and that some of said bonds may therefore be held invalid by the courts;

Therefore, Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article XI, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended by adding thereto the following, which shall be denominated "Section 11."

Section 11. That all bonds heretofore issued by the several counties of Texas for the purpose of the erection of court houses and jails, and for the purchase or construction of bridges, and that have been purchased by the proper authorities of the State of Texas as an investment for the permanent school fund of said State, and that at the time of the creation of said debt, evidenced by said bonds, the provision for the levy of a tax for the payment of the interest and the creation of a sinking fund was not made, shall not be for that reason held to be invalid; but said bonds are hereby validated, and are hereby made valid debts against the several counties by which they were issued.

Be it further resolved: That this amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State of Texas on the first Tuesday in August, 1897, at which election all voters favoring said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words, "For the amendment of Article XI, of the Constitution, validating bonds held by the State as an investment for the permanent school fund;" and all voters opposing said amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words, "Against the amendment to Article XI, of the Constitution, validating bonds held by the State as an investment for the permanent school fund."

And that the governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election, and have same published as required by the Constitution and existing laws of the State.

Approved, April 22, 1897.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That said W. M. Allison be and he is hereby granted a leave of absence from the State of Texas for the period of sixty days.

Sec. 2. The near approach of the close of the session, and the crowded condition of the calendar, create an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills and resolutions to be read on three several days be and the same is hereby suspended, and that this resolution be in effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, May 22, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing joint resolution passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays none; and passed the House, vote not given.]

H. C. R. No. 34.] CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Authorizing and directing the State Printing Board to contract for a reprint of such appellate court reports as are now out of print, and also such as may hereafter become out of print, or nearly so; and providing certain conditions and limitations in relation to such contract, and the manner of letting the same.

Whereas, many of the volumes of the Supreme Court reports of the State of Texas are now out of print, and the State's supply therefor has been exhausted; and

Whereas, many other volumes of said reports are now nearly exhausted, and doubtless will be entirely so at no very distant time; and

Whereas, other volumes of which a sufficient supply is now on hand are likely to become insufficient to supply the demand therefor; and

Whereas, the State owns and has on hand the stereotyped plates for many of said volumes; and will have others; and

Whereas, the State Printing Board is without authority to contract for a reprint of said reports; therefore,

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, that the State Printing Board be and the same is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to make such contract or contracts as may be necessary to secure a reprint of such of said reports as are now exhausted, or nearly so, and such as may hereafter become exhausted, or nearly so; provided, that the reprinting of said reports shall be done without cost to the State; and provided, further, that such contract or contracts shall stipulate that the State and the publisher or publishers of said reports shall sell the same at the same price, such price not to exceed the sum of two dollars ($2.00) per volume, and such volume to be printed and bound in style equally as good as the current numbers of said reports; and provided, further, that this resolution shall also apply to the Courts of Civil Appeals reports and the Court of Criminal Appeals reports, should said Board find a reprint thereof advisable and necessary; and provided, further, that such contract shall be let to the best bidder after such publication for bids therefor as the said Board may think proper, and shall require that said reports be printed within this State.

Approved, May 22, 1897.

And also grant aid to the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law; provided, the grant to aid said home shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars for any one year; and no inmate of said home shall be entitled to any other aid from the State; and provided, further, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed to prevent the grant of aid in case of public calamity.

Sec. 2. This amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State on the first Tuesday in November, 1898; when those favoring the amendment shall have written or printed on their ballots, "For the amendment to Section 51, of Article 3, of the State Constitution." taxes by said city, to report to the city council an estimate of such surplus for the year for which taxes are to be levied.

Section 99h. The treasurer of the city of Austin is hereby made the ex officio treasurer of the water, light and power commission of the city of Austin, and as such treasurer of said commission, he shall give bond, payable to the city of Austin, and subject to the approval of the commission, in a sum to be fixed by the said commission, and not less than twenty-five thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of all duties devolving upon him as such treasurer of said commission; any guaranty company having complied with the provisions of the laws of Texas in that respect may become surety upon such bond.

Section 99k. That it shall be unlawful for any commissioner to be interested either directly or indirectly in any contract or transaction by said commission with any person or persons, or in the purchase of any material or supplies made by said commission.

Section 99l. If any person shall willfully do or cause to be done any act whereby any work, material or property whatever, erected within or without the city of Austin, or used by the board or by any person acting under its authority for the purpose of securing or keeping a supply of water, light, or power, shall be injured, or shall willfully throw or place, or cause to be thrown or placed, any carcass of any dead animal or person, or any other deleterious or filthy substance whatever in any reservoir, pipe or aqueduct of said system through which water for public or private use is conveyed, or shall throw or place, or cause to be thrown or placed in the Colorado river or any of its branches any such substance above the city dam across the Colorado river within the city limits, or willfully do or cause to be done any act to pollute said water, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars and not exceeding two hundred dollars.

Section 99m. That if any person without the written consent of the commission, or of its agent duly thereunto authorized, shall perforate, bore, or cause to be perforated or bored, any distributing pipe, main or aqueduct, or cut, remove or otherwise injure any wire or pole or attachment to either, or shall willfully injure any reservoir or other appliances or machinery used as a part of or in connection with said water, light, and power plant or system, or make or cause to be made any connections with the said pipe, aqueduct or works or appliances without such written authority previously obtained, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than two hundred dollars.

Section 99n. No prosecution herein provided for shall preclude the commission from recovering damages in any civil action.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws which are in conflict with this act, be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that the proper management of the water, light, and power system of the city of Austin requires the immediate passage of a law providing therefor, creates an imperative public necessity and an emergency which necessitates the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, which said rule is accordingly suspended, and said emergency requiring that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, it is so enacted that it be in force from and after its passage.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 90, nays none; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 26, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Saturday, the thirteenth day of February, A. Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the Charter of the City of Galveston be and the same is hereby amended by adding thereto Section 73c, as follows, to-wit:

Section 73c. The city council shall have power to grant rights of way to railroads or depot companies for tracks on Strand street or Avenue B, on any part thereof west of Bath avenue or Twenty-fifth street.

The action of the city council of the said city in granting certain rights to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway company on Strand street or Avenue B, and the right to close and occupy, for depot purposes, a certain portion of Twenty-sixth street, which said rights were granted by the city council of the said city to said company by an ordinance passed January 30, 1896, entitled:

"An ordinance repealing section 4 of the ordinance passed August 17, 1885, entitled 'Grant to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway company,' the same being printed as chapter 45, revised ordinances, published by the city in 1893, and repealing section 3 of the ordinance of February 7, 1891, entitled 'Grant to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway company,' the same being printed as chapter 48 of the revised ordinances published by the city in 1893, and granting to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway company the right to extend two side-tracks from its present track on Strand street, between Twenty-seventh street to Block 686, and granting to the said railway company the exclusive use of a part of Twenty-sixth street," and which said ordinance was amended by an ordinance passed February 17, 1896, entitled:

"An ordinance amending section 6 of the ordinance passed January 30, 1896, entitled 'An ordinance repealing section 4 of the ordinance passed August 17, 1885, entitled 'Grant to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company,' the same being printed as chapter 45, revised ordinances, published by the city in 1893; and repealing section 3 of the ordinance of February 7, 1891, entitled, 'Grant to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company,' the same being printed as chapter 48 of the revised ordinances published by the city in 1893, and granting to the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway Company the right to extend two side-tracks from its present track on Strand street across Twenty-seventh street to block 686, and granting exclusive use of a part of Twenty-sixth street," is hereby validated, sanctioned and confirmed to the same extent as though the same had been theretofore expressly authorized by the legislature of the State of Texas, and the rights of the said railway company thereunder are hereby sanctioned, validated and confirmed to the full extent as provided in said ordinances. And the said city council are empowered, if it shall deem the same proper, to extend the time in which said railway company or its assigns is required by said ordinances to construct or complete the union depot referred to in said ordinances.

Sec. 2. The fact that it is necessary to authorize the city council to grant the right to construct additional tracks on Strand street to properly utilize the union depot about to be built in the city of Galveston, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days should be suspended, and are so suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 100, nays 7; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 25, nays none.]

W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

H. B. No. 254.]

CHAPTER 3.

An Act to amend Sections 4 and 18 and 19, of an act entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Waco, and to define its boundaries."

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Sections 4 and 18 and 19 of the above entitled act be, and the same are hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 4. The municipal government of the city shall consist of a city council composed of the mayor and two aldermen from each ward, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, except at call meetings for the imposition of taxes, when two-thirds of a full board shall be required unless herein otherwise specified. The other officers of the corporation shall be an assessor and collector of taxes, a secretary, a city attorney, a marshal, a city engineer, and such other officers and agents as the city council may from time to time direct; provided, that the offices of assessor and collector, city attorney, and city engineer may be dispensed with by an ordinance of the city council, and the powers and duties herein prescribed for such officers may be conferred by said council upon other officers; and provided further, the custodian of the funds of the city shall be any person selected by vote of the majority of the city council to act in such capacity, and to be known as "City Treasurer." Such treasurer shall act by virtue of his appointment for a term of two years, and until a successor is appointed, unless removed by vote of two-thirds of the city council, for reasons deemed by said city council to be good and sufficient, which reasons shall be spread at length upon the minutes of said city council. Said city treasurer shall be required to take an oath of office, and it shall be the duty of the city council to award the custody of the funds of the city to the highest and best bidder for such privilege, they being the judges of what is highest and best.

The above named officers (except the city treasurer, who shall not be considered within the meaning of this act an officer), shall be elected by the qualified electors of said city as hereinafter provided, and shall hold their offices for two years and until the election and qualification of their successors; provided, also, that at the first election for aldermen in any new ward defined by the city council, there shall be two aldermen elected; the one receiving the highest number of votes shall hold for two years, and the one receiving the next highest number of votes shall hold for one year, and thereafter one alderman shall be elected at each annual election for two years, as in the wards now existing in said city, and at each annual election hereafter there shall be elected one alderman from each ward in said city as at present, who shall hold for two years.

Sec. 18. The city treasurer shall give bond in favor of the city with sufficient security to be approved by the city council, in any amount required by the city council, such bond in any event to be not less than seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars, and to be conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of city treasurer.

The city treasurer shall receive and securely keep all moneys belonging to the city, and shall make all payments for the same, upon the order of the mayor attested by the secretary under the seal of the corporation; provided, that no order shall be paid unless the said order shall show upon its face that the city council has directed its issuance and show for what purpose it was issued.

The said city treasurer shall render to the city council a full and correct statement of the receipts and disbursements of the money of said city, showing the status of each fund, at the first regular meeting of the city council for each quarter, and whensoever at other times the said city council may require such statement. At the end of every half year the city treasurer shall cause to be published at the expense of the city a statement showing the amount of receipts and expenditures for the six months next preceding, and the general condition of the city finances. The city treasurer shall also do and perform such other acts and duties as the city council may require, and shall receive no compensation.

Sec. 19. The assessor and collector shall make up the assessment of all property taxed by the city, and make duplicate rolls thereof, and on completion of the rolls shall deliver one of them to the city secretary. He shall collect all taxes due the city, and in the event of non-payment of any taxes, shall proceed to sell property to raise the amount of taxes so due, and shall in the performance of his duties observe the provisions of this act and the ordinances of the city relating thereto. He shall give bond in such amount and in such form as the city council may prescribe, with good and sufficient sureties, and the city council may require a new bond whenever in their opinion the existing bond is insufficient, and whenever such bond is required he shall perform no official act until said bond shall be given and approved. He shall, at the expiration of every week, pay to the city treasurer all money by him collected, and shall report to the city council at the first meeting in every month all money so collected and paid; and he shall perform all such other duties and in such manner and according to such rules and regulations as the city council may prescribe. The assessor and collector is authorized to require the owners of all property subject to taxation to render a correct account of the same under oath, to be administered by him. The assessor and collector shall receive such fees and commissions for his services as may be allowed by the ordinances of the city. ,

Sec. 2. The fact that under the present charter and laws of the city of Waco a city treasurer is required to be elected in April, 1897, and the purposes of this act being to abolish such election by the people, of said city treasurer, and to prevent such election, and to empower the city council to appoint such treasurer, creates the case of imperative public necessity which authorizes and requires the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended; and the same facts create an emergency that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House, vote not given; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 25, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Wednesday, the third day of March, A. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

That each and every person or firm engaged in the following professions, callings and business among others, shall be liable to pay such tax, but this enumeration shall not be considered to deprive the city council of the right and power to levy and collect other license or occupation taxes from other persons under the general authority herein granted. Every person or firm engaged in selling goods, wares and merchandise, liquors in quantities less than a quart, or in keeping any grog shop, tippling house, bar room, drinking saloon, or any place where spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, wine or beer are sold in quantities less than a quart; every person or firm keeping a billiard table, ball alley, nine or ten pin alley, or any similar game, or keeping a tavern, hotel or boarding house, restaurant, lunch stand, or place of any kind where refreshments are sold; every person or firm keeping a livery stable, sale stable, feed stable, or wagon yard; every person or firm selling goods, wares or merchandise at public auction, or pursuing the occupation of real estate agent, merchandise or cotton broker, commission merchant or broker of any kind, or hawker or peddler of any goods whatever; every person or firm keeping a storage or warehouse, or intelligence office, or brewery, or beer shop, distillery or fruit stand, or engaged in compressing cotton; every insurance agent, every insurance company, shall pay said tax, and every agent representing any such company which has failed to pay said tax shall be subject to a fine; every telegraph, telephone, electric light, gas, or other such company; every person or firm keeping a lumber, wood or coal yard, or any place for the sale of such articles, or building material of any kind, and all other persons or firms engaged in any profession, occupation, business, avocation or calling, subject to license tax, shall pay on each, and no license tax shall extend to more than one establishment or include more than one avocation, occupation, business or calling.

Sec. 130. The fiscal year of the city of Dallas shall begin and end at 12 o'clock, noon, on the third Monday in April in each year. The council, at the second regular meeting in June of each year, or as soon thereafter as practicable, shall levy the annual tax for such year; but special taxes allowed by this charter may be levied, assessed and collected at such times as the council in each case may provide.

Sec. 131. All persons or corporations owning or holding personal property or real estate in the city of Dallas on the first day of January of each year, shall be liable for all municipal taxes levied thereon for the fiscal year beginning the next following April.

Sec. 132. The personal property of all persons owing any taxes to the city of Dallas is hereby made liable for all of said taxes, whether the same be due upon personal or real property or upon both.

Sec. 133. The city council shall have full power to provide by ordinance for the prompt collection of taxes assessed, levied and imposed, under this charter, and are hereby authorized, and to that end may and shall have full power and authority to sell, or cause to be sold, all kinds of property, real and personal, and may and shall make all such rules and regulations, and ordain and pass all ordinances deemed necessary to the levying, laying, imposing, assessing and collection of any taxes provided for in this charter.

Sec. 134. The city council shall have power to assess the property and shares of corporations, companies, banks, and such other institutions as the same are now or may be assessed by the State law in such cases made and provided, and shall have full power to enforce the collection of such taxes in such manner as by said council may be deemed necessary.

Sec. 135. The city council shall have power by ordinance to regulate the manner and mode of making out tax lists, inventories and appraisements of property therein, and to prescribe the oath that shall be administered to each person on rendition of his property, and prescribe how, when and where property shall be rendered, and prescribe the number and form of assessment rolls, and fix the duties and define the powers of city assessor, and adopt such measures as the council may deem advisable to secure the assessment of all property within the city limits, and collect the tax thereupon, and may provide a fine and imprisonment, or either, for all persons neglecting, failing or refusing to render their property for taxation.

Sec. 136. Every person, partnership, corporation and company owning or controlling property within the limits of the city on or before the first day of April, after published notice, shall render to the city assessor a full and complete inventory of the taxable property possessed or controlled by him, her or them, within said limits, on the first day of January last, verified, as required by ordinance; and any person failing or refusing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be liable to such fine as may be imposed by ordinance; and the city council shall, by ordinance, define the duties of taxpayers, and make all necessary rules and regulations to secure the rendition of property and the collection of taxes due thereon.

Sec. 137. The city assessor shall, at least ten days before the first day of January of each year, give public notice by hand bills circulated through the city and by advertisement in some paper that all persons owning or controlling, as agent or otherwise, any personal property or real estate subject to municipal taxation, are required to render on or before the first day of April of each year. All merchants doing business in the city are required, within the same time, to furnish the assessor a true statement, verified by affidavit, of all goods, wares and merchandise owned or kept on hand by such merchant on the first day of January.

Any merchant failing to comply with this requirement, shall be liable to such fine as may be imposed by ordinance.

Sec. 138. If the assessor shall discover any real or personal property which was subject to taxation for any previous year, and which from any cause has escaped taxation for that year, he shall assess the same in a supplement to his next assessment roll at the same rate under which such property should have been assessed for such year, stating the year, and the taxes thereon shall be collected in the same manner as other assessments; provided, that such supplemental roll shall be made at any time and reported to the city council for its approval, and any number of such rolls may be made that may be necessary. The taxes assessed in such supplemental rolls for years previous to the approval of such rolls, shall be due at once upon the approval of such rolls by the city council, and such taxes shall bear interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum from the date on which the same would have been delinquent if levied and assessed at the time other taxes for such previous year were levied and assessed, and if the same shall not be paid by the expiration of thirty days after the date of such approval, the city collector shall proceed to collect the same by the advertisement and sale of such property as soon as practicable; such advertisement and sale to be made in the same manner and for the same time as in cases of the sale of such property for other city ad valorem taxes as prescribed by the city charter; provided, that a misnomer of, or failure to name the owner in the assessment rolls shall not affect the validity of the assessment of any taxes; and provided, further, that where such taxes have not been attempted to be assessed for such previous year, such taxes shall bear interest only from the date of the approval of the supplemental rolls.

Sec. 139. The assessor shall assess all property which for any cause has not been rendered, placing such valuation thereon as he may deem just. If the owners of such property are unknown, such assessment shall made in the name of unknown.

Sec. 140. No irregularity in the time or manner of making or returning the city assessment rolls, or the approval of such rolls, shall invalidate any assessment.

Sec. 141. Whenever the assessor and party rendering can not agree as to the value of property, it shall be left to a board of appeals to decide the value, and such decision shall be final; said board to be composed of three disinterested freeholders, one to be appointed by the mayor, one by the judge of the Fourteenth and one by the judge of the Forty-fourth Judicial Districts, in January, or as vacancies occur, who shall hold their offices for one year, unless sooner removed by the council. A majority of the members of said board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. Said board shall meet to hear appeals from parties aggrieved, and to regulate and supervise the assessment rolls on the first Monday in April of every year, and shall hold their sessions until all appeals have been heard and determined, and until said assessment rolls have been so regulated and supervised; said board shall not remain in session longer than one hundred and twenty days in any one year, and shall receive for their services a sum to be fixed by the council, not to exceed five dollars per day for the first sixty days and two dollars per day thereafter for each member of said board. The assessor shall give at least five days' notice of such meeting by newspaper publication. The board shall have general supervision over the assessment rolls of the city, and shall have the right to diminish or increase the valuation of any property so as to correspond with the valuation of other similar property, and shall order any error in assessment, or any inequitable assessment, to be changed and corrected. The members of the board shall be sworn by the mayor or any officer qualified to administer oaths, to discharge their duties faithfully. They shall receive for their services such compensation as the city council may direct. Any one aggrieved by error of assessment may complain to the board in writing. No increase in the valuation of property shall be made without notifying the owners thereof by newspaper publication, or in such manner as the city council may provide.

Sec. 142. A lien is hereby created on all property, personal and real, in favor of the city of Dallas, for all taxes, ad valorem, occupation or otherwise. Said lien shall exist from January in each year until the taxes are paid. Said lien shall be prior to all other claims, and no gift, sale, assignment or transfer of any kind, or judicial writ of any kind, can ever defeat such lien, but the city collector can pursue such property, and wherever found, may seize and sell enough thereof to satisfy such taxes.

Sec. 143. If any one against whom a personal tax is assessed, and which is due and unpaid, whether the same be delinquent or not, shall have removed out of the city, or shall be about to remove out of the city, or shall have removed or about to remove his personal property out of the city, it shall be the duty of the collector to proceed at once and collect such taxes by seizure and sale of any personal property of such person, to be found in the city of Dallas, or anywhere in the State of Texas.

Sec. 144. All taxes shall be payable at the city collector's office, and the city council shall have full power to sell, or cause to be sold, all personal and real property for taxes due, and shall make all rules and regulations necessary for such purpose.

Sec. 145. No demand for taxes shall be necessary, but it is hereby made the duty of every person or corporation subject to taxation, to attend at the office of collector some time between the second Monday in June and November the first, in each year, and pay his or her taxes. If any one fails to pay them before the first day of November, the same shall be delinquent, and bear interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum.

Sec. 146. The collector shall, by virtue of his tax rolls, have power and authority to seize and levy upon personal property and real estate, and sell the same to satisfy delinquent taxes. When he seizes personal property for such purposes, he shall keep the same at the expense of the owner until sale is made, and shall give notice of the time and place of sale of same by posting a written notice at the city hall door and one at the court house in the city of Dallas, at least ten days before day of sale. He shall sell the same to the highest bidder for cash for all taxes, interest, cost, and expenses in caring for said property, and shall make an entry in the book of sales of the amount realized.

Sec. 147. Before sales of real estate are made notice of the time and place of sale, together with as near as may be, a description of the property, shall be given, by posting two notices, one at the court house and the other at the city hall in the city of Dallas; also by publication in some newspaper of the city, for at least three weeks, which shall contain a statement of the amount due on each particular piece of ground.

Sec. 148. And finally, the city council shall have full power to do, or cause to be done, everything whatsoever necessary to enforce a prompt assessment and collection of all taxes and assessments provided for in this charter, and to make all regulations necessary for the sale of property for said taxes and assessments.

Sec. 149. The collector shall, where any real estate has been sold for taxes, make and execute a deed to the purchaser of the property sold, which deed shall be prima facie evidence of the following facts:

First. That the lot or lots or property conveyed was or were subject to taxation and assessment at the time of such sale, and at the time taxes thereon were levied and assessed, and that such taxes were regularly levied and assessed in all respects according to law.

Second. That such taxes were not paid in whole or in part at any time before such sale, and that a lien existed on the property conveyed in such deed for such taxes.

Third. That the real estate therein conveyed was advertised according to law.

Fourth. That the property conveyed was regularly and lawfully sold for taxes which were delinquent at the time of the advertisement and sale.

Fifth. When such property shall have been sold to the city of Dallas, or any other purchaser, at such sale, either for general or special taxes, the title acquired by the city, or such purchaser, shall not be disputed by any person whomsoever, or for any cause whatever, except upon tender to said city, or purchaser, of the taxes lawfully due on such property for which such sale was made, together with lawful interest thereon and all accrued penalties and costs, as provided by the city charter of the city of Dallas.

Sec. 150. A sale of personal property for delinquent taxes shall convey with it an absolute title, and the owner shall have no right to redeem the same.

Sec. 151. The city shall have the right to become a purchaser of property at tax sales, and the mayor shall attend such sale for such purpose.

Sec. 152. Whenever any real property is bid off to the city, or to any individual, for delinquent taxes, the owner or attorney, or his agent, may redeem the same at any time within two years from day of sale by paying the following amounts: All taxes paid or due, ten per cent per annum interest thereon from the time they became delinquent, and two and one-half ($2.50) dollars as cost on each piece of property sold, and, as a further penalty, a sum equal to twenty-five per cent of the amount of the delinquent tax, if redeemed in three months; fifty per cent penalty if redeemed in six months; seventy-five per cent penalty if redeemed in one year, and 100 per cent if redeemed thereafter within two years, the said penalties to go to the purchasers at tax sales, whether the purchaser be the city or an individual.

Sec. 153. If any real property sold for taxes under the provisions of this act shall not be redeemed within two years from the day of sale, the holder of the tax deed shall have the right to bring suit in the district court of the county of Dallas to have the absolute title to such real estate, without any equity of redemption, vested in him.

Sec. 154. All levies of ad valorem taxes heretofore made by the city of Dallas, and all assessments heretofore made, and assessment rolls heretofore placed in the hands of the city collector for collection are hereby validated, and the same shall be legal and binding regardless of any irregularity that may exist in the manner of making such levies, and the making and returning of such assessment rolls. This provision shall apply to all suits and actions now pending, as well as those hereafter prosecuted.

Sec. 155. In any suit by the city of Dallas for the collection of any delinquent tax where it shall appear that the description of any property in the city assessment rolls shall be insufficient to identify such property, the city shall have the right to set up in its pleading a good description of the property intended to be assessed, and to prove the same, and to have its judgment foreclosing its tax lien upon the same, and personal judgment against the owner thereof for such taxes, the same as if such property were fully described upon the assessment rolls.

Sec. 156. When the owner of any property, or his agent, shall render any property to the city assessor for assessment, and such property is assessed in accordance with the description furnished by such owner, or his agent, the sufficiency of such description shall not be disputed by such owner in any action or suit for the collection of such taxes, but the same shall be binding on such owner, and shall be sufficient for all purposes of such assessment.

Sec. 157. The provisions herein for collecting taxes shall not be construed to prevent the city from filing a suit in any court of competent jurisdiction for the collections of any taxes due on real estate, as well as personal property, and for the enforcement of levies for such taxes; and the assessment roll shall be prima facie evidence of the facts stated in said roll, and that all taxes assessed on such roll have been regularly levied and assessed in accordance with the provisions of this charter and of the law; and no irregularity in the manner of levying or assessing taxes shall invalidate the same, unless it appears from affirmative proof that such irregularity operated injuriously to the tax payer attempting to avoid the payment of such tax.

Street Improvement.

Sec. 158. The city council shall have full power and authority to grade, fill, raise, repair, macadamize, re-macadamize, pave, re-pave, or otherwise improve any avenue, street or alley, or any portion thereof in the city, to such extent and out of such material and under such regulations as said city council may provide, whenever a majority of the aldermen present vote in favor of such improvement.

Sidewalks.

Sec. 159. The city council shall fix and determine the nature and extent of sidewalk improvements, and decide as to the kind of material to be used. The cost of constructing all sidewalks, including curbing and guttering and the keeping the same in repair, together with the cost of collection, but not including the grading, shall be defrayed entirely by the property owners of the lots or blocks fronting on the sidewalks to be constructed, according to the number of feet frontage owned by each. Whenever the city council, by resolution or otherwise, orders the construction of any sidewalk, it shall specify the kind of sidewalk required to be constructed and the width of same to be so constructed, and thereupon the city engineer shall issue a notice which shall be served upon the owner of such property if in the city, or if such owner shall be out of the city such notice shall be published in some newspaper published in the city of Dallas five consecutive days. Such notice shall state the place where such sidewalk is required to be constructed, the kind of sidewalk required to be constructed, and the width thereof, and the length of time, which shall not be more than thirty days from the date of the service of such notice, within which such sidewalk is required to be constructed, and that such property owner must proceed to construct the same or appear before the city council at a regular meeting thereof, giving the date of such meeting, and show cause why the same should not be constructed; and if such property owner shall not construct the same within the time required by the city council in the order or resolution of the city council requiring the same to be constructed, or shall not be excused from constructing the same by the city council, the city council shall advertise for bids for the construction of such sidewalk and shall let a contract therefor to the lowest responsible bidder, in the discretion of the council; such contract may be for any length or amount of sidewalk. As soon as practicable after the letting of such contract the city engineer shall furnish the city council a statement showing the name of the owners of the property abutting on the sidewalks so constructed, if known, if not known, shall so state, and a description of the property owned by such owners and the cost of the sidewalk immediately in front of the property so improved, and such cost shall be levied and assessed by the city council by ordinance against the property according to such statement by the city engineer, and said tax shall be a lien against such property from the date of the letting of such contract. Such ordinance shall state the amount of such tax against such respective lots or subdivisions of land and the time when the same shall become due and delinquent; and if the same shall not be paid when due, the city collector shall proceed, as soon as practicable, to advertise and sell such property for the payment of such taxes, provided in cases of sale of such property for ad valorem taxes; provided, that it shall not be necessary that such sale shall take place at the same time as sales of property for ad valorem taxes.

Sewers.

Sec. 160. The city council shall have power, by ordinance, to provide for and cause a general sewer and drainage system to be divided into public and private sewers and drains, and to be constructed, maintained and regulated in such manner and out of such material as the council may prescribe. Sewers may be established as the council may direct, and there may be extension of branches of sewers already constructed or entirely new throughout, as may be deemed expedient. The city council may, if necessary, levy a tax on all taxable property in the entire city, to pay for the construction and repairs of such public sewers, which shall be called a "special sewer tax," and used solely for such purpose. No public sewer shall be run diagonally through private property when it is practicable, without injury to said sewer, to construct it parallel with one of the exterior lines of such property. No public sewer shall be constructed through private property when it is practicable to construct it along or through a street or public highway.

Sec. 161. The city council [shall] have the power to appropriate private property for public purposes. Whenever the city council of said city shall deem it necessary to take any private property, either within or without the city limits, for any of the following purposes, to wit: In order to open, extend, change or widen any public street, avenue or alley, or for the construction of water mains or sewers, either within or without the city limits, or for the improvement and enlargement of its water works, including riparian rights, water sheds, reservoirs, etc., public schools, parks, squares, and pleasure grounds, public wharves and landing places for steamers and other crafts, or for the straightening or improving the channel of any stream, branch or drain, such property may be taken for such purposes by making just compensation to the owner thereof. If the amount of such compensation shall not be agreed upon it shall be the duty of the city council to cause to be stated in writing the real estate or property sought to be taken, the name of the owner thereof, and his residence, if known, and the purpose for which said property is sought to be taken, and file such statement with the county judge of Dallas county. Upon the filing of such statement, it shall be the duty of such judge, in term time or vacation, to appoint three disinterested freeholders and qualified voters of the county of Dallas as special commissioners to assess the damages to accrue to the owner by reason of such condemnation. The commissioners so appointed shall, in their proceedings, be governed and controlled by the State laws in force in reference to the condemnation of the right of way for railroad companies, and the assessment of damages therefor, the city of Dallas occupying the position of the railroad company. And all laws in reference to the applications for the condemnation of right of way of railroad companies, including the measure of damages, the right of appeal and the like, shall apply to an application by the city of Dallas, under this charter, for condemnation of property for the aforesaid purposes, the city of Dallas to occupy the position of the railroad company. In estimating the damages to such property the jury shall not only estimate the value of the land so taken, but they shall also estimate the damage done to the remainder of any land from which it is taken, by reason of such taking and use.

Sec. 162. Provided, however, that in case of the condemnation of land for the opening, extending, or widening of any street, or for straightening or improving the channel of any stream, branch or drain within the corporate limits of said city, the council may, by ordinance, provide that the cost of such property shall be paid for by the property owners owning property in the immediate vicinity thereof and benefited thereby. In such cases the city engineer shall, under the direction of the board of commissioners appointed, make a plat of the property, which, in the judgment of said commissioners, will be specially benefited and enhanced in value by the making of such improvement, whereupon such commissioners shall issue notices to the owners of such property to appear before them at a time and place to be designated in such notices, to show cause, if any they have, why such property should not be assessed to pay the cost of the property so condemned; such notices may be served by any police officer in the city of Dallas, or any other officer of the State of Texas or county of Dallas authorized by the laws of said State to serve process of the courts of said State; such notices shall be served upon the owners of such property where such owners shall be found in the city or county of Dallas; and in all cases where such owner or owners, or any of them, are absent from said city and county, upon the agent of such absent owner, if such owner shall have an agent in said city or county, and, in case such absent owner shall not have such agent, or in case the owner of such property is unknown, then such notice shall be published for two days consecutively in some daily newspaper published in the city of Dallas; such notice shall be given five full days before the final determination by the board of commissioners of the amount of assessment against the owner of such property for such improvement; said commissioners shall determine the value of the property desired to be taken, belonging to the different owners thereof, if there be more than one such owner, and if there be only one such owner, the value of the same, and shall also find how much of the cost thereof shall be assessed against the owner of each lot or subdivision of the land in the immediate vicinity thereof specially benefited and enhanced in value by the making of such improvement, and shall report all said matters to the city council of the city of Dallas, showing a description of the property taken and condemned, and the name of the owner thereof, if known, and if the owner of any such property is unknown, shall state said fact, or if there be more than one owner of such property, then the description of the property of each said owner, if known, and if unknown, shall state such fact, and the value of the property of each such owner, so condemned, and also the description and name of the owner of each subdivision of property, if known, and if unknown, shall so state, describing such property so as to identify it, against which special assessment should, in the judgment of said board, be made to pay for such property condemned, such apportionment to be made according to the benefits that will in the judgment of said board of commissioners be received by or accrue to such lot or subdivision of property by reason of the making of such improvements. Such report shall be signed by said board of commissioners, or majority of them, and shall be filed with the city secretary for the consideration of the city council. The city council shall, as soon as practicable after the filing of such report, consider the same, and if the same is approved by a majority vote of the members present at the meeting at which it considers the same, the same shall be final and binding upon the city and all parties at interest therein. If the city council shall approve said report, it shall levy a special tax against the property shown by said report to be benefited and enhanced in value by such improvement, according to the recommendation made in such report; such taxes shall be a lien on the property against which the same shall be assessed, from the date of such levy; shall become due and delinquent at the times provided in the ordinance levying the same, and if not paid as provided in such ordinance, the city collector shall proceed to collect the same as provided in the ordinance levying the same, by the advertisement and sale as provided in the city charter in cases of the sale of such property for delinquent ad valorem taxes; provided, that it shall not be necessary to make such sales at the same time as provided for in the sale of property for delinquent ad valorem taxes. The board of commissioners appointed under the provisions of this section shall have the same power to issue writs and subpoenas and compel the attendance of witnesses, etc., as commissioners appointed for the condemnation of land, etc., for the right of way for railroads, under the general laws of the State of Texas, have, shall receive the same compensation for their services, and shall be governed in all respects not herein otherwise provided, by said general laws in all matters relating to their procedure. The compensation for the land and property taken or damaged under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the owner of such property so taken or damaged, or secured by a deposit set apart in money in the hands of the city treasurer, subject to the order of such owner, before such property is taken or damaged; provided, the city may make such payments out of the general fund, if the council shall deem it advisable, and when the amounts assessed against the property specially benefited as herein provided are collected, may repay to said general fund the amount so advanced, and such payment shall not be a waiver of the city's right to make such collection.

Sec. 163. The city council shall have power to require the filling up, draining and regulating of any lot or lots, grounds or yards, or other places in the city which shall be unwholesome, or have stagnant water or filth of any kind therein, or growing of wild weeds, or from any other cause be in such a condition as is liable to produce disease or increase the danger to property from fire; also, to cause all premises to be inspected and cleansed; also require the making, filling up, altering and repairing of all sinks and privies, and direct the mode and material for constructing them in the future. And said council shall have full power by ordinance to provide for the punishment of all persons failing or refusing to do any of such things, or permitting the premises occupied by them to be in a filthy and unhealthful state. When the city council shall determine that any lot, premises or subdivision of land is in such condition as to render it unhealthful or productive of disease, or liable to cause or spread fire, it shall instruct the city engineer to notify the owner thereof, by written notice, to make such improvements, repairs, or alterations, or do such cleaning as the council may deem necessary and order to be made or done in order to abate such nuisance and render such property cleanly and healthful, and the city engineer or his assistant shall, when such owner is known to him, and resides in the city of Dallas, and shall not be absent from the city, serve such notice upon such owner; such notice shall state the property to be cleansed or improved, and what work or improvement is required to be done upon the same. Where the owner of such property is unknown to the city engineer, and where such owner, if known, shall be absent from the city of Dallas, or can not be found after reasonable search, such notice shall be published in some daily newspaper published in the city of Dallas, for two consecutive days, and if the owner of such property shall not, within fifteen days after the service or publication of such notice, perform the requirements of the city council, the council may have such improvements made at the cost of the city, and tax the cost of the same up against the property so improved as a special tax. Such improvements may be made in any manner provided for by the city council. When such work is completed, the city engineer shall report in writing to the council the cost of such work and improvements, a description of such property upon which the same was made, so as to identify it, the name of the owner of such property where known to him, and where unknown shall so state. When the city council shall approve such report or adopt the same, it shall by ordinance levy and assess a special tax against the property upon which said improvement is made, and said tax shall be a lien against such property from the date of the making of such improvement. Said tax shall become due and delinquent as provided for in the ordinance levying the same, and if the same shall not be paid within the time provided in such ordinance, the city collector shall proceed to collect the same by the advertisement and sale of such property as provided in the city charter for the sale of real estate for the payment of delinquent ad valorem taxes; provided, it shall not be necessary to sell the same at the same time as provided in such cases.

Sec. 164. That the city council shall have full power and authority to pass all ordinances and adopt all resolutions, rules and police regulations that may be necessary and proper to carry into effect and fully enforce all powers vested by this act and in addition the city council shall also have power, upon all questions not provided for in this act, to pass all ordinances, and to adopt all resolutions, rules and police regulations not contrary to the Constitution of the State of Texas that may be necessary for the trade, commerce, health, order and good government of said city, and to enforce all such ordinances, rules and regulations, and punish their violation by fines and imprisonment, both or either, or by work on the streets or other public works, as may be required by the judgment of the court, and for any fine imposed by the city court execution may issue to collect such fine and costs in the same manner as from State courts. They shall be issued to the chief of police, who, in levying on property and selling the same, shall have full power as the sheriff in executions issued from the State courts in like cases.

Public Schools.

Sec. 165. That the city public schools shall be under the management and control of a board of education composed of a president and six members, who shall be elected at the general election of the city to be held on the first Tuesday in April, 1897, and shall qualify within thirty days thereafter, and shall hold their offices for two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified, and shall serve without compensation; provided, that the terms of office of all the present board of school directors of the city of Dallas shall expire in April, 1897, when the board of education herein provided for shall have been elected and qualified.

Any vacancy on said board shall be filled in conformity with the provisions of this charter. Said board of education shall have exclusive control of the public schools of the city of Dallas, and shall have full and ample power to provide necessary school buildings and facilities, and to open and conduct a sufficient number of schools to meet the wants of the scholastic population of the city of Dallas, so far as they can do so by prudent and judicious application of the means made subject to their administration and management.

Among the powers thereby conferred on said board of education the following are, for greater certainty, enumerated: To contract for, lease and purchase lots, and to construct buildings for school purposes, and to make all needed repairs and alterations in the same; to furnish said school buildings with all appropriate furniture, fixtures and apparatus; to lay off the city into such school districts as in the judgment of the said board shall be proper; to increase or diminish said districts, and to change the boundaries thereof at pleasure; to employ superintendents, teachers and such other persons as may be necessary, and to fix their compensation and prescribe their duties and establish all regulations and rules deemed necessary by the board to provide and maintain an efficient system of public schools in the city of Dallas. Said board of education shall annually on the third Monday in April file with the mayor and city council an official statement of the amount of money, as nearly as can be estimated by said board, which will be needed to pay the cost of maintaining the public schools for the next succeeding fiscal year, exclusive of money, if any, derivable from the State or any other source. The city council, when levying the annual tax for the fiscal year, shall levy an ad valorem tax sufficient to defray the expenses of the city public schools, provided that the levy made for defraying said expenses shall not in any one year exceed one-fourth of one per centum of the taxable values of the city of Dallas for that fiscal year. Said tax, when collected, shall be deposited with the city treasurer by the city collector to the credit of the school fund, which said sums, together with all sums received from the State, county and other school funds, shall be held by the city treasurer subject to the order and disbursement of the board of education, and shall be paid out upon warrants issued by order of said board, and audited by the city auditor and signed by the mayor and attested by the city secretary. An official statement or copy of all contracts, claims, accounts, pay rolls and demands of whatever nature whereby any money is to be disbursed or expended from the school funds, shall be filed with the city auditor, who shall examine, adjust and audit all claims, accounts, pay rolls and demands before same shall be paid. The mayor and city council shall have the right to at any time demand of and receive from said board of education an account of all sums received, disbursed and expended by them for school purposes, accompanied by vouchers, data and information deemed necessary to enable the city council to ascertain the cost, necessities and expense of said public schools.

Sec. 166. The president of the board of education shall be elected and hold his office as hereinbefore provided. He shall preside over all meetings of the board of education, and in case of a tie on any question, he shall give the casting vote, but in elections he shall vote as other members of the board. He shall be active in enforcing the laws, rules and regulations governing said board. He shall, from time to time, give the board information about the condition of affairs, and recommend for consideration such measures as he deems best for the schools. At the first regular meeting of the board of education after the general election, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the president shall appoint the standing committees of the board, and the president shall be ex officio a member of all committees of the board. He shall have the power to veto any resolution, by-law, motion or order passed by the board of education, by filing his written objections within three days after the passage thereof, Sundays and day of passage to be excluded. At the next meeting, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the board shall consider such objections, and unless the board pass the measure over his veto by a two-thirds vote of all the members, taken by yeas and nays, such measure shall be of no effect. Regular meetings of the board shall be at such times as the board may fix by resolution or otherwise, but the president, on his own motion, may call special meetings by written notice thereof served upon each member, or left at his place of abode or usual place of business. At the first meeting of each new board, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the board shall elect one of the members vice president, who shall hold his office for two years. In case of absence, failure, inability or refusal of the president to act, the vice president shall perform the duties of president. In the absence of the president and vice president, any one of the members present may be appointed to preside.

Said council shall have the additional power to remove the same at the expense of the city on account of the owner of the property, and assess the expenses thereof, including condemnation proceedings, as a special tax against the land, and the same may be collected as other special taxes provided for in this charter, or by suit in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Sec. 174. The city council shall have full power to condemn all dangerous buildings or obstructions of any kind, and may provide regulations therefor by ordinance.

If such companies shall fail to do such things after being notified, the city can have the same done at the expense of such companies. The city council shall also have the power to require telegraph, telephone companies, and electric light companies to run their wires under ground, if, in the wisdom of the council, public interest should so demand.

Sec. 180. The style of all ordinances shall be, "Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Dallas," but the same may be omitted from ordinances published in book or pamphlet form.

Sec. 181. All ordinances of a general nature shall be published at least once in some newspaper in the city of Dallas.

Sec. 182. All ordinances shall take effect from their passage, unless otherwise therein expressed.

Sec. 183. All ordinances of the city, when printed and published by authority of the city council, shall be admitted and received in evidence in all courts and places without any further proof whatever, and all ordinances thus printed in book or pamphlet form shall be presumed to have been printed by authority of the city council, and shall be prima

It shall then be carefully compared with the original bill and all amendments, if any, by at least one member of the committee that may be charged with that duty by the city council. If errors exist they shall be corrected. If no errors exist, or if found, then after their correction, the member making the comparison shall endorse on the margin, the words, "Correctly enrolled," and give the date thereof and subscribe his name thereto. Whereupon the same shall be delivered to the mayor for his consideration. If the mayor approve the same, it shall become a law. If he fail to approve or object within ten days, exclusive of the day of presentation and Sunday, should that intervene, the same shall become a law without his signature. But if, within said time, he shall veto the same, he shall present his written objections to the council by filing the same with the city secretary, and unless the council pass the ordinance over the mayor's veto by the majority hereinbefore provided, the same shall not become a law.

Sec. 186. The city council shall have the right to remit, in whole or in part, any fine or penalty belonging to the city, which may be imposed under any ordinance or resolution passed in pursuance of this act.

Sec. 187. No lien of any kind can ever exist against the public school buildings, public halls or public works of the city of Dallas. When bondsmen are not residents of Dallas county such proof of their solvency may be required as the council may deem necessary.

Sec. 189. All appropriations made or set apart for the payment of any interest or sinking fund, or both, shall under no circumstances ever be diverted to any other purpose.

Sec. 190. All questions arising in administering said city government, and not provided for in this act, shall be governed by the State law in such cases made and provided.

Sec. 191. All property, real and personal, belonging to the city of Dallas, is hereby vested in the corporation created by this act, and the officers of said corporation now in office shall continue the same until superseded in conformity to the provisions hereof, but shall be governed by this act from and after it takes effect.

Sec. 192. This act shall not invalidate any legal action heretofore done by the city council of the city of Dallas, or any of its officers, or impair any liability which may have been created by said corporation prior to the passage of this act.

Sec. 193. No office provided for in this act and not now already existing shall be held to be created until the same is established by an ordinance of the city council.

Sec. 194. That this act shall be deemed a public act, and judicial notice shall be taken thereof in all courts and places, without the same having been read in evidence.

Sec. 199. That an act entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Dallas, and to grant a new charter to said city," approved March 13th, 1889, [and] all other acts relative to the incorporation of the city of Dallas, so far as the same conflict with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed; but all property, actions, rights of actions, claims and demands of every nature and kind whatever, vested in the city under and by virtue of said laws hereby repealed, shall vest in and remain and inure to the said corporation under this act as fully and completely in all respects as if the said laws had not been repealed.

Sec. 200. Whereas, the people of Dallas are demanding that they have the benefits and reforms embodied in this bill, and that the same be put into operation at once, and that the coming city election be held under the terms of this bill; and, whereas, the fact that said election will occur on the 6th day of April, 1897, creates a necessity for immediate action by the Legislature, therefore an emergency and imperative public necessity exist requiring the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days be suspended, and said rule is so suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a vote of yeas 14, nays 7; and having passed the House with amendments, adding the emergency clause, by a two-thirds vote, yeas 98, nays none, the Senate concurred by a two-thirds vote, yeas 24, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Saturday, the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

S. B. No. 306.]

CHAPTER 7.

An Act to provide a charter for the City of Houston, Harris County, Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That all the inhabitants of the city of Houston, Harris county, Texas, shall be a body corporate, to be known hereafter by the name of "The City of Houston," and by that name it shall hereafter be known in law, and shall be capable of suing and being sued, and of defending in all courts in all matters whatsoever; and may have a common seal and may alter and change the same at pleasure; may own, hold and convey any estate, real or personal, for the use of said corporation for any purpose whatsoever, both within the limits of said city and without the limits of the same, in Harris county, Texas.

Sec. 2. That the bounds and limits of said corporation shall be three miles square, to be run with the cardinal points of the compass, of which the center of the court house square in the city of Houston shall be the center; provided, that should any property lying beyond the city limits be platted into blocks and lots after the passage of this act, then, and in that event, the owners of said property shall lay the same off to conform to the streets and blocks abutting on the same, and shall file with the city engineer a correct map of the same; and provided further, that in no case shall the city of Houston be required to pay for any of the said streets, at whatever date opened, but when opened by reason of the platting of the property, at whatever date platted, shall become, by such act, the property of the city of Houston, for use as public highways, and shall be cared for as such. Any territory adjoining the present or future boundaries of said city, may from time to time be admitted and become a part thereof, upon application and written consent given to the city council by the owner or owners of said land; or, as the case may be, by a majority vote of the legal voters resident on the land sought to be added. In all such cases the territory so added shall be described by metes and bounds in an ordinance accepting, assenting and adding the same to the municipal corporation.

Sec. 3. That the administration of the business affairs of the said corporation shall be conducted by a mayor and board of aldermen, to be elected by the qualified voters of the city at large, and to be designated as the city council, who shall hold their respective offices for two years from the next city election; and the said city council may divide the city into a convenient number of wards, not more than twelve, and shall define and establish boundaries thereof, and may change the said boundaries from time to time, as may be deemed expedient, having regard for the number of inhabitants, so that each ward shall contain, as nearly as may be, the same number of qualified electors. And the before mentioned board of aldermen shall consist of two aldermen selected from the qualified voters of each ward; provided that the number of aldermen shall not exceed twelve; and provided, further, that the city council may, by ordinance, provide, in the event of said city being divided into twelve wards, that said board of aldermen shall consist of one alderman selected from the qualified voters of each ward, who shall hold office for two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified; no person being competent to fill the office of mayor or alderman, unless at the date of his election and for sixty days next preceding, he be a qualified voter of the city, and for two years prior to such election a bona fide resident of his ward, and an owner of real property in said ward. Should any alderman remove from his ward during the term for which he was elected, die, become insane, or for any other reason become disqualified to discharge the duties of his office, then his office shall become vacant, and the city council shall, by ballot, elect a proper and duly qualified person, by majority vote of all the aldermen elected and qualified, to fill such vacancy.

Sec. 4. All qualified electors of the State, who shall have resided for six months next preceding any election for city officials, within the limits of said city, shall have the right to vote for mayor and all other elective officers of said city; provided in all elections to determine the expenditure of money or assumption of debt, only those shall be qualified to vote who own real estate within the limits of said city.

Sec. 5. That in each ward of the city shall be established, and arranged by districts, one polling place for each one thousand voters or fraction thereof over 250, voting within the limits of said ward at the last municipal election; and where two or more polling places are established, they shall be so located as to be most convenient to the greatest number of voters, with a distinct set of election officers, ballot boxes and registration books for each polling place, which polling places may all be located in the same building; provided, the voter shall vote in the district of his residence; and in no event shall any person be eligible for election to any office at any city election, unless he be a bona fide owner of real estate located within the city. That the general election of officers of the city shall take place on the first Monday in April, 1898, and every two years thereafter, and the present incumbents hold over until their successors shall qualify. No election of city officers shall be held on the day of State or county elections. That the city council shall make all necessary regulations concerning elections, and provide for the examination and counting of returns of elections, and the issuance of proper certificates to the successful candidates.

Sec. 6. That there shall be elected by the qualified voters of the city a mayor, two aldermen from among the qualified voters of each ward, a city treasurer, an assessor and collector of taxes, a city marshal, a city attorney, a city recorder and a health officer, and a street commissioner, who shall hold their respective offices for two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified, unless sooner removed by the city council; provided, that the present officers of said city shall hold their offices until the next election of city officers, which shall be held on the first Monday in April, 1898.

Sec. 7. The mayor shall, not later than the second meeting of the city council after the next city election, nominate to the council candidates for city secretary, city engineer, chief of fire department, market master, and city scavenger, and at the expiration of the term of the present incumbent, shall nominate a candidate for superintendent of schools, who shall all be confirmed by the city council; and the officers confirmed by the council shall hold their respective offices for two years, and until their successors are confirmed and qualified, and shall perform such duties as may be prescribed by the city council.

Sec. 8. The mayor, with six citizens of the city of Houston, three of whom shall be appointed each year by the mayor and confirmed by the council, shall constitute the board of public school trustees of said city, and such board of public school trustees shall have exclusive charge and control of the public schools of the city, under the laws of the State governing the free public schools of independent school districts.

Sec. 9. There shall be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the city council, three citizens of the city, who shall constitute a board of public works. They shall hold their offices for two years and until their successors are appointed, and shall serve gratuitously. They shall be allowed, however, five hundred dollars annually, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to cover any expense incurred in the performance of their duties. All matters pertaining to public improvements involving an outlay of as much as five hundred dollars, shall be referred to said board before they are finally approved by the council; and they shall, within fifteen days thereafter, make their report thereon, with such recommendations as they may deem expedient. They shall examine and pass upon all plans and specifications relating to such improvements, and on all bids for the work embraced therein; provided, that the recommendation of the board of public works, as reported to the council, shall be final, unless altered or changed by a two-thirds vote of all the aldermen; and after the completion of any such work shall examine and report whether the same has been completed according to contract; and no plans or specifications for any such work shall be adopted, bids accepted, contracts awarded or work accepted for any such improvement until the report of said board in reference to said matters shall have been received by the council, or until after the expiration of fifteen days after the matter was referred to them. Said board may also originate and suggest public improvements, and prepare and recommend plans therefor, including all matters pertaining to their construction.

Sec. 10. The regular meeting of the city council shall be held in the council chamber as often as may be determined by the city council, not to exceed four meetings per month, beginning at such an hour as may be fixed by the said council; and the mayor, of his own motion, may call special meetings for the transaction of special business, by causing the city secretary to serve a written notice on each alderman or leaving the same at the residence or usual place of business of each. It may, also, determine when taxes shall be paid by corporations or by individual corporators and levy, assess and collect upon each male citizen of the city, over the age of 21 years, an annual poll tax of one dollar.

All taxes upon real estate shall be a lien and charge upon the property upon which the taxes are due, which lien may be foreclosed, and the tax collected by suit in any court having jurisdiction. It shall be the duty of every person owning or holding property in the city of Houston to render, under oath, to the assessor and collector of taxes, at his office in said city, annually, within the time prescribed by the ordinances of said city, a full and complete inventory of all property so owned or held by him, whether real or personal, and to take and subscribe an oath as to the correctness of such inventory, which oath may be administered by the assessor and collector, in person or by deputy. All taxes shall be payable at the office of the assessor and collector, and no demand by him be requisite or necessary to enforce the collection thereof by any proceedings herein described, nor for any taxes due before the passage of this act. The assessor and collector shall inventory and assess all property which the owner thereof may fail or refuse, or may have failed or refused, to inventory and assess for previous years, which inventory and assessment, when so made by him, shall be as valid and effective as if made by the owner thereof. When the description of any property on the assessment sheets or tax rolls is vague and indefinite, the city may show by evidence other than the assessment and tax rolls where the property is located and on what property the tax is due, what parties own the property, and that the taxes on the same are due and unpaid, and enforce and foreclose the tax lien on such property.

The city council may and shall have full power to provide by ordinance for the prompt collection of all taxes levied, assessed and due, or becoming due to said city, and to that end may and shall deem necessary to the levying, laying, imposing, assessing and collecting of any of said taxes, and to regulate the mode and manner of making out tax lists and inventories and the appraisements of property thereon, and to prescribe the oath that shall be administered to each person on such rendition of property, and to prescribe how and when property shall thus be rendered, and to fix the duties and define the powers of the assessor and collector of taxes.

The tax levied by the city is hereby declared to be a lien, charge and encumbrance on the property on which the tax is due, which lien, charge and encumbrance the city is entitled to enforce and foreclose in any court having jurisdiction of the same, and the lien, charge and encumbrance on the property in favor of the city for the amount of taxes due on such property is such as to give the State courts jurisdiction to enforce and foreclose said lien on the property on which the tax is due; not only as against any resident of this State, but against persons who are non-residents of this State, or whose residence is unknown, and against the unknown heirs of any persons who own the property on which the tax is due.

The city of Houston has a right to maintain a suit to recover a personal judgment for the amount of the tax due it, and the tax may be collected by sale of the particular property on which it is assessed by enforcing the lien, or by the sale of that or other property under a judgment of the court, or by seizure and sale of personal property.

For the taxes due on any property for any and all years from the year 1875, up to and including the year 1896, and for all years to come until otherwise provided by charter, either the tax rolls or a statement of the taxes due on any property made from said rolls, certified to and signed by the city assessor and collector of taxes of the city of Houston, shall be prima facie evidence that the tax on the property is due; that the facts stated therein are true, and that all the pre-requisites required by law pertaining to the levying and assessing of taxes on the property on which the suit is brought for the taxes due have been complied with. In addition to the tax rolls and the certified statements made from said rolls being prima facie evidence, as above stipulated, for the years 1890, 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1894, the deed executed by the sales made by him during said years, of property for taxes in accordance with the provisions of the charter of the city in force during the last named years, shall also be prima facie evidence that the tax on the property is due and unpaid; that the facts stated in said deed are true, and that all the requirements of the law have been complied with.

No delinquent tax payer shall have the right to plead in any court, or in any manner rely upon any statute of limitation by way of defense against the payment of any taxes due from him or her to the city of Houston. In suits for taxes, the proper persons shall be made parties defendant in such suit, and shall be served with process and other proceedings had therein as provided by law for suits of like character in the district courts of this State; and in case of foreclosure, an order of sale shall issue and the land be sold thereunder as in other cases of foreclosure, which order of sale shall have all the force and effect of a writ of possession between the parties to the suit and any person claiming under the defendant by any right acquired after the filing of the suit, and the sheriff or other officer executing such order of sale shall proceed, by virtue of the same, to place the purchaser of the property sold under said order of sale in possession thereof within thirty days after the date of sale, and such order of sale may direct that the sheriff, or other officer executing such order of sale, shall sell the property, either each piece separately, as under execution, or in gross, as the city, through its attorney, may direct; and if the defendant, or his attorney, shall at any time before the sale file with the sheriff, or other officer in whose hands any such order of sale shall be placed, a written request that the property described therein shall be divided and sold in less tracts than the whole, together with a description of said subdivisions, then such officer shall sell the land in said subdivisions as the defendant may request, and in such case shall only sell as many subdivisions, as near as may be, as will satisfy judgment, interest, court costs, and other costs hereinafter specified. In all cases in which lands have been sold or may be sold for default in the payment of taxes, it shall be lawful for the sheriff selling the same, or any of his successors in office, to make a deed or deeds to the purchaser, or to any other person to whom the purchaser may direct the deed to be made, and such deed shall be held in any court of law or equity in this State to vest a good and perfect title in the purchaser thereof.

The city attorney shall represent the city in all suits against delinquent tax payers. In any and all suits by the city of Houston for the collection of taxes due it, the city attorney shall be entitled to a fee of five per cent of the amount of the tax, which five per cent shall be taxed as costs against the property on which the tax is due; and in no case, after suit has been filed, shall a receipt for taxes be given on the property in suit until after the payment of the five per cent attorney's fee as above stated, the costs of the city assessor and collector, as hereinafter stated, and all court costs. When judgment has been taken for taxes due on property in suit, the five per cent attorney's fee, and other costs above named, shall be taxed as costs against the property to be sold under judgment for taxes, and paid out of the proceeds of the sale of same, together with the taxes and interest due thereon to the city. If the purchaser, at any sale under proceedings had to foreclose a tax lien on property sold in the city of Houston for non-payment of taxes, shall fail to acquire a valid title to the property so purchased by him, by reason of any irregularity or defect in the assessment or levy or for any other reason whatsoever, whether of a jurisdictional character or otherwise, such purchaser shall nevertheless have a lien on the property so purchased for the taxes which would have been due on the assessment of taxes at any time before such taxes shall become due, same had all proceedings in reference thereto been legal and regular, together with all costs connected therewith; also for all taxes by him subsequently paid on said property with interest on all of such sums at the rate of six per cent per annum, and he shall be entitled to judgment for such amounts and for the enforcement of the lien against the owner of said property in the same action, wherein the invalidity of said sale is declared void, together his costs incurred in such action. In no case shall the city council or any member of the city council or officer of the city remit, discount or compromise any tax legally due the city. The city shall have equal right to become the purchaser at all sales of property under judgment or otherwise for taxes due it. All taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of July of each and every year, and if not paid by the first day of January thereafter the same shall bear interest from the said first day of January until paid at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. It shall be the duty of all persons from whom such taxes are due to call and pay the same to the city assessor and collector of taxes, at his office in the city of Houston, between the said first day of July and the first day of January next thereafter. Immediately after the first day of January in every year, it shall be the duty of the assessor and collector of taxes to prepare a roll containing a description of all the property described in the assessment rolls of the next preceding year, that is to say, of the year ending on the next preceding thirty-first day of December on which the taxes have not been paid. Said roll shall be called the "delinquent roll," and shall consist of so much of said roll as will identify the property and show the amount of tax due on the same. The city council shall not have the power or authority to extend the time for the payment of taxes, or in any manner delay the assessors and collector of taxes in the preparation of the "delinquent roll."

During the time that the city collector and assessor shall prepare the "delinquent roll" above described, he shall prepare separate statements of tax accounts due the city, to be furnished the city attorney on which [to bring] suits, which statement shall contain the description of the property, the year for which the tax is due, the amount of the tax due, the rate of taxation and the person or persons, estate, firm, or corporation, who assesses the same, or whether the property is rendered, unrendered, or owner is unknown as appears from the tax rolls, which statement the city assessor and collector shall certify to be correct, and which shall be prima facie evidence of the statements made therein, and that all the requirements of the law have been complied with; and the city assessor and collector shall be entitled to one dollar on each statement so made, which shall be taxed against the delinquent tax payer on the property on which the tax is due, and in case of suit to be taxed as a charge against the property, and the assessor and collector shall be entitled to refuse to issue any receipt to any delinquent tax payer until said one dollar has been paid; provided, that where several tracts of land and different kinds of property are assessed by the same person, firm, estate or corporation, that they shall be contained in the same statement; which said "delinquent roll" shall be finished and said statements furnished not later than the last day of February of each year. Said "delinquent roll" shall be published during the month of March following, for ten days in some daily paper published in the city of Houston; and the assessor and collector shall also be entitled to two dollars for advertising each tract of land separately assessed, which shall be taxed as a charge against the property on which the tax is due, and the assessor and collector shall be entitled to refuse to issue any receipt to any delinquent tax payer until the cost of advertising has been paid; and a failure to comply with these provisions by the city assessor and collector of taxes shall be deemed a malfeasance and be cause for impeachment. Upon the receipt of above tax statements by the city attorney, he shall, as soon as possible, institute suit in the proper court to enforce the collection of taxes due the city, and shall file suit on all of said statements furnished him by the city assessor and collector of taxes, by the next first of October after he has received them, and the failure on the part of the city attorney to file suits on said statements by the first of October shall be deemed a malfeasance and be a cause for impeachment; but a failure on the part of the city assessor and collector of taxes to prepare the "delinquent roll," or publish it for the required length of time, or furnish tax statements to the city attorney, or a failure on the part of the city to file suits within the proper time, shall in no wise affect the liability of the delinquent tax payer, nor shall such failure in any manner be relied on by way of defense against the payment of taxes due the city. Nothing but current money of the United States shall be collected or received in payment of taxes and licenses due or hereafter assessed, except coupons and script made receivable for taxes on the face thereof, shall be receivable for all taxes except the bond tax. In cases where the State has instituted suit for taxes, where taxes are due the city on the same property for the same years, that the city may have the right to intervene in said suit and have judgment for its taxes, and to enforce and foreclose its lien for said taxes, and in cases where the city has first instituted suit for taxes that the State may have the same right to intervene.

That the following property shall be exempt from taxation, to-wit: All lands used exclusively for graveyards, or grounds for burying the dead, except such as are held by any person, company or corporation with a view to profit, or for the purpose of speculation in the sale thereof; all buildings belonging to institutions of purely public charity, together with the lands belonging to and occupied by such institutions not leased or otherwise used with a view to profit, and all moneys and credits appropriated solely to sustaining such institutions, together with such other property as is exempt from taxation by the laws of the State of Texas.

That the city council by a vote taken by yeas and nays and entered upon the journal, shall have power to assess, license and tax hawkers, peddlers, auctioneers, theatrical and other exhibitions, shows and amusements, billiard tables, nine and ten pin alleys, alleys with any number of pins, public drays, wagons, omnibuses and carriages, grog shops, tippling houses and dram shops, beer saloons (whether for the sale of domestic beer or otherwise), and such other trades or occupations not especially mentioned herein as may be taxed by the laws of the State; but no assessment or license tax levied under this section shall exceed one-half the amount levied by the State for the same period on such profession or occupation, and the same may be regulated, levied and collected in the same manner as said taxes are regulated and collected by the State.

That the license tax shall be collected by the assessor and collector of taxes, and shall be paid to that officer in current funds of the United States by each and every person or firm owing such license and before engaging in any trade, profession, business, calling, avocation or occupation subject to such tax, taking his receipt therefor, which receipt shall be esteemed lawful license for the pursuit of the occupation indicated. And if any person shall engage in any business, calling, avocation or occupation which by an ordinance of said city is subject to a license tax, without first having obtained such license, he, she or they shall be liable to arrest and imprisonment and a fine of ten dollars ($10) for each and every day such violation of said ordinance may continue; and this section shall apply to all persons owing license and failing to pay the same, and the city council may make such further regulations as it deems necessary to enforce this provision and punish the violation thereof.

The city council may by resolution provide for the pay and may allow interest upon advance payment of taxes at a rate not to exceed six per cent per annum for the time intervening between the time of such payment and the time when such taxes would be due and payable; provided, that no such resolution shall be passed, nor such interest allowed, except for the purpose of raising money to meet the current expenses of the city for legitimate purposes. Such resolution shall state the amount of money sought to be raised by this means, and when said amount has been received the assessor and collector shall immediately notify the mayor and city council that the amount called for in the resolution has been received, and the city council shall not pay interest on moneys subsequently paid in for taxes of that year. In receiving moneys for taxes in advance, under the resolution provided for herein, the assessor and collector shall allow the tax payer to retain out of such payment the amount of interest allowed thereon, and shall give his receipt for the whole amount showing what sum is actually paid in, and what sum is allowed as interest on such payment.

A board of appraisement composed of two aldermen and one citizen shall be annually nominated by the mayor and confirmed by the council, and it shall be their duty as soon as possible after the completion of any one of the assessment rolls by the assessor and collector of taxes to meet and carefully examine said roll, and properly and equitably adjust the taxable values thereon, thus continuing until they have examined and adjusted and equalized the taxes assessed on all the rolls under regulations to be fixed by the city council, when they, together with the assessor and collector of taxes shall make due report of their action to the city council. The members of said board shall receive such compensation for their services while engaged upon said rolls as the council may determine, not to exceed five dollars per day, and all matters pertaining to taxation shall be referred to such board, from whose final decision there shall be no appeal; provided further, that the board of appraisement shall not remain in session over sixty days.

Sec. 41. The city council shall have the power and authority to issue during the year 1897, bonds to the amount of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, which shall be sold for not less than par, the proceeds of the sale of which shall be devoted to the paving of streets, and sewers, and the city council shall also have the power and authority to issue bonds for the purpose of funding bonds of the city of a previous issue and may also, by a vote of two-thirds of all the aldermen elected, borrow money on the credit of the city for permanent improvements to an amount not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars in any one year, and may issue bonds of the city therefor. No additional bonds shall be issued for any purpose without submission to a vote of the tax payers of said city.

To create a debt during any one year exceeding one hundred thousand dollars exclusive of refunding bonds and of bonds for the purpose of paving streets and constructing sewers provided to be issued for the year 1897, as above authorized, the question must be submitted to the tax paying voters of the city, and if a majority of the votes polled shall be in favor of creating such debt, it shall be lawful for the city council to authorize the issuance of bonds for the amount named in the resolution named in the ordinance or resolution submitting the question to the voters.

No bonds shall be issued drawing more than six per cent per annum interest, and they shall be invalid if sold for less than par; and all bonds shall express upon their face the purpose for which they are issued.

The ordinance authorizing any bonds to be issued shall provide a fund to pay the interest, and create a sinking fund sufficient to pay the bonds at maturity, and said sinking fund shall be invested in bonds of the State of Texas, of counties in the State of Texas, or in bonds of the United States, or may be used for the purchase of bonds of the city which are not yet due, and neither interest nor sinking fund shall be devoted to any other purpose whatever.

Sec. 42. That this act shall be deemed a public act, and judicial notice shall be taken thereof in all courts. No general law hereafter passed by the Legislature of the State shall be held to repeal any power herein granted, or which is now vested in the corporation of Houston, unless the act conferring such power be specially referred to in such repealing act.

Sec. 43. The city council may, whenever it deems it to be the best interest of the city, pass an ordinance fixing salaries for all officers and employes, and provide by ordinance that all fees and commissions shall be paid into the treasury of the city; provided further, that this ordinance, in the event of its passage, shall not become effective until the next city election.

Sec. 44. Whereas, there are no adequate laws in force providing for the paving, improving and repairing of the streets and sidewalks of the city of Houston, there exists an imperative public necessity for suspending the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and an emergency exists, which requires this act to take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 22, nays none; and having passed the House, with amendments, by a two-thirds vote, yeas 89, yeas none, the senate concurred in the amendments by a two-thirds vote, yeas 22, nays none.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Friday, the thirtieth day of April, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto within the time prescribed by the constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

Section 7.

The city council shall at its first regular meeting in April, 1897, after the counting of the returns of the election for city officers in said year, and every two years thereafter, elect a City Secretary, a City Judge, a City Attorney, a City Engineer, a Street Commissioner, a Chief or the Fire Department, and a Superintendent of Water Works, and a Secretary of Water Works, and a City Auditor, and a City Health Officer and Physician, each of whom shall hold his respective office for two years, and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. Should said city council fail to elect all or any of said officers at its first regular meeting, as herein provided, then it shall do so at the next regular meeting or as soon thereafter as practicable.

Section 105.

A Board of Equalization for the city of Fort Worth, to be composed of three free-holders, shall be appointed, as follows: One by the County Judge of Tarrant County; one by the Judge of the District Court of Tarrant County that meets just after the first week in January; and one by the city council; all of whom shall be appointed in January, or as vacations may occur, and who shall hold their offices for two years, except the first board under this act, which shall be appointed as soon as this act goes into effect, and not later than the first day of August, 1897, and shall hold their offices until their successors shall qualify.

The duties and powers of the Board of Equalization shall be the same as is prescribed in the general laws for Boards of Equalization for cities and towns, except that said Board shall not in any instance, unless appealed to by a tax payer, who complains of over-valuation, or by the city complaining of an under-valuation; and in such case the Board of Equalization shall set a time to hear the evidence, and shall determine the matter according to the law and the evidence; and in no case shall property be assessed higher than it would ordinarily sell for in cash; that the said general laws shall, in all other respects, govern the said Board, except in the manner of their appointment, and except, also, the right of the tax payer or the city appeal from the action of said Board to the District Court, as provided in the city charter.

Section 105b.

The first Board of Equalization created under this act shall also have power on application of any person owning real estate or any interest therein, to correct and reduce any prior assessment of such real estate when taxes have not been paid, by reason of over-valuations, and certify the same to the Assessor and Collector of Taxes for said city, who shall be governed thereby, in the collection of taxes for said year; and in doing so the said Board shall hear evidence as to the cash market value of such property, for the year named, and shall be governed accordingly, by such evidence and the law.

Section 105c.

The action of the Board of Equalization shall be final in all cases, unless an appeal is taken therefrom, to the District Court of Tarrant County, Texas, which may be done by any person or the agent or attorney of any person aggrieved by the action of the Board, by giving notice in writing to said Board, of such appeal and the grounds thereof, within ten days after the final approval of the assessments rolls by said Board, and giving bond payable to the city, to be approved by the City Assessor and Collector of Taxes, for the sum of fifty dollars, conditioned that the appellant will pay all costs of such appeal, if the action of the Board of Equalization should be sustained by the court, or if the valuation of the property of such appellant shall be raised over the amount at which it stands assessed; a copy of such bond and such notice of appeal, and a description made by the Assessor and Collector of Taxes, of the property of the appellant involved therein, shall be filed in said District Court by the Assessor and Collector, on the application of the party aggrieved, and the case shall be docketed on the civil docket thereof, in the name of the appellant as plaintiff, against the Board of Equalization of the City of Fort Worth, and all such appeals shall be presented to the first term of the District Court, after notice of appeal is given, and shall have precedence for trial of all civil cases in said court; and the decision of the District Court in such matters shall be final; provided, however, that if such appeal has not been finally adjudicated by the 31st day of December of the current year, it shall be the duty of the appellant to pay all of said taxes assessed by the Board of Equalization against him, and in case he fails to pay said taxes by said time, said appeal shall be dismissed, and the action of said Board of Equalization held to be final. But in the event the appellant pays all the taxes assessed against him by the Board of Equalization on or before December 31st of such current year, then and in that event, if the court shall, on final adjudication, place a valuation upon appellant's property lower than the valuation placed by said Board of Equalization, the amount of taxes paid on the valuation which is found to be in excess of the valuation fixed by the court, shall be refunded to him by warrant drawn by the order of the city council, and said District Court shall compel the issuance of such warrant. The lists of property and the values thereof, as settled by the Board of Equalization; a copy, or a copy of so much thereof as may be pertinent to the questions at issue, may be produced in court to be read in evidence on such trials. The notice of appeal from the action of the Board of Equalization as to assessments for prior years, shall be given within ten days after the specific action or order of said Board complained of by the party appealing; provided, that the party appealing from the action of the Board of Equalization as to the taxes for said prior years, when the appeal has not been determined prior to December 31st, 1897, shall pay his full amount of taxes and costs for said years, or said appeal shall be dismissed, and the action of the Board of Equalization held to be final.

It shall be the duty of the city secretary to attend every meeting of the city council and keep accurate minutes of the proceedings thereof in a book to be provided for that purpose, and to engross and enroll all laws, resolutions and ordinances of the city council; to keep the corporate seal; to take charge of, preserve, and to keep in order, all books, records, papers, documents and files of said council; to countersign all commissions issued to the city officers and licenses issued by the mayor, and to keep a register or record thereof, and to make out all notices required under any regulation or ordinance of the city. He shall draw all warrants on the treasurer and countersign the same, and keep an accurate account thereof in a book provided for that purpose. He shall be the general accountant of the corporation, and shall keep in books the regular accounts of the receipts and disbursements of the city, and separately, under proper heads, each cause of receipt and disbursement, and also account with each person, including officers who have money transactions with the city, crediting amounts allowed by proper authority and specifying the particular transaction to which such entries will apply. He shall also keep a register of bonds and bills issued by the city, and all evidences of debt due and payable to it, noting the particulars thereof and all facts connected therewith, as they occur. He shall carefully keep all contracts made by the city council, and he shall do and perform such other duties as may be required of him by law, ordinance, resolution or order of the city council. He shall also, after the election for April, 1897, perform the duties of registrar of voters of all elections for city officers under the Australian system, as prescribed by the laws of the State. He shall receive for his services an annual salary, payable at stated periods, and such additional fees may be allowed by the city council.

Section 44.

The city council, only, shall have the power to contract debts for the city, to appropriate money and provide for the payment of the debts and expenses of the city.

Sec. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are, so far as they affect the city of Denison, hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that it is important to the interest of the general public of said city that the changes of the charter of said city made by this act go into effect immediately, and that the municipal election of said city will be held early in the month of April next, and it is desirable that said election be held under this act, creates an emergency, and an imperative public necessity which requires the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Saturday, the eighth day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him nor returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

The city council shall have full power and authority to raise, fill, grade, repair, or otherwise improve any avenue, street, alley or sidewalk, or any portion thereof, in the corporate limits of said city, to such extent and out of such material, and under such regulations as said council may provide, whenever two-thirds of the aldermen elected vote in favor of such improvements; provided, that, except as hereinafter prescribed, the owners of the property fronting or abutting on such avenue or street so improved shall pay two-thirds and the city one-third of the cost thereof, and the owners of the property abutting on any alley or sidewalk so improved shall pay the entire cost of such improvement; and provided, also, that when any person, corporation or company owns or operates any street railway or railway of any kind on such avenue or street, such person, corporation or company shall pay one-third of the cost of filling, raising, paving, repairing or otherwise improving that part of said avenue or street so improved, and the owners of fronting or abutting property the other two-thirds; and the said city shall be relieved of its pro rata so paid by the owners or operators of such roads; and provided, also, that the city shall pay for all street intersections from lot to lot across the streets either way, so improved, except when occupied or used by said railways, in which event one-third of the cost thereof must be paid as above provided by the owners or operators of said railways. Property owners shall pay the entire cost of all curbing. The cost of such improvements owing by property owners and the owners and operators of railways, together with the expense of collecting the same, shall be a special tax and lien against the lot or lots or blocks fronting or abutting upon the thoroughfares or ways improved, and against the road bed, ties, rails, fixtures, rights and franchises of such street or other railways that may be operated or located thereon; and they shall be due and payable by said property owners and operators of said railways in five equal annual installments or less, at the option of such property owners and owners and operators of railways, all of which shall draw interest from the date of assessment until paid at the rate of six per cent per annum. The first installment shall be due and payable immediately after the completion of such improvement, and an installment equal thereto shall become due and payable annually thereafter until the entire amount is paid; and a failure to pay any one of the installments within sixty days after the same has become due shall cause all the unpaid installments to at once mature. Permanent street improvements, within the meaning of this act, shall be only such as are constructed of blocks or granite, blue limestone, trap rock, crushed rock, macadam material, gravel, shell, thoroughly creosoted wood, thoroughly vitrified brick, or of Trinidad asphaltum, or other asphaltum equal to it in quality; but repairs to the same shall not be classed or paid for out of funds provided for such permanent improvements; provided, that nothing herein shall be construed as limiting the right of the council to test other approved methods and materials for street paving, and paying therefor out of the permanent street improvement funds. The city council are hereby empowered and required to set aside in the annual budget a fund to an amount not exceeding one-fourth of one per cent on the one hundred dollars valuation of all property within said city subject to taxation, which shall be used exclusively for the payment of the city's share of the cost of such permanent improvements.

And that the charter of the city of Galveston be and is hereby amended by adding thereto sections, as follows, to wit: 90a, 116, 132d, 132e, 176, 188a, 188b, 188c, 188d, 188e, 188f, 188g, 188h, 188i, 188j, 4a, 6a, 72a, 91, 92, and 93.

Sec. 90a. Any and all descriptions of real estate, blocks, outlots, lots, or any parts or fractions thereof, and of all personal property, and any and all dates, years, valuations, taxations, numbers, quantities or amounts contained in any assessment roll, land-tax book, personal tax book, or description contained in any book or roll used for purposes of assessing property, shall be sufficient and valid when made or stated, in whole or in part, in abbreviations or contractions of words, letters, characters or figures; and when so made or stated, shall be deemed and held to be fully and fairly made and stated, as though the same had been written out in full. No error or irregularity in any assessment roll, tax book or other document relating to the assessment, levy or collection of the taxes of the city shall, in any manner, affect or impair the validity of any tax or affect the proceedings for the collection thereof; but every such assessment shall be liberally construed to effect the purposes and objects of this section, and in determining the validity thereof.

Section 132d. In addition to the power to issue one million two hundred and forty thousand dollars of bonds, as provided for in section 132c, the city shall have power to issue bonds to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars, of such denomination as the mayor may deem proper, payable forty years after the date of their issuance, and bearing interest, payable semi-annually, at a rate not exceeding 5 per cent per annum. Said two hundred thousand dollars bonds to be sold for cash at not less than par, and the proceeds thereof to be used for the payment of the existing floating general indebtedness of the city, and the mayor is hereby authorized to appoint a financial agent to dispose of said bonds.

In addition to the general taxation, the city shall have power to provide for the payment of this issue of two hundred thousand dollars of bonds. In addition to the said two hundred thousand dollars of bonds to take up the floating debt, the city shall have power to further issue three hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the same denomination and tenor for the construction and establishment of a sewerage system; and in addition to general taxation, to provide for this issue of sewerage bonds. That the earnings and revenues from said sewerage system over and above what is required to defray the operating expenses thereof and pay the accruing interest on said sewer bonds and provide a sinking fund therefor of two and one-half per cent, shall be applied, first to reimburse the general fund of the city in the amount taken therefrom to carry the sewer bonds and defray operating expenses of the plant until the sewer rates suffice to meet such fixed charges; and hereafter all earnings over and above fixed charges shall be expended by the board of commissioners of public works in the systematic extension of said sewerage system, and that provision be made by the city council that the sinking fund of said sewerage bonds may, in the event that no sewerage bonds can be redeemed on reasonable terms, be invested in other bonds of the city yielding the best interest. Said bonds shall be signed by the mayor and countersigned by the city clerk, and shall be payable at such places as may be fixed by ordinance of the city council. It shall be the duty of the mayor, when such bonds are issued, to forward the same to the Comptroller of State, whose duty it shall be, after approval by the Attorney General, to register them in a book kept for the purpose, and to endorse on each bond registered his certificate of registration. The indebtedness provided for in this section shall not be limited or governed by the provisions or limitations contained in sections 28, 132, 132a or 132b of this charter.

The city of Galveston shall acquire by purchase the plant of the Galveston Sewer Company, the value of the said plant to be ascertained by arbitration, the city of Galveston to appoint one arbitrator, the Galveston Sewer Company another, and the two so appointed to name a third man, the determination of a majority of the arbitrators to be final and binding on both parties.

The city council shall have power to issue bonds to the amount of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), of the denomination of one hundred dollars ($100) each, or any multiple thereof, payable forty years after the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable semi-annually, at a rate not exceeding five per centum per annum, said bonds to be sold for cash at not less than par, and the proceeds thereof to be used and expended as follows: The proceeds of said bonds shall be used to raise, fill, grade, repair, macadamize, or otherwise improve any avenue, street, alley or alleys in the corporate limits of said city, to such extent and out of such material and under such regulations as said council may provide, whenever two-thirds of the aldermen elected vote in favor of such improvement; provided, that not more than twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) shall be expended on any such work by the city in any one year, from this fund or from the proceeds of the issue of the bonds authorized by this section. The indebtedness provided for in this section shall not be limited or governed by the provisions or limitations contained in sections 28, 132, 132a, 132b, 132c, and 132d of this charter.

Section 176. A day is defined to be eight hours, to all employees of the city, and this amendment is to control any and all previous provisions for a nine-hour day.

Section 188a. That on and after August 1, 1897, the police, fire, health and water works departments of the city shall be placed under civil service rules and regulations, as hereinafter provided, save and except the heads of the different departments.

Section 188b. All appointments under said rules and regulations shall be made after examination by the boards having charge of the respective departments, as may be prescribed for admission to the different departments of service, and with the assistance, in case of the police and fire departments, of at least three members of the force. All appointees shall hold their positions during good behavior, and shall not be dismissed therefrom except for the improvement or economy of the service, or for cause, on the order of said boards having control (in the case of the police and fire departments, the police and fire commission, and in the water works and health departments, the board of commissioners of water works, or the board of public works). When dismissal from the service is for the purpose of economy, the discharged shall be entitled to vacancies in the order of discharges.

Section 188c. No city employe holding office under the classified civil service shall be removed or requested to resign, or reduced or degraded in rank or in pay, or transferred from one class of work to a less desirable class of work (except when arrested for a criminal offense, when suspension or removal may take place at once, at the discretion of the mayor), until after written charges shall have been preferred by the heads of departments, and after the charges shall have been examined into by the police and fire commission or the board of public works, as the case may be, upon reasonable notice to the person accused, and in such manner of examination as the regulations of the different departments may prescribe; but pending such examination such employe may be suspended.

Section 188d. Records shall be kept in the different departments of service, of the names of applicants, residences, date of appointments to service, date of discharge and cause, and such other matter as may be material to the efficiency of the service. Vacancies shall be filled in the order in which applications and percentages appear in the said records, and promotions shall be made in record order.

Section 188e. No person shall be appointed to a position on the police force or fire department unless he be a citizen of the United States, a resident of the city of Galveston for two years next preceding his appointment, of good moral character, and of good repute for honesty and sobriety. He shall never have been convicted of a felony, and shall, understandingly, read and write the English language.

Section 188f. No person shall be appointed on the police force who is deficient in strength and courage, or is less than twenty-five or more than fifty years of age. He shall be not less than five feet seven inches in height, nor weigh less than one hundred and thirty pounds. He must present a certificate from the city physician that he is of sound health and free from any physical debility which would incapacitate him from performing the duties of a policeman.

Section 188g. No person shall be appointed to a position on the fire department who is deficient in strength, activity or intrepidity, or who is less than twenty-one or more than forty-five years of age. He must present a certificate from the city physician that he is in sound health and free from any physical debility which would incapacitate him from performing the duties of a member of the fire department. Exception shall be made of the members of the fire department holding positions at the time this law takes effect.

Section 188h. All persons appointed to positions of a permanent character in the other departments of the city government controlled hereunder, and not specifically mentioned, shall be of good moral character, of good repute for honesty and sobriety, citizens of the United States, residents of the city of Galveston for at least two years next preceding appointment, shall never have been convicted of felony, understandingly read and write the English language, and possess such other qualifications as may be necessary. They shall be efficient in health, strength and activity.

Section 188i. The boards in making appointments shall be governed solely by fitness of the applicant, and no person shall ever be appointed or removed for or on account of partisanship, or for or on account of his political opinions.

Section 188j. No person employed hereunder while on duty shall take part in any political caucus or convention, or take part in any primary, special or general election (except to vote); and any officer, member or employe violating any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit his position.

Section 4a. No officer of this city shall be present in the polls at any election held under the provisions of this charter, except policemen in the discharge of their duty, and then only when called upon by the presiding officer. The violation of the provisions hereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars.

Section 6a. All elections held by virtue of this charter shall be under and in accordance with the system of voting known as the Australian Ballot System. The city council may provide rules and regulations therefor; provided, that no person shall enter the booth with any elector, or in any way mark his ticket, except the voter be a blind man, or a man otherwise incapable of marking his ticket; then he may have the assistance of two judges; and provided, further, that no electioneering shall be done by any person within one hundred yards of the voting place, and no imitation of the ticket to be voted shall be brought or carried by any person within the place of voting. No person shall offer or give any money, or other thing of value for the purpose of influencing the vote of any person in any election, nor shall any person ask or receive any money or other thing of value for his vote or influence in any election. Any violation of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty days, nor more than six months, or both. Any person who shall be elected to the office of mayor or alderman, shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, file with the city clerk an itemized statement of his election expenses under oath, and if it be found that he, or any supporter or campaign committee, with his knowledge, has spent, loaned or given any money or other thing of value, for the purpose of influencing votes, then the office to which he has been elected shall be declared vacant, and a new election held to fill the vacancy.

Section 72a. The city council shall have power to require all property owners whose property may be located upon or near any street or alley along which may extend any sewer system or sewerage that the city may construct or authorize to be constructed, to connect with such sewer or system of sewerage, all water closets, sinks and drains located upon their respective property or premises, so that their contents may be made to empty into such sewer or system of sewerage, whether said system is the property of the city or otherwise.

Section 91. It shall be the duty of the city council annually, as soon as the assessment roll of taxes due the city are completed, to sit as a board of equalization to equalize the taxes assessed on said rolls, and they shall have the same powers and duties as the county commissioners' courts of this state in regard to said assessments and equalization; and shall be governed in their procedure and acts as is provided by the general laws of this State relating to the equalization of State and county taxes by said commissioners' courts. Provided, that any provision of this charter in conflict herewith is hereby repealed. Provided, further, that said city council shall not sit for more than thirty days in performing the duties herein prescribed.

Section 92. It shall be the duty of the assessor to make out a list of all property, both real and personal, which has not been given in for assessment, according to the provisions of this act, and ordinances made in pursuance thereof, and assess the same in the name of the owner, if he be known, and if not, then it shall be assessed by description of the property and last known owner, and the value of such property shall be determined by the board of equalization provided for in this charter, and the same may be sold as in other cases, if the tax be not paid in the time prescribed by law.

Section 93. It shall be the duty of the assessor, at the expiration of the time fixed by ordinance for the rendition of property, to ascertain what property in the city subject to taxation shall be by him presented to the board of equalization for valuation by said officer and board, and then shall by him be entered in a supplement to the assessment roll as unknown, and specifying the year for which said tax is not paid within the time prescribed by law; said property shall be sold at the same time and with like effect as other property.

Sec. 2. The fact that several of these amendments should be made effective at once creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and said rule is so suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, except where otherwise provided.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays none; and having passed the House, with amendments, by a two-thirds vote, yeas 87, nays 1, the Senate concurred in the House amendments, vote not given.]

[Note.—The foregoing act was presented to the Governor of Texas for his approval, on Thursday, the twentieth day of May, A. D. 1897, but was not signed by him not returned to the house in which it originated with his objections thereto, within the time prescribed by the Constitution, and thereupon became a law without his signature.—J. W. Madden, Secretary of State.]

OF

THE STATE OF TEXAS

PASSED AT THE

SPECIAL SESSION OF THE TWENTY-FIFTH LEGISLATURE

CONVENED

AT THE CITY OF AUSTIN

MAY 22, 1897, AND ADJOURNED JUNE 20, 1897.

1897

GENERAL LAWS OF TEXAS.

FIRST SPECIAL SESSION TWENTY-FIFTH LEGISLATURE, 1897.

H. B. No. 3.]

CHAPTER 1.

An Act making an appropriation for the per diem pay of members, officers and employes of the first called session of the Twenty-fifth Legislature of the State of Texas, convened May 22nd, 1897, by proclamation of the Governor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of thirty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of the per diem pay of the members, officers and employes of the first called session of the Twenty-fifth Legislature of Texas, convened May 22nd, 1897, by proclamation of the Governor.

Sec. 2. That the certificate of the Secretary of the Senate, approved by the President thereof, or the certificate of the Chief Clerk of the House, approved by the Speaker thereof, shall be sufficient evidence to the Comptroller upon which he shall audit the claims and issue his warrants upon the treasury for the respective amounts.

Sec. 3. Whereas, the called session of the Twenty-fifth Legislature, for the payment of the members, officers and employes of which this law is enacted, is now in session, and public policy requires their payment, therefore an imperative public necessity exists that the rule requiring this bill to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, May 29, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 86, nays none; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 23, nays none.]

H. B. No. 18.]

CHAPTER 2.

An Act for the immediate relief of the citizens of the city of El Paso and El Paso County, who are suffering from the overflow of the Rio Grande, during the past week, and to appropriate five thousand dollars therefor.

Section 1. Whereas, the unprecedented rise in the waters of the Rio Grande have, within the past week, caused a large portion of the City of El Paso and the surrounding country to be flooded, thereby causing great destruction of property, especially so in the City of El Paso, rendering homeless thousands of the citizens of said city;

Whereas, the destitute people are in great need of food and clothing, creating demands upon the city for relief beyond its power to comply with immediately; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of five thousand dollars ($5000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the immediate relief of the said citizens of El Paso city and county, who are suffering from said flood, said money to be expended under the direction and supervision of the County Judge of El Paso County, together with the mayor of the City of El Paso; said money to be paid out on warrants of the Comptroller, which warrants shall be issued on certificates of said Judge and Mayor within sixty days from the passage of this act.

Sec. 2. The great flood which swept a portion of said city and vicinity within the last few days is hereby declared to be a great public calamity, and an emergency and an imperative public necessity exist requiring that the constitutional rule which requires that bills be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 2, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 88, nays none; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 24, nays none.]

H. B. No. 21.]

CHAPTER 3.

An Act making an appropriation to defray the contingent expenses of the first called session of the Twenty-fifth Legislature, convened May 22nd, 1897, by proclamation of the Governor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That the sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the State treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay the contingent expenses of the first called session of the Twenty-fifth Legislature, convened May 22d, 1897, by proclamation of the Governor, and that the approval by the chairman of the Committee on Contingent Expenses of either House, countersigned by the President of the Senate or Speaker of the House of Representatives, as the case may be, shall be sufficient authority to authorize the Comptroller to issue his warrant on the State Treasurer for the payment of any account so drawn against said fund.

Sec. 2. That the public importance of the objects herein contemplated creates an imperative public necessity and emergency, fully authorizing the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house, and said rule is hereby suspended, and that this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 15, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 87, nays none; and passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 21, nays 1.]

S. B. No. 5.]

CHAPTER 4.

An Act making appropriations for deficiencies in the appropriations heretofore made for payment of expenses in support of the State government from March 1st, 1895, to February 28th, 1897, and for previous years, being for payment of claims registered in the Comptroller's office in accordance with law, and for outstanding claims not registered, and other deficiencies.

Each act forbidden in this section shall constitute a separate offence.

Sec. 15. It is not intended by this act that the commissioners court shall be debarred from allowing compensation for ex officio services to county officials not to be included in estimating the maximum provided for in this act, when in their judgment such compensation is necessary; provided, such compensation for ex officio services shall not exceed the amounts now allowed under the law for ex officio services; provided further, the fees allowed by law to district and county clerks, county attorneys and tax collectors in suits to collect taxes shall be in addition to the maximum salaries fixed by this act.

Sec. 16. It shall be the duty of those officials named in section 10 of this act, and also the sheriffs, to keep a correct statement of the sums coming into their hands as fees and commissions, in a book to be provided by them for that purpose, in which the officer at the time when any fees or moneys shall come into his hands shall enter the same, and it shall be the duty of the grand jury (and the district judge shall so charge the grand jury) to examine these accounts at the session of the district court next succeeding the first day of December of each year, and make a report on same to the district court at the conclusion of the session of the grand jury.

Sec. 17. Whenever such officer serves for a fractional part of a fiscal year, he shall nevertheless file his report and make a settlement for such part of a year as he serves, and shall be entitled to such proportional part of the maximum allowed as the time of his services bears to the entire year. However, an incoming officer elected at the general election, who qualifies prior to December 1 next following, shall not be required to file any report or make any set-

Sec. 27. The fact that the session of the Legislature is fast growing to a close, and the importance of this bill, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this bill be put on its third reading and final passage, and it is so enacted.

CHAPTER 6.

An Act to prescribe and define the liability of persons, receivers or corporations operating railroads or street railways, for injuries to their servants and employes; to define who are fellow-servants, and to prohibit contracts between employer and employe, based upon the contingency of the injury or death of the employe, limiting the liability of the employer for damages.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That every person, receiver, or corporation operating a railroad or street railway the line of which shall be situated in whole or in part in this State, shall be liable for all damages sustained by any servant or employe thereof while engaged in the work of operating the cars, locomotives or trains of such person, receiver, or corporation, by reason of the negligence of any other servant or employe of such person, receiver, or corporation, and the fact that such servants or employes were fellow-servants with each other shall not impair or destroy such liability.

Sec. 2. All persons engaged in the service of any person, receiver, or corporation, controlling or operating a railroad or street railway the line of which shall be situated in whole or in part in this State, who are intrusted by such person, receiver, or corporation with the authority of superintendence, control or command of other servants or employes of such person, receiver, or corporation, or with the authority to direct any other employe in the performance of any duty of such employe, are vice-principals of such person, receiver, or corporation, and are not fellow-servants with their co-employes.

Sec. 3. All persons who are engaged in the common service of such person, receiver, or corporation, controlling or operating a railroad or street railway, and who while so employed are in the same grade of employment and are doing the same character of work or service and are working together at the same time and place and at the same piece of work and to a common purpose, are fellow-servants with each other. Employes who do not come within the provisions of this section shall not be considered fellow-servants.

Sec. 4. No contract made between the employer and employe based upon the contingency of death or injury of the employe and limiting the liability of the employer under this act or fixing damages to be recovered shall be valid or binding.

Sec. 5. Nothing in this act shall be held to impair or diminish the defense of contributory negligence when the injury of the servant or employe is caused proximately by his own contributory negligence.

Sec. 6. The short duration of the special session of the Legislature, and the fact that the existing fellow-servant law is inadequate to accomplish its purposes, and the fact that a large portion of our citizens have no adequate remedy for personal injuries sustained, create an emergency, and an imperative public necessity exists, that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be, and the same is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 18, 1897.

CHAPTER 7.

An Act to amend Article 1331, Chapter 13, Title 30, of the Revised Statutes of Texas of 1895, relating to special verdicts.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 1331, Chapter 13, Title 30, of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1895, be amended so as to read as follows:

Art. 1331. The special verdict must find the facts established by the evidence and not the evidence by which they are established; and it shall be the duty of the court when it submits a case to the jury upon special issues to submit all the issues made by the pleading. But the failure to submit any issue shall not be deemed a ground for reversal of the judgment upon appeal or a writ of error unless its submission has been requested in writing by the party complaining of the judgment. Upon appeal or writ of error, an issue not submitted and not requested by a party to the cause, shall be deemed as found by the court in such manner as to support the judgment; provided, there be evidence to sustain such a finding.

Sec. 2. The fact that much inconvenience and intolerable delay accrue to litigants in this State, the tendency of which is to prolong litigation and crowd and burden the dockets of the courts, for want of a law authorizing a simple and expeditious method for the decisions of controverted questions of fact by special verdict, creates an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 18, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote, yeas 25, nays none; and passed the House by a two-thirds vote, yeas 86, nays 14.]

CHAPTER 8.

An Act to amend Article 3051, Chapter 2, Title LVIII, of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas, giving the Commissioner of Insurance power to examine into the condition of any insurance company of this State or any other State, and to revoke the license of such company or companies upon refusal to submit to such examination.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 3051, Chapter 2, Title LVIII, of the Revised Civil Statutes, be amended so as to read as follows:

Article 3051. The Commissioner of Insurance, for the purpose of examinations authorized by law, has power either in person or by one or more examiners by him commissioned in writing:

1. To require free access to all books and papers within this State of any insurance companies or the agents thereof doing business within this State.

2. To summon and examine any person within this State, under oath, which he or any examiner may administer, relative to the affairs and condition of any insurance company.

3. To visit, at its principal office, wherever situated, any insurance company doing business in this State, for the purpose of investigating its affairs and condition, and shall revoke the certificate of authority of any such company in this State refusing to permit such examination.

4. He may revoke or modify any certificate of authority issued by him when any conditions prescribed by law for granting it no longer exist.

5. He also has power to institute suits and prosecutions, either by the attorney general or such other attorney as the attorney general may designate, for any violation of the law of this State relating to insurance, and he shall be made a party to any proceeding for the closing up of the affairs of any company when the same shall not be in the name of the State.

Sec. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the close of the session, and the importance of the law empowering the commissioner of insurance to examine into the affairs and conditions of any company that is authorized to do business in this State, create an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 18, 1897.

Takes effect ninety days after adjournment.

CHAPTER 9.

An Act to fix the venue and regulate the proceedings in prosecutions for rape.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: Prosecutions for rape may be commenced and carried on in the county in which the offense is committed, or in any county of the judicial district in which the offense is committed, or in any county of the judicial district the judge of which resides nearest the county seat of the county in which the offense is committed. When the judicial district comprises only one county, prosecutions may be commenced and carried on in that county if the offense be committed there, or in any adjoining county. When it shall come to the knowledge of any district judge whose court has jurisdiction under this act that the offense of rape has probably been committed, it shall be his duty, immediately, if his court be in session, and if not in session, then at the first term thereafter in any county of the district, to call the attention of the grand jury thereto; and, if his court be in session but the grand jury shall have been discharged, he shall immediately recall said grand jury for the consideration of the accusation. Prosecutions for rape shall take precedence of all cases in all courts, and the district courts are hereby authorized and directed to change the venue in such cases whenever it shall be necessary to secure a speedy trial.

Sec. 2. The fact that there is no adequate law in this State for the suppression of rape creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 18, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the Senate by a vote of yeas 15, nays 6; and passed the House, vote not given.]

CHAPTER 12.

An Act to amend Sections 1069 and 1070 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, and to reduce the expenses of the State government.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas : That Articles 1069 and 1070 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas be so amended as to hereafter read as follows :

Article 1069. Whenever any case or cases, civil or criminal, are pending in which the district judge is disqualified from trying the same, no change of venue shall be made necessary thereby; but the judge presiding shall immediately notify that fact to the Governor, whereupon the Governor shall designate some district judge in an adjoining district to exchange and try such case or cases, and the Governor shall also notify both of said judges of such order, and it shall be the duty of said judges to exchange districts for the purpose of disposing of such case or cases, and in case of sickness or other reasons rendering it impossible to exchange, then the parties or their counsel shall have the right to select or agree upon an attorney of the court for the trial thereof.

Article 1070. Whenever a special judge is agreed upon by the parties for the trial of any particular cause, as above provided, the clerk shall enter in the minutes of the court, as a part of the proceedings in such cause, a record showing :

1. That the judge of the court was disqualified to try the cause; and
2. That such special judge (naming him) was by consent agreed upon by the parties to try the cause; and
3. That the oath prescribed by law has been duly administered to such special judge.

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The fact that under the present law there is a heavy annual expense entailed upon the State for the payment of special judges which could be avoided by the regular district judges exchanging districts, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring that the constitutional rule requiring all bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 19, 1897.

CHAPTER 13.

An Act to fix the venue and regulate proceedings in prosecutions for murder by mob violence; define and punish murder by mob violence; provide for the suspension and removal of sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables, chiefs of police, city marshals and other officers who permit it; and fix the venue and regulate proceedings in such cases.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That whenever two or more persons shall combine together for the purpose of mob violence, and in pursuance of said combination shall unlawfully and wilfully take the life of any reasonable creature in being by such violence, such person shall be deemed guilty of murder by mob violence, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by death or confinement in the penitentiary for life, or according to the degree of murder, to be found by the jury; provided, nothing in this section shall be so construed as to in any way affect the law in regard to manslaughter, as defined in Chapter 14, Title 15, of the Penal Code of the State of Texas.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of the district judges of the State to give this law specially in charge to the grand jury at the beginning of each term of court. Prosecutions for murder under this act may be commenced and carried on in any county of the judicial district in which the offense is committed, except the county of the offense, or in any county of the judicial district the judge of which resides nearest the county seat of the county in which the offense is committed. When the judicial district comprises only one county, prosecutions may be commenced and carried on in any adjoining county.

Sec. 3. If any sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, chief of police, city marshal or other officer in this State shall permit or suffer any person in his custody charged with crime to be killed by one or more persons, or shall permit or suffer any such person to be taken from his custody and killed by one or more persons, he shall be deemed guilty of official misconduct, and removed from office; and the custody of a deputy shall be the custody of his principal. Proceedings to remove such officer from office may be commenced and carried on in any county named in Section 2 of this act. Said proceedings for the removal of said officers shall be conducted by the attorney general or under his direction in the name of the State of Texas, and shall be commenced by filing in the district court of the proper county a petition which shall be addressed to the judge of the court in which it is filed, and shall set forth in plain and intelligible language the facts as grounds of removal.

Sec. 4. After the filing of such petition, citation to the defendant shall issue as now provided by law in other civil cases. The trial and all the proceedings connected therewith shall be conducted as far as it is practicable in accordance with the rules and practices of the court in other civil cases; and appeals and writs of error may be sued out by either party to all appellate courts, as in other civil cases; provided, such cases shall take precedence in all courts of all other cases.

Sec. 5. The petition provided for in Section 3 shall be filed by the attorney general, or under his direction, as soon as practicable after he shall be informed of the facts, and within ten days after the same shall have been filed he shall make application to the district judge to whom it is addressed to [have] the officer against whom it is filed suspended temporarily from office. Five days' notice of this application shall be given to the defendant, and, upon the hearing of such application, if it shall appear that the defendant permitted any person in his custody charged with crime to be killed by one or more persons, or permit or suffer any such person to be taken from his custody and killed by one or more persons, the judge shall forthwith suspend the defendant temporarily from office and appoint for the time being some other person to discharge the duties of the office, which person shall, before assuming the duties of the office, execute a bond in such sum as the judge may name, with at least two good and sufficient sureties, on such conditions as the judge may impose, to pay the defendant all damages and costs that he may sustain by reason of such suspension from office in case it should appear that the cause of removal is insufficient or untrue.

Sec. 6. In the trial of the case, the judge shall not submit special issues, but shall, under a proper charge applicable to the facts of the case, instruct the jury to find from the evidence whether the cause of the removal set forth in the petition is true in point of fact. Should the jury find that said cause of removal is true, judgment of ouster shall be entered against the defendant, and he shall not thereafter be elected or appointed to said office.

Sec. 7. All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 8. The fact that there is no adequate law in this State for the suppression of mob violence, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring all bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 19, 1897.

[Note.—The foregoing act passed the House; passed the Senate with amendments; and the House concurred in Senate amendments. Vote not given in either house.]

Sec. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. The near approach of the end of the session, and the fact that one county has been taken out of the Thirty-eighth district, thereby causing a hiatus in the scheme for holding the district courts in said district, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity demanding the suspension of the rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in both houses, and said rule is hereby suspended, and it is further enacted that this act shall be in force and shall take effect from and after its passage.

CHAPTER 16.

An Act to amend Article 3964 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, adopted A. D. 1895, providing for the manner of taking the scholastic census, and repealing Articles 3965, 3966, 3967, 3968, 3969, 3970 and 3971 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That Article 3964, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, be so amended that it shall hereafter read as follows:

The scholastic census of each school district of this State shall be taken in the year 1898, and every year thereafter.

The county superintendent of public instruction shall, on the first day of January of each year, or as soon as practical thereafter, appoint one of the trustees of each school district, or some other qualified person, to take said census, who shall be known as the census trustee of the district.

It shall be the duty of the census trustee to take, between the first day of May and the first day of June after his appointment, a census of all the children that will be over eight and under seventeen years of age on the first day of the following September, and who are residents of the school district on said first day of May, and to make report under oath to the county superintendent on or before the first day of June next thereafter. In taking the said census he shall visit each home, residence, habitation and place of abode, and shall, by actual observation and interrogation, enumerate the children thereof in the following manner: He shall use for each parent, guardian or person having control of any such children a prescribed form showing the name, color and nationality of the person rendering such children, the name and number of the school district in which the children reside, and the name, sex, and date of birth of each child of which he is the parent or guardian, or of which he has control, and which child will be over eight and under seventeen years of age on the first day of September next following. The census trustee shall require such form to be subscribed and sworn to by the person rendering the children, and he is hereby authorized to administer oaths for this purpose.

When the census trustee or assessor visits any home or house or place of abode of a family and fails to find either the parent or any person having legal control, it shall be the duty of the census trustee to leave the prescribed census blanks for the use of parents at such home or place of abode, with a note to the parent or guardian having legal control of child or children, requiring that the form be filled out, sworn and subscribed to before the census trustee, or an officer authorized to administer oaths, and that the blank, when so filled out, shall be delivered by the parent or person having legal control of the child or children to the census trustee.

Every person having control of any child which will be over eight and under seventeen years of age on the first day of September next thereafter, and who, being requested by the census trustee to prepare said form giving the information required, or to give the information necessary to enable the trustee to prepare the same, shall refuse to do so, or shall refuse to make oath to said form when filled according to his statement of facts in regard to said children, or shall fail to return the form left at his home in his absence, as above required, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five nor more than ten dollars. And it shall be the duty of the census trustee at once to file with some justice of the peace of competent jurisdiction complaint against such person. Only children of the same family shall be listed on one form, and if one person has under his control children of different family name, he should use a separate form for each family name.

The census trustee shall arrange the forms for white and colored children separately in alphabetical order, according to the family name of the children reported thereon. He shall also make, on a prescribed form, separate census rolls for the white and colored children of his district, showing the name, age, sex and color of each child, and the name of the parent, guardian or person having control of said children by whom it is reported. He shall also make a summary of his rolls showing the number of children of each race that will be of the different ages from eight to sixteen, inclusive, on the first day of the next September, which shall continue to be the scholastic age, as is now provided by law. He shall make oath to his rolls and summaries, and to the faithful and accurate discharge of his duties, deliver the rolls, together with the forms arranged in alphabetical order, to the county superintendent on or before June 1st next after his appointment.

Any census trustee who shall wilfully fail or refuse to obtain the necessary information in regard to any child which will be over eight and under seventeen years of age on the first day of September next thereafter, or who shall wilfully fail or refuse to include any child within said ages in his rolls, or shall wilfully make any false report, roll or summary, shall be guilty of false swearing, and shall be punished as prescribed by law for that offense. And if the county superintendent finds or believes that any census trustee has violated any duty required under this act, such county superintendent shall report said census trustee to the grand jury of the county at its next session after discovering such breach of duty. The rolls and summaries of the census trustee shall be preserved by the county superintendent in his office for three years after they are filed. The county superintendent shall make on prescribed form separate consolidated rolls for the white and colored children of his county, showing the name, age and sex of each, together with the number of the district in which it lives, and the name of the parent or guardian, arranging the names of the children according to the alphabetical order of their family names. In making these consolidated rolls, he shall scrutinize carefully the work of the census trustees, and shall have power to summon witnesses, take affidavits, and correct any errors he may find in any census trustee's roll, and he shall carefully exclude all duplicates. If he deems it necessary, he may reject any roll, and appoint another census trustee, to take the census of the district, in which case he shall not approve the warrant to pay the census trustee, whose work has been rejected, for his services. When the county superintendent has prepared his consolidated census roll, one for each race, he shall make a duplicate of each, and he shall make affidavit to the correctness of both originals and duplicates. The originals he shall, on or before July 1st, forward to the State superintendent of public instruction at Austin, and the duplicates shall be filed with the county clerk and become permanent records of his office. The county superintendent shall forward with his consolidated rolls an abstract on the prescribed form, under oath, showing the number of children of each race, of the different years of the school age and the total number of children of each race, and the total of both races in his county. In making his consolidated rolls and in investigating the work of any census trustee, the county superintendent shall refer to the forms and rolls of previous years, when necessary, and they shall be carefully preserved for this purpose.

The State superintendent shall have authority to investigate the census of any county, to correct errors, and in extreme cases when he believes gross errors have occurred, or that fraud has been practiced, he may, with the approval of the state board of education, reject any county's roll and require the census of the county to be retaken.

For their services, the census trustee shall receive four cents per capita of the children of scholastic age taken by him in country districts and three cents per capita in towns of 2500 inhabitants and upwards to 5000 inhabitants, and two cents per capita in cities of more than 5000 inhabitants, and the county superintendent shall receive one cent per capita of the scholastic population reported by him, but these amounts shall not be paid until the census of the county is accepted by the State superintendent, and shall be forfeited as follows: The trustee's compensation, if his work is rejected by the county superintendent, and the census of his district ordered retaken, and both the county superintendent's and the trustee's compensation, if the census of the county is rejected and ordered by the State superintendent and the State board of education to be retaken.

The provisions of this act shall apply to the taking of the census of community counties, except that in such counties the assessor of taxes shall take the scholastic census of all the county except such portion thereof as may be organized into school districts and independent districts, and in his forms for parents and rolls, he shall show the justice precincts in which each child resides, instead of the school district as herein provided for district counties, and he may begin the work of taking the census at any time after the first day of January, instead of May, as herein provided, and the children shall be enrolled where they reside on the first day of January. The assessor shall have the same powers, shall perform the same duties, and shall be subject to the same penalties for any neglect, failure or breach of duty as are provided for census trustees of the districts.

The provisions of this act shall govern the taking of the scholastic census in cities and towns constituting independent districts, except as specially provided herein below, to-wit: The census trustee shall be appointed by the president of the board of trustees, or by the mayor in an independent district having no board of trustees, and a census trustee may be appointed for each ward or school subdistrict, at the discretion of the president of the school board or the mayor making such appointment. The forms for the parent and the rolls shall show the street and house number, or location of the house or place in which each child resides.

Sec. 2. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed, and Articles 3965, 3966, 3967, 3968, 3969, 3970 and 3971, of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1895, are specially repealed.

Sec. 3. The crowded condition of the calendar and the near approach of the close of this session of the legislature, and the fact that the law is deficient in regard to enumerating the scholastic census, create an emergency requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule that all bills to be read on three several days, and that this bill be placed on its third reading and final passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 23, 1897.

CHAPTER 17.

An Act to regulate and limit the expenditure of State, county and local public school funds, and regulate treasurers' reports thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas: That public school funds hereafter shall not be expended except for the following purposes:

1. That State available school funds shall be used exclusively for the payment of teachers' and superintendents' salaries and fees for taking the scholastic census.

2. The county available school funds shall be used exclusively for the payment of teachers' and superintendents' salaries and for the payment of fees for taking the scholastic census.

3. Local school funds from district taxes, tuition fees of pupils not entitled to free tuition, and other local sources may be used for the purposes enumerated for State and county funds and for purchasing appliances and supplies, for the payment of insurance premiums, janitors and other employes, for buying school sites, buying, building, repairing and renting school houses, and for other purposes necessary in the conduct of the public schools, to be determined by the board of trustees, the account and vouchers for county districts and communities to be approved by the county superintendent; provided, that when the State available school fund in any city or county is sufficient to maintain the schools thereof in any year for at least eight months, and leave a surplus, such surplus may be expended for the purposes mentioned herein.

Sec. 2. All treasurers receiving or having control of any school funds, shall keep a full and separate itemized account with each of the different classes of school funds coming into his hands, and shall, on or before the first day of October of each year, file with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction an itemized report in duplicate of the receipts and disbursements of the school funds for the preceding school year ending August 31st, which report and duplicate shall be on the prescribed form furnished by the department of education, and the duplicate report, after examination by the State superintendent, shall be returned to the commissioners' court of the proper county for approval, and shall be accompanied by such objections or recommendations as the State superintendent may make in regard to the same. The State superintendent, in examining any report, may call for the vouchers and make such investigation of the correctness and legality of the different items as he may deem necessary, and when the duplicate is sent to the commissioners' court, all vouchers shall be presented to the court, and the present law in regard to treasurers' reports, except as hereinbefore modified, is hereby continued.

Sec. 3. All laws, general and special, in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The near approach of the close of the special session, and the importance of providing some adequate method by which the public schools of the State may be supplied with the necessities for their proper conduct, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity, that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Approved, June 23, 1897.
